Negotiations Looking Toward Peace in Far East Not Broken Down, Although Present Situation Viewed as Extremely Serious by United States; Policy Of Infinite Patience.

Washington, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The American government, it was learned today from the best available sources in Washington, has ruled out any possibility of a compromise with Japan on the Chinese issue and has raised a possibility that American merchant ships in the Pacific may be armed.

An official White House announcement concerning negotiations said that these vessels sailing on Pacific routes "will not be armed under existing circumstances."

And when President Roosevelt was asked at a press conference how long he thought these circumstances would prevail, he said he thought the question might better be asked in Tokyo.

He was asked also whether there was anything he might say on negotiations with Japan's envoys for peace in the Pacific.

It was learned on the best authority that the current situation in the Far East is regarded as serious because America desires that there be peace in the Pacific and is taking no steps that would alter prospects for peace.

Reports of unabated Japanese military operations in the Pacific were reported today.
