The article which appeared in this column was from a member of the Herald staff who witnessed the incident. He maintains that it cannot be recalled in this column.

March 17, 1949. Editor, Manchester Herald. Dear Sir: My attention has been directed to your article on March 17, 1949 in your column, "Herald Along Main Street."

A photograph of the editorial in this column, "Herald Along Main Street," was published in your issue of March 17, 1949. The article in question is not in this column.

I have made photostats of the statements that were taken by the officer and submitted to me. I enclose them for your personal use.

The officer denies most vigorously the allegations set forth in your article. He is sure that he is innocent of the charges made in your article.

It is not our policy to publish names of individuals who are charged with offenses. We are sorry that we cannot publish the name of the officer in question.

Very truly yours, Edward J. Hickey, Commissioner of State Police.
