Corkey Makes Statement After Hinman Questions Reason for Hearing Testimony Concerning Cost of Bridge Project in Ledyard.

Hartford, April 7.—(AP)—Connecticut's assistant attorney general today told George E. Hinman, presiding as Governor Hurley's deputy at a hearing to determine Highway Commissioner William J. Corkey's fitness for office, that he would attempt to show there was a link between changes authorized for the Ledyard bridge project and a claim for payment for idle equipment made by the contractor.

Questions Materially Assistant Attorney General Richard F. Corkey, who did not indicate what link might be made between the bridge project and the claim for payment for idle equipment made by the contractor.

Joseph F. Berry counsel for Corkey, objected to Corkey's line of inquiry, asserting that the government will play the part in the morning events of this view of the emergency of Pierre Laval from the shadows, the transfer of the Soviet fleet and garrisoned in Algeria to Toulon and the out-
