Britain's Armada Still Is Powerful Despite Sinkings

Steady Replacement of Losses Result in Keeping Strength at Or Above That of Shipbuilders Aid Nation.

New York, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Despite a loss of more than 1,200 Naval and merchant vessels in three years, Britain's mighty sea armada is as powerful as ever, thanks to steady replacement of losses, an Associated Press review today disclosed.

The review, which is the first in a series of reports on the state of the British fleet, says that the fleet's strength is being maintained by a steady replacement of losses.

At the same time, the review says, the fleet's strength is being maintained by a steady replacement of losses.

Russians Recapture Strategic Positions; Nazis Take Buildings

Box Score Tells Value Of Planes Results in Combat Only Conclusive Answer to All Popycock of So-called Air Experts.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—(AP)—"Look at the box score," the editor of an Aeronautical Journal suggested today in an editorial he has prepared in answer to statements criticizing performance of the Russian war planes.

"That is the only objective answer to all the popycock being dished out by the so-called aviation experts," the editorial written by Editor Max Karant of the magazine, "The Aviation Journal," says.

"There are those who lately have said that American success has been due almost entirely to the recapture of strategic positions both within Stalingrad and upon the German front.

"The Russian official announced the recapture of strategic positions both within Stalingrad and upon the German front.
