Japan Has Asked For It

While Hitler and Mussolini were holding their ostentatiously secret conference at Brenner Pass in a transparently obvious attempt to save face in view of the collapse of the "invasion of England," the third partner in the "new Axis" was playing the part assigned to him elsewhere.

Perhaps there may have been an added bit of temper in this act of folly, due to the fact that while Japan purportedly had been admitted to full partnership in the Axis representative of that country, big or little, of high or low degree, had been invited to even participate in sit with the big chiefs at Brenner.

There, there are many things that many voters will be favorably affected by seeing Mr. Willkie and hearing him there, there is a reasonable expectation that Mr. Willkie will win many votes.

The strongest of all the attributes of the Republican presidential nominee is that he delights to "carry the war into enemy country."

Mr. Willkie might have devoted today to a tour of Vermont, and seen nothing at all but smiles and nods of approval.

What I've never been able to do is to estimate the number of voters who are likely to be won by Mr. Willkie.

After the returns are in from today's elections in about two-thirds of Connecticut's towns, those possessing a bent for political statistics can begin to bring out the "indicated trends" with relation to the November election.

It is a harmless form of amusement to the Panama Canal and make impossible any Axis hope of South American operations.

This war with Japan no doubt is a very serious matter, but it is not a matter of life and death to the United States.

Not many Americans realize it, but the greatest war machine ever built in all of history is not the

German Army, Not the British Navy

It is the German army, not the British navy, that is the only one on the scene who has trained through years to fight as a unit.

For years our Navy has understood full well that its eventual mission must be the destruction of Japanese sea power.

Given the word the fleet will not wait for attack. It will not permit any slight to be made of its capabilities.

These independent are always likely to split their tickets in local elections, all to anti-foreigners; and the way they vote for their town or city officers provides not the very slightest clue to how they will vote in November.

Wherefore, even if an unusual number of towns "switch" today from Republicans to Democrats, it is most improbable that it will be any indication of a "trend" toward Roosevelt or Hurley.

Of course in the former event the Democratic politicians will set up a loud shout of pretended elation over the incident as they glory for their side in November.

What time it has been possible to squeeze out for Mr. Willkie's Connecticut tour can be utilized for far greater political effect.

Man About Manhattan

New York—Some actors struggle to keep their opinions to themselves. "But really," he said, "I haven't given the campaign much thought."

What he told me I am not at liberty to divulge. He was talking about the record. But his talk lasted for half an hour. It was interrupted. It was one of those sudden, impromptu things. It was a political lecture such as I have heard so many times.

He was discussing this the other day with Alan Dinehart, who admitted that, unfortunately, this was far from the only time he had been asked to give a stump speech.

How are most of the actors going to do in the coming election? I asked him. "Oh, I don't know," he said. "I haven't given it any thought."

I told him I appreciated his confidence and that I would be glad to see him in the role of a candidate.

He turned to me abruptly. "Maybe I want to say something to you," he said.

"Well, you can say it if you like," I said.

"I said I'd be along in a minute," he said.

Sense and Nonsense

Responsibility goes with privilege and power. The danger in any organization is that too many members are willing to accept reasonable position and power and unwilling to accept the responsibility which goes with that office.

Artist—If I give you five dollars you'll let me paint you.
 Old Mountaineer (shutting his tobacco on one cheek, to the other and back again)—I dunno.
 Artist—It's easy money.
 Old Mountaineer—There ain't no question about that. I was just wondering how I'd get the paint off afterwards.

The teacher had forbidden the eating of candy and chewing gum during school time. One day, the teacher became suspicious of a lump in Jimmie's cheek.
 Teacher—Jimmie, are you eating candy or chewing gum?
 Jimmie—No, I'm just soaking a prune to eat at recess.

A hunter was showing his collection of trophies to a group of visitors. He was regally explaining how he acquired the various exhibits.
 Hunter—See that elephant? I shot it in my pajamas.
 Faggs—Goodness! How did it get there?
 Hunter—That girl insulted me.

Now we know what strict neutrality may mean.
 An old-timer came in from the woods one day and found his partner in a fight with a mountain lion. He climbed up on the barn and beat the lion with a sledge hammer. Then he went back and beat the lion with the sledge hammer. Then he went back and beat the lion with the sledge hammer.

Two old settlers, confederate bachelors, sat in the backwoods. The conversation drifted from politics and finally got around to cooking.
 First—I got one of them cookery books one, but I never could do nothing with it.
 Second—Too much fancy work in it.
 First—You've said it! Every one of them recipes began the same way: "Take a clean dish—"

Grid Leaders Emerge in College Campaign

Cornell Rated Cinch To Keep Eastern Honor; Tennessee, TCU And Stanford Feature.

New York, Oct. 7.—(AP)—With the second week of October in an early-starting football season, it is becoming possible to pick out the leaders among major college teams on the basis of performances rather than predictions.

There is no guarantee of course, that the teams that look the best now will even be in the picture at the end of the season. Still, top ranking in the various sections, so far, are:

Big Six: Iowa State leads the loop now on a 7-0 victory over Kansas while the other teams were turning in dismal performance against non-conference opponents. The week Iowa State plays Marquette; Kansas plays Drake in the south; Michigan State and several of their challengers in the middle west; Texas Tech in the southwest and Stanford and Notre Dame in the northwest.
