Two Auto Crashes Are Reported Here

A car driven by Francis D. Coleman of 104 West street, Rockville, went out of control at 2 a.m. today and struck six high-voltage poles at the intersection of Middle Turnpike, east, and East Center street at Manchester Green. Coleman told police that he was blinded by the lights of an on-coming car.

Leave Tomorrow For Trip Abroad

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hubbard, of 312 Middle Turnpike, east, leave Manchester tomorrow for New York where they will embark Saturday for a two-month trip to Europe that will include visits to Ireland, France, Switzerland, Germany and Austria.

Ellington

Miss Marjorie Meyer, lecturer of Ellington College, and her assistant Miss Eunice C. Sikes are attending the lecturers conference which is being held in Burlington, Vt., this week. They will remain in the state through Monday.

John Lass, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lass of Maple street, who left Ellington the first part of July for the West Coast returned home Monday, leaving California Saturday morning, arriving here Monday night, since leaving Ellington in July he has covered a distance of 15,000 miles and had no motor trouble either way.

The Ross Company of Springfield is painting the exterior of the Ellington Congregational church.

Mr. and Mrs. James Brady of Hartford have moved to Ellington in the home of Mr. Brady's mother on Maple street. Mrs. Brady has conducted a beauty parlor in Hartford for some time past which she has closed.

James Wynn has returned from a two-week vacation to his position as custodian of the Ellington Consolidated school.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Peltier have returned from a few days spent at their summer home in Vermont.

Mrs. Louis Heintz is very ill at her home on Main street.

BOMB'S FLASH BURNS: Protective effect of thicker layers of clothing can be seen in unburned pattern traced on back of this woman's dress. Light-colored clothes are better than dark.

Plan of Action Can Save Lives; Immediate Danger Lasts For Only 10 Seconds

By Wade Jones NEA Special Correspondent Washington (NEA)—A plan of action for the first second after an atom bomb explodes near you could save your life.

A blinding light will signal the explosion. But don't look toward it. It could destroy your sight in only a few hours or days.

If you are in the open, drop to the ground. Curl up and try to shield the exposed parts of your body such as hands, neck and face. Lie with your back to the blast, pull your coat collar up around your neck, and fold your hands over your stomach. All this will help reduce flash burns and injury from the blast.

Stay in your curled-up position for at least 10 seconds. In the immediate danger is over and it's safe to stand up.

If you are outside and within a step or two of some protection such as a doorway, a tree or the corner of a building, get behind it quickly. If the shelter is more than a few steps away don't try to make it. Just drop and curl up as described above, facing away from the bright light.

After 10 seconds, stand up and try to get under something which will give protection from flying glass and falling objects.

If you are inside and in your office, drop to the floor, back to windows. Better yet, get under a table, desk or counter. The safest places inside a building are alongside interior partitions.

Remember, do what you're going to do fast. You'll only have one or two seconds.

The most destructive and deadly forces of an atomic explosion are flash burn, blast effect and nuclear radiation. The latter is caused by gamma rays and neutrons.

Direct blast injuries are caused by the shock wave of air injuring the lungs, stomach, intestines and eardrums, and causing internal hemorrhage. More important than

Connecticut Yankee
 By A. H. O.

We have, in various columns, been guilty of one of those errors which derive from a sleepy mentality. We have said, for instance, that only 10,000 to 20,000 Connecticut voters out of a million involved would ever "see" the candidates in this November's election. That is not true. It is true that only one line, drawn by collective security principles against aggression anywhere, is in the way of our seeing the candidates. It is true that only one line, drawn by collective security principles against aggression anywhere, is in the way of our seeing the candidates. It is true that only one line, drawn by collective security principles against aggression anywhere, is in the way of our seeing the candidates.

THE HERALD ANGLE

By EARL W. YOST
Sports Editor

Eddie Stanky is by far the best player wearing a New York Giants uniform this season. In the first 140 games played by the Giants this season, Eddie reached base via either a hit or walk in all but eight games. The pepper-pot second baseman in a recent "hattrick" against the Boston Red Sox, Eddie reached home once as a result of a sacrifice fly, a double, a home run, and a sacrifice bunt.

Two Requests In Conflict
Seek Liquor Permit Within 1,000 Feet Restriction Ruling
 How many, if any, package stores there may be on Middle Street west in the area west of the Broad street intersection, is to be the subject for a public hearing, called by the State Liquor Control Commission for August 28 at 11 a.m. in Room 214, State Office Building, Hartford.

and Edwin road. Investigation showed there was no conflict except the important one that the Jarvis location was within 1,000 feet of the Brown location. This fact, under local regulation, would make one or the other of the sites inoperable for package liquor purposes since such establishments cannot be less than that distance apart.
