Sergeant at Arms Sent Out With Summons Directing Three High Government Officials To Produce Employee Files for Red Inquiry

Washington, March 29.—(AP)—Senate officers today served the first of three subpoenas demanding from top government officials the loyalty records which President Truman has declined to turn over to a Senate committee.

Joseph Duke, sergeant-at-arms, served his first subpoena on Harry R. Mitchell, assistant secretary of the State Department, and on William C. Sullivan, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Foreign Ministers of 12 Atlantic Pact Nations to Meet in London, Bevin Reveals

London, March 29.—(AP)—The foreign ministers of the 12 Atlantic pact nations will meet in London today to discuss new western moves in the cold war and present Russia with a greater, united front.

The meeting of the 12 foreign ministers will be the first since the end of the war, and is expected to be a landmark event in the history of the Atlantic pact.

Washington, March 29.—(AP)—Balked by President Truman's refusal to allow a Senate committee today to see secret loyalty files it sent the Senate's sergeant-at-arms out with a summons directing three high government officials to produce employee files for its Communist investigation.

Along with this morning's subpoena, the Senate committee also issued subpoenas to the State Department, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and the National Security Agency.

Strike Talks Will Continue

Chrysler and CIO Union Still Apparently Far Apart Today

Detroit, March 29.—After 64 days of a strike which has sent settlement hopes up and down, Chrysler Corp. and the CIO United Auto Workers were apparently still far apart today.

Negotiations were continuing 12 p. m. e.s.t. in the stubborn dispute as 140,000 workers remained idle.

Ellington

The County meeting of Women's Clubs will be held in Ellington Congregational church on Monday April 10, time to be announced.

Mrs. Douglas Johnson will be guest speaker. The unit demand of 10 cents an hour—six cents for pensions and four cents for health and welfare benefits.

This came after Chrysler declined its $30,000,000 pension fund proposal, an offer the UAW had denounced as unsound.

Meanwhile the strike's cost in public welfare to the city of Detroit advanced toward $1,000,000. The union after first calling for a step in the right direction, charged that Chrysler's proposal was a "fancy bookkeeping transaction" and not a pension trust fund.

Chrysler Vice President Herman L. Weisler and Labor Relations Director Robert W. Conder claimed the proposal had been "deliberately misrepresented" by Walter Reuther, UAW president.

It was a fortnight offer, they said in a statement, "to put aside now, in a deposit separate from Chrysler, entirely apart from company funds, $30,000,000 out of which to provide pensions for persons reaching the retirement age during the five-year term of the contract."

Chrysler said it offer would pay pensions of $100 a month, including social security, to each of the 80,000 hourly rate workers who reaches the age of 60 and has 20 years' service.

The strike, which has idled 50,000 supplier plant workers besides the Chrysler strikers, now has become the costliest in history in the city of Detroit.

Detroit's Welfare department reported yesterday that direct relief payments already had totaled more than $700,000 and would go above $1,000,000 even if the walk-out should end immediately.

Its cost has topped that of the 113-day General Motors strike of 1945-46. Welfare Supt. Daniel J. Ryan said because a greater number of Chrysler workers live in Detroit.

Mrs. Douglas Johnson will be guest speaker. The unit demand of 10 cents an hour—six cents for pensions and four cents for health and welfare benefits.

This came after Chrysler declined its $30,000,000 pension fund proposal, an offer the UAW had denounced as unsound.

Meanwhile the strike's cost in public welfare to the city of Detroit advanced toward $1,000,000. The union after first calling for a step in the right direction, charged that Chrysler's proposal was a "fancy bookkeeping transaction" and not a pension trust fund.

Chrysler Vice President Herman L. Weisler and Labor Relations Director Robert W. Conder claimed the proposal had been "deliberately misrepresented" by Walter Reuther, UAW president.

It was a fortnight offer, they said in a statement, "to put aside now, in a deposit separate from Chrysler, entirely apart from company funds, $30,000,000 out of which to provide pensions for persons reaching the retirement age during the five-year term of the contract."

Chrysler said it offer would pay pensions of $100 a month, including social security, to each of the 80,000 hourly rate workers who reaches the age of 60 and has 20 years' service.

The strike, which has idled 50,000 supplier plant workers besides the Chrysler strikers, now has become the costliest in history in the city of Detroit.

Detroit's Welfare department reported yesterday that direct relief payments already had totaled more than $700,000 and would go above $1,000,000 even if the walk-out should end immediately.

Its cost has topped that of the 113-day General Motors strike of 1945-46. Welfare Supt. Daniel J. Ryan said because a greater number of Chrysler workers live in Detroit.

Detroit, March 29.—After 64 days of a strike which has sent settlement hopes up and down, Chrysler Corp. and the CIO United Auto Workers were apparently still far apart today.

Negotiations were continuing 12 p. m. e.s.t. in the stubborn dispute as 140,000 workers remained idle.

Plan to Chart West's Moves For Cold War

By the end of the year, the House will have passed a bill to hold the Labor Government as a precedent.

Churchill warned, however, that this was on the side of Russia and urged Britain to work for an understanding with the Soviet Union.

"Western civilization is a thing that must be saved," he said.

"The only way to do it is to hold the eastern world as well."

"If that grows in potential, I visualize a long peace."

The foreign ministers are expected to cover every phase of the cold war, including Germany and Austria, the Far East and control of atomic energy.

Viewpoints exchanged A source close to the French Foreign Office said yesterday in Paris that the French ministers—Bevin, Acheson and Schuman—already exchanged viewpoints on London.

Bevin, in his Common speech, stated up one issue which would doubtless take a place in the annual meeting—control of atomic energy.

He said the only defense against the hydrogen bomb is "the most rigorous system of international inspection and control."

He said Britain is still willing to attempt to reach an agreement with Russia on controlling atomic energy.

He said he had suggested to Acheson during the past few days that the London council meeting be called to discuss this and "other problems affecting ourselves."

Johnson to Attend Defense Meeting Amsterdam, The Netherlands, March 28.—U. S. Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson arrived here by plane from America today to attend the meeting of the defense ministers of the 12 Atlantic pact nations.

The ministers are to meet at The Hague Saturday to discuss an integrated defense plan for western Europe. The plan was approved yesterday by chiefs of staff of the member nations.

"Talk to Rebuild Ramparts" "It is our task," said the new assistant secretary, "to rebuild the ramparts that we all watch. Already we are making real progress in preparing defense of western Europe."

"Through strength we are striving to deter aggressors from our common frontiers and to defend these frontiers against attack, if it becomes necessary. That is the business that brings us here."

Johnson was accompanied by Senator Mitchell, U. S. chairman of the Senate Armed Services committee.

On the Schiphol airfield near Amsterdam, the American defense secretary met Queen Juliana, Princess Bernhard who were waiting to leave for the Netherlands.

Johnson gave the queen the personal greetings of President Truman and a basket of fruit that on order of the president had been shipped up in Key West, Fla.

been of the Democratic majority in the Senate," said House, "there are members who question part of the report and some of its recommendations, but apparently the majority think it's smart politics to support the reorganization publicity with all service only."

Politically, their stand is anything but the Republican bill. It, then we won't have to act on any controversial measure. We can always blame the Republicans for the bill's passage."

"Who If Rejected?" Democratic State Chairman John M. Bailey, in a statement commenting on the broadcast by One-way and House, said the Republican decision "not to bill" the reorganization was "very wise if Rejected."

"This related discovery by Republicans leaders that good business is good politics, that good business is good politics, that good business is better late than never," said Bailey.

He said that apparently public opinion in reorganization "has caused a change of tactics on the part of the Republican party."

Senate Executive Plans Reorganization The commission's plan for revising the controversial bill of the House was debated for more than five hours yesterday before the Senate Reorganization committee.

None of the dispute centered on whether to include new provisions that should be before the voters, but rather on whether to include them in the bill or to take up separate bills.

Senators Moving To Force Seeing Of Secret Files

The subpoenas would require the personal presence of Acheson, McGrath and Mitchell—with the files—before the inquiry group next Tuesday.

"Most Important Element" The five member committee took this action yesterday after President Truman sent a letter to Chairman Tydings (D-Md.) that the single most important element in a fair and just loyalty program is the preservation of all files in connection therewith in strict confidence.

Nowhere in his letter did Mr. Truman say that the committee could not look at the files, a step which Mr. McGrath has contended must be taken if his charges are to be proved or disproved.

Mr. Truman said he will advise the three officials involved to refuse to comply with the Senate's order.

Check of Cases Asked The president said, however, that he has asked the 22-member Civil Service Loyalty Review board to check over the nearly 90 cases and report on them.

This brought protests by Republicans that Mr. Truman was taking the case as a precedent to investigate out of the hands of the Senate and turn it over to clerks.

Senator Wherry of Nebraska, who is taking the case to the Senate, said he will advise the committee further.

But reduces Mr. Truman's report, it will advise your subcommittee further.

The Beavers from City College of New York beat Bradley last night to become the first team to win the National Invitation Tournament.

CCNY variously dubbed "The Cinderella Team" and "the team of destiny" minutes before the game.

Whereas in their first meeting, they were the underdog, they were the favorite in this one.

While there is life, there is hope. The Beavers are expected to win.

Gordie Howe Much Better Than Tedford Sparks

Young Red Wing Star Suffers Injuries to Brain, Nose and Face

Detroit, Mich., March 29—(AP)—Star winger Gordie Howe was injured on danger today under a heavy early morning snow storm.

The injury to Howe overhauled the Stanley Cup play-off game here last night.

Interest in the outcome of the game was secondary, however, to the concern over the condition of the 21-year-old Howe.

A rough tackle marked by 21 penalties was broken wide open by Detroit's offense.

Local Sport Chatter

Although he didn't win Most Valuable Player award or any other trophy for his efforts during the season, Tedford was praised for excellent assistance in refereeing basketball games.

The Doctor Says

For many years the customary procedure in hospitals after a child was born has been to place the mother and infant in the hospital and the new-born infant in a nursery or special ward somewhere else. Recently a few hospitals have been trying out a new plan of placing the mother and infant together in the same room. This method is called "rooming-in."

Starting a new-born infant in close and intimate association with the mother is much wiser, especially at the beginning of natural feeding. It is also regarded as a habit to be acquired by the infant. Those who favor it claim that "rooming-in" results in better nursing.

From the nursing standpoint, it is better for the mother to have a desirable to assign nurses for the combined care of small groups of mothers and infants rather than to have nurses for the mothers and others for the infants.

It has been claimed that the "rooming-in" method increases the number of infants who are breast-fed. It is also asserted that the mother who breast-feeds her baby helps the mother physically and satisfies her own desire to have her own baby.

There are problems connected with the "rooming-in" method. They are usually restricted in number and are principally because of the danger of carrying infections. In some cases, too, as to how the food of each mother would be in her own room with the infant's small room. It is possible, in a small ward with more than six mothers with their children, to have a contagious disease.

Red Hunting
The State Dept. is very much concerned over the disclosure which has been made during the last few months regarding the disqualifications of some of its employees. In order to cover up the matter as far as the public is concerned, the State Dept. has issued a statement that it is not too long ago, the attempt to investigate Alger Hiss is another similar case. The President and State Dept. officials are red hunting. All attempts to obtain information pertaining to the cases were promptly rejected and the State Dept. to turn over department files in Congressional Committee orders from the President.

Secretary Acheson practically condoned the action of his good friend, Hiss, and was not too much disturbed by the revelation in the Judith Coplon case. The whole attitude of the State Dept. appears to be that its employees can do no harm. The findings and recommendations of Loyalty Board F. R. I. etc. were placed in moth balls in order that inquisitive persons could raise no questions. The starting development of the Dr. Fuchs case and the shipment of atomic metals to Russia are good examples of the irresponsibility with which our Departments have approached the red menace.

The United States would not be in such a deplorable state if President Roosevelt, President Truman and the State Department had long ago quit fighting for the Hiss and Coplon case. The Hiss and Coplon case is a disgrace to the American citizen who respects the rights of a free press. If the President and State Department do not take an immediate and resolute stand to oust all undesirable and questionable characters from the government employees will be unjustly targeted with the same brush.

Yours very truly,
U. J. Lupien.

Art Mixes With Everything Else
Rochester, Minn.—(AP)—Enrique Arguilla has had a varied vocational career, but through it all has run a constant painting career that started with his high school days in Spain. Currently, he is completing murals on the walls of the tannery in the hotel from a third floor hospital window. The 47-year-old artist has worked as a hospital cook, a secretary, a machine shop foreman and for five years was an official administrator for President Lázaro Cardenas of Mexico. His interest in art is strictly a sideline. Much of his work has been exhibited in the United States.

Israel Postman Ride in Jeeps
Tel Aviv, Israel.—(AP)—Postmen in jeeps soon will be carrying the mail from the southernmost to the northernmost sections of Israel. The jeep-horse system for delivering letters and packages is to link up the Negev, far in the south, to Upper Galilee. Furthermore, widely separated communal settlements are going to keep in touch with each other by a radio-teletype set-up.

These are among the new things planned for the improvement of Israel's post and telephone services by David Remez, minister of communications, and Z. Pribar, postmaster general.

Convertible Airplane Flies 'Copter or Regular
By Douglas Larson
NEA Staff Correspondent
Washington.—(NEA)—The dream of all pilots is nearly reality—a plane that flies straight up and down, hovers like a helicopter, and flies as fast as a conventional airplane.

Way back in 1937, Herrick proved by actual flight tests that this general idea provides smooth transition from vertical to horizontal flight. Other mechanical and aerodynamic problems in his first "Convertiplanes," however, made it impractical. Since then Herrick has licked them by using jet propulsion on the rotor-wing, and by devising an ingenious locking device for making the rotor a wing.

There are several combinations of these two basic types of planes in various stages of development. Retired Navy Captain S. M. Barstow, now a researcher for the Franklin Institute of Philadelphia, is another pioneer in this field. He was project manager of the Navy's first all-metal airplane, built in 1922. He recently collaborated on a paper presented to the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences on the latest developments of the convertible airplane.

"I am confident that the convertible airplane is a logical development in aircraft," he says, "—where and by whom is a secret. It is a conventional-looking aircraft with large rotors on the wing tips. When the plane takes off and lands the rotors operate like they do on a helicopter. For straight flight the rotors swing into the position of a propeller as on an ordinary airplane.

Another such aircraft is called the "Convertiplane" and is the design of a pioneer in this field, Gerald P. Herrick. It would use jet propulsion, revolving upper wings as the rotor in up-and-down flight. For level flight and wing rotor would lock in the wing position and the craft would become a bi-plane.

Many experts are doubtful, however, that any of this will really do Britain much good. Theoretically, Far Eastern growers are now producing about 30,000 tons of rubber in our markets. But men in the trade say this could be arranged only if American users were willing to outbid other countries by offering higher prices for a product already in short supply.

World consumption of natural rubber is at an all-time high, around 20 per cent above pre-war 1939.
