Rescue Crews Chance Danger

Coal Miners Continue to Bring Out Bodies; Safety Threats Mount

Centralia, Ill., March 28.—(AP)—Rescue workers, changing injury and possible death themselves, found the bodies of 11 more dead in the Centralia coal company's Mine No. 5 today and the toll of Tuesday's explosion advanced toward the predicted 111.

Exploration of the long subterranean corridors was expected to be completed today but no one save inkling clinging desperately to their hopes believed a single survivor would be found in the debris.

Several hours were expected to elapse before the 11 bodies found today could be moved to the shaft and brought to the surface for identification. Meanwhile, 18 of the 22 corpses removed last night and early today were identified.

The new find placed at 78 the number of known dead, 53 of whom have been identified and brought to the surface. Of the remainder of 142 men in the mine at the time of the blast 23 remained unaccounted for and 21 were rescued.

Bodies badly buried. The latest bodies found in the mine were so badly buried and buried that a rescue leader said identification might be difficult. He said condition of the bodies included rescue workers were near the scene of the explosion. Falling chunks of coal, smashed timbers and damaged mine equipment hindered the work of the rescue crews. Composed mostly of Italian-Americans, the crews are stationed throughout the coal field region in southern Illinois for emergencies such as this one, and for routine assistance and inspection work.

One rescue worker echoed the feelings of others when he commented "It's getting dangerous for us down here—it's getting so tremely bad."

Red Soldiers Not Leaving

(Continued from Page One) them he had definite information that a considerable number of Koreans were fighting in the Communist army along the Manchurian-Korean border.

In rugged northwest China, mountain troops pressed into northern Shensi and northern Shensi provinces from three directions, seeking to close the kill before the beaten defenders of Yenan consolidated.

From the northeast, Gen. Fu Tso-Yi's troops struck out from the Shensi province rail junction, city of Taining to take Yugu, 25 miles west of Tsoyuan, already in Nationalist hands.

Another prong, reported to have captured a town 14 miles south of Taining, was expected to make a junction soon with troops of Governor Yen Hsi-shan, Shensi warlord.

The conquest of Yenan, long the capital city of Chinese Communism, pressed up from the south. They were reported 50 miles north of Yenan.

From Mingxia province, to the northwest, government troops were attempting to complete near-encirclement of Red forces.

Bigler took no definite stand on the measure in a prepared statement. But, he said, Communism presents a "serious menace" to America and he has been fighting its evil influences since they took office. He added there are "upwards of 15,000 Communists in Michigan."

Rep. J. Parnell Thomas (R., N. J.) said today the House committee on un-American activities which he heads will press "a probe of Hollywood."

But Rep. Nixon (R., Calif.), a committee member, suggested to reporters: "There are more important places to direct our immediate fire—first, the government, and second, labor unions."

"Those are the two spots that are extremely important, so far as the defense of the country is concerned."

Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association, testified to the committee yesterday that there are Communists in the movie capital.

"But if the Communists set out to capture Hollywood," he declared, "they have suffered an overwhelming defeat."

Johnston said the movie industry is trying to set its own house in order. But he opposed the idea of tossing out actors and writers merely because they are Communists.

"If they are performing a conspiratorial act, yes," Johnston said, "but in this country we prosecute, not persecute."

Johnston also opposed bills before the committee to outlaw the Communist party. Like several other witnesses, he proposed instead pitiless exposure of Communists and prosecuting them to the limit for any illegal acts.

"It doesn't any indication of what we might expect out there," Thomas told newsmen, "then I certainly think we should go into the probe of Hollywood."

The chairman announced at the beginning of this congressional session that the committee intends to explore Communism in the movie center. He said "nothing has happened that has influenced the committee to get away" from that.

"Frankly," Thomas said, "I was disappointed in Johnston's whole testimony."

Bowers, Yules Are Approved

House Votes Resolutions On Local Court; Senate Action Next

The House of Representatives yesterday voted re-appointment to Judge Raymond R. Bowers and Deputy Judge Herman Yules of the Manchester Town Court. Senate approval is expected shortly.

Judge Bowers has presided over the town court since his original appointment in 1939. He had previously served in 1932 as assistant prosecutor.

Deputy Judge Yules served as assistant prosecutor prior to leaving for service in the army and has been in his present position for the past two years.

Both officials, local attorneys, have practiced law here for many years past.

It is expected that the town court setup on requests check, and other aides will remain the same during the coming term.

Germans Riot; Stone British

50,000 in Dueseldorf Demonstrate Over Food Shortages

Dueseldorf, Germany, March 28.—(AP)—Germans in a crowd of about 50,000 rioted in the city today in a two-hour demonstration over food shortages. It was the most violent manifestation of unrest in the Ruhr since the occupation began, and the biggest rally since Hitler's death.

Two military cars were overturned and one was thrown in a park lake; another, carrying British and American correspondents, was stoned by demonstrators; windows in the three British buildings were smashed.

Traffic was paralyzed as the high crowd in the center of the city, listening to speeches by trade union leaders, British public safety officials said police reinforcements were standing by, but had been kept hidden from the view of the demonstrators. Police had advised Allied vehicles to leave the area during the demonstration.

Dispersed at Noon The crowd dispersed at noon, some marching away in columns, others streaming down the streets like a football crowd going home.

British officials say the 1,500-color ration scale has not been met for the past few weeks, and that some places received only 800 calories daily.

Workers abandoned factories, shops and offices to parade to the park, carrying banners with such slogans as "We Are Hungry," "Don't Let Our Children Starve," and "We Want Bread."

Some banners called for the resignation of Schlegel Schoenberg, German food chief in the British zone of occupation.

Two British youths were shot (jeeps), khaki-painted and bearing military insignia, were upset by the crowd and left with wounds in the air. A military staff car carrying a uniformed correspondent was stoned twice, but no one was injured.

Seemed Organized The whole demonstration had earmarks of systematic organization and British officials said it was political, but declined to name the party they believed responsible. German sources said Communist leaders were responsible for the demonstration, but said trade unionists did the detailed organizing work.

Virtually all but essential activities ceased in this Ruhrland capital, which has a population of half a million persons. Prominent among the demonstrators were uniformed transport employees who marched in solid ranks hundreds strong.

Trade union leaders addressed the crowd, milling under the trees in the park, through loudspeakers. All roads leading into the park were blocked by persons whose

Joseph M. Merrow Claimed by Death

Hartford, March 28.—(AP)—Joseph M. Merrow, 98, who once held a postmastership under appointment by President Abraham Lincoln, died at his home here yesterday after a short illness.

President of the Merrow Machine Company since 1888, Merrow, who held more than 100 patents, was the oldest active manufacturer in Connecticut, if not in the United States.

He was a boy of 15 when President Lincoln named him postmaster in the village of Merrow, named for his family, in the town of Mansfield. The post office was in his father's country store, where young Merrow also served as a pharmacist and was entrusted, despite his youth, with the task of compounding prescriptions. The family's main business, however, was the manufacturing of cotton knit goods. The business changed to the manufacturing of brocket sewing machines after the cotton mill burned in 1884, and from this after transfers from Mansfield to Norwich and then to Hartford, grew the Merrow Machine company which makes industrial sewing machines sold throughout the world.

Merrow had many interests outside of manufacturing. He was the chief holder of a hunting and fishing license in Connecticut, he had traveled widely, mastered the French language at the age of 30, composed poems and essays and was an amateur violin maker.

Merrow, who never married, leaves four nephews and three nieces.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at his home, and burial will be at Stone, another community in Mansfield.

100 Veterans' Families To Start Town in Alaska

—Washington, March 28.—(AP)—The state of Alaska is planning to settle 100 veterans and their families in a new town in the state.

The Alaska Cooperative company bought for $100,000 the town site values at $1,000,000, and expects 100 families to install themselves there by early summer.

Chilkoot is an army post since 1898, consists of 70 buildings—most of them barracks—and water, sewerage and electric power systems. The town is situated on a peninsula of the same name, and is one of the most beautiful in the state.

They will start out on their separate ventures. The fishing and hunting in that part of Alaska is wonderful, and we are counting upon tourists—and that includes seasonal laborers on their way to and from their Alaskan jobs—as our No. 1 source of revenue.

"We hope this will be only the beginning of a new era in the development of Alaska," said Mr. Homer. "We are planning to help Alaska develop its tremendous resources."

Cooperative members who already have moved to Chilkoot, Homer said, include: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kurnat, Fairfield, Conn.

Johnny Evers Passes Away

Immortal Chicago Cubs Infielder Dies After Suffering Hemorrhage

Alhany, N. Y., March 28.—(AP)—John J. (Johnny) Evers, middle-aged baseball's immortal Tinker-to-Evers-to-Luce double play combination, died today at the age of 65.

The one-time National League star, known in his playing days with the Chicago Cubs as "the crab" and "the Trojan," suffered a cerebral hemorrhage Tuesday and was rushed to St. Peter's hospital. He died in the hospital at 9:25 a. m. (e.s.t.).

Evers suffered a stroke in August 1942 and had been partially paralyzed since. He had been in poor health since the stroke and had been bed-ridden much of the time. Nevertheless, he occasionally had been taken on automobile rides and had witnessed local baseball games during recent years.

The luten-jeweled second baseman who never weighed more than 130 pounds during his playing career, performed for the Cubs from 1902 to 1913. During this playing career, he was a member of the famous trio in shortstop Joe Tinker, who lives in Orlando, Fla. First baseman Frank Chance died in 1924.

On April 23 of last year, Evers was named to Baseball's Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N. Y., on a list of 11 old-time players which also included Tinker and Chance.

Known as one of the quickest-thinking players in the major leagues, Evers gained early recognition through his alertness in the famous play in which the New York Giants first baseman, Fred Merkle "forgot" to touch second base. The play occurred in 1908, during one of the hottest races in National League history with the Giants and Cubs battling for the pennant.

With the score tied 1 to 1 in the last half of the ninth inning, at New York, Sept. 23, the Giants had Moose McCormick on third base and Merkle on first, with two out. Al Bridwell singled to the outfield and McCormick crossed the plate with what appeared to be the winning run.

The crowd poured on the field and Merkle, after starting toward second, veered to the clubhouse without touching the base when he saw McCormick cross the plate.

Evers yelled for the ball to force Giants and hometown fans tried to intercept it, but after a wild scuffle Tinker and a Cub rookie, Floyd Krob, retrieved the ball. It was thrown to Evers at second and Merkle was declared forced out by Empire Bank O'Day. The run did not count and the game was called 1-1.

The league-leading Giants wobbled after that and the Cubs finished in a first-place tie. The game of Sept. 23 was, in effect, played over in a post-season contest Oct. 8 which the Cubs won 7-2, defeating pitcher Christy Mathewson to win the pennant.

Green School's Band Lauded

Makes Good Impression At First Public Appearance in New Haven

Manchester Grade School Orchestra under the direction of Robert M. Johns made its first public appearance at the State Orchestra Festival in New Haven Wednesday. The members, selected from the fifth through the eighth grades, traveled by bus under the supervision of Miss Martha White, director of elementary music.

These youthful players displayed remarkable finesse in performance and gave every evidence of excellent direction. The group merited superior rating by the judge, Harry Berman, conductor of the New Haven Symphony "Pops" orchestra, in his praise of the orchestra, commented particularly upon the excellence of interpretation, balance and precision. He also praised the enthusiasm and responsiveness which characterized the playing of the following selections: March of the Crusaders, arr. by Waters; Soudains to G. Braham; The twenty-four members of this orchestra, drawn from the several elementary schools, were organized by Mr. Johns and have been holding weekly rehearsals since November, 1946.

During World War II it is estimated that American pilots in American planes shot down more than four enemy planes for every one they lost.

Monty Murder May Involve More

Norwich, March 28.—(AP)—Coroner Edward G. McKay said yesterday that the possibility that "several persons" were involved in the December slaying of Mrs. Stella Miodowski in her home at Montville was being explored.

The coroner, declining to reveal any testimony, made the statement after Lorene W. Kleszczewski, 34-year-old refugee Polish seaman, had testified for three hours at the inquest into the slaying. Kleszczewski was arrested several days ago at Baltimore. He was a boarder in the Miodowski home and disappeared about the time of the slaying.

McKay said Kleszczewski admitted he was "involved" in the slaying and had mentioned several other persons in connection with the case. Those stories are being investigated, McKay said.

The inquest will be continued on Tuesday and probably will not be finished on Wednesday, the coroner said.

It's a Sad Tale Of a Long Tail

Springfield, Ill., March 28.—(AP)—Miss Jean Harris, waiting for a recovered bound bus, stood near a drug store door as the manager locked it for the night.

At 10:15 p. m. a dark car started to move to board the bus she found the tail of her coat was caught in the drug store door.

Jean, the bus driver, the passengers and a squad policeman were caught in the drug store door. The policeman drove three miles to the manager's home and got a key. He unlocked the door and Jean. But in the hour and a half she was in the drug store, the policeman started to drive Jean home in a squad car. But her troubles weren't over.

The squad car broke down and she had to walk the last few blocks.

Survey of Town Water Supply Stresses Needs

Considerable Outlay of Money Called for But Department Has Big Reserve Fund Ready

The town-owned Water department has received from the New York firm of engineers the report of work necessary to improve the Manchester water supply on which the engineering company has been working for several months. The report was supposed to have been received by January 1 but was not received until last week. The Water committee of the Selectmen is planning a meeting to consider the plan, and this meeting will be held next week.

The water supply for the town-owned department comes from two different sources. They are the Howard and Porter reservoirs located in the east part of the town, and the Buckingham reservoir located in Glastonbury. The Howard and Porter reservoirs are considered one unit as one drains into the other. The Howard reservoir has a storage capacity of 124,000,000 gallons, and the Porter reservoir has a capacity of 127,000,000 gallons. The capacity of the Buckingham reservoir is 284,000,000 gallons.

For some time past plans have been under way for the establishment of a filtration system to take care of the water as it enters the supply mains from the Howard and Porter reservoirs. This is one of the plans that is included in the report that is made by the engineering company and which is to be given consideration by the committee at their meeting next week. The cost of a filtration plant at the Howard and Porter reservoirs has been estimated in the past by the committee to amount to $100,000. The plans and specifications which are included in the engineering report together with the estimated cost of construction of the system is one of the chief matters to be considered.

Another plan that has been under consideration for some time has been to determine the size of the filtration plant on Line street. The water that comes from Buckingham is carried to the Line street plant from the reservoir in a large wooden pipe, and is filtered at the Line street plant. When this pipe was built provisions were made for four sections to take care of the filtration but the necessary machinery was only provided for two of these sections. The plan is now to add the equipment for the other two sections to complete the capacity of the plant due to the increased consumption of water in the town.

In addition to the two supplies of water that come from the reservoirs there is also another supply which can be tapped to add further to the town supply. This is the Roger's Manufacturing Company well on Charter Oak street which was purchased by the town, and which has been put into condition to be used at any time to supplement the town supply.

In 1935 Cheney Brothers, who then owned the water company now owned and operated by the town, entered into a contract with the South Manchester Fire District to supply water for fire-fighting purposes. Under this agreement a set charge is made for each hydrant, and a charge made for the use of pipe used in the different mains which distribute the water to the hydrants.

As a result of this contract the South Manchester Fire District paid to Cheney Brothers $8,500 for the first year. There has been an increased demand for additional hydrants and the further extension of water mains to afford protection to the expanding fire district with the result that last year the district paid to the Town of Manchester for the use of water for fire purposes $25,500, and there are now about 370 hydrants up to its capacity. With the district additional water must be furnished by the town and all of this is covered by the report which is to be given study by the Water committee at their next meeting.

This will mean a large expenditure of money but fortunately it will have no effect upon the tax rate of the Town of Manchester. Since the town purchased the Water department in 1932 it has been building up a reserve fund. In addition to building up this reserve fund the Water Department has been paying $17,000 a year on one bond issue, paying for the ordinary expansion of the department, and at current rates, including the interest on the $550,000 bond issue. The reserve now amounts to well over $200,000.

If the work now planned is started it will not be necessary to raise in addition to the funds of the Water department to pay the entire cost, and as a result it will not in any way affect the tax rate of the Town of Manchester.

also the tax collector. To make an exception of gasoline distributors, no matter how urgent the state may need money, is clearly unreasonable and unfair.
Some aspects of the committee's report may be "perfectly sound," he stated, "but the conclusions the committee has drawn on this particular item should cause us to give the report a very careful examination before wholeheartedly approving it."
"It is my opinion that the committee simply hasn't had sufficient time to acquaint itself with all the fiscal matters for which it is attempting to offer a cure."

accustomed to in a number of sections, especially in the cities of the Volga basin, southern Russia and the White Russian Socialist Soviet republic. . . . The Russians believe that the worst period lies ahead, the period between now and the latter part of April or May. "Russia simply did not have enough food for her people this winter," the Paris source stated.

"Another Associated Press dispatch from Moscow, this one dated Feb. 28, said, "The central committee of the Communist party, recognizing the serious situation faced by Russian agriculture because of war damage and last year's drought, called on the nation's farmers for an increase of 30,000,000 acres of land under cultivation in the next two years. . . . Most of the increase was slated for collective farms, which make up the backbone of the Soviet agricultural economy."
"One thing that makes it worse," the Paris informant commented, "is that Russia cannot tell the outside world the situation. Her leaders believe it would be ruinous to their plans in the present tense international situation to disclose any weakness at home."
"So she cannot even ask for help."

U. S. Explains Aid To Greece, Turkey

has a "special and pressing interest in effective action" by the Security Council in the Greek case, now before the council. Austin suggested that the U. N. Balkan investigating commission remain on the spot until the issue has been settled.
He said the Security Council might recommend that Greece, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Albania should set up a system of border-control regulations and that a continuing commission of representatives of members of the council be established.
Under this permanent commission neutral observers could be employed to keep constant watch against violations of the agreed border regulations. Austin said.

He said that the commission, under the charter, could be authorized to act as an agency for the peaceful settlement of those disputes among the four countries arising from border difficulties.
"Action along these lines by the Security Council, combined with the proposed emergency program of assistance by the United States," Austin added, "would advance the prospects of peace and security in that part of the world."
"Neither action would be of an such effect if taken without the other, for these are complementary, not conflicting proposals—one to watch the areas where actual disturbances occur, the other to strengthen Greece sufficiently to maintain internal order, and to restore to her people hope and confidence in their future as a free people."

He declared that without such measures, each supplementing the other, "there is grave danger that the situation which is now before the Security Council might deteriorate."
The present commission was sent into the Balkans after Greece complained to the Security Council that guerrilla bands from across her northern borders were infiltrating the country and aiding Greek leftist forces battling government troops.

In urging that the present commission keep representatives on the spot until the Security Council disposes of the Greek case, Austin warned that with good weather coming on in Greece "we may expect an intensification of the activities of guerrilla bands operating in this area."

The Doctor Says:

Few 'Bile Stimulants' Do the Job

By William A. O'Brien, M. D. Written for NEA Service

More than a quart of bile is poured into the intestine each day when the body is functioning normally. But most of the patent medicines which are supposed to increase bile flow are failures, according to recent investigations.
The coloring matter in bile is formed throughout the body, from destroyed or worn-out red blood cells. The liver also forms a certain amount of bile, which joins that from the rest of the system to flow down the bile passages to the gallbladder, where it is concentrated and stored for future use.

The horse and other animals do not possess gallbladders; their bile passageways distend and hold back the bile until it is used. After the human gallbladder has been removed as a result of infection or stones, the bile passageways frequently distend and discharge the bile as needed.
When food, especially protein or fat, is eaten, the gallbladder is stimulated to discharge bile. Activity starts about one hour after the meal and continues for two to five hours. Sugars and starches have little effect upon bile flow.
In addition to coloring matter from the blood cells, bile contains special chemicals known as bile salts. These salts also help to

Hollywood

By GENE HANDSAKER

Hollywood — Who is your favorite villain at the movies? The chump who crunches his popcorn? The candy-bar wrapper-crackler? The gum chewer who leaves a fresh wad under your seat?
For the pretty girl in the box-office he may be the small boy who, bless his heart, hands her a wadded dollar bill impregnated with lard and gum. Or the man who lays down a $10 bill, looks blank, doesn't say how many tickets he wants, says to stop and count the number in his party, and finally calls out to the rear: "Hey, maw, do we want loaves or geese?"

These particular pees I have just ascertained from Catherine McLeod, who is a movie star now but once was perhaps the most beautiful ticket-seller in any boxoffice anywhere. From 1929 to 1942 she was asking, "How many please?" from glass cubicles in front of theaters in downtown Los Angeles and in Dallas, Tex.
"Since I was eight, I have wanted to be a movie actress," Catherine said. "Working for theaters was a good way to see pictures free."
She doesn't tell her age now, but appears to be in her early twenties. She's five feet five inches tall and streamlined, with a pert nose, firm chin, sculptured brown hair and green eyes. Moreover, she has the quick, bright wit to match her beauty.

A movie talent scout found her performing in a Hollywood drama school. She's currently playing opposite Don Ameche in "Gallant Man."
"The pay wasn't good, ranging from $10 to $20 a week," Catherine reminded of her ticket-selling days. "But there was time to do your nails or read a book, although that was against the regulations."
"An annoying customer was the one who'd walk off and leave his change. Then you'd have to rap loudly on the window."
"There was the woman who'd come out of the theater with a run in her stocking and say, 'I snagged it on a chair in there and I want a new pair of nylon.'"

Sugar Control Until Oct. 31

have been for a full year. Tobey asserted the bill puts speculators "on notice when they can make the kill."
On final passage 19 Democrats joined 27 Republicans for approval. Against the bill were 20 Republicans, some of whom preferred killing sugar controls outright, and 14 Democrats.

The clinching vote came after the defeat, 44 to 36, of a Democratic-sponsored attempt to send the bill back to committee.
When this maneuver failed, Democratic leader Barkley (Ky.) announced he was voting for passage of the measure rather than have all sugar controls end when the present law expires.

The measure would put rationing in the hands of the secretary of agriculture and empower him to wipe out controls any time he sees fit.
Tobey, who is chairman of the banking committee, angrily charged his own Republican party members with the blame for failure to extend controls for a full year.

MacPhail, Rickey See Happy Today

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 28 — What most baseball men fervently hoped would be the last spasm of the wordy quarrel between the New York Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers was to take place before Commissioner A. B. Chandler here today.
The chief antagonists, President Branch Rickey of Brooklyn and President Larry MacPhail of the Yanks, have been summoned by the boss-man to sit down and jaw at one another close-up, and, if possible, get the rancor out of their respective systems.

A half-dozen lesser figures in the inter-club row, including Manager Leo Durocher of the Dodgers, were questioned by the commissioner at Sarasota on Monday. Rickey, the main "defendant" in MacPhail's charges of defamation, was unable to attend that session because of the death of a brother-in-law.
Thought there was no doubt in anybody's mind that MacPhail would press his complaint against Rickey to the hilt at today's meeting, the earlier feeling that Chandler might do something drastic to one or more of the principals in the quarrel had about worn off.

In its place had developed a great boredom with the whole business. Every baseball figure encountered in recent days has expressed the wish that the commissioner would wrap it up quickly, hand out any penalties he thought necessary, and clear the decks for the opening day of the season.

On final passage 19 Democrats joined 27 Republicans for approval. Against the bill were 20 Republicans, some of whom preferred killing sugar controls outright, and 14 Democrats.

Boyle's COLUMN

By Hal Boyle
 St. Petersburg, Fla., March 28—(P)—The old man sat down on the bench, letting his weight fall sharply in the way of elderly people with tired legs.
 He was short and heavy and a cheap tie hung limply against his rumpled shirt. The flesh had begun to sag in his chubby face, but laughter had ironed nice lines around his eyes and mouth.
 "Good morning," he said. "Can you tell me where I can pick up a newspaper?"
 It was a walk of several blocks, and to save him steps I gave him one of the two I was carrying. He read the gannies through conscientiously, but he didn't really want to read. He just wanted to talk.
 "It's nice in the sun here," he said. "I came down here last year, too. It's a great place for old people. I'll be sixty-five next fall—if the Lord lets me live."
 Two pretty girls walked by—a double ripple in the shimmering sun.
 "Hah," he said, nudging. "I don't even see 'em anymore."
 He watched without interest as they turned a corner.
 "You know what's wrong with young people?"
 "No, I think they're lucky."
 "Calls Them Stupid."
 "They're stupid. They all want to get rich without working. They don't want to think. It hurts their heads. I can think rings around them. I can do as much in two hours as they do in eight, because I ain't afraid to use my brain."
 "But I can't put in eight hours every day anymore. Had a couple thromboses. Got to go easy. But I don't have to worry. I picked up a little here, a little there."
 The old man looked at me closely.
 "Me—I'm just a comedian," he said. "At home, I mean—to my wife."
 "We been incompatible for 42 years, and enjoyed every minute of it. "But I can't stand hearing the old lady jabber. She's nervous and has to talk. In 42 years I don't remember she ever said anything interesting. How could she when she just sits at home and don't learn anything?"

 "This sun is doing me good. It would help her, too. Think I could get her to come down? Not her. She just wants to sit at home and complain every day that one more day has gone out of her life."
 "What good is time if you don't use it? I like to move around. I get antlers in my pants. When I told her I was coming south, she knew what she did? Got right on the phone to call our daughter-in-law. It's a fifteen-cent toll. She kept right on talking, figuring that when the bill got up to seventy-five cents I would get mad. I just laughed. That made her mad and she hung up."
 The old man laughed at how he had fooled her. I told him I was going across the street to get a dish of ice cream.
 "I'll go along with you," he said. "I ain't supposed to eat ice cream, but who's going to tell the doctor on me? Here's what I eat mostly."
 He held open a box with six different colored types of pills.
 "Vitamins and iron pills, and something for my asthma—all kinds of junk," he said. He chattered away steadily while we ate the ice cream. He insisted on paying for it since I had given him a newspaper.
 "Sorry, I've got to go pack now," I told him.
 "Where you going?"
 "Tampa—for a couple of days."
 The old man hesitated, then said:
 "When you get settled could you drop me a line? It's only a little while on the bus to Tampa. I'll come over and we can go to a ball game. You know I'm kinda lonesome here without the old lady, even if she does talk my arm off."

More Stabbings In Indian Affray

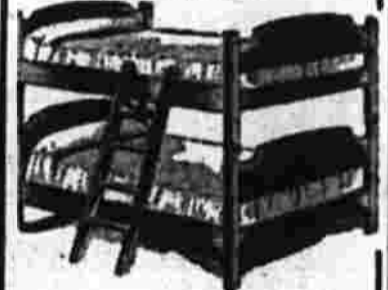

Calcutta, March 28—(P)—A new wave of stabbings broke out here today, bringing the casualty toll of 20 dead and 160 injured since the start of Hindu-Moslem disorders three days ago.
 Authorities said that while there had been several battles between Hindu and Moslem groups, most of the deaths resulted from stray assaults.
 In one area a Moslem coolie was pulling a cart load of hay when a flaming torch was thrown from a building, setting fire to the load. Police reported a number of similar incidents had taken place.
 The 14-hour curfew already in effect in four districts of the city will be continued until the situation improves, it was announced.
 Tension is still running high in the affected areas of north, east and central Calcutta and shows little signs of easing.

Foreign Ministers Fail to Agree

Continuing negotiations in the United States, the French said they had to have a vote. The British and Americans said they would not agree to a vote. One responsible source said that at one stage of the all-night session Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei V. Vishinsky began talking about a compromise and proposed a formula, which seemed to suggest that German exports should be used initially to equate imports as the United States and Britain suggested, but that a portion of the imports so acquired be assigned for reparations purposes. The British and American delegates, this informant added, to make an agreement for current reparations at this time.

The British speaker also discussed British and American demands that German exports be used for reparations purposes. The Russian disagreed, saying that exports should not be used except for future occupation costs.

No Frenchman was reported to have a hand in control of the Ruhr, and a French demand that the Ruhr be separated from Germany. The committee made no progress toward agreement on this issue.

The committee's assignment was not to make any agreements but to simplify the mechanical job of carrying out the reparations program which developed in the Foreign Ministers council in the first two weeks of discussion on German reparations.

Vishinsky, however, insisted on talking about the real issues in connection with preparing the list, and the resulting argument delayed the work from Tuesday until today.

American sources said there was no certainty that the committee's report would be ready even for the Yalta council session, at which the foreign ministers seemed headed for a showdown on another reparations question—Soviet withdrawal of industrial equipment from Austria as German reparations.

An Open Letter To The Memorial Field Community

Have you ever shivered a child with expensive toys only to have that child cry when you take them away? A Military Policy

It is in view of the possibility of war with Russia that the attention has been taken now in the Middle East, and is now concerned with turning Greece and Turkey into military bastions in protection of that oil. It is in view of that eventuality that our worldwide diplomacy is being worked. There is a long time, hope that America's post-war diplomacy might be based on constructive principles, and we need ourselves, for the time that the appearance of military personnel in so many key diplomatic posts need not put a military stamp upon our policy.

Such hope has now disappeared. American foreign policy is now the policy of our military strategists. It is a policy which is concerned with the map of the world not in a political or economic sense primarily, but in a military sense. It is a policy in which France Spain is marked down as an asset, instead of the liability it would have to be considered in any policy based on the principles of democracy. It is a policy in which the end, which is either the military bludgeoning down of Russia or the military victory over Russia in the war to be fought, justifies all means.

Scan Charter Oak Grounds
 Recreation Officials Inspect Meadows to Plan Improvements

Horace F. Murphy and Charles Huribert, town recreation officials, today were looking over possibilities of improving playground layouts on the Charter Oak grounds adjacent to the auction market which are the property of the municipal water department.

The water department, by agreement, permits use of part of the area for recreational purposes and part of the survey today was concerned with setting out limits over which public insurance coverage would vary. Such insurance is carried to cover any possible injury claims arising from use of the playgrounds.

Foreign Ministers Fail to Agree

Continuing negotiations in the United States, the French said they had to have a vote. The British and Americans said they would not agree to a vote. One responsible source said that at one stage of the all-night session Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei V. Vishinsky began talking about a compromise and proposed a formula, which seemed to suggest that German exports should be used initially to equate imports as the United States and Britain suggested, but that a portion of the imports so acquired be assigned for reparations purposes. The British and American delegates, this informant added, to make an agreement for current reparations at this time.

Discover Link Between Cosmic Rays and Cancer

New York, March 28.—(AP)—The discovery of a link between cancer and cosmic rays, indicating that the rays speed up the onset of the malignancy, is reported today by a team of scientists from the University of California.

The cosmic cancer experiments were done on mice at the University of Maryland Medical School. Cosmic rays are very small particles, the size of atoms, or less, that come from some unknown places in space and drive straight down through the air and about 100 feet into the earth.

The mice with the most cosmic rays were found to have the most cancerous cells. The mice with the least cosmic rays were found to have the fewest cancerous cells.
