Author Speaks To A. A. Group

Charles Jackson Tells of Drinking Experiences; Is Against Prohibition.

"I hope Alcoholics Anonymous never will allow its organization to be used to promote the return of prohibition," declared Charles Jackson, author of "The Lost Weekend" at the open meeting of the Hartford A. A. last night at Avery Memorial. "I think that the era of prohibition is responsible for a large number of the present-day alcoholics," the author continued.

Although he had not taken a drink for years himself, Mr. Jackson is not a member of the A. A. He asserted that at no time he was a heavy drinker, but that his health became affected and when it became a question of choosing between drinking and his writing he chose writing.

While this solved his own problem, he pointed to the fact that many others might have to turn to some other source in order to break themselves of the desire for liquor.

He declared that it was not his intention to solve the problem of drinking in his book, only to show what went on when a man drank to excess. As the result of chance, however, it has become a book which tends to write another book in which he will try to solve the problem of his central figure in "The Lost Weekend." This book will have to wait, however, until the novel he now is working on is completed.

In addition to Mr. Jackson, three members of the Hartford A. A. told of their experiences in wrestling with the drinking problem and the resultant good that had come from their affiliation with the A. A.

Rev. James P. Timmins, pastor of St. Bridget's church spoke just prior to Mr. Jackson. He was introduced as a non-alcoholic who had taken a great interest in the work of the Hartford A. A. Father Timmins declared that an alcoholic could no more help being affected by alcohol than any person could help sneezing. He lauded the work that the A. A. was doing to help those addicted to alcoholism.

"When a man begins to fear the effects of liquor and begins to doubt his ability to take a drink I always tell him that then is the time to stop," Father Timmins declared. "No better advice can be given to him than to join an A. A. group. These men and women understand what liquor can do to a man, how low it can drive him into the depths and the remorse that he suffers."

"One member of the A. A. told me that he started a fight with his wife so that he could go over to the sidewalk and take a drink. He admitted that he was only seeking an excuse so that he could say that his wife was nagging and driving him to drink. That is the way with all alcoholics. They seek some sort of an excuse when they really should fight the desire to drink. The A. A. will help them in that fight."

A delegation of Manchester residents was in the audience to hear the speaker.

Biddle Accused In Firing Row

Investigated the surplus property and other war questions.

The two men, Biddle said, had long-standing personal differences which prevented harmonious handling of Justice department affairs. Corcoran's name was brought into the dispute in a section of the Little Memorial memorandum discussing a Justice department memorandum suit against the Savannah Shipyard company. Corcoran was interested in the case as an attorney.

It was learned that Little's report stated that both Biddle and his former assistant, James Rowe, repeatedly talked to him about reaching a settlement following conferences they had with Corcoran. Little's position was given as one of refusing to settle on any but the government's terms.

To Sing Here

Recently, Radio Tokyo made two other claims of successful landings on American-held Palau islands in the Caroline. One of these was acknowledged by American headquarters, but the latter was re-taken by Jap forces.

In describing the airplane raid on American surface forces at the Kaitake special attack corps with ten planes on Nov. 27 attacked enemy ships in Leyte Gulf and either sank or damaged ten of them.

"Sun" One battleship, three large cruisers and four transports, "damaged or set ablaze One battleship or large cruiser and one large transport."

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters reported that "suspected Japanese" had been doing.

Japanese imperial headquarters in reporting the Saipan raid—acknowledged in part by U. S. officials—said that "the Japanese units had staged two attacks on the Asiatic Theater in that country."

He carried to the United States in his early childhood and sang as a boy soprano in many of the most prominent churches in the country. He studied voice with Leon Renny, Oscar Saenger, Marcella Sembrich and with the great Giuseppe Campanari who advised Ricci to go abroad to acquire the authentic routine for an operatic career.

Ricci made his debut in Galluccio, Italy, in La Traviata. Engagements soon followed in the leading opera houses throughout Italy, as well as in Vienna, Paris, Berlin and elsewhere.

After four years of constant work, during which time he sang in the leading opera houses of the world, Ricci was offered a position as a member of the Metropolitan Opera Company. For the past few years he has confined himself to concert and church work.

Tells Difference In Grades of Eggs

Grade A eggs are best for eating sunny-side up, or as three-minute eggs cooked in the shell, but to make flapjacks, cakes, or holiday puddings, consumers find the most flavor and food value for the money in Grade B eggs, according to Fitch L. Brennan, district representative of the Office of Distribution of the War Food Administration.

Housewives today have been buying the top quality eggs as rapidly as they come to market, he points out, and have been using these grades for all uses. "I got my biggest bang when I came to word on my position," Freeman recalled. "I sort of warmed them up, but the easiest was a foolish Jap. He took a bath in a stream only a hundred yards away."

with us has been the full and frank way in which he has discussed the problems of the executive department," George said. "I hope he can continue to be as frank. It will be a great help to Congress in the approaching discussions of world peace."

Speakers on Successor
Stettinius's elevation to the No. 2 cabinet post set legislators speculating that President Roosevelt will fill the undersecretaryship from the ranks of active diplomats. George said he would not be surprised if the President asked either John G. Winant, ambassador to Great Britain, or W. Averell Harriman, ambassador to Russia, to take the post.

Mr. Roosevelt should decide to promote Adolf A. Berle, Jr., assistant secretary who has been attributed to Berle. Berle charged in return that Dewey had distorted his viewpoint.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, the Republican presidential nominee, criticized during the political campaign views on government ownership of industry which he attributed to Berle.

Age Canvass Nearing End

Those taking the old age enrollment in Iowa are finding it rather difficult this year because of inability to find members of the family at home when they call. This is due to the different hours of work. To date 13,588 names have been enrolled. It is expected that call books will add at least 2,500 to the number.

Last year 15,155 were enrolled, but the workers did not get all of the names at that time as there were 600 more who came in and paid their taxes who had not been called upon.

This year special effort is being made to get them all in so that the books when turned over to Tax Collector Samuel Nelson will be complete.

Somewhere in Belgium, Nov. 20—A German flying bomb struck and wrecked a U. S. Army general hospital well behind the battle lines several days ago, killing 12 persons, injuring nearly 50 and forcing evacuation of the hospital's 1,150 patients. It was disclosed today.

The bomb demolished the laboratory-pharmacy section of the hospital. The blast blew in the walls and demolished the roof of the remaining section of the building, making it unusable.

Fifteen nurses were sent to a rest area suffering from shock.

State to Get 26 Airports

Post-War Construction And Improvement Program Recommended.

Washington, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Congress will have 26 new airports if the billion dollar program for post-war airport construction and improvement recommended by the National Civilian Administration is approved.

Under the plan the new installations will be built at a recommended cost of $1,000,000. Also recommended was $4,707,000 for the improvement of 11 existing airports. No provision is made for 11 other existing airports.

The proposed construction and improvement, the CAA estimates, will cost $1,021,567,045 and include building 3,059 new airfields and improving 1,625 existing fields to accommodate an estimated 400,000 civilian aircraft within 10 years after the war ends. Now there are 25,000 such aircraft.

Cost Will Exceed Billion The proposed construction and improvement, the CAA estimates, will cost $1,021,567,045 and include building 3,059 new airfields and improving 1,625 existing fields to accommodate an estimated 400,000 civilian aircraft within 10 years after the war ends. Now there are 25,000 such aircraft.

It was recommended by CAA that the undertaking be financed by the Federal and state governments on a matching funds basis over a period of from five to 10 years, estimated time for completion of the project.

An immediate Federal appropriation of $300,000 was asked for surveys and preparatory work. The recommendations were contained in a report prepared in response to a House resolution sponsored by Chairman Ladd (D., Calif.) of the Interstate Commerce committee.

News Freedom Will Be Urged

Knight to Name Committee to Explain And Seek Support.

Washington, Nov. 28.—(AP)—John S. Knight, president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, said today he would name a committee to carry abroad the banner of universal freedom of information.

The committee's mission to foreign capitals is to explain and seek support for the society's campaign to create "all political, economic and military barriers, to freedom of world information."

The ASNE Board of Directors authorized the committee at a meeting here yesterday. Once overseas, it will visit and consult with representatives of government, press and radio in various world capitals. It will report back to the ASNE annual meeting to be held here December 19-21.

Knight is planning to put three prominent ASNE members on the committee. He is withholding their names until he has accepted a promise to "campaign until freedom of information becomes a living reality everywhere in the world."

Vital To Enduring Peace Such freedom, a policy statement said, is vital to enduring peace and is a "keynote to world law and order with justice based on the consent of the governed."

It invited "reciprocal declarations by the United States government and all other governments, press, radio and other media of information, embracing the right of the people to read and hear news without hindrance."

The society commented approvingly on statements emanating from the American and other governments on the importance of freedom of information. It urged that both the American administration and abroad, join in advancing this doctrine.

Scope of Program The program, the ASNE said, should cover: Recognition that a free ex-

Keith's Mark Wedding Date

Fiftieth Anniversary Is Quietly Observed by Family and Friends.

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Keith of Charter Oak street are quietly observing their 50th anniversary today. They were married on Thanksgiving Day of 1894, which fell on Nov. 29 that year. The late Rev. Julian S. Wadsworth, who was pastor of the South Methodist church of this town, 1884-1886, performed the ceremony. Mrs. Keith was the former Miss Annie Douglas, and her bridesmaid was Mrs. Lillian Davidson Tilden, of West Hartford, formerly a resident here. George E. Keith of Lewis street was best man for his brother.

Is Lay Preacher Mr. and Mrs. Keith have been identified with the South Methodist church since childhood. Mr. Keith has been a lay preacher of the church for 51 years, and a trustee for more than a quarter of a century. He is a Mason, and for 30 years was a justice of the peace in Manchester.

Have Two Daughters Mr. and Mrs. Keith have two daughters, Pfc. Gladys K. Gilmore who is with the Women's Army Corps at Fort Devens, Mass., and Estelle, Mrs. Robert C. Olson, of 13 Oak Grove street. The grandchildren are Lois and Robert Olson.

Last night a family dinner party was enjoyed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Keith, and Pfc. Gilmore was present, having been granted a short furlough for the occasion. The honor guests received appropriate gifts from members of the family, relatives and friends, and cards of congratulation from those who knew of the golden wedding.

Keeps Babies Comfortable And Protected From Hazards
Written for NEA Service.
The number of very young mothers and very young babies that are on the street and in every public place, is a matter of concern to all of us. The city of Manchester offers a few concrete suggestions about the plain, old-fashioned subject of "taking care" of babies. This simply means protecting them from minor hazards and keeping them comfortable.
The other day a young mother got on a street car with a baby who could not have been more than six weeks old. His tiny bare feet protruding from his little blue and white outfit, he was without protection of any kind. With his face upturned to the sun, he squirmed and wailed in protest, while his mother sat chatting with her companion, apparently in entire obliviousness of his discomfort.
Keep Feet Warm
The baby's eyes should always be protected from bright sunlight, whether indoors or outside. White socks and mittens, made of soft material, are a must. In hot weather, in the early morning and late afternoon he usually needs more clothing than in the middle of the day. His feet should be kept warm all the time. If they seem cold, put on a pair of stockings or booties, even though he is lightly dressed otherwise. The fussiness of a baby may often be traced to cold feet.
Always support the back and head of a small baby with the hand when you lift him because his muscles are not sufficiently well developed to support his head.
Because babies have an instinctive fear of falling, they should always be picked up carefully and held securely. Careless handling makes a nervous, unhappy baby.
Protect the baby from flies and mosquitoes with a netting when he is having the nap or is left outdoors for his exercise. His clothes should under him. Don't expect him to be too clean-shaven and happy with his clothes bunched up under his arms.

Household Goods
HEADQUARTERS for all types of new and used stoves, combination ranges, range heaters, oil burners and oil supplies, furnaces and furnace supplies. The largest supply of known used stores in town. Capitol Furniture and Heating Store, 36-38 Oak street, 5224. Open every evening.
MAPLE DENNITE set, occasional chairs, table, cruet, coffee table, maple rocker, bedroom suite, high chair, crib and various odd pieces. Telephone 5187, Austin Chambers Warehouse, Manchester Green. Open daily 1-5. Saturday 8-12. Livings Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 7:30-9.
