

The Big One Got Away

GERMAN circles were confident, at the beginning of the week, that "in a very short time" Bulgaria would not sign up with the Axis but also would "take the golden opportunity to obtain an outlet to the Aegean from Greece."

Earlier Rumania, Hungary and Slovakia—the little ones for Adolf Hitler—had signed.

But on Monday the same German sources acknowledged that there would be no more signers for the present. This meant that Hitler had put away his pole with Bulgaria and only Bulgaria and Yugoslavia and Turkey still outside the basket.

Bulgarians Tell Why

The Bulgarians were stated one official said: "It now appears certain to us that Bulgaria will not be involved in war this winter. Bulgarians attributed their reprieve to these factors:

First, Bulgarian leftists—lumping together Communists, liberals, democrats and agrarians—were making such a commotion that Hitler was afraid of applying further pressure.

Second, the British and the United States, advised their country not to sign. Third, Turkey was being hit and might strike if Bulgaria joined.

Fourth, Bulgaria was emboldened—Hitler was emboldened—by the spectacle another Axis member, Italy, was making of herself in Greece (or rather, now, in Albania). Observers believe Hitler did not care to risk a general Balkan upheaval by applying further pressure.

The unhappy Italians were assigned to make three further announcements about Axis designs: Nazis were leaving the front against Greece entirely up to Mussolini's legions; Spain was staying out of the war.

Greeks pushed Italians back into Albania 30 miles to Pogradetz along the only highway on the northern front; and in the south, 10 miles across the border to Aracostromo, Italy's last "invincible" base in southern Albania. By mid-week, Italian resistance was stiffening.

One At A Time

In the air war, Germany continued her new tactics of smashing nightly at outlying British cities, one at a time. For days after each city was assaulted the British censors would not permit the names of the cities to be mentioned. The reason, apparently, was to prevent the enemy from learning whether its planes were releasing their bombs in the right cities.

But eventually Britain announced that the cities (after Coventry) had been Birmingham, Southampton and Bristol.

In Rumania, the Iron Guards (now in control) went, one night, to the Jilava prison courtyard to exhume the bodies of Gheorghe Codreanu and other Iron Guards buried there after being slain during the reign of King Carol II. There, they lined up and shot several scores of political prisoners prominent in Carol's regime.

General Antonescu, premier-dictator, promised that the assassins would be punished. Anarchy threatened Rumania.

Home Campaign Mementos

The election has ended but the campaign lingers on. No one realizes this more than Senator Gillette, chairman of the Senate committee appointed to police elections, and Attorney General Jackson.

Senator Gillette is now receiving election complaints and is organizing investigations. His attorney-general has announced that a special grand jury will be convened next week to study charges that the Hatch Act, limiting expenditures of a party committee to $5,000,000 was either violated or evaded.

The law has been violated there should be prosecution," Jackson said. "If there have been evasions the loopholes should be tightened."

Kansas: Three Weeks After

Most candidates knew they were made out by Nov. 6. But in the Kansas gubernatorial race a new ballot-count dragged on an on. First Democrat William Burke, a stockman, was about to resign. Republican Gov. Payne Raker, when all votes but the 6,000 out-of-state absentee ballots were opened, Burke led; when those were counted late last week Burke led by 47.

Thereupon Democrats whooped that many absentee ballots held no legal residence in Kansas, asked Washington to investigate and began court suits. The state supreme court ruled that the state can't unilaterally apply further pressure.

Supreme Court Justice Black ruled in the only case he read at his appointment when newspapers revealed he had once belonged to the Ku Klux Klan. This week he read an unanimous decision affirming Negroes.

Of the 384 jurors who served in Harris County, Texas, from 1931 through 1938, only five were Negroes. "Chance and accident alone," he asserted, "could hardly have brought about the listing for grand jury service of so few Negroes from among the thousands known by the undisputed evidence to possess the legal qualifications for jury service."

Bury's opinion set aside the conviction of a Houston Negro sentenced to life imprisonment for criminally assaulting a white woman, and ruled that racial distinctions in choosing jurors were both unconstitutional and undemocratic.

To Probe Food Middlemen

Of the average dollar spent by consumers for food before 1929, between 40 and 45 cents of it went toward processing and distributing. Now, it goes to 60 cents from the origin of the food to the consumer. The Justice department reports.

The department reveals it will send similar probes into the processing and distributing of food products, especially meat, milk, eggs, fish, cheese, fruits and vegetables.

German Foresight

Adolf Hitler promised Germany recently that after the war he would be preparing for another. But everyone knows it is much easier to prepare for another war than to add them later on.

So then FDR turned to an old friend and adviser of his own, Rear Admiral William Leahy (pronounced "Lay-eh"), retired, governor of Puerto Rico. The move indicated the importance FDR still attaches to France, the company line and fleet. Victory was "degraded."

Weygand's Game

Sly, beagle-nosed Maxime Weygand was generalissimo of the Allied armies in June, Germany was apparently giving his trip to Africa to take charge of French African affairs. But he reportedly worried Nazi officials a few weeks ago by falling to return to Vichy.

What Can America Do?

Leaders in Congress doubted that the question would be raised in the House or Senate before the next Congress meets in January.

1. Senator King has a proposal for repealing restrictions of the Johnson and Neutrality Acts which now prevent England from obtaining credit.

2. The Aluminum Company of America strike by CIO at New Kensington, Pa. It started when a $27-a-week worker allegedly drew a knife on a union collector seeking 12¢ in dues. The union demanded that he be dismissed or transferred. At first the company refused. Involved was the consent issue of dues collection.

3. In New Orleans, at the AFL convention, chunky, pug-nosed David Dubinsky who led his Ladies Garment Workers from the AFL to the CIO and then back to the AFL, disrupted the meeting.

4. He demanded that President Green fill promises he said Green made to the AFL.

5. The extension of credit could be avoided by exchanging munitions for Britain's possessions in this hemisphere. Britons conceded that ultimately might be tried.

6. Senator Holt challenged the Dies Committee to inquire into "English propaganda in America."

Arms On The Cuff?

BRITISH censors passed a dispatch this week which stated that Britain "is turning increasingly to the United States as a potential supplier in these darkest hours of the war."

For many months the English have exhibited their country as a confident, thumbs-up nation. Now, England is being presented by some of her spokesmen as a weak and sorely in need of help. These Britons are helping splash in the new picture.

Lord Lothian, British ambassador, who returned to England to report just before war broke out, flew back last weekend to become lead-off man. Britain, he said, was "beginning to come to the end of her financial resources." The question of paying for more U. S. munitions would have to be met within the next six months, Lothian asserted.

Walter Citrine, leader of the British Trades Union Congress, urged the A. F. of L. to help with bombings had rendered unusable for large ships practically all eastern British ports. "We need planes, planes and more planes," he told delegates.

Ronald Cross, minister of shipping, said, "The rate at which we are building ships now does not make up for our losses." Britain, he said, is eager to buy ships in British ports. "We need planes, planes and more planes," he told delegates.

Ernest Bevin, ruler of British ministers, who returned to London, appealed to Americans for planes, ships and guns.

How Long Can Britain Pay?

With Lothian's comment on finances, U. S. officials began examining Britain's ability to pay. At the outbreak of war last Fall, her holdings in the U. S. were estimated at $4,500,000,000, while Canada had another billion. To date the British have placed orders for $2,000,000,000 worth of war materials. (This does not include other purchases.)

Some Americans concluded that Britain has resources for at least another year. They speculated that Lothian's statement was intended primarily "to set the stage" for some future date when it may be vital that Britain obtain credit.

If the question of extending credit should go to Congress, they said, approval couldn't be expected without a long, and probably bitter, fight.

Way to Fight Spies Studied

Washington, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Methods evolved by Britain for fighting espionage and sabotage under wartime conditions are being studied by the Federal Bureau of Investigation for guidance in fighting the peacetime defenses against foreign agents in this country.

A two-man mission was sent to England last week ago to study the methods used by the British in the past. The men, whose names were withheld by officials, will return about the first of December. They will summarize their findings and report to the FBI.

The information also will be useful, it was said, in the retraining of sources which all special agents must take periodically and in revising instructions given to agents in charge of field offices.

New York, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Capt. John T. Prout, Jr., 29-year-old New York National Guardsman, was acquitted today by a court martial of charges of giving away government ammunition.

Prout was charged with giving away 1,000 rounds of ammunition from the 160th Infantry—the old "fighting 69th"—as a result of the so-called "Christian Front" trial in Brooklyn. Prout will be tried later.

A Brooklyn Federal court jury last week acquitted Prout and eight other officers on charges of conspiracy to overthrow the government, but disagreed on the accusation that Prout conspired to steal Federal arms.

Girl Criminal to Be Given College Education by Federal Government

Milwaukee, Nov. 30.—(AP)—A new federal welfare program for juvenile delinquents will provide college education for a girl who was sentenced to a 17-year term in Wisconsin for a crime committed while she was a high school student and on her way to college.

The girl, her brother, 15, and another youth, 17, began a course of study at a national training school for boys on charges of car theft and robbery.

The girl, charged in the shoulder in the battle that preceded their arrest, and much subdued, was returned here. She was committed to the custody of the attorney-general and will be placed in a foster home in Wisconsin.

Maurice Wolkomir, Federal probation officer, said the government would furnish funds for her housing, food, clothing, school tuition, books and recreation.

"Her downfall is attributed to her home surroundings," he said. "She has a high intelligence quotient, and will complete her high school education and go on to college if she desires."

Clinton, Mass., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Senator Walsh (D., Mass.), has protested to Naval officials that 390 civilians, after giving up their jobs or "future" plans upon being pronounced physically fit for recruitment into the service in a second round of examination of the Senate Naval Affairs Committee, contended that the civilians should have been notified of their physical defects, if any, before they resigned their jobs.

He said in a statement at his home last night that, in reply to the question of whether he would be notified of his physical defects, he was notified of his physical defects, if any, before they resigned their jobs.

Girl Criminal to Be Given College Education by Federal Government

Milwaukee, Nov. 30.—(AP)—A new federal welfare program for juvenile delinquents will provide college education for a girl who was sentenced to a 17-year term in Wisconsin for a crime committed while she was a high school student and on her way to college.

The girl, her brother, 15, and another youth, 17, began a course of study at a national training school for boys on charges of car theft and robbery.

The girl, charged in the shoulder in the battle that preceded their arrest, and much subdued, was returned here. She was committed to the custody of the attorney-general and will be placed in a foster home in Wisconsin.

Maurice Wolkomir, Federal probation officer, said the government would furnish funds for her housing, food, clothing, school tuition, books and recreation.

"Her downfall is attributed to her home surroundings," he said. "She has a high intelligence quotient, and will complete her high school education and go on to college if she desires."

Way to Fight Spies Studied

Washington, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Methods evolved by Britain for fighting espionage and sabotage under wartime conditions are being studied by the Federal Bureau of Investigation for guidance in fighting the peacetime defenses against foreign agents in this country.

A two-man mission was sent to England last week ago to study the methods used by the British in the past. The men, whose names were withheld by officials, will return about the first of December. They will summarize their findings and report to the FBI.

The information also will be useful, it was said, in the retraining of sources which all special agents must take periodically and in revising instructions given to agents in charge of field offices.

Close Collaboration Seen

Members of the FBI increased their collaboration with the British in the past. The men, whose names were withheld by officials, will return about the first of December. They will summarize their findings and report to the FBI.

Guard Captain Gains Acquittal

New York, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Capt. John T. Prout, Jr., 29-year-old New York National Guardsman, was acquitted today by a court martial of charges of giving away government ammunition.

Prout was charged with giving away 1,000 rounds of ammunition from the 160th Infantry—the old "fighting 69th"—as a result of the so-called "Christian Front" trial in Brooklyn. Prout will be tried later.

A Brooklyn Federal court jury last week acquitted Prout and eight other officers on charges of conspiracy to overthrow the government, but disagreed on the accusation that Prout conspired to steal Federal arms.
