

Milk Control Bill Appeals Section Voted by House

Section Hurley Avers Unacceptable to Him Retained by Vote of 155 to 92; Compromise Plan Defeated After Caucus Action.

State Capitol, Hartford, May 22.—(P)—The Republican-controlled House, by a vote of 155 to 92, retained in the milk bill, today an appeals section which Gov. Robert A. Hurley, Democrat, asserted was unacceptable to him. By that margin, the House defeated a compromise appeals section which earlier had been rejected by the Republican majority in caucus.

With a proposal for an equalization fund, another, perhaps even more controversial issue, still awaiting action, the House adjourned for lunch before resuming debate on the milk bill.

By defeating the compromise appeals section, the House retained in the bill a provision providing for the introduction of new evidence in all appeal cases, a proposal which Governor Hurley asserted would not be acceptable to him.

It was generally assumed the Democratic-controlled Senate also would disapprove that provision.

The compromise proposal rejected by Republicans, who control the House, would have permitted the introduction of new evidence before an appeal court only in cases involving the revocation of a license by the milk administrator.

Willing To Compromise
A milk bill passed recently by the Senate but has new evidence in all appeals, but Democrats there reported as willing to go along with the compromise.

The governor's objection to the provision approved by Republicans was based on the contention that to permit new evidence in all appeals would make the control bill unworkable by delaying final adjudication of cases.

The action of the Republican majority on the appeals section precipitated an angry debate in the House as it tackled the measure.

Democrats charged that the retention of the original appeals section would "emasculate" and "water down" the bill and throw the milk industry "into chaos" while case dragged through the courts.

Republicans denied those charges and contended that the compromise appeals section would place the industry under "one-man control."

Suggested by Aboen
The appeal section in the bill was suggested by House Speaker Hugh M. Aldrich, R., who at a hearing on the original bill proposed adding an appeals section which he said would make the milk administrator "the prosecutor."

Hearing Called To Determine Strike Cause

Senate Committee to Investigate Responsibility for Tie-Up in West Coast Shipyards.

By The Associated Press.
The Senate Defense Investigating Committee today called a hearing in Washington tomorrow on the west coast shipbuilding tie-up which Chairman Truman (D., Mo.) said was "to find out what is involved in the strike, why it has not been settled, and who is responsible for the country not getting ships."

Senator Truman said witnesses would include representatives of the involved San Francisco union, a spokesman for Bethlehem Steel, probably Vice President A. B. Honor of the parent corporation, Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the Maritime Commission, and others, possibly including John P. Frey, head of the AFL Metal Workers Union.

Navy Carries Workers
The Navy today stepped in to reope the yards, and carried workers into plants in government vehicles.

The National Mediation Board prepared today to act for a second time in the soft coal wage controversy, while in some other labor disputes tension appeared to be ebbing.

Contract negotiations between the CIO United Mine Workers and the southern Appalachian operators were broken off in New York.

Calmness Foils Escape Effort

Resourceful Guard Captain and Hard Steel Balk Alcatraz Plot.

San Francisco, May 22.—(P)—Hard steel and calm, resourceful guard Capt. Paul Madigan kept four desperate life takers from getting their way out of Alcatraz today, when James A. Johnson, a Washington, D. C., banker, was held today.

The four convicts, described by Madigan as "all desperate and all plotters," worked nearly two hours and trussed up three prison officers yesterday in an attempted break from the nest atop of the San Francisco Bay island penitentiary.

Johnson said the quartet were: Lloyd H. Barkdoll, Oregon bank robber; Joseph Paul Crestani, a 30-year-old blonde, intended to die in a gas chamber; and two others, names withheld.

Camp Costs Running High

Special Senate Investigating Committee Ends Blanding Tour.

Jacksonville, Fla., May 22.—(P)—A special Senate investigating committee, completing a two-day hearing here after a tour of Camp Blanding, left behind it today a blanket statement that many of the camp's operations are running far above original cost expectations.

Committee members said Blanding, a $9,000,000 Army training center which has cost $27,000,000 to date and still is incomplete, was had enough but that some other situations were "even worse."

Chairman Truman (D., Mo.), said he was convinced that "anybody with eyes sees could have picked a better site than Blanding which would have cost half the present total," but Lieut. Col. Arthur Wilson of the general staff said the location was chosen because it offered excellent facilities for artillery practice, field maneuver and recreation and was free from mosquitoes "than any other available area in Florida."

Criticism Cost Plus Basis, Senator Brewster (R., Me.), said.

Nazi Units Gain Two Footholds on Crete; Eden Warns French

Churchill Tells Commons Nazi Parachutists Have Taken Candia But British Still Hold Airport; Middle East Command Admits Now in Nazi Hands.

London, May 22.—(P)—German troops pouring from the sky on the third day of a mass aerial invasion of Crete have wrested two footholds from the Greek island's British and Greek defenders, the British acknowledged today. Prime Minister Churchill informed the House of Commons that Nazi parachutists had taken the town of Candia, but the British troops still held the airport there. The Middle East command in Cairo acknowledged that the town of Malemi was in Nazi hands.

Both reports, however, called the German gains only isolated successes in the fierce, guerrilla warfare against German soldiers dropping from the skies in transport and landing down by glider and parachute.

Frustrated Sea Landings
Both also said that attempts by the Germans to put supporting forces ashore from the sea had been frustrated.

From these accounts, the Germans appeared to be paying heavily for their gains, as they established themselves on the island which the British base, said they will defend to the death.

Middle East headquarters said German casualties yesterday were higher even than on the first day of the assault, when the skies began raining down Nazis before dawn.

Although he prefaced his report as only "provisional," the prime minister declared: "The Germans had to pay dearly for their initial successes."

Nazi Destroyer Sunk
At the outset of an attempt in force to get German troops ashore by water, he said one Nazi destroyer and at least two Greek destroyers had been sunk. Churchill declared the situation remained in hand generally, but he said the fighting is continuing with intensity. "The Germans are using large numbers of air-borne troops."

Naval Base, Docks and Center of Town Targeted; Bombs Make Direct Hit on Battery.

London, May 22.—(P)—British bombers which attacked the Naval base, docks and center of the town at Helgoland left German island stronghold in the North Sea shrouded in a "swirl of dust and smoke" here and there by flames, the Air Ministry News Service said today.

A football game was in progress when the bombers swooped over the base yesterday, the report said, but the game quickly broke up and Churchill declared the situation remained in hand generally, but he said the fighting is continuing with intensity. "The Germans are using large numbers of air-borne troops."

Slow-Poke Motorists Must Speed Up in Delaware Now

Dover, Del., May 22.—(P)—The state of Delaware began an experiment today in speeding up slow-poke motorists while safety authorities disputed value of the measure.

It is now a misdemeanor to drive a motor vehicle "at such a slow speed as to impede or block the normal and reasonable movement of traffic, except when it is necessary for safe operation or in an emergency or in the law."

The minimum-speed law will be enforced only where traffic is heavy and conditions are hazardous, officials said.

William J. Lackey, president of the Delaware Automobile Association, however, said he was not sympathetic toward the experiment.

"Every man who pays his motor tax is entitled to the road," he asserted. "Older people naturally drive more slowly. I do not believe the slow driver is a menace except on the very narrow roads."

Planned Death With Emery

Testimony Mrs. Steadman Intended to Die On Records of Trial.

Boston, May 22.—(P)—Testimony that Mrs. Ruth Steadman, 24-year-old blonde, intended to die with Robert Emery, 26, whom she is accused of strangling as the climax of a hopeless love affair, appeared today on the records of the trial.

Meanwhile, a possible hint of the nature of the defense was given today when Mrs. Steadman's attorney, Edward F. Flynn, in cross-examination, introduced Special Officer Daniel P. Donovan regarding whether or not a copy of rope was found attached to the shaver in the bathroom of the Strandway apartment.

Donovan asserted he did not see such a rope but said he heard about it in conversation with another officer, Dennis Mahoney. The defense attorney then asked Assistant District Attorney Edward M. Sullivan if he had the rope.

"I don't know at this time," said Sullivan. "The chemist has the 'poisoning charge'."

Assert Knox Silent On Trade Freedom

Berlin, May 22.—(P)—United States Navy Secretary Knox asserted today that the Americans are not for war purposes and the movement of war materials, authorized sources said today.

Commenting on his statement yesterday that he favored abandoning the neutrality law and returning to the traditional United States policy of freedom of the seas, these quarters said he was "strategically silent" on freedom of the seas for peaceful neutral trade.

"The salient point to freedom of the seas is that the world's waterways must remain open for legitimate trade."

All Survivors Pursue Waiting Policy On French Possessions

George Doubts Any Immediate Move Will Be Made; No Indication Status Changed.

Washington, May 22.—(P)—Secretary Hull gave an implied assurance today that the French island of Martinique had no reason to fear any imminent United States action against it. The secretary of state described as German or pro-German inspired reports published in German-occupied France that Martinique officials had received orders to prepare for an American attack.

The negotiations, it was learned, parallel existing discussions between Sir Arthur Salts, chief of the British shipping mission, and the U. S. Maritime Commission, whereby Britain hopes to obtain some merchant tonnage when the United States formally reopens the 84 foreign ships now under official surveillance here.

The success of British efforts in the Atlantic have intercepted the deliberations of the Inter-American financial and economic committee, representing all 21 American republics, which convened today to consider the whole ship seizure question.

United Policy Objective
The enjoyment of the American nations will present their governments' views concerning the most feasible ways in which to force the issue of the trade and defense of the western hemisphere. A united hemisphere policy on the subject is the objective.

Pending some concrete evidence that France's New World possessions would be drawn to meet hemisphere requirements, many Latin American nations have suffered severely from the shipping shortage caused by heavy British and neutral losses and transfers from the Latin American service.

Should this proposal be adopted, it was understood that Great Britain would be given the opportunity to detail the extent of the "collaboration" it has pledged Germany hereafter.

Pending that French declaration, it was said, the United States planned no action which would change the status of French colonies, food shipments to unoccupied France, or the status of the French colonies.

Britain Hopes To Buy Some Idle Vessels

Washington, May 22.—(P)—Negotiating with Latin American nations for purchase of some of the 100-odd foreign-foreign merchantmen now idle in hemisphere ports, the negotiations, it was learned, parallel existing discussions between Sir Arthur Salts, chief of the British shipping mission, and the U. Germany Urges Unity Policy After Peace

London, May 22.—(P)—German Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden warned today that Britain will strike "the enemy wherever he may be found" and some qualified sources immediately took that to mean an "undeclared state of war" against France. Even though members pressed him, however, Eden scrupulously avoided further interpretation of his statement to the House of Commons.

The foreign secretary charged that the Vichy government had "embarked on a course which must place the resources and territories of France increasingly at the disposal of Germany. If France pursues her declared policy of collaboration," British ships will fall "without any distinction between occupied and unoccupied territory," he declared.

The British government is confident, Eden said, that the French people themselves look upon this policy as "incompatible" with honor.

Signs of Hostilities
Three signs pointed to the possibility of further hostilities between the allies of less than one year ago.

1. Forces of Gen. Charles De Gaulle, still fighting on the British side, were reported unofficially to have crossed from British-occupied Palestine into French-occupied Syria, where the Germans already have established a foothold.

2. Reports to Vichy from German-occupied France declared that the French navy had ordered preparations for defense of the Caribbean Sea.

3. British Naval patrols in the Atlantic have intercepted the deliberations of the Inter-American financial and economic committee, representing all 21 American republics, which convened today to consider the whole ship seizure question.

In a speech prepared for the Advertising Club of New York, Casey said that standing in the way of post-war collaboration were "historic misunderstandings between Britain and America" and a "distorted" view held by some here that "Britain has no democracy worth the name—and that she sits at ease and exploits the British Empire for her own profit—in the past."

Axis planes also were reported to have bombed the British Mediterranean base on Malta again, firing three planes on the ground. British Hurricane planes said to have been shot down by Nazi anti-aircraft batteries off the Italian island of Pantelleria.

Young People Present Play

"Life of Riley" Enjoyed by Large Audience at Whiton Memorial Hall.

"The Life of Riley," the three-act comedy presented at Whiton hall last night by a cast of eleven from Mu Sigma Chi Society of the Second Congregational church, was exactly what the young people promised, one continuous explosion of laughter from curtain to curtain. In fact the younger element in the large audience was in "sitches" over the funny situations so that it was sometimes difficult to catch the speeches or get the gist of the play, so fast and furious was the action.

Story of the Play The entire play transpires within an hour on June morning in a bungalow at a smart summer resort where Terry Riley, a swimming champion, played by Herbert Tenney, Jr., and his young wife, Love, Masters with whom he has eloped, plan to spend their honeymoon. Miss Virginia Armstrong, who plays the role of a girl who has a rather trying time of it, with weeping and fainting spells over what transpires making the role a difficult one.

Trouble Starts The trouble starts immediately the pair are wedded. The automobile has to be repaired and the bridegroom charges his friend Warner Steele (played by Emerson Ricker) to return the car to the honeymoon cottage. The bride has never met this friend of her husband, and while she is arranging furniture upstairs and Terry is impatiently watching for Warner and the car, his sister-in-law arrives with the startling news that her little boy has been kidnaped and he leaves to aid him. Miss Edith Brantley plays the role of the other Mrs. Riley and this further mystifies the bride who when she hears about it thinks her husband is a bigamist.

Further Mix-ups In the meantime, through a series of misadventures, Warner has been forced to use Terry's driver's license and is introduced to G-man (Ralph Pulford) working on the case of the stolen child, as O'Riley the champ swimmer. When Lowry Riley appears on the scene Warner tells her she must pretend he is her husband, although he can't explain why he must lead the life of Riley for the present. When the final curtain is reached, Warner is a wreck. Lowry is almost out of her mind for the real Terry seems to have been mistaken for the kidnaper, and is being hunted down.

The bride's sister Corla (played by Barbara Keeney) arrives unexpectedly and Warner is dumfounded to find her the girl he fell in love with at first sight while in the mountains. He tries to make love to her and is constantly interrupted by one thing or another. One of the funniest scenes is where, having lost his glasses, he is unable to see and is discovered making love to the Riley's Jewish maid, Sadie Cohen. Miss June Newcomb in the latter part of the comedy. Toward the close of the play the mother-in-law, Mrs. Beulah Masters, appears upon the scene and complicates matters still further. Miss Ruth Higgins played the latter role. The real kidnapper "Two Timm Riley" (Richard Klein) is apprehended, the child is restored to his parents and all ends well.

Others in Cast In addition to those mentioned were Miss Elizabeth Klein, who played the role of the nosy neighbor, Mrs. Michael Morris, who played the role of a minor part. The living room scene which was used throughout the farce was most attractive. The properties and stage sets were arranged by Miss June Newcomb. Miss Edith Brantley, James Griswold, Emerson Ricker and Raymond Schaller. The setting was ideal for the young women in their moth dresses and the boys in their summer togs. After the cast had received a final curtain call, Emerson Ricker, president of Mu Sigma Chi and in his behalf presented to Miss Geraldine Tenney, the cost of a handsome white handbag, in appreciation of her work with the cast and her patience at rehearsals.

Richard Ranney played the cyphophone before the performance and between the acts, and home made candy was sold to swell the proceeds.

S. A. Adjutant Presents Flag

Mrs. Rebecca Wright Is Given Honor for Long Years of Services.

Mrs. Rebecca J. Wright, of 111 Hill, widow of William Wright, has been presented with a Salvation Army flag in recognition of fifty years of service in young people's work in the local Salvation Army corps by the present leader, Adjutant N. J. Curtis.

Mrs. Wright started the first Sunday school of the army in April 1891. The first hall of the corps was built on Spruce street, largely from timbers brought from the first building of the Second Congregational church at North Main and North streets. The soldiers did most of the work.

Became Too Small The first hall soon was too small to house the growing corps and was moved across the street where it still stands as a two-family dwelling. The second hall, built on the site of the first in 1891, was the scene of Mrs. Wright's early endeavors with the young people.

Present Citadel The present citadel was dedicated in 1906, and when the corps celebrated its 50 years of existence in November of 1937, Mrs. Wright was invited to be one of the historians. She has retained her active participation in all affairs pertaining to the Sunday school and continues to teach. Mrs. Wright is always numbered among the local people who attend the annual Salvation Army camp meetings at Old Orchard. Made every summer in August, and has been one of the most faithful and loyal soldiers of the Manchester corps since its institution.
