Key Prosecution Witness

Baldassarre was the prosecution's key witness in efforts to label Homma a war criminal for atrocities committed by his men during forced marches of 60 to 120 kilometers made by 10,000 Americans and 74,800 Filipinos after they surrendered on Bataan.

Other witnesses testified that Japanese violated surrender terms under which they agreed to furnish transportation for their prisoners. They said Japanese guards looted the prisoners of belongings and exposed them to the hot sun; denied them food, water and medicine; and ruthlessly slew all whose strength was unequal to the long march, even burying some men alive.

Lieut. Col. W. H. Waterous, longtime Manila resident and Bataan medical officer, said 2,000 Filipino patients from Bataan hospital including men whose limbs recently had been amputated, were forced to join the death march. He said many others with bullet wounds were forced on the horror track.

A deposition of Maj. Dick Cordell, Cave City, Ky., said he saw one Japanese officer behind another Filipino family of eight, including five children, because they ran in front of him on a trail. The Japanese held one infant by the heel while he lopped off his head, Cordell charged.

Staff Sgt. Thomas H. Bogie, Atlantic City, N. J., testified that 200 Filipinos flying a white flag were killed when the Japanese bombed Mariveles air strip three hours after Bataan surrendered.

Hence some government officials have predicted privately that President Truman will recommend that Congress extend authority for the subsidy program until the end of 1946.

however, managed to see Marshall. Asked if he still was hopeful, the president replied "Oh, yes" and replied "No" when correspondents inquired if unforeseen differences had arisen.

No Truce Before Conference

Marshall indicated there could be no truce before the political consultation conference opens tomorrow as the committee has not finished its business.

He crisply declined comment on several other questions, including one on whether United States forces would be employed to supervise any truce arrangements.

Inability of the committee to work out details of the truce before tomorrow's conference produced widespread disappointment.

Despite Chang's statement that prospects were not bad and Marshall's acknowledgment that he still is hopeful, misgivings had been aroused that the committee might be finding its problems almost insuperable.

In the past three days, the committee has held four lengthy meetings in which it was in session at least once a day.

Charges Government Blasted Truce Hopes

Yemen, Jan. 8.—(AP)—A Communist spokesman today charged that the government has blasted hopes of an immediate cease fire order in China and Jehol provinces by accepting them from general armistice terms.

The armistice talks in Chungking, in which General Marshall has acted as mediator, bogged down over this point, the spokesman said. The Communist representative on the Chungking truce committee, Gen. Chou En-Lai, has been instructed not to record an inch from the party's demand that the civil war be brought to an unconditional stop "in all parts of China without exception."

The government says does not wish to lay down arms in these two citadel northern provinces because it wishes to install its own administrative machinery in the provincial framework. Both provincial governments are completely under Communist influence.

Chang and Jehol are governed by provincial councils popularly elected two months ago. The Communists will not consent to replacing this "democratic" government with one of "Chinese bureaucrats" the spokesman declared.

Service men ask questions now that Jan. 15 and March 15 deadlines are approaching

By James Marlow

Washington, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Veterans and service men are asking questions now that the Jan. 15 and March 15 tax deadlines are approaching. Here are points to remember.

They won't have to do anything about Jan. 15 unless they had taxable civilian income in 1945 from which no tax was withheld or unless they were making quarterly tax payments on that civilian income. Final payment is due Jan. 15.

On March 15 all civilian veterans or service men who had taxable civilian income in 1945 will have to make a final tax return, even though full tax was withheld from it during the year.

If you have doubts about taxes, or what you should do or how to do it, see your nearest internal revenue collector. There's one in your district.

Tax on Service Pay

The rest of this story deals with tax on service pay.

There's no Federal tax on unearned out pay, pensions, disability retirement pay, gratuity pay, war risk insurance proceeds, or on veterans' allowances for education or vocational rehabilitation.

An enlisted man, or one who was an enlisted man, does not have to file an application with the collector of internal revenue for his district.

Gets Double Catch

Hindale, N. H.—(AP)—This fish story is told by John Royce, warden of Pisgah pond one of his flags over, indicating a fish was on the line. He hauled in a 15-inch pickerel and hanging onto its tail been taken for the war. He later fished for the war, he said.

Entitled to Refund

But suppose that sometime between Jan. 1, 1941, and now, an enlisted man has paid a Federal tax on his active service pay, is he entitled to a refund? Yes. He should file a claim with the collector of internal revenue in his district.

But suppose an enlisted man had other income besides his service pay any time during those years. Does he have to file a return or pay a tax? Yes, if it amounted to enough to be taxable.

His total non-service income would have to be $200 or more before he'd have to report it or pay a tax on it for 1944 or subsequent years.

For non-service income during

Should Serve Turkey More

Pressing Problem for Grover to Convince Public of Economy

Hartford, Jan. 8.—(AP)—One of the most pressing reconversion problems of the turkey grower, aside from high feed costs and the relative scarcity of competent labor, "is to convince the buying public that the traditional Thanksgiving bird is an economical article of provender, and should more frequently appear on home menus."

This is the opinion expressed today by L. R. Herzhatter of West Haven, member of the marketing committee of the Northeastern Poultry Producers organization who is scheduled to address the opening meeting here tomorrow of the Connecticut Poultry growers association.

Costs Less Than Chicken

Herzhatter, president of the Connecticut organization, Herzhatter asserted in an interview here today that a portion of roast turkey actually costs one-fourth less than a serving of broiled or fried chicken, 43 per cent less than lamb chops and 17 per cent less than a serving of roast beef.

"The war," said Herzhatter, "produced a growing demand for smaller birds for the small family. And an effort was made to sell half a large turkey to those who wanted a whole small one."

"Many buyers demurred and he bought a large one inside," he said, "unaware that half a 30 pound turkey has more meat on it than a whole 15-pounder."

Manages To Keep Busy

Meeker, Okla.—(AP)—A. L. Marak designed as city marshal, night watchman and water superintendent to devote more time to his other work. Marak is an electrician, does plumbing and tinning and serves as pressman and emergency typewriter for the Meeker Herald. In his "spare" time he helps out as waiter in a cafe operated by his wife.

Urges Continuance Of Curbs on Prices

State Federation of Labor Head Asserts Menace of Inflation "Greater Than Ever"

Waterbury, Jan. 9.—(AP)—The state federation of labor today urged the continuance of OPA controls "until supply and demand are in balance."

Dr. Collins in his annual report prepared for delivery at the 60th annual convention of the Federation here, urged however that if and when price ceilings are lifted, the OPA be required to take into account increasing wages of union trades workers who, he said, are entitled to "raise at least commensurate with the increase in cost of living."

Urges Support for Bowles

The organization he said, should throw its full support behind OPA Chief Chester Bowles in his "gallant fight" to prevent price from spiraling upward out of the reach of the working people and "against the tremendous pressure of greedy business men and their supporters in Congress."

The president advocated the establishment of price ceilings, not existing houses, asserting that a "mercy game" is going on with money changing hands at outrageous prices while real estate speculation and speculation are "having a field day."

Asserting that most workers since the war are living on "deficit pay," Collins charged that the unwillingness of corporation executives to "margin collectively in good faith" was responsible for the unrest which he said prevailed in some industries. The labor home pay of most workers, he said, is below the budgetary needs of their families, and because, unlike their employers, they have no "carryback" tax provisions to fall back upon, they must make up their deficits by eating up their savings.

Industry, he asserted, "certainly will never submit to the intolerable conditions of the past. It asks only, he said, for "economic justice" for the cards to be placed face up on the conference table for mutual agreement may be reached advantageous to industry, labor and the community.

Collins cited as the most outstanding accomplishment for the last session of the General Assembly by the passage of the state labor relations act. Other measures the federation "worked for" failed of passage, he said, because of "hostility of the State Management Association and other business groups including the Hartford Chamber of Commerce."

Can Afford "Adequate Wage"

Highly productive Connecticut industries, he said, can afford "not only to pay adequate wages" but should not stand in the path of such measures as a 65 cent an hour minimum wage, a lowered maximum work week for women and minors; further liberalization

Driver Passing Through Town Turns in the Alarm From Box 37

An alarm from Box 37, Center street, opposite Newman street, at 5:45 this morning, called out the hook and ladder and pumper from No. 1 and No. 24 pumper for a fire in a truck owned by the Consolidated Trucking Company, Hartford, loaded with mixed freight from Jewett City en route to Hartford.

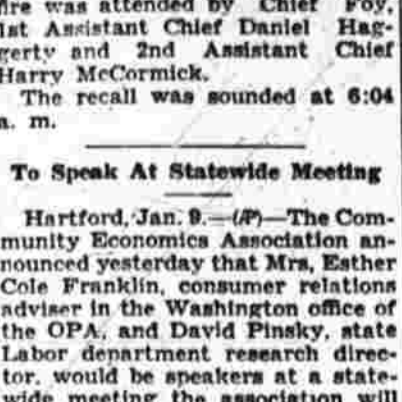

The driver noticed the fire in the battery box under the seat while coming down the hill and when he reached a point between Edgerton street and the underpass, he succeeded in stopping the truck. The driver ran back and turned in a box alarm. The fire was quickly extinguished and the wiring was destroyed and a new cab had to be sent from Hartford to replace the one destroyed.

It was noticeable this morning that there were few "watchers" with less than six cars in the vicinity of the fire. In addition to the three pieces of apparatus, the fire was attended by Chief Foy, 1st Assistant Chief Daniel Hartley and 2nd Assistant Chief Harry McCormick. The recall was sounded at 6:04 a. m.

Loses His Right Hand In Wood Mill Planer

Harlowe G. Willis Is Victim of Accident Late Yesterday; Condition Reported Fair

Hartford, G. Willis, 23 son of Mrs. Doris G. Willis and the late Harlowe W. Willis of 84 Henry street, lost his right hand in the worst late yesterday afternoon when his gloved hand was caught in a board planer at the wood-working mill of the G. E. Willis & Son Co., 2 Main street, mangle his right hand to the wrist.

Willis was working in the mill owned by his grandfather, Gilbert E. Willis, owner of the coal and lumber company bearing his name, and in some manner his glove caught in the planer, drawing his hand into the knives. Employees of the company working with Willis shut off the power and called for aid. Dr. C. Y. Moore was rushed to the mill and spent a half hour cutting Willis' hand loose from the planer.

Arm Is Freed

Due to his Naval training, young Willis had previously applied pressure to the arteries in his arm, while Dr. Moore succeeded in freeing his arm from the planer blades. He was rushed to the Memorial hospital in Quinsigamond, where he was successfully treated. The victim of the mishap was wearing white cotton gloves. As one piece of lumber was being put through the planer young Willis reached over to brush wood chips gathered near the planer blades. The loose wrist part of the glove was caught in the roller that leads the lumber into the machine. The right hand was quickly drawn into the planer blades.

Henry Massey was standing in back of the planer and when he saw what was happening he quickly threw off the switch to the machine. Massey, incidentally, is a recently discharged service man, and proved keen and alert in stopping the planer.

Blow Operations

Despite the extreme pain he was suffering young Willis directed rescue operations. With his left hand he whipped off his leather trouser belt and instructed how it be used on his right arm as a tourniquet to stop the flow of blood. Dr. Moore worked for some time, meantime and quickly arrived at the scene.

The hand was caught in the planer in such a way that it was impossible to move any of the machine parts. Dr. Moore saw immediately that it would be necessary to cut the arm free. He gave a Caesarian operation here, formed last night at Norton General hospital on Mrs. Viola May Matthews Brickey, 25-year-old wife of a coal miner. The child was born dead.

The operation was performed by Dr. C. L. Karmahner after Ernest Brickey, father of the child, brought his wife to the hospital. According to physicians and Press Atkins, editor of The Coalfield Progress who saw the child, it had a dual body from the hips up, with two chests, two hearts and four arms.

One peculiar aspect of the formation was a bone protrusion from the back, described by Atkins as a stumpy, an inch in diameter and about two and one-half inches long, tapering off to a reasonable sharp point. The doctor defined the formation as a "rudimentary spine."

The heads were normal and the child's arms, hands and other features were regular, Atkins said. The condition of Mrs. Brickey was serious. The mother of five healthy children, she had a normal gestation with the child born last night, the father said. A small, somewhat plump woman, she noted nothing unusual in carrying the infant, the father said.

Brickey is an employee of the Wise Coal & Coke Company of Dorchester.

His father, Harlowe W. Willis, who served in the U. S. Navy during World War I died of a heart attack on May 28, 1937 while dining in a Hartford restaurant.

About two-fifths of the tin used in plate-stamping is recalled in steel coated with a film of tin.

The announcement was made by Union President Paul E. Boyce in a prepared statement issued by the committee after nearly 24 hours of conference which began yesterday.

Company President Alton F. Brooks in a prepared statement said: "The present disagreement in the Western Electric Company does not involve the Connecticut Union of Telephone Workers and this company."

"This action of the Connecticut Union of Telephone Workers recognizes both management and union to maintain continuous dependable telephone service."

Connecticut's telephone workers will not observe the picket line of the National Association of Communication Equipment Workers or of the Western Electric Employees Association because the two unions involved have not followed the wage policy established at the president's conference of the National Federation of Telephone Workers held at Milwaukee, Wis., the union statement said.

The Connecticut Union of Telephone Workers Executive Board's statement continues, "in the firm opinion that the wage policy as mutually agreed to by the presidents of the Wisconsin conference is the proper action to be followed and changes in this policy cannot be upheld by the Connecticut Union of Telephone Workers."

Compromise in the Balkans
 Among the diplomatic recognitions of our government for the Balkans, the one that is most readily issued or is soon to issue, that is to Austria has cleared justification. That is so because we were able to observe the elections in which the present government was selected, and because the results of those elections were demonstrably free. It is an Austro-German government which is recognizing a government which has not resorted to suppression of its own opposition.

We admitted, when we recognized the regime of Marshal Tito in Yugoslavia, that there was no comparable democratic freedom in Yugoslavia, which is why we have not recognized that government. We are maintaining and augmenting that strength by high-handed, totalitarian-style suppression of its opposition.

We seem likely to compromise our own ideas of democracy when, in accordance with the Moscow agreement, we give formal recognition to the existing regimes in Rumania and Bulgaria. In Rumania, by the Moscow Agreement, the existing government is to be "broadened" by the inclusion of two new members representing opposition parties, and the new government resulting from this process is obligated to proclaim free elections, as well as guarantee freedom of press and speech and assembly.

The inclusion of two members in the Rumanian government is now taking place. But when it comes to free elections, or to guarantees of freedom of press and speech, the Rumanian government is less certain. In Rumania, we are up against the Rumanian concept of freedom, which is that to be sure, all those who agree perfectly with the existing state of affairs are free to write and speak.

In Bulgaria, elections, which we could not concede to be democratic, have already been held, and the government representing the Moscow influence is now in progress of being formed. We agreed, at Moscow, to recognize this government if it were broadened by the inclusion of two additional members from opposition democratic groups. At the moment, the situation is deadlocked because these opposition groups are demanding that the Ministers of Interior and Justice, the key posts through which the Communists now dominate the political life of the country, be made to yield to them. Since the Moscow Agreement provided that it should be Russia who gives Bulgaria advice on how to broaden its government, it would be surprising if the opposition groups gain exactly what they are seeking. Nevertheless, the existing government has already, in response to the Moscow Agreement, agreed that future elections shall be conducted on a free basis.

In each of these instances except that of Austria, therefore, where Communist attempts at domination were defeated by the people in a free election, our recognition involves a compromise of American principles. In return, there is to be a compromise of Russian policy, a compromise which gives democratic procedure an opening, through which it may, depending upon the strength of its native adherents, make progress in the future.

The pattern of settlement in the Balkans is not, therefore, anything approaching perfection. Neither is it without hope, however, incidentally, than this unhappy region has ever had before.

Phone Installers Out on Strike

The CIO's drive for 30 per cent wage raise has been held up by the strike of 700 AFL Pattern Makers at 14 Detroit plants which ended today. They accepted the Federal Conciliation Commission proposal of $2.25 hourly minimum wage and relinquished the contract canceled by the strike.

Ernest Weaver, president of the Independent Association of Communications Equipment Workers, said picket lines, which he said other independent telephone unions have promised to respect, would be established later around major telephone exchanges.

Walter Wren, secretary of the National Telephone Workers' Union, said the strike would mean sympathy strikes. This would mean, he said, the sympathy strike of 250,000 workers in the telephone industry. National Federation of Telephone Workers, some 100,000 members of the Western Electric Employees Association, an affiliate, have been on strike in New York and New Jersey for the last week.

Wren said the strike would cause "100 per cent breakdown of toll telephone service" and disruption of dial service within a week or 10 days.

Following a meeting of members was scheduled in the independent union's local in Chicago, San Francisco, St. Louis, Cleveland, Detroit, Minneapolis, Albany, Atlanta, Denver, New York, and Washington, D. C., the north Pacific and Philadelphia, New York members, Weaver said, would strike later today. The union, which is making a wage increase, said it had offered "modification," which was not further identified.

As the strike of Western Union employees continued, CIO officials said there was a possibility that 600,000 members of 300 CIO locals in greater New York may be called upon to support the walkout. The work stoppage, which was called by the union, would be a "solidarity" strike.

Non-union members worked in 25 branches in the city and incoming telegrams were relayed by telephone to addresses. A system of priority for incoming telegrams, based on a wartime list, was established by the company.

Trying To Prevent Walkouts
 Elsewhere along the labor front, efforts continued by the government to prevent walkouts. Officials to halt the nation-wide strikes scheduled next week in the steel and meat-packing industries, which would add more than a million workdays to the nation's labor shortage because of labor disputes.

In Washington, President Truman said a price increase in steel probably will be granted, but he would not speculate on whether it would prevent the scheduled walkout next Monday of 800,000 CIO United Steelworkers.

Obituary
 Is on Increase

Tickets for the Victory Dinner in honor of Manchester High's state and New England cross-country championship team have been going at a fast rate during the past week and indications point to a banner crowd.

The sale during the first two weeks was slow but returns now indicate a large crowd will be in attendance for the first independently sponsored banquet for a cross-country team in the history of sports at Manchester High.

The American Legion, Dillworth-Cornell Post 102, is behind the drive and an attractive program has been arranged. Speakers will include Joe McCluskey and Lynn Pogue. It is possible that J. O. Christian of the University of Connecticut will be on hand.

Two Janitors Held in Death Of Little Girl

Also in the murder room, police said they found a hack saw which they said probably was the instrument used by the killer in disassembling the body of the blonde, blue-eyed Suzanne, daughter of James E. Degan, 58, an Office of Price Administration official. Dr. Henry Kearns, coroner's physician, however, disagreed. He said a sharper instrument had been used. Hanrahan asserted that samples of writing by the father of the girl disclosed similarities in some letters printed and written by the ransom note which was left in the child's bedroom after she was stolen during the early morning hours Monday.

No Record As Criminal
 The 42 year old janitor, police said, has no record as a criminal and has been employed in the apartment buildings in the Edgingwater district for more than 15 years. He is married and has two tenants in buildings he rented as a janitor. He is the father of two married daughters, and step-father of four sons and daughters. The prosecution, turning next to the Army high command, began the presentation of evidence against Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel and Col. Gen. Alfred Jodl. Secret Nazi documents were introduced to show that the high command in 1938 adopted the premise that a declaration of war was unnecessary to start hostilities and that the rights of neutral nations should be considered only in the event of a standstill of advantage to combatant powers.

Higher Steel Price Jump Now Likely

...today on reports of the contemplated 44 increase. From Secretary Charles G. Ross said he doubted whether there would be an announcement of price increases to new conference steelmen, Ross said he had no idea what the steel situation would be made.

The new telephone workers strike started before the scheduled hour of 11 a. m. The union is a sister one to the striking Western Electric Employees association, also an independent.

With steel, meat packing and electrical manufacturing strikes listed for next week, this new steel price jump would further complicate the situation into the troubled labor situation.

Administration policy regarding labor disputes affecting public utilities has been indicated in a statement issued during the past few days since the reconstruction period began.

When President Truman first proposed fact-finding to settle industrial strikes on January 10, he officially listed "utilities and communication" along with steel and automobiles as enterprises which it should apply.

The only outstanding case that brought administration action thus far was the strike which halted the trucking industry in Washington last November.

When Mr. Truman ordered government seizure of the Federal government, declaring the Federal government would not permit such a disruption of public utilities, the order was issued to the Federal Government with its processes either in the courts or in the streets.

However, in this case the president said the union had violated its formal agreement with the company.

As the telephone threat developed, the president's steel fact-finding board appeared ready to set the strike for its public hearing. The board has been making time for two days in the hope of averting the nationwide strike of CIO steelworkers set for next Monday.

Mr. Truman spoke yesterday of pending steel price increases, but he gave no details.

He said that the United States could block any such move and, anyway, the Senate would have to approve any international agreement of the United States signed.

Persons close to Vandenberg said this went a long way toward meeting his objections. They said the Michigan senator's present position appeared to be only that this assurance should be formally stated by the British and Russian governments.
