Much of Congress' Machinery Obsolete

Too Many Committees And Not Enough Paid Help Among Faults Seen at Present.

(Editor's Note: This is the second of two stories on the examination of Congress by Congress—to do a better job.)

By James Marlow

Washington, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Congress right now is like a hill-billy debating with himself outside a fashionable tailor shop. Should he dress like 1944 or keep on looking like 1887?

Congress' machinery squeals. Much of it is out of date. Much of it is top-heavy. It has too many committees. Much of it is inadequate reference service in the Library of Congress.

This service has a staff of 66, 44 of them receive less than $2,000 a year. The one expert on banking and currency, upon whose research Congress must depend, is paid $2,000 a year. The service's expert on the immense problem of foreign and domestic commerce gets $3,200 a year.

So, looking at Congress as a whole, Monroey says: "The legislative branch of some 2,000 members and employees can not properly supervise a government that today has almost three million civilian employees at work."

Congress now seems ready to appoint a 12-man committee of its own members to find ways of making itself run smoother, faster, better.

The committee was proposed—with strong backing inside and outside Congress—by Senator McNamara (D., Ohio), and Representative McNamara (D., Ohio).

Things Needing Fixing

Here are some of the things, as pointed out by Monroey, which need fixing:

To committees. There are too many. In the Senate, 33 standing committees and 10 special; in the House, 47 standing committees and five special.

Because some of them overlap, some of them could be combined or eliminated. In the House alone there are three committees on veterans pensions and four on elections.

In some very important spots Congress has far too little help. No major committee has legal counsel although 10,000 bills are introduced in every session.

Only Five Attorneys on Staff

Congress' main job is drafting, studying and passing laws. But the legislative drafting service has only five attorneys for the entire House membership of 435 and only three for the Senate's 96 members.

The total cost of this basic service is $85,000 yearly, a modest staff compared with the legal staffs of almost every government agency and department.

The House Appropriations com-

Party Is Held By Vets' Group

Woman's Auxiliary of British-American Post, Has Annual Social.

The Women's Auxiliary to the Manchester Post, British War Veterans, held a jolly Christmas party last night at the British War Relief Workmen in the clubhouse on Maple street. The program began with a pot luck supper for which arrangements were made by the president, Mrs. George Riley, the secretary, Mrs. John H. Kelish, Mrs. Joseph Gordy, Mrs. Richard J. Grisham, Mrs. E. H. Donnelly and Mrs. James McKee.

The membership in the auxiliary is confined to women whose fathers, brothers or husbands were veterans of World War I in France. Each one had the privilege of inviting a relative or other guest. Among them were members of other patriotic organizations.

Beautiful Christmas trees decorated by the committee with red carnations and poinsettias. A Christmas tree was at the head table beautifully decorated with ornaments and illuminated with colored bulbs. At each place were miniature, snow-covered fir trees. Every member provided a hot dish, a salad or dessert, and the variety and abundance of appetizing food delighted the guests.

Songs of World War I. Mrs. Kelish was program chairman and Mrs. McKee pianist for the evening. The members joined in the singing of songs of World War I. Gay Nineties and other songs were sung.

The president, Mrs. Riley, cordially welcomed the members and their guests and turned the meeting over to the program chairman, who called upon a number of the guests for speeches. Among them were two women who are national officers of their organizations, Mrs. Anne Parker who is national president of the Daughters of St. George and Mrs. Mary Chan, a lecturer of the Ladies International Orange Association. Mrs. Parker who has been heard of in the singing of songs of World War I. Gay Nineties and other songs were sung.

Program Chairman Kelish gave a resume of the happenings during the past year or since the auxiliary's last Christmas party. She called attention to the Gold Star mother in this year. Mrs. W. R. McKee, whose son, Sgt. Clifford McKee, lost his life in Germany last January. She later sang as a solo, "I'm Dreaming of a White Christmas," with Mrs. McKee at the piano, after which nearly all joined in a program of singing. The games, mostly English rounds such as "Limp the Limp" which calls for considerable motion and turning as well as singing: "The Jolly Miller," "Farmer in the Dell" and so on. The Virginia reel, without which no party is complete, and "Going to Jerusalem" round up this part of the program.

The guests present were presented with gifts, and the members drew them from a grab bag. They were unwrapped and admired, and the 144 party was over by eleven o'clock, everybody expressing their appreciation to the committee for a most enjoyable evening.

Plan Debate Upon Stand Of British

Count Carlo Sforza as Italian foreign minister. As for intervention in liberated countries gripped with political strife, such as Greece, Churchill already has pinned his case to the argument that disorder cannot be permitted to develop behind the lines. It is likely, too, that he will repeat Britain's pledge to support free elections in liberated lands as soon as conditions permit.

Russia still was silent on her position in the controversy. Sir Archibald Clark Kerr, British ambassador to the Soviet, left Moscow today for consultations here. There was some unofficial speculation that the Soviet Union may have resulted from agreements reached at the Moscow conference between Marshal Stalin and Churchill on separate spheres of influence in Europe.

The labor party's administrative committee designated Arthur Greenwood to present its case in Commons tomorrow. He probably will center on use of British Tommys to halt demonstrations in Greece.

The diplomatic correspondent of the Daily Mail said that it was difficult to imagine how the British government could allow criticism expressed in the State department, "to pass without making representations to the United States."

Russians and units of Marshal Tito's partisans fighting through southern Yugoslavia captured the highway and rail junction of Belgrade, 100 miles northwest of Belgrade, as well as 14 other places in the same area. The Soviet communiqué said:

They were exploring and our battered troops had been driven out of a major naval air or amphibious war. Night Have Been Disasters. Had the fleet steamed out of Pearl Harbor, Dec. 7, the result might well have been a different story. As measured by present-day standards, every man-of-war was woefully inadequate. While visiting the U. S. fleet's flagship, before Pearl Harbor, the commander-in-chief pointed out a small battery of 1.1 anti-aircraft guns.

"There, Buns, is the answer to the airplane," he said. "I think the ship had two such batteries of four barrels each. Today, three years later, they are obsolete. Most of them more than 100 much heavier anti-aircraft rifles."

Our Atlantic fleet, which took on the full brunt of the Japanese Navy after the attack on Pearl Harbor, was a far different force. Our carrier tactics were not far behind our old ones. In a long train, her finger-tips veil of Union was attached to the front of the fleet. Her bridge was a floating island of steel and brass. Her hull was a floating island of steel and brass.

In addition to her husband she leaves her mother, Mrs. Mary L. Beaulieu, of Methuen, Mass., a brother, Mr. Leonard Beaulieu, of Manchester, and a sister, Mrs. S. S. Beaulieu, of Manchester. The funeral will be held at the T. P. Holleran Funeral Home, 175 Center street, at 8:30 Saturday afternoon and at nine o'clock at St. James's church. Williams of St. Mary's Episcopal church will officiate.

capture Kunning, 100 miles west of Kweichow-Szechwan border. It probably is intended to support the Japanese thrust to the Burma road supply line already presented by a drive up the Yunnan river valley. Now that the Japanese are moving simultaneously toward Kunning and Kweichow through the Burma road supply line of Chungking, the Japanese are preparing to strike from the north toward the area of Chengtu, 100 miles northwest of Chungking. This would bring into play a long standing master plan to crush China.

The Army and Navy club auxiliary will hold its Christmas party Monday evening, Dec. 18 at the Army and Navy clubhouse. Mrs. Irene Pashaw, dial 2750, is receiving reservations, and the deadline will be Thursday, December 14.

John Durand of Church street has left the employ of the Pinehurst Grocery to engage in another kind of work.

All members of Emanuel Lutheran church planning to attend the Harvest supper, being served at the church on Saturday, at 6 o'clock by the Ladies Aid, must bring a contribution to the fund to Kunning, 300 miles distant.

Meanwhile it appeared another Japanese column was moving toward Kunning, 100 miles north of the city. The Japanese had captured the town was captured Dec. 2.

An American communiqué reported 14th Air Force reconnaissance planes in the Posh area, in western Kweichow province, on the northwest of Nanning on the Yu river. It was not clear whether the 225 miles from Kunning, was in Japanese hands, but it appeared that if the Japanese had not already occupied the city they would be close to it.

The annual meeting and election of officers of T. Dilworth-Cornell Post, American Legion Drum Corps, will be held at the Legion tomorrow night. A chicken supper will be served at 7:30.

Byrnes Moves To Get Arms Up to Fronts

fighting committee called WPA to get arms up to the front. Krug went armed with the special report on arms shortage and proposed remedies, which was prepared by his right-hand man, Vice Chairman H. G. Batcheller. Besides the employment ceiling, the Batcheller study was reported to call for individual, on-the-spot attention for each lagging plant, given by "practical" production men sent in by the government.

See Impulse With Progress. Some saw in Byrnes' appointment of an army man as his deputy director an indication of impatience with progress thus far. General Clay will be assisted by Fred Sealie, mining engineer and former War Production board official.

To advise him on manpower problems and utilization, Byrnes picked William Haber, who has been assistant executive director of the War Manpower commission. "It is the immediate purpose of this organization," Byrnes asserted, "to coordinate problems of manpower supply, production, and transportation to assure a maximum flow of needed munitions from the factory assembly line to the front line as long as may be necessary to bring about final victory."

Not Neglected Entirely. While subordinating reconversion plans, Byrnes did not neglect them entirely. He announced the formation of the Community Credit corporation and 30-year veteran in the Agriculture department, was joining the Byrnes office as deputy director to chart for agriculture the shift from war to peace.

He disclosed, too, that President Roosevelt had designated Forman G. O. Max Gardner of North Carolina chairman of the War Mobilization and Recovery Administration board. This board is to pass the policy suggestions of Byrnes. It will hold its first meeting Monday.
