Boxers Give Fine Exhibit

Out of Town Pugilists Show Fine Points of Sport to Men's Club.

Three exhibition bouts were held last night in St. Bridge's Parish Hall as a climax to the regular meeting of the Men's Club. A large crowd was present as the program, which was arranged by George M. Williams and Peter Vendrillo got under way. Due to the being under doctor's care, Pat Vendrillo was unable to appear last night. It was announced that he will not be able to enter the ring for some time. His opponent, James Rooney of Springfield, is a fine fighter and was also unable to present.

However, the three bouts that were staged held the interest of the men, as the boys went at it with no punches pulled. In the first bout, the opponent of the left hander was perfect. In the second, two colored fighters matched blows. Joe Jenson of Thompsonville and Len St. John of Springfield were the combatants. The fight was a fine show as the crowd rendered it the nine o'clock mark of the night.

Tommy Jenson of Springfield and Vito Talara of Thompsonville were the figures in the third and final bout. Jenson was highly successful throughout the three rounds.

Refereements were served following the entertainment. Harry Stone of Thompsonville acted as referee, and no winners were declared.

Prior to the bouts, the Men's Club held their regular meeting. The board of directors, headed by Harry Stone, discussed the club's affairs and the service of the poor.

Stations of the Cross and Benediction were held in the church prior to the meeting. The services were conducted by Fr. Francis Brennan. He was assisted by the following altar boys: Charles Busky, Arthur Brown, Joseph Quish, Donald O'Connell, Jack Quish, James Campbell, Daniel Mikolajewski and Carl Mikolajewski.

Heard Along Main Street

And on Some of Manchester's Side Streets, Too

Last Tuesday when it was pouring buckets of the wettest kind of rainwater we heard a lot of criticism of the fact that school was not closed, especially for the lower grades. This was probably influenced somewhat by early morning radio announcements about schools in other nearby towns suspending school sessions because of the storm.

It developed that there is no alarm system in town for notifying parents that there will be no school sessions on that particular day. Formerly whistles in the various mills in town were sounded to announce suspension of school activities. However, that system has been abandoned gradually. At the time the plan was abandoned when the fire alarm system grew to such an extent that a school alarm would have caused confusion with the fire alarm.

At the north end and the school alarm was just dropped as being unnecessary.

Some of the largest cities in the state have such an alarm system, and after last Tuesday's experience we understand parents of the smaller children will be thankful that the plan was abandoned.

It is no reason why some school sessions should be suspended because of the rain. The rain is a fact of life and it is up to the parents to decide whether to send their children to school or not.

A young fellow who works in town but lives in New Britain was discussing the increases in rent. He said that he had been paying $100 a month for his apartment. He said that he had been paying $100 a month for his apartment.

British Fliers Raid Essen in Attacks On German Plants

Plan Beating Time Limits For Output

London, March 9.—(P)—The R.A.F. hammered at Essen, the home of Germany's great Krupp, M. A. H. 1110 n. Works, last night, keeping up a "round-the-clock" schedule of air blows at industrial centers behind the German front. The R.A.F. announced today, Essen, to which the R.A.F. was returning for the first time since last Nov. 8 and 9 when the Krupp works were heavily bombed. The R.A.F. said it was planning to attack the works again tonight, and that it had been lucky to escape a "dollar a day" raid. Lights Out Warnings Are Ignored in Town

Many times within the past three weeks the local Defense Council has warned business houses and the population in general that lights, not manually operated, should be turned off when there is no one around to put them out in case of an air raid. A Herald reporter journeyed around Manchester in the wee hours of Saturday night and Sunday morning to find out if this order has been generally disregarded. No less than thirty business places had lights burning.

This morning a check was made of the local defense council's order. It was found that in some cases the lights were turned off, but in many cases they were not.

"It's not an order coming from the defense council. It's an Army order," said one of the men who was seen turning off the lights.

What would happen if an air raid warning came along in case of a real raid and found these lights burning? he was asked.

"I guess that the sector would have to be put out in the way he could," replied the man who was seen turning off the lights.

"Even to shooting them out?" was the next question.

That was the last question asked. The man who was seen turning off the lights, however, did not answer it.

Another Theft Reported Here

Wells Street Resident Has $75 Stolen; Tells Of Her Experiences.

Another theft of a local resident has just been revealed. Mrs. Helen Oleksi of 70 Wells street announced that her home had been broken into last Thursday evening, and the sum of $75 had been taken from her husband's trouser pocket.

Her version of the story is as follows: She had been working on the three to eleven shift in the clothing department of a downtown store. She had been home at approximately 11:15 p. m. She observed that her husband, Peter, was asleep in his room. She then retired.

Robbery Is Discussed

After a sleepless night, Mrs. Oleksi was awakened by a knock on her door. She opened the door and found a man standing in the hallway. She called out to him, but he did not answer. She then called the police.
