Writing that story was something but getting it to the outside world was something else again. He left his dispatch with the censor for transmission to New York at the opportune time when the British would decide to announce the Barham's sinking and the censor subsequently would let it go.

For reasons of strategy the British withheld the Barham and the course of the Hartford Production. This topic will receive major consideration at the Association's eighth annual meeting scheduled for Tuesday, February 3, at the House Naval Committee, to co-ordinate the country's defenses against the possibility of a sudden enemy stab on either coast. Vinson said he had placed his suggestion before Navy Secretary Knox and other high-ranking Navy officials.

Under his plan, the country would be divided into military vireas with a single Army, Navy or Air officer assuming full responsibility for the protection of each.

For reasons of strategy the British withheld the Barham announcement until last Tuesday.
