Libyan Troops Capture Fort From British

The high command reported even the British armored formations were routed. Part of their defenses consisted of mine fields, it was reported.

The British were reported to have found time, however, to dynamite and melt the ancient Roman wells which the Italians had counted upon to supply the huge quantities of water needed by their men and motors in the desert.

(The Italian raid, emphasizing the difficulty in supplying from wells, said new wells had been drilled and waterpipes laid to supply the men and motors in the desert.)

Destroy 11 British Planes The high command reported the destruction of eleven British planes, the probable destruction of two others and the capture of one intact. It acknowledged the loss of five British planes which were reported shot down in flames and the Italian lost four planes in air fighting over the desert.

The Italians reported their men machine-gunned British troops. While the Fascists were consolidating their positions, they pushed toward the next objective—Matruh—on the road to Alexandria. British planes were reported to have made night raids on the ports of Benghazi and Derna.

An Italian commando said a torpedo boat and a position were sunk in these attacks and a steamer was damaged.

Quotations

The Pole is the servant of the German and will remain forever.

I get so many requests that I sometimes wonder if the people find myself craving a lot of water.

It is obvious that the United States is promptly and largely profiting... in accordance with its profound commercial instinct.

That is what is the matter with America—an insufficient national conscience to permit the population to consume our own production.

Madame Zita then twisted the knife by using Carol for $400,000 alimony and demanding that their child be recognized under the name of Mircea Von Hohenzollern.

Apparently the case was settled out of court, but soon after the "pap" shouting episode, Carol and his red-headed daughter, Magda Lupescu, have been variously reported seeking a refuge in the United States, Canada, and South America.

A few nations in war-torn Europe at present would be willing to risk the displeasure of Adolf Hitler and demand that their monarch who once opposed Hitler and then, in a futile attempt to save his crown, tried too late to join the Nazi train.

As always, Carol's exit was dramatic. As reporters swarmed about his Surrey estate, Carol resorted to a ruse.

Suddenly a huge black motorcar, with curtains drawn, dashed from his country mansion and headed at terrific speed along the highway to London.

The child's escape was plotted, by a little matter of his magnificent first wife, Zita Lambriani, who embarrassed herself by her Surrey home grinning broadly and drove rapidly with Magda Lupescu, Carol's second wife, to France.

In 1930, he made a dramatic return from exile to enter the Rumanian throne.

Now, ten years later, he apparently starts his second exile in a better financial status.

Besides a $600,000 annual pension guaranteed him by the Rumanian government as he fled, he has reportedly cashed the tidy sum of $4,000,000 in a London bank.

Along with $400,000 worth of shares in the Stuel Canal as an anticipated nest-egg against just such a rainy day as now unfolds him.

Carol Faces Prospect Of Eternal Exile Now

Editor's Note: When Carol renounced his throne and fled Rumania with Magda Lupescu, the new dictator announced that the royal family had been banished.

Apparently the case was settled out of court, but soon after the "pap" shouting episode, Carol and his red-headed daughter, Magda Lupescu, have been variously reported seeking a refuge in the United States, Canada, and South America.

A few nations in war-torn Europe at present would be willing to risk the displeasure of Adolf Hitler and demand that their monarch who once opposed Hitler and then, in a futile attempt to save his crown, tried too late to join the Nazi train.

As always, Carol's exit was dramatic. As reporters swarmed about his Surrey estate, Carol resorted to a ruse.

Suddenly a huge black motorcar, with curtains drawn, dashed from his country mansion and headed at terrific speed along the highway to London.

The child's escape was plotted, by a little matter of his magnificent first wife, Zita Lambriani, who embarrassed herself by her Surrey home grinning broadly and drove rapidly with Magda Lupescu, Carol's second wife, to France.

In 1930, he made a dramatic return from exile to enter the Rumanian throne.

Now, ten years later, he apparently starts his second exile in a better financial status.

Besides a $600,000 annual pension guaranteed him by the Rumanian government as he fled, he has reportedly cashed the tidy sum of $4,000,000 in a London bank.

Along with $400,000 worth of shares in the Stuel Canal as an anticipated nest-egg against just such a rainy day as now unfolds him.

High Harriers Slated For Hard Competition

Eight Major Rivals on Cross Country Schedule; Captain Jackie Olson Only Letterman.

With only one letterman as a nucleus for this year's team, Manchester High's harriers will face the stiffest schedule in the ten-year history of the sport here, meeting no less than eight major opponents in dual competition during the coming 1940 campaign.

Coach Charles "Pete" Wigren has about thirty candidates working out their weekly in preparation for the tryouts that will be held on Friday, Sept. 27, at which time the Red and White meteor expects to select his team for the season.

The schedule announced today by Coach Wigren doesn't include a dual meet with the University of Connecticut freshmen, the Connecticut invitation or the state meet. The invitation may be run on Oct. 11 and the state meet on Nov. 15, but both these are tentative.

The schedule: Oct. 4—Plainville, away. Oct. 18—Hartford and Bristol at Hartford. Oct. 22—Middletown and Hill-house here. Nov. 15—Weaver at Hartford. Nov. 8—New Britain, here. Nov. 15—State meet.

Jack Dempsey's Autobiography Gives Inside Dope on His Fights

AP Feature Service
New York—Gene Tunney got in the first punch in the rain at Philadelphia's Sesqui-Centennial stadium almost 14 years ago and with it virtually stripped Jack Dempsey of his world heavyweight boxing championship.

In his autobiography, "Round-Bout," published this week, Dempsey tells of his customary strategy of running his foe at the outset, landing the initial blow and taking immediate command of the situation.

That was his plan against Gene Tunney. He was to knock Tunney out in the first round and then to take the fight to the second round.

But, he writes, before it could even start, he was hit on the head with a force that staggered him.

In his autobiography, "Round-Bout," published this week, Dempsey tells of his customary strategy of running his foe at the outset, landing the initial blow and taking immediate command of the situation.

That was his plan against Gene Tunney. He was to knock Tunney out in the first round and then to take the fight to the second round.

But, he writes, before it could even start, he was hit on the head with a force that staggered him.

Jack Dempsey: The Manassa Mauler in His Prime down a half dozen times or more in the first round and thought he had killed him. But in the wild confusion as the referee counted out the fallen Gene, no one heard the bell that saved Willard. Dempsey had bet $10,000 at 10 to 1 that he would stop the champion in the first round.

As champion Dempsey had three poor fights, against Billy Miske and Bill Brennan, whom he finally knocked out, and Tommy Gilmore, whom he outpointed. He explains his bad performance by saying he was in poor shape.

The high spots of his career as champion were against George Carpentier at Boyer's Thirty Acres in New Jersey and against Firpo in the Wild Bull of the Pampas, Carpentier fight, with its badly-hooped as an international event.

Apparently the elder Sullivan was the biggest crowd up to that time. Dempsey won with a third round knockout.

He had trouble with Firpo. Dempsey had the Argentinean down several times in the first round only to have Firpo get up and knock him through the ropes onto the row of sportswriters.

Dempsey got back into the ring, fought that round and then knocked Firpo in the next round. The fight was perhaps the most spectacular in boxing history.

Dempsey closed the book on his illustrated chapter on how to be a boxer. The book, written in collaboration with Myron M. Stearns is published by Whitteley House.

Coffman for Sullivan Trade Is Paying Dividends to the Tigers in Drive for Pennant.

AP Feature Service
Detroit, Sept. 18.—(AP) For a man who was supposed to know all about the automobile business and generally nothing about baseball, Walter O. Briggs, of the Detroit Tigers, is doing better than all right.

If he felt the urge Briggs might claim credit for making the deal which was involved in the deal. Principals in the transaction were George Coffman, a pitcher who was traded to the St. Louis Browns to get great extent. No cash was involved in the deal.

Coffman, who won two and lost one for Detroit in 1939, has accounted two victories against two defeats this year. One of his wins was on opening day against the Tigers. Sullivan, who caught and pitched in the outfield for St. Louis last season and is currently batting .311, 22 points over his percentage of last season and the same margin over his lifetime batting average in the major leagues.

In addition to clearing the catcher's duties of the Tigers with George Dietz and Eddie Hinkle, Sullivan did a heroic job of filling in at third base for the Tigers when Rocky Hingman was out during the last crucial series against Cleveland. Detroit won all three games.

Sullivan's father, Billy, Sr., was one of the game's greatest catchers and Joe DiMaggio of the world champion but has gone left again as the world champion was the St. Louis Browns. Sullivan is a fine catcher but who could not hit and a son who can hit with the best news explanation.

"As far back as I can remember, it was my dad putting me in my hand and pitching to me. Without the first thing he did was to make me hit left-handed. I do everything else right-handed."

Apparently the elder Sullivan gave no thought to defensive baseball in giving lessons to Billy, thinking only of his own weaknesses.

More than six other Tigers were fewer in trades and all of the athletes picked up in this way have played their lead-off in Detroit but for an American League pennant.

An old baseball slogan it that no team can trade its way to a pennant but if the Tigers win the League race and is only 4½ games out of the lead.

"We have a spry, interesting club now," said Lou one day late in 1937, when the White Sox finished third, "and someday soon I think the team will surprise everybody by taking the flag."

Dykes now in his seventh year as White Sox pilot, has done a remarkable job with his material. There isn't a single expensive piece of ivory on his club, yet the team plays the kind of ball which brings a "bang."

The White Sox pennant chase may be remote with only 11 games remaining on the schedule, yet they can't be laughed off. Not in view of a two-weeks rest which saw the club win 15 of 19 games, eight of them in a row, and pick up seven more one-and-one-half games on the Cleveland Indians.

Last February, the probate court made a request from the First National Bank, executor of the Comiskey estate, for permission to sell the club on the ground that baseball was a hazardous business.

Trip Senators by 6-3; A's Beat Indians, 4-3

AP Feature Service
Washington, Sept. 18.—(AP) The Senators beat the Philadelphia Phillies 6-3 in the first game of a four-game series at Philadelphia today.

The Senators' victory was a surprise. The Yankees made ten hits and benefited from four St. Louis errors while Allyn Donald kept his safeties scattered.

In the National League the Cincinnati Reds came within a single game of clinching their second straight pennant. With Whitey Moore pitching five-hit ball they edged the Phillies 2-1 to take an 11-game lead over the Brooklyn Dodgers, who were shutout, 5-0 by the St. Louis Cardinals and have only 11 contests left to play.

The Chicago Cubs put on a six-run uprising in the eighth inning and beat New York 8-5 to extend the Giants' losing streak to nine games from first place and the Chicago White Sox were idle.
