About Town

Mrs. Walter E. Coburn of Adams City, Conn., of this town, has returned home after a visit with her mother, Mrs. Albert T. Dewey of M. Robert road.

The Chamunda Club has set the date of Monday, June 21, for its annual picnic luncheon. It will be held at 1 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Grace Fraser, 24 Lewis street.

Town Official Making Check

Methods of Fire Escape Surveyed; To Act to Eliminate Danger.

At the request of Dr. D. C. Y. Moore, local health officer, James Duffy has made a survey of all boarding houses, convalescing homes, apartment houses and business blocks where rooms are used as living quarters.

The investigation was prompted by the Coconut Grove fire in Boston, when nearly 500 lost their lives. It is the intention of Dr. Moore to give the report a careful study. He will then act with both fire chiefs to have the conditions remedied.

Jas. H. Johnston Is Reappointed

Sheriff Joseph W. Harding of Hartford County has named his 25 deputy sheriffs. Among them is Jas. H. Johnston.

Start of Final Phase Is Seen Parley's Fruit

The war against Japan received the fullest consideration in his address to Congress. Yet it is equally clear that there has been no change in the grand strategy previously agreed upon by the United States and Japan.

The present strategic bombing will be followed by an Allied invasion of the continent this summer. It will develop at times as a series of attacks, but it will be a single drive to the Japanese.

The forces available for use against Japan's Pacific flank have been greatly increased.

Third Position Held by Japs Under Attack

Some significance was attached by observers here to the resumption of western attacks on Kiska. The main Japanese base in the western Aleutians which lies southeast of Attu.

A resumption of heavy bombing at Kiska undoubtedly would be designed to destroy Japanese ammunition and supplies and to constitute a campaign of attrition.

Participation of Russia in the war against Japan would quickly solve the problem of bases from which to launch the main Japanese drive to the Aleutians.

and for all, any notion that there was anything easy or second-rate about the performance of our units in the North African fighting, it wasn't a question of "what" troops first encountering the difficulties and then suddenly finding themselves and then having everything smoothly their own way. They will last the duration of the European war. It will not be fair to those who would be law-abiding citizens in any case to permit the children unlimted immunity. Connecticut's performance must improve, if the "honor system" is to be retained.

Gas for Area Seen Enough

One in Enough
If there is condemnation of Senator John Danaher for his would-be sabotage of the rationing program, and if it is true that such sabotage on his part is merely in keeping with his incurably suspicious brand of isolationism, it is also worthy of comment that Connecticut's other senator, who has generally steered clear of the taint of isolationism, has ranged himself on the backward side of this particular issue.

Senator Maloney is the author of an amendment which would give all reciprocal trade agreements subject to ratification by the Senate in treaty form. This amendment, if it could be passed, would be a major step toward the hearts of isolationists everywhere than Senator Danaher's, for it would amount to certain and positive assurance that no reciprocal trade agreement would ever come into being.

It is, we should judge, one of the most serious errors of Senator Maloney, who has found it politically profitable to steer his own course at Washington, in veering temporarily toward the isolationist side of things. Perhaps he thinks of Connecticut as a rock-ribbed, high-tariff state and thus thinks it politic to share Senator Danaher's economic isolationism, even if he does not adhere to the latter's political isolationism.

If that is so, we venture the guess that Senator Danaher has guessed wrong, and we would suggest that he let Senator Danaher have undivided monopoly of the seat of trying to turn the clock for Connecticut. One isolationist in the Senate from Connecticut is enough. By acting as if he were another Senator Danaher, he is doing nothing to help our cause in Asia and elsewhere.

It Must Improve
Governor Baldwin, in his weekly broadcast the other night, reiterated his confidence in the patriotism of the people of Connecticut, and that he believed that patriotism would bring observance of the pleasure, driving ban without any police enforcement. We still hope that Governor is right; he should be, and we have hopes that his confidence and his appeals will produce a compliance which will never make it necessary for him to reverse his policy.

We think it should be candidly admitted, however, that compliance has not yet occurred. Most of our readers, we think, have personal knowledge of cars still being used for pleasure purposes when they were not as used when they ran the risk of police enforcement of the ban. But there is also official admission that the "honor system" has not yet proved a success in Connecticut, and this admission comes from the Governor himself.

Those who have compared traffic on Sunday, May 16, the Governor reported the other night, "before the ban was announced with traffic on a Sunday May 23. On the main trunk line highways there were decreases ranging from 25 to 57 per cent. Most of the large centers population have reported substantial reductions in traffic."

Such reports may indicate, as the Governor says, "that the great majority of the people can be trusted to do the right thing and the necessary thing." They also indicate that a substantial number of people cannot be so trusted, last Sunday at least. Obviously, people who voluntarily observe the pleasure driving ban need no enforcement, and need not fear it. Just as obviously, there are some who will not respect anything but enforcement. Perhaps the latter will respect the Governor's confidence and his appeal. We hope so. But this latest ban on pleasure driving is apparently a temporary one. It will last the duration of the European war. It will not be fair to those who would be law-abiding citizens in any case to permit the children unlimted immunity. Connecticut's performance must improve, if the "honor system" is to be retained.

OPA Officials Insist Filling Stations Will Remain Open.

Boston, May 28.—(AP)—OPA officials here today insisted that filling stations will remain open. They were prompted in making the announcement, they said, by a false rumor which has swept New England that the rationing board had ordered the closing of filling stations.

There is enough gas to keep the situation which would be created by the closing of filling stations, OPA officials here today insisted. B. Backman, New England regional OPA administrator, said that the rationing board had no intention of closing filling stations. Simple Preventative Methods Advised for Athlete's Foot

By Dr. Thomas D. Masters
Written for NEA
Among the many harbingers of spring, one of the most persistent recurring is Athlete's Foot. Almost every adult gets refuge to the Athlete's Foot germ from fungus. Warm weather, exercise, and increased sweating all tend to bring the germ to renewed and increasing activity. It is not a cure—rather than contact, with other people in public swimming pools, clubs, and gymnasiums, that provides ideal conditions for spreading the Athlete's Foot.

Athlete's Foot thrives in moisture and dead skin. Therefore, it is of the greatest importance to take measures for keeping the foot as clean as dead skin and debris as possible, and for drying thoroughly the foot and under the toes. Rubbing alcohol or 1-2 per cent tincture of iodine are both good daily treatments for cleansing and cutting down on perspiration. A liberal sprinkling of talcum powder on the feet and in the stockings and shoes tends to cut down on dampness, and it is of particular caution to wipe the toes very dry after bathing.

People whose feet perspire more than those the average person would do will place small wads of absorbent material in their shoes. Cotton hosiery offers the best absorption and ventilation, and the shoes should be rocky and preferably perforated. Athlete's Foot is the fungus which kills the fungus by treating the shoes to a formaldehyde bath or ultra-violet ray light.

Mental Cases Change Urged

Leak Advocates Establishment of Clinics by General Hospitals.
New Haven, May 28.—(AP)—The idea that all mental cases require barred windows, seclusion or powerful restraints, being definitely to the past, Dr. Roy L. Temple, superintendent of the Connecticut State Hospital in Middletown said yesterday.

Dr. Leak, retiring president of the Connecticut State Medical Society, spoke at the first meeting of the annual three day session of the society. Urging general hospitals to establish clinics and departments for the mentally ill, Dr. Leak asserted: "It has been generally recognized that many mentally ill cases may be treated under circumstances not generally obtainable in a general hospital."

Sense and Nonsense

A Country Mother?
They have all gone, but I am not alone.
I have their work to do, their stock to feed.
As they left behind that I must have,
Their acres waiting for someone to see.
How and those city mothers have to be.
With nothing but some clothes to put away.
I have the thousand things they did for me.
And doing them again, find yesterday.
Margaret Dillon.

Glady's—You've been the information clerk here for some time now; where do all the bugs go to Ben-Search me!
Glady's—No, thanks—I just wanted to know.

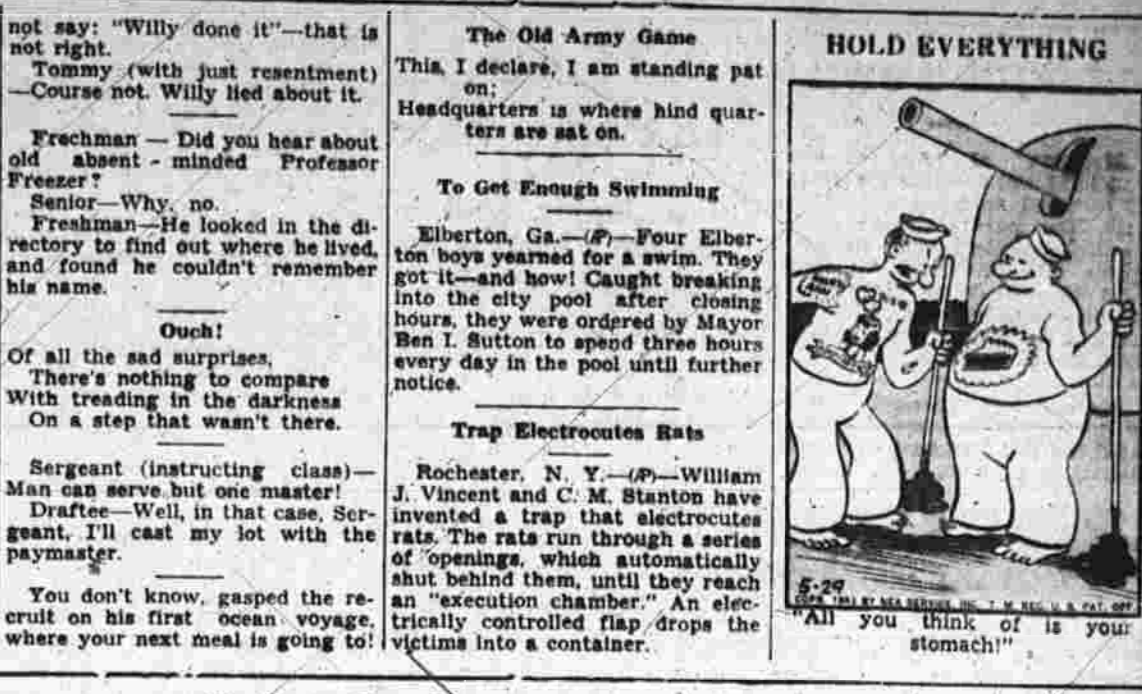

One Woman's Pledge
In time of war I'll never cheat.
Black market food won't cross my lips.
I'll eat less butter, sugar, meat,
For God, for country—and my hip.
Marjorie S. Coleman.

Woman—What do you find best for cleaning windows?
Very often a gentleman farmer never raises anything but his hat.
Sergeant (instructing class)—Man can serve but one master! Drafted—Well, in that case, Sergeant, I'll cast my lot with the correct language form his teacher in retraining him for his latest offense said.
Teacher—Now, Tommy, you know better than that. You should be a soldier.

Freeman—Did you hear about old Frasier?
Fraser—Yes.
Fraser—He looked in the directory to find out where he lived, and found he couldn't remember his name.
Ouch!
Of all the sad surprises.
There's nothing to compare with finding in the dark.
On a step that wasn't there.

Tramp Electrocuted
Rocketer, N. Y.—(P)—William J. Vincent and C. M. Stanton have invented a trap that electrocutes rats. The rats run through a series of openings, which automatically traps them, until they reach an "execution chamber." An electrically controlled flap drops the victim into a container.
