Seamen Given Credit For Magnificent Job

Longshoremen 'Forgotten Men' of War, Finding of Senate Subcommittee Probers.

(Editor's Note: This is the last of three stories on the Senate subcommittee report on America's wartime shipping.)

By James Marlow and George Zinke
Washington, Oct. 9.—(AP)—American seamen are "heroes doing a magnificent job" although much remains to be done in the way they are used—but the longshoremen who load the ships are the war's "forgotten men."

Those were findings of the Senate Military Affairs subcommittee which this week bluntly criticized what it found in east coast ports where ships are loaded for their war missions across the Atlantic.

The subcommittee said: "In east coast ports there should be a central hiring machinery for longshoremen and arrangements to shift them where they are needed."

The present "shape-up" system is "wasteful and inefficient and has been condemned for years."

Under that system longshoremen line up at a pier, certain ones are chosen to work on a ship there, the remainder have no work for the day although a few blocks away a ship may be held up for lack of longshoremen.

Because the port of New York is operating at only two-thirds capacity, there is an overall surplus of longshoremen there but because there is no arrangement for shifting them where needed, the Army has been forced to use longshoremen in a number of places.

Of the seamen, the subcommittee said: "Have High Morale. They are efficient and have high morale. Despite thousands of casualties from enemy attacks, labor turnover on ships has been lower than in war industries."

The subcommittee said war-time wage scales have been an inducement for the men to go to sea but "above all the men have voluntarily returned to sea primarily to serve their country."

The subcommittee added: "War supported vigorously. The important maritime union have supported the war vigorously, have recruited men, maintained discipline at sea, and without exception lived up to their military pledge."

But the subcommittee reported a failure to utilize fully the still large reserve of experienced seamen now active and traced the blame for this principally to the War Shipping Administration, which has "attempted to substitute new and youthful personnel for older, experienced workers."

These were the subcommittee's recommendations: 1.—The recruitment and training program of the War Shipping Administration should be thoroughly overhauled to: (A) Reduce both the size of the apprenticeship program and the physical qualification of trainees recruited; (B) expand the recruitment of experienced men in the grading from lowest to higher ratings and develop more adequate refresher courses.

Continuous Work Favored. Seamen should be employed regularly and continuously without reference to the length of the individual voyage. Men are being signed on, as in peacetime, for one voyage only.

Wage Structure. The wage structure of the United States merchant marine and that of our Allies should be reviewed by the War Shipping Administration "in consultation with our Allies in order to eliminate those existing inequities which hinder the necessary treatment of seamen. For instance: Wages paid on British, Dutch and Norwegian ships are lower than on American vessels.

War Shipping Administration should establish at once an industry-labor advisory council to meet with the administrative.

To Send Presents To Service Men. King David Lodge, IOOF, made arrangements last evening during his business meeting at Old Fellows' temple to send presents to each of its members now serving with the armed forces. While there is a complete file on the active members, information is needed to send presents to those who have served in the service.

To Aid Children In Getting Home. Because of the large number of children now attending the Lincoln school from the new developments in Pine Acres, Pine Acres Terrace, Pine Acres Terrace Annex and Woodridge, it will become necessary to dismiss the lower grades in the Lincoln school 15 minutes ahead of the other class.

The children take the bus at the Center for their homes and when the buses reach the Center they are so crowded by children from other schools that there is no room for them. By letting the buses out 15 minutes earlier it will give them an opportunity to take another bus and keep them from waiting outdoors in cold weather.

There are about 100 children from these developments now attending the lower grades in the schools in town.

Dimout Curbs Are Relaxed

Virtually All Restrictions on Lighting on Pacific Coast Lifted.

San Francisco, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Relaxation of west coast dimout restrictions, permitting virtually normal use of automobile headlights, the return of night time sports and liberalizing home lighting was announced by the Army today.

A public proclamation issued by Lieut. Gen. Delos C. Emmons, commanding general of the Western Defense command, modified virtually all of the restrictions on lighting under which Pacific coast residents have been living for a year. The order is effective tonight.

It permits full automobile headlights in all areas except those visible from the sea, and even three motorists may operate with a depressed beam of full candle-power. Under the original dimout, only parking lights were permitted in some places.

Attacks May Be Resumed. The proclamation points out that current military developments permit the relaxation of restrictions but cautions that attacks by Japanese shores themselves "may be resumed."

The new regulations divides the former dimout area into three zones. Zone B comprises the area visible from the sea, but does not extend more than ten miles inland; Zone A is a 15 mile wide strip along the coast; and Zone C includes all of the rest of the dimout area.

In Zone A, only those indoor lights within six feet of a window require dimming. In Zone B all lights visible from the sea must still be dimmed. Recreational and sports lighting, heretofore limited to one foot-candle power, will now be permitted in all of the area more than three miles from the sea.

JOHN STEINBECK CABLES FROM LONDON

"I HAVE SEEN the soldiers come down from the ships and stand in long lines on the docks, their 'B' bags beside them and their packs on their backs and their rifles slung over their shoulders. They have come to a new country and it is strange to them. They are puzzled and although only a little time from home, they are homesick."

"I have seen the supplies come in by the hundred shiploads, locomotives and tanks and trucks—acres of boxed food and great mounds of hams, shiploads of bombs stacked in from keel to hatch and all materials that we need at home—steel for bridges and buildings, food for our own people, material enough to make all America well fed and well housed and well clothed. And all this dumped on the docks of a foreign country."

"I have seen American railroad men shunting cars on the British line, men who got good pay on the B. & O. and on the New York Central and now with Sergeant's stripes and Sergeant's pay."

"I have seen the men climb into the Fortress in the early morning and fly away waving with elaborate nonchalance and I have seen the gap in the mess when they did not come back and the empty bunks, the blankets thrown aside as they threw them, and the framed photographs on the steel lockers."

"The men have gone up the gangways again to go into action and they jump from landing barges to a beach, strewn with the bodies of their own people, and they claw their way like animals into a hostile coast."

"I have seen the hospitals with the mangled men, the legless and blind, the fingerless hands and the burned faces—all the destruction that steel and fire can do to a man's body and mind. I have seen children hauled out of a blasted building; lumps of crushed, dirty meat in pinforks, and dead—boxed and buried carrion. In God's name, what is it for except to get this horrible thing over with as quickly and as thoroughly as possible? And if this is true, it should not be a matter of 'Who will lend his money?' but 'Who dares not?'"

Connecticut Yankee
 By A. H. O.

The fact that the recent town elections showed the Democrats showing in East Hartford, a town where they were "out," is not a surprise. It is a fact that the "light vote" doesn't actually have the traditional significance credited to it.

Those Siberian Bases
 One of the more questionable conclusions in the report of our five war-front touring senators is that concerning the advantage to us of being able to use Siberian bases against the Japanese mainland. Senator Lodge first announced that he believed to give the figures of how many bases might save. After he had spent some time wondering how such a thing could be estimated, he developed that estimate had indeed been made by General MacArthur and Chennault, our two leading fighter pilots against Japan, and that their opinion is entitled to respect. This Senator Lodge in recent session made his estimate one of a million lives, an estimate immediately attacked by his fellow touring Senators as completely irresponsible. But, whatever the exact figure, it is reasonable to believe that our use of Russia's Siberian bases could save many lives.

Joint Responsibility
 As a preliminary to his participation in the Moscow Conference, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden has been holding important meetings with representatives of other European nations now generally captive to the Nazis. It is important that, in these meetings, he has reportedly outlined the purpose of the Moscow Conference to be the establishment of a system of "joint responsibility" for the war in Europe, and that responsibility to be held by Russia, Britain and the United States. This is important news not because agreement on such a basis has yet been reached, but because it does represent a positive alternative to the normal routine course of events, and an alternative to what has already been happening in some instances.

Subsidies that have rolled back the price of butter five cents a pound are only "trivial palliatives," said Gos. The surplus of consumer purchasing power must be taken up some other way.

And that's the way of it. At least down here. That heaven, we've got coal; enough, we figured, to feed the furnace through the worst part of even another tough winter. But wood in sheet iron stoves during what you might call the twilight of autumn and the shiver's dawn of winter, it looks like this family will have the choice of wearing the outdoor clothes indoors for some of the non-summer months, rubbing its nose and wringing its hands to banish the chill, or else adopt the method of a man I once heard of who had a scheme for keeping his family warm all winter on a quarter of a ton of coal.

Comment From The River Road
 By Malcolm Moran

Mr. Mollan, retired editor of The Herald, preserves his contact with his former daily readers by writing a weekly letter for these columns, in which he expresses his own maturely arrived-at convictions concerning some major matters and his observations concerning some very minor ones, as seen from his home on the banks of the Atlantic River. Look for his contribution each week-end.

Rationing News
 By Anthony F. Arpaia, Director Office of Price Administration

Gasoline is the news again, and 15 kinds of variety meats from for holders of "A" books, the news is good. The basic ration stamp are now worth two gallons each instead of one and a half. That is, A-6 coupons will have to last only November 8 instead of November 22.

 Eleanor's Travels

Recently a newspaper commentator gave the details of the trip made by Mrs. Roosevelt to visit our forces in the South Pacific. He said she traveled in a great bombier, with a large staff of officers, and was accompanied by George Duran, a Washington journalist who had been a member of the Air Transport Command. They carried with them 20,000 feet of film.

Shake Hands with a Cheney Worker

YOU'LL like his friendly smile and firm handshake, his determination to do a good job in a job he likes, his high regard for his community, his company and his country. Those are the things all free men live by—and fight to defend.

We don't need to tell you that Cheney Workers are loyal American citizens. They will be found in the ranks of every civilian defense unit, serving their fellow citizens as wardens, airplane spotters or rationing board members. You'll find them giving blood, canning the products of their victory gardens, buying bonds to the limit as evidenced by the Treasury's Minute Man flag which proudly flies from our mast . . . in short, squarely behind the war effort!

It's not difficult to understand these things when you realize that Cheney Workers are part of an organization which takes a genuine interest in the well-being of its employees, on and off the job. From the top executives to the newest employees, Cheney Workers are striving with equal determination to produce the goods for Victory—and after that to make world-famous Cheney textiles available to civilians once again.

And above all, Cheney Workers are doing a grand job of production because they know what they're working for and what their sons, husbands, brothers and sweethearts are fighting for. They've been honored twice by the Army and Navy—first with an "E" flag and now with a star for continued achievement.

Cheney Workers are united in a common bond of purpose and ideals, shared by themselves and their company . . . Call it "Industrial Democracy" . . . We think it is the way of free men . . . the Cheney way to achieve full production for Victory.
