Missing U. S. Plane Was One Fired On, Says Soviet Paper

Pravda Declares Today That Americans Are Trying to Cover Up the Incident; Says "Spies in Airplane Got a Proper Lesson"

Moscow, April 12.—(AP)—Pravda declared today the United States is trying to cover up the fact that the U. S. Navy patrol plane missing in the Baltic is the same one that the Russians say flew over Latvia Saturday.

Pravda said "spies in the plane got a proper lesson." There is no doubt that the Russians look upon the missing plane as the one they charge exchanged with a Soviet plane before disappearing over Latvia.

Pravda said the plane violated Soviet territory and "engaged in a course of sabotage over Soviet territory."

(Until today no Russian state media had connected the incidents of the missing plane and the reported exchange of the aircraft of the U. S. Navy patrol plane for that of the Soviet plane.)

He read into the record a statement by Prof. Harvey H. Bernstein of Princeton University, who said that the state should take action to cope with its economic problems to offset further federal centralization.

The proposed commerce department would be headed by a commissioner, appointed by the governor without legislative confirmation, as would all other department heads under the reorganization plan.

Millard Bartels, vice president and general counsel of the Travelers Insurance Company, said the commissioner would have charge of so many diverse interests that he would be "a jack of all trades and possibly master of none."

Chairman Francis S. Murphy of the State Development Commission said the job would demand a "man" and demanded to know where the state could hire one.

Murphy, publisher of the Hartford Times, contended that putting the development commission into the commerce department "absolutely will not work." He asserted that the development commission had operated so successfully...

Thousands Daily Visiting FDR's Hyde Park Grave

Hyde Park, April 18.—Fifty-thousand people have passed since Franklin D. Roosevelt's death, but as many as 3,000 persons daily still visit his grave. Yesterday—the anniversary of the late president's death—the events of his life were recalled once more in a special memorial service. The Rev. Gordon K. Kidd, rector of St. James Episcopal Church here, which Mr. Roosevelt attended during his lifetime, conducted the service. The occasion focused attention on the landscaped burial spot beside the Hudson river—where he has drawn an average of about a million visitors a year since the president's death. "During the tourist season, we often show the Franklin D. Roosevelt national historic site to more than 50,000 people a day," says George A. Palmer, park superintendent. He says it is "surprising how little people know" about Mr. Roosevelt personally. "They are familiar with his public and political life, but very few are acquainted with the life he lived at home," Palmer said. "The stone mansion atop a hill overlooking the Hudson river—four miles south of here, was bought by the late president in 1897. "The famous son of James M. and Sarah Roosevelt was born here Jan. 30, 1882. "A quarter to nine" the faithful Deloitte family had a splendid young boy. He weighed ten pounds when he was born. He was christened Franklin Delano Roosevelt in honor of his father and the late President of the United States. "At no time in the history of our world have our children been in greater need of spiritual guidance," the governor declared. "It is the duty of every parent and teacher to help supply our young people with the kind of spiritual and Christian principles which will serve them as a foundation during the difficult times ahead. "The governor said that one of the "most effective ways" of giving spiritual values to our children is to encourage their Sunday school attendance. I hope that during National Sunday School Week, American families everywhere will make a special effort in this direction."

Connecticut Yankee

By A. H. O.

Mrs. Marcella Eastman, a thousands of Connecticut people know by personal observation, or as thousands more may have guessed through their relationship with the office of Governor Chester Bowles, was a rarely depicted individual.

It would hardly be polite to say that she was a "strong" woman, but it is absolutely impossible to think that she would ever have allowed the difficulties of the post-war world to degenerate into such a rigid and cold pattern as now exists. The prime asset she would have had for dealing with Russia, had she been able to have been there, would have been that she would not have been frightened by Russia. Without him, our Russian policy has been generally handled by little men who have been able to think of little more than a negative intuition of Russia's own tactics.

The policies of these little men have put us in what is for us an intolerable position—that of the defensive, in which we have actually been trying never to hold world dead-end instead of trying to break it. And by our tactics on the defensive, we have hardened the deadlock, until there is increasing doubt whether it can ever be broken by anything but force.

Roosevelt could never have tolerated any such dismal and hopeless trend of policy on the part of the world's greatest and freest nation.

They'll Win The War Yet

While we are deliberating what to do about Germany, the Germans themselves are leaving no doubt as to what they regard as the realities of the situation in Germany. So far as they are concerned, our authority is ended. We stay there with our administrative complete, we are a symbol of authority. But it is the Germans themselves who decide what they will do.

Terms in the new illustrate this. One tells us that Ruhr industrialists have, through illicit channels, extended 14,000,000 German marks' credit to firms in the Soviet zone of Germany.

The other news item tells us that the Western Allies are giving up on their reform idea of trying to enforce laws which will bring the realities of the situation in Germany in order to all average German farmers.

What the Germans themselves want to happen in Germany, not what our policy wants to happen, is what does happen in Germany. And we know it.

How extreme this condition has become is illustrated by the fact that the Germans have now named and labeled and begun to discriminate against a new group of "collaborators." Those who are given this title, with open inference of betrayal of the interests of Germany, are those Germans who cooperated with us in the past.

There seems little question that our establishment of diplomatic relations with Communist China has now been postponed indefinitely. There is also grave doubt whether we can proceed, at any time soon, to step out of the vetoing while the other nations of the Security Council recognize Communist China's right to seats in the United Nations. Meanwhile, the United Nations is not functioning because Russia is boycotting it until the Chinese Communists are seated.

Senator McCarthy, therefore, has, whether or not he ever proves a charge, stopped United States foreign policy in its tracks, and he has guaranteed continued deadlock in the functioning of the United Nations. He has split British and American policy in China completely apart. All this is quite a lot of serious accomplishment for a politician who may, in the end, not prove a single one of the charges upon which his campaign has been based.

Hungary Claims U. S. Claims Note

Budapest, Hungary, April 13.—Hungary has rejected a U. S. note accusing her of violating American-Hungarian treaties by failing to pay adequate compensation for nationalized American-owned property.

The reply insisted that Hungary is willing to negotiate regarding such compensation as she is at present with other countries.

The Hungarian note said, however, that the Budapest government wants to bring up in such negotiations the question of Hungarian property "carried to the west by American fascists." It said American authorities in Germany refused to return the property.

The U. S. note demanded negotiation for a settlement and charged that Hungary's nationalization decree last December did not include joint Hungarian-Soviet oil, shipping and aviation agreements.

Hungary replied that as a sovereign state she has the inherent right of nationalization and to determine the ways and means of the compensation to be paid.

Menuhin Draws Capacity Crowd

Tel Aviv, Israel, April 13.—Anticipated unfavorable demonstrations failed to materialize last night for the first concert in Israel of violin virtuoso Yehudi Menuhin, whom the Israeli press has attacked bitterly for postwar appearances in Germany.

Instead, a capacity audience of 1,000, who paid $15 admission apiece, warmly applauded the famous Jewish violinist and his pianist sister, Zepitah.

A strong police guard cordoned off the auditorium and only ticket-holders were allowed to approach the building.

McCarthy Can Claim Results

Senator McCarthy may conceivably go down to total defeat in his charges of Communism in the State Department. He is now down apparently to one last charge, concerning Owen Lattimore, who is not even in the State Department, and advance speculation has it that "McCarthy's witness Lattimore, may be able to produce no more than hearsay testimony." That would leave Senator McCarthy ignominiously down to zero in the controversy he began with an allegation there were 200 Communists in the State Department. And this may happen.

Even if that happens, however, even if Senator McCarthy himself should become totally discredited, he will still have accomplished much more than most people realize.

Rightly or wrongly, American policy was heading, when Senator McCarthy began his attack, toward diplomatic recognition of Communist China, British recognition of Communist China, British recognition of Communist China, British recognition of Communist China.

On the way toward recognition of Communist China, we were also heading toward a tacit withdrawal of our opposition to the seating of the Chinese Communist delegates in the United Nations.

Within the framework of diplomatic policy, the question with regard to these steps was not whether we liked the Chinese Communists or approved of them. The question was whether or not we would recognize the realities of rule, as we recognize them everywhere else.

In these policies the State Department was in any case having run into violent criticism from pro-Chinese elements in this country. But now any carrying out of these policies has been made vastly more difficult. If we follow out these policies now, Senator McCarthy and his cohorts would be shouting "We told you so!"

There is also grave doubt whether we can proceed, at any time soon, to step out of the vetoing while the other nations of the Security Council recognize Communist China's right to seats in the United Nations. Meanwhile, the United Nations is not functioning because Russia is boycotting it until the Chinese Communists are seated.

Senator McCarthy, therefore, has, whether or not he ever proves a charge, stopped United States foreign policy in its tracks, and he has guaranteed continued deadlock in the functioning of the United Nations. He has split British and American policy in China completely apart. All this is quite a lot of serious accomplishment for a politician who may, in the end, not prove a single one of the charges upon which his campaign has been based.

One Who Wasn't Afraid

Many of our contemporaries indulged themselves, yesterday, in an uneasy appraisal of five years of Harry Truman as President. Most of them liked him as a man who was determined to do his best at a big job; most of them were glad to see the long range forecast that he was not good enough for the job.

His future, in his own survey of his own future, also, put his...

Haiti Is Medical Campaign Ground New York, April 13 - (P) - The first campaign in world history to free a whole nation from venereal disease by treating each citizen with penicillin is reported ready to start this month in Haiti. It will take 10 years and will cost $750,000,000. The project was announced yesterday by Dr. Jaime Velazquez, Thoms of the United Nations world health organization. Doctors estimate that one out of every four Haitians has either syphilis or gonorrhea, and that 85 per cent of them suffer from yaws, a skin disease with some resemblances to syphilis. Penicillin is effective against all three in most cases. The project is being sponsored by the Haitian government and two United Nations agencies. Before a complete, similar campaign will be launched in Indonesia and, on a smaller scale, in the Dominion Republic which shares the island of Hispaniola with Haiti. He is employed at the Pratt and Whitney Aircraft. Miss Amy Hayes of South Hawthorne street, another versatile dramatic Manchesterite, will play the part of a shy Southern belle who tries to help her family out of debt. She appeared with the Masquers in "The Man Who Came to Dinner" and played the role of the Irish maid in their recent performance of "The Women." Five Years Is Sentence For Local Man Held In Robbery Case

Donald Spector, 31, of 281 Center street, was sentenced to five years and a day in chester state reformatory when presented before Judge Samuel Melitz in Hartford superior court yesterday on a charge of robbery with violence.

Spector was arrested February 24, along with two East Hartford high school students, for robbing 64 year old Peter Hansen, operator of a South Windsor gasoline station, after striking Hansen on the head with a hammer. Spector had a six month suspended sentence from Hartford police court hanging over his head at the time of his arrest. The Hartford sentence resulted from a conviction of obtaining money under false pretenses.

The East Hartford victim, William Major, 18, and Frederick Mitchell, 18, were under indictment in Chebese. The case of the three youths brought the remarks from State's Attorney Albert S. Bill that good previous records no longer help youths.

Rockville, April 13.—(Special)—A large crowd attended the first anniversary party of the Princess company, incorporated at 26 Village street in Rockville last night. The celebration was held in the New Princess building. Mr. and Mrs. William Bassett and Miss Elizabeth Knight, the proprietors, look over a year ago and started plans to renovate the building. Last night a steak dinner was served to those attending at 8 o'clock. Entertainment followed. Dody Kribba, well known master of ceremonies from Hartford, handled the program that included several numbers by Tody Fields, Hartford singer, who has just returned after a 26 weeks engagement at leading Florida night clubs. ### Local Man Opera Head

F. Cowles Strickland Is Tanglewood Director; Long in Dramatics

F. Cowles Strickland of Palo Alto, California, of the Department of Speech and Drama, Stanford University, has been appointed stage director of the opera school at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass. which opens July 1.

Dr. Herbert Jan Popper, who will supervise the opera school, came to Stanford from Czechoslovakia where he was director of the Prague National Opera. He and Mr. Strickland have worked together on more than a dozen operas, two of which were successful. They were repeated in the opera house in San Francisco. They were also in the opera house in Boston, and in the opera house in New York. Mr. Strickland also directed the opera school at Tanglewood and the management committee.

They plan to produce at least one full opera at Lenox and give several informal programs of scenes from operas, to be selected during the six weeks' performance. The school, which is incidental to the festival of popular performance, will be conducted by Mr. Strickland, who is also the director of the choral conducting, orchestra and chamber music composition and opera. George Koussevitzky heads the faculty. Among his assistants will be Leonard Bernstein, Aaron Copland, Gregor Piatigorsky and others.

Born Here

Born in Manchester the son of Charles J. Strickland of 168 Main street, and the late Edith Cowles Strickland, the junior Strickland graduated from Manchester High school and Wesleyan University. His first experiences in the spoken drama were in the productions of the local High school dramatic club, which celebrated its 20th anniversary last year with a banquet and program in Woodruff Hall. Mr. Strickland was the first manager of the club. It was while on a steamer trip to Great Britain and continental Europe that he met a man who influenced him to study for his M.A. degree at Northwestern University. He was at Northwestern for two years at the University of Colorado.

Mr. Strickland was a pioneer in summer theater work. It was he who started the Berkshire Playhouse, the first of the New England summer playhouses. He directed and gave their first party to a group of then unknown players, among them Katherine Hepburn, James Cagney, Jane Wyatt, Alexander Kirkland.

During the summers he was at Rockbridge a number of Manchester people including the Community Players, motored to the Berkshire Playhouse to see the performances, which changed weekly. They recall seeing such theatrical celebrities as Cissie Loftus, Charming, Young Lovable Crib Doll

Red Protest Fizzles Out

French Workers Unload First American Guns Under Strong Guard

By Carl Hartman

Cheerbourg, France, April 13.—(Special)—A Communist protest demonstration fizzled today as French workers gathered near a bridge in the port area, where millions of tons of material poured in to sustain allied armies during the last year of the war with Germany.

The police guard allowed only those with special passes to enter the area, taking no chances with the Communist' out-cast threat to throw all such arms into the sea.

A small band of demonstrators gathered near a bridge in the port area, but soon dispersed without incident.

As the arms, which also included containers of nitrogen, were unloaded they were loaded aboard heavily guarded railroad cars. The unloading operation is expected to be completed later today.

It was the second time in two days that American arms shipments to western Europe were unloaded peacefully despite Communist threats.

A similar cargo arrived in Naples, Italy, yesterday and was lowered ashore under heavy police guard without incident. It was figured by the failure of this demonstration in Naples the Communist leaders ordered a general strike throughout the city. This also had little effect on the normal life of the city.

The shipment—first to some of the continental France and the Atlantic Defense Pact agreement—was received before dawn today about the 8,000-ton freighter American Importer.

Dock workers, some of them suffering from long unemployment, mixed for some time in an attempt to refuse to take the guns from the

Had Million, Dies on Aid

Former Socialite, Kith Of Thomas Jefferson, In County Morgue

Los Angeles, April 13.—(Special)—The body of a millionaire socialite wife of a Philadelphia millionaire, died in her small apartment here yesterday. It was disclosed that she had been on the state old age pension rolls for the last 10 years.

Police detectives identified her from personal papers. Newspaper files in Philadelphia showed that she inherited an estate valued at $1,000,000 from her second husband, Charles Theodore Wernwag when he died in 1918.

Soon after Wernwag's death she married Glen Finney, 11 years her junior. She and Finney, former dancing partner of Irene Castle and Joan Sawyer, were divorced in 1923. In her divorce proceedings in Los Angeles she charged that Finney deserted her after spending her fortune.

As for myself, he said, "I am a candidate in my own right for my whole heart and soul." After the meeting he said he was interested in a reorganization of the class.

Reds Stream Into Shanghai

No Soldiers But Technicians and Political Workers, Say Reports

Hong Kong, April 13.—(P.—) Russians are streaming into Shanghai, 88 foreigners just arrived from Communist China said today.

You don't see them so much as you feel them. That was the comment of one of the arrivals.

The largest group to get out of Shanghai since the Reds came there is that of 5,000 Russians.

Best estimates of these foreigners are that about 2,000 civilians are in Shanghai—a mostly Russian contingent.

Not a one saw a Russian in military uniform and all of those basketball players.

This was in contrast to many reports that have filtered into Hong Kong. These within recent weeks have had Russian soldiers patrolling the streets.

The largest complaint was directed against Union Pharmaceutical Co. of Montreal, N. J., which produces and sells the anti-influenza preparation "Inflaxin."

PTC's charges described as "deceptive" the advertising campaign which "represented Inflaxin to be a cure and preventative for the common cold."

The commission during the past month has made similar charges against other companies.

British-Meyers makers of Reaxatol, Whitehall Pharmaceutical, manufacturer of Kripin, and the Anabiotic, producer of Anabiotic. The commission denied the allegations.

In its complaint concerning Inflaxin, PTC further alleged that the preparation "is not a complete and effective treatment for the common cold."

Similar charges also were made in connection with the other companies.

Union Pharmaceutical was given 30 days—as were the other firms—to answer the charges.

The trade commission has authority under federal law to order the companies to halt the alleged deceptive advertising.

Public hearings will be held on the complaints in the near future, PTC officials said, but a definite date has not been set.
