New Verplanck School Plans

Program for Dedication Ceremony on Sunday Announced Today

The program for the dedication ceremony of the new Verplanck school Sunday afternoon at three o'clock has been announced to be as follows: chairman, William E. Buckley, of the Board of Education; invocation by Rev. George P. Hughes of St. James's church; song by sixth grade glee club; welcome by Arthur H. Hing, superintendent of schools, and special greeting to the honor guest, Fred A. Verplanck, former superintendent of schools and for whom the school is named.

Mrs. Allan Bourn of the School Building committee will preside at the ceremony. The new Verplanck school will be open for public inspection until five o'clock.

Public Nurse Report Made

Well Baby Conferences Resumed, It Is Announced by the Board

The Board of the Manchester Public Health Nursing Association held its monthly meeting yesterday.

It was reported that the nurses paid 606 calls during September. Of these 101 were new cases, 531 required nursing care and 275 were supervision. Sixty-one persons attended the Chest Clinic which were held four times during the month. The Tumor Clinic was held twice and cared for seventeen patients. Fifteen attended the Prenatal Clinic and one patient attended the Neonatal Clinic every Wednesday from 2-4 and also at the Hospital Clinic every Friday from 2-4. These clinics were discontinued during the late summer because of the fear of polio.

The Public Health Nurses attended the Regional Conference which was held in Glastonbury, Dr. Sabloff from the State Department of Health addressed the Conference on "Rheumatic Fever." The nurses also attended two sessions of the Disaster Institute which were held at the Hospital Annex.

Sees New Credit Rule Hurting Housing Here

Local Developer Believes Restrictions Will Increase Costs Depending on Individual Cases

Alexander Jarvis, leading local builder and developer, said this morning "everybody is going to get ripped" by the new Federal credit restriction on home buying.

In Manchester, Jarvis said, the rule will probably mean another $300 in pay-down money on veterans' houses and perhaps as much as $1,000 more for others, for the present small home, but, he stressed, the exact increase in down payment that the new regulation imposes still is under study.

"It will largely be a matter of individual cases depending on the price and other local circumstances," he said.

Called "draastic," the new regulations governing mortgages and credit terms are considered drastic in this area, where once a veteran with no down payment at all, could buy a new house. To acquire a five per cent down payment, a veteran would have to pay off the old mortgage in 30 years to get the new one.

The new rules reduce the amortization time to 20 years, except for houses selling under $7,000, and make a considerable amount of the down payment—as much as 45 per cent in the higher brackets.

The Federal move, seen as one cut in extended credit buying of homes, will hit Manchester buyers hard, and prospective developers perhaps even harder.

May Cut Demand

One immediate effect may be a great drop in the list of prospects. This, housing experts believe, will have a tendency to knock down the cost of new homes to the buyer's credit.

Double trouble is seen now for Manchester's housing industry, which besides the restrictions placed by Federal law, another tough one is in the making in the local regulation.

Local planning officials want to cut the four room house here, and require that the completed houses be finished with finished rooms. Increased lot sizes are also sought in some cases.

In a statement today, carried in the Herald, Mr. Jarvis, a local spokesman for the Manchester real estate group, said that plans to eliminate the four room small home from the local scene, and to add something like $2,000 to the price of a home currently selling at $12,000. This would make such a type of house, finished with two more rooms, and ready for sale with less than six rooms, sell for $14,000. Out of the reach, he says, of many prospects.

When this price is loaded with the increased down payment requirement and the reduced amortization term now placed by Federal rules, Allen thinks the outlook is dim here for builder and home buyer alike.

Heavy Payment

From available figures, it seems as if the prospective home buyer of next year will need to be able to pay up to $100 per room on a mortgage plan and be able to make a down payment of $2,000 or more to get the least costly available type of home in town. This, unless prices crash somewhere.

While this circumstance appears hard on the builder and buyer, it may work to the benefit of the town's economic system, lately unbalanced, lower officials say, by too much low cost, low taxation housing which sends too many children to school and requires too much in the way of public services for the taxes they pay.

Now Federal regulations hit also secondary financing for the required down payment, making it illegal to retain this down payment from other loans, except those secured on life insurance.

Seek Merger Of Lutherans

Delegates at Convention Leave Way Open for Other Denominations

Columbus, O., Oct. 11.—(AP)—The American Lutheran church opened the way last night for merger of more than 1,500,000 members of three Lutheran groups into one church.

Delegates to the A.L.C.'s National convention approved resolutions creating a nine-member committee to discuss merger with the Evangelical Lutheran church which has more than 815,000 members, and the United Evangelical Lutheran church, with 46,000. The A.L.C. has more than 700,000 members.

If the merger is effected, it would make the combined church the largest Lutheran group in the country, ranking behind the United Lutheran Church in America, with 1,900,000 members, and the Lutheran church—Missouri Synod with 1,877,000.

Both the Evangelical and the United Evangelical churches have appointed similar nine-member committees to discuss the merger. The joint union committee will have two years to negotiate before reporting to the next national conventions of the three churches in 1952.

A spokesman for the A.L.C. said that the merger would probably not be effected before 1956.

The A.L.C. in its resolution, also opened the way for two other members of the American Lutheran church to join the merger negotiations—to enter the merger negotiations. The other two members are the Augustana Lutheran church with 400,000 members and the Lutheran Free Church with 50,000.

The resolution empowered the nine-member committee to invite the other two churches into merger negotiations if the Evangelical and United churches approve.

The more than 1,000 A.L.C. delegates also took another step toward unity with a separate Lutheran group. They adopted the "common confession" set down by the Lutheran Church-Missouri synod.

"The common confession" is a statement of common doctrines to which both churches can agree. An A.L.C. spokesman said the statement bridges golden disputes over doctrines which have arisen between the two groups.

Aroma of Waste

There is leaf-stump pluming up outside our window, visible notice that the time is written, spelled out, of the smell of burning leaves.

By that editorial tradition, one would think that leaves have to burn before they attain that pungent aroma which is to the nostril what music is to the eye and early morning grape to the tongue.

That tradition is a great waste of leaves. It is true enough that one has to burn leaves in order to get rid of them, but why burn them in the wind. But the aroma is in any way, and all you have to do to enjoy it is rake a few leaves together and then try them out as a candle. The fragrance is all there, somewhat less acrid and pungent, somewhat fuller and more pleasing.

There is no greater nonsense, then, than this practice of burning leaves every autumn just to get that traditional odor. And there is no practice that is more wasteful of the good earth's resources. Every leaf that goes up in smoke is a patch of humus and fertilizer and winter crop thrown away. In nature's economy, burning leaves is like burning the coupons from your favorite stock without redeeming them, like trading golden discs for a sinner's smudge.

Friday's Hearing To The Editor,

There should be a large attendance at the public hearing on the new zoning regulations which will be held each Tuesday night at 7:30 in the Hollister school. New zoning regulations will have an important bearing on the future of Manchester, particularly on the tax rate, in which all of us are vitally interested.

I have not had time to study the proposed regulations fully, but my impression is that the Planning Commission has done a good job in particular. I am glad to note that the Commission has also noted the idea that residential areas should be polka-dotted with so-called "neighborhood business zones." Such business zones may be a source of profit to real estate promoters. They are likely to be harmful to the interests of the home owners. They do not increase the value of property, but they do increase the tax rate because they reduce the value of nearby residential property.

The establishment of several types of business zones seems to me as definite improvement over the present arrangement. We now have but one business zone. The new plan will make less painful and gradual spreading of business which is bound to happen in a growing community. This is a positive improvement over the existing regulations.

It is gratifying to note that the new regulations increase the lot size in two of the residential zones. We have allowed for too many houses to be jammed in Manchester. Now we need a rest from the frantic pace of recent expansion so we can catch up with the problems of school expansion, sewerage system, police and fire protection and water supply. The new credit regulations of the federal government will help us in this matter. In any case, given the lot size increase, I am convinced that the citizens of the town must outnumber the real estate men by about a thousand to one. The interest of the home owners and those of the real estate promoter do not coincide exactly. In fact, they differ widely.

Where there is a conflict, the interests of the home-owners should prevail. I am convinced that the Commission has considered all viewpoints. Those of business men as well as home-owners are being given a fair amount of time and study to the new regulations. I trust that the citizens of the town will show their interest by a large attendance at Friday's hearing.

Florida Youth Is Star Farmer

Kansas City, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Four years ago Forrest Davis, Jr. made up his mind to win the Star Farmer of America award.

Yesterday the 21-year-old Quincy, Fla., youngster was named 1950 Star Farmer at the Future Farmers of America national convention.

Davis had earned $45,000 from agriculture. He has a diversified farming program with beef cattle, swine and feed crops, but his big money crop is tobacco.

The Florida youth said he first set his goal in 1946 when he attended a Future Farmers convention and heard a boy from the deep south never has been a Star Farmer title.

The award is the highest recognition given a member of the Future Farmers organization. It is worth $1,000 check goes with the title.

Pastor Redwine Post New Haven, Oct. 11.—(AP)—The Rev. Redwine Post, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church here since 1929, has resigned to join the Lutheran Board of American Missions. The congregation of the church, meeting last night to accept his resignation, conferred on him the title of pastor emeritus.

Thomas F. Pickenham of 33 Eno street has received orders to report to the Armed Forces, November 5 and as a consequence has had to step up his wedding plans for his marriage in Saturday, October 21.

Mr. Pickenham and his bride, Miss Katherine Agnes Bell of Waterville, Maine, had made plans for their marriage in the Sacred Heart church, Waterville, and reception to follow.

Fortunately the invitations had not been mailed, and an additional slip was printed explaining the reason for the advanced date, and enclosed with the original cards.

As his friends know, Mr. Pickenham has been in the employ of the postoffice department for over three years and has served as a postal inspector in the local office in Ohio and Maine and is at present working out of the Springfield, Mass., office. He had stated with the reserves after serving in World War II for more than three years, during which time he was with the 357th Ordnance Company, Third Army, in England and France. At the time of his discharge he held the rank of first sergeant.

At that time, Mr. MacArthur induced the late president to alter already prepared Pacific war plans so as to permit the reconquest of the Philippines. Battle strategy had been to bypass the Philippines and strike directly at Japan through the central Pacific.

MacArthur and his top staff officers long have advocated support of the French in Indochina as well as aid to insure the protection of Formosa. They contend the loss of these points would outflank the American defense line in the western Pacific.

American military officials in Tokyo believe that Communist drive into South Korea was a diversionary rather than a primary military effort to control that victory on the peninsula will be incomplete if other and richer satellite areas are left exposed to a subsequent attack.

MacArthur probably will be accompanied by his key staff officers. They will reflect his views in conversations with Washington military officials that may be designated to plan on how to forestall another Red move.

The question of a Japanese peace treaty remains in the air.

Nathan Hale PTA Meeting

Open House Program Is Held to Acquaint Parents With Teachers

Last evening the Nathan Hale Parent-Teacher Association began its series of meetings with an "open house" during which the parents and teachers had an opportunity to meet socially.

A short business meeting followed, at which time Mrs. Myrtle Glammann, the secretary, submitted her resignation due to ill health. Mrs. Ward Douglas was elected to succeed her.

It was decided that if the organization, "Nathan Hale" is brought to Manchester by the Junior High school, the Nathan Hale PTA will support it up to and including the share of $48.00.

A second business meeting is proposed for the Nathan Hale school, particularly those who were unable to attend the first meeting. Further information by telephoning Mrs. Robert Johns, 2-1629. Plans are also being made for a new Cub Scout troop within the next few weeks.

After the business session a "cakewalk" was enjoyed by all, particularly those who were unable to attend the first meeting. Further information by telephoning Mrs. Robert Johns, 2-1629. Plans are also being made for a new Cub Scout troop within the next few weeks.

Choral Group's Concert Is Set

Local Society's Annual Program at North Church on Nov. 12

The Manchester Choral Society will present its fourth annual program on Sunday evening, November 12, at eight o'clock at the Second Congregational church, The Church of the Holy Trinity, Joseph Haydn's oratorio, "The Creation." The soloists, all members of the society, will be Mrs. William Steiner and Mrs. Ralph MacCarone, soprano; Ralph MacCarone, tenor; and Gerald Chapell, bass. These soloists were chosen as a result of auditions heard by an impartial voice authority.

The Manchester Choral Society was first organized as the Second Congregational Choral club in 1948. The club opened its membership to all interested persons in the community. Last year the society was adopted and at that time the name was changed to the Manchester Choral Society. The society set forth as its purpose the studying and presenting of the best choral works, both sacred and secular. Last fall the club successfully presented the oratorio, "Elizbeth."

Formalizing a Necessity

The United States proposal in the General Assembly of the United Nations is precisely what is called for at this time of history — an attempt to turn the present state of affairs in Korea into a firm rule for the world's future.

John Foster Dulles, presenting the American plan, used the proper stirring words.

"For the first time in the long history of the human race," said Dulles, "a world organization marshaled enough collective force to throw back an armed aggression. It seemed that the dream of ages had at last come true and that the United Nations had become the effective instrument which was hoped for, and prayed for, by the war-torn peoples who five years ago established this organization 'to save succeeding generations from the scourge of war, which twice in our lifetime has brought untold sorrow to mankind.'"

"But now there have come second thoughts and dire forebodings. Was the action in relation to Korea only an accident made possible by chance events unlikely to recur, so that the future remains one of opportunity to aggressors? Or has the action in Korea lit a flaming spirit within the body of the United Nations which will burn strong and steady and provide the vitality needed to make our organization an ever more powerful defender of the peace?"

"We who sit here will have to find the answer to those questions, and we ought, I think, to find them quickly. If we move now to consolidate the new mood that prevails and the new strength that offers, then we believe that local aggressions will be unlikely and that peace will be more secure."

The issue at Lake Success, then, is one of whether or not the United Nations spontaneous action in Korea shall be formalized and formally assured for similar problems of aggression in the future.

It should be asserted, we think, that the precise question at Lake Success is not whether, in the event of another aggression, the United Nations would repeat its action in the case of Korea. It is merely whether we shall say in advance that the United Nations would repeat that action.

The United Nations had never said in advance of Korea, that it would do what it finally did there. But, when the event struck, the United Nations had to act. It wanted to live, and the United States had to go to it if the United States wanted to find an unquestioned course that would be adopted.

Does any one think that now, with the success of its Korean action apparent, the United Nations could return to its own futility in the event of another violation of its world law against aggression? Does any one think that the United Nations could fail to follow its own precedent in Korea?

Actually, there is no real doubt as to what the United Nations would do, by whatever procedural means had to be adopted. If it found itself confronted with another Korea, it would act. There would be nothing else it could do. It would again feel compelled to do what it has already done in Korea. That is the importance of Korea—that it does establish this precedent, which will operate whether or not a formal resolution is adopted now announcing that it will operate. And if Russia doesn't sense this, and know

There is leaf-stump pluming up outside our window, visible notice that the time is written, spelled out, of the smell of burning leaves.

By that editorial tradition, one would think that leaves have to burn before they attain that pungent aroma which is to the nostril what music is to the eye and early morning grape to the tongue.

Friday's Hearing To The Editor,

There should be a large attendance at the public hearing on the new zoning regulations which will be held each Tuesday night at 7:30 in the Hollister school. New zoning regulations will have an important bearing on the future of Manchester, particularly on the tax rate, in which all of us are vitally interested.

I have not had time to study the proposed regulations fully, but my impression is that the Planning Commission has done a good job in particular. I am glad to note that the Commission has also noted the idea that residential areas should be polka-dotted with so-called "neighborhood business zones." Such business zones may be a source of profit to real estate promoters. They are likely to be harmful to the interests of the home owners. They do not increase the value of property, but they do increase the tax rate because they reduce the value of nearby residential property.

The establishment of several types of business zones seems to me as definite improvement over the present arrangement. We now have but one business zone. The new plan will make less painful and gradual spreading of business which is bound to happen in a growing community. This is a positive improvement over the existing regulations.

It is gratifying to note that the new regulations increase the lot size in two of the residential zones. We have allowed for too many houses to be jammed in Manchester. Now we need a rest from the frantic pace of recent expansion so we can catch up with the problems of school expansion, sewerage system, police and fire protection and water supply. The new credit regulations of the federal government will help us in this matter. In any case, given the lot size increase, I am convinced that the citizens of the town must outnumber the real estate men by about a thousand to one. The interest of the home owners and those of the real estate promoter do not coincide exactly. In fact, they differ widely.

Where there is a conflict, the interests of the home-owners should prevail. I am convinced that the Commission has considered all viewpoints. Those of business men as well as home-owners are being given a fair amount of time and study to the new regulations. I trust that the citizens of the town will show their interest by a large attendance at Friday's hearing.

Florida Youth Is Star Farmer

Kansas City, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Four years ago Forrest Davis, Jr. made up his mind to win the Star Farmer of America award.

Yesterday the 21-year-old Quincy, Fla., youngster was named 1950 Star Farmer at the Future Farmers of America national convention.

Davis had earned $45,000 from agriculture. He has a diversified farming program with beef cattle, swine and feed crops, but his big money crop is tobacco.

The Florida youth said he first set his goal in 1946 when he attended a Future Farmers convention and heard a boy from the deep south never has been a Star Farmer title.

The award is the highest recognition given a member of the Future Farmers organization. It is worth $1,000 check goes with the title.

Pastor Redwine Post New Haven, Oct. 11.—(AP)—The Rev. Redwine Post, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church here since 1929, has resigned to join the Lutheran Board of American Missions. The congregation of the church, meeting last night to accept his resignation, conferred on him the title of pastor emeritus.

Truman to Leave Today on Journey

Thomas F. Pickenham of 33 Eno street has received orders to report to the Armed Forces, November 5 and as a consequence has had to step up his wedding plans for his marriage in Saturday, October 21.

Mr. Pickenham and his bride, Miss Katherine Agnes Bell of Waterville, Maine, had made plans for their marriage in the Sacred Heart church, Waterville, and reception to follow.

Fortunately the invitations had not been mailed, and an additional slip was printed explaining the reason for the advanced date, and enclosed with the original cards.

As his friends know, Mr. Pickenham has been in the employ of the postoffice department for over three years and has served as a postal inspector in the local office in Ohio and Maine and is at present working out of the Springfield, Mass., office. He had stated with the reserves after serving in World War II for more than three years, during which time he was with the 357th Ordnance Company, Third Army, in England and France. At the time of his discharge he held the rank of first sergeant.

At that time, Mr. MacArthur induced the late president to alter already prepared Pacific war plans so as to permit the reconquest of the Philippines. Battle strategy had been to bypass the Philippines and strike directly at Japan through the central Pacific.

Not All Ice Ignores Many Eskimo igloos are built of wood or stone instead of ice, the former are more permanent, the latter are built to withstand severe temperatures.

At that time, Mr. MacArthur induced the late president to alter already prepared Pacific war plans so as to permit the reconquest of the Philippines. Battle strategy had been to bypass the Philippines and strike directly at Japan through the central Pacific.

French Troops Defeated French forces here have just ended their biggest battle defeat in four years of warfare with Ho Chi Minh's forces.

MacArthur and his top staff officers long have advocated support of the French in Indochina as well as aid to insure the protection of Formosa. They contend the loss of these points would outflank the American defense line in the western Pacific.

American military officials in Tokyo believe that Communist drive into South Korea was a diversionary rather than a primary military effort to control that victory on the peninsula will be incomplete if other and richer satellite areas are left exposed to a subsequent attack.

MacArthur probably will be accompanied by his key staff officers. They will reflect his views in conversations with Washington military officials that may be designated to plan on how to forestall another Red move.

New Haven, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Vincent Ferrara, 32, charged with plotting to assassinate with intent to kill, was sentenced to six months in jail yesterday although his wife told the judge: "He didn't want to kill me. If he wanted to kill me he had plenty of opportunity." Mrs. Ferrara, 25, the mother of four children, was shot July 12 in a downtown New Haven building where she is employed by a charwoman. Her husband's lawyer, Domenic Celotto, told Superior Court Judge Thomas J. Molloy that his client found his wife with another man and, infuriated, whipped out a gun. The couple grappled for the revolver, Celotto said, and it went off during the struggle, a bullet entering her back and chest.

Realtors Here Warn Of Increased Costs

Present Type of Four-Room Single House to Be "Thing of Past" If New Rules Adopted

The Manchester Board of Realtors has held several open meetings to discuss the proposed changes which the Town Planning Commission is attempting to put into effect. John R. Allen, president of the Board of Realtors, says that such changes, if put into effect, would result in a much higher cost of construction for single family dwellings.

Under the proposed new regulations, effective January 1, 1961, the present 4-room 32x24 unit with 750 sq. ft. and unfinished up will be a thing of the past as this unit must be increased to 1000 sq. ft. and the 2 rooms up must be finished. The increase in size of the basic unit would result in an increased cost of about $500.

Due to the increased cost of materials and labor the $10,500 unit now is $11,500. If the new owner must also finish the second floor the entire cost would increase another $1,000, making a total increase in cost to the buyer or new owner of $1,500.

The Town Planning Board then also proposes to increase the required lot size in frontage by 20 feet. This adds to the cost another $200 or more.

These entire proposed changes if put into effect will result in the cost of $12,700 for the new owner, or over $2,200 increase over the present $10,500.

Therefore, the Manchester Board of Realtors feels that anyone interested or who may be planning to buy or build either now or within the next five years should attend the meeting of the Town Planning Board which will be held at the Hollister School at 6:00 on the evening of October 13, this Friday.

The Board of Realtors feels that changes involving this amount of increases in cost should be given very careful consideration and thought. However, as mentioned in the Herald this Board of Realtors and its members along with other building interests and new home owners should make a square deal not only for themselves but for Manchester.

at $1,000 or less, where 25 years will be allowed. That will mean higher monthly payments.

The new terms, announced last night, apply to everyone—buyers, lenders, builders—except as new houses are concerned.

There were two other developments in the government's efforts to hold down inflation and keep the real-estate program rolling.

1. President Truman named Cyrus B. Chitt, Federal mediation director, to chairmanship of the new wage stabilization board. That left only a price administrator still to be named among top mobilization officials.

2. The government placed rigid export curbs on cotton in a move to halt advancing prices and assure the nation of its needs.

This new curbs on home credit brought hope of one consolation to prospective home buyers—prices of houses may drop somewhat.

Raymond E. Foley, head of the Housing and Home Finance Agency (HHFA), predicted the controls will bring prices down by (A) cutting down the number of buyers and (B) existing competition among builders for labor and materials, thus lowering costs.

But on mortgage terms, buyers could do better today—if they could conclude a deal with a bank or other private lender, or get in

Alien Arrests Raise Storm Of Protests

Pattern Set in the First Case Last Friday when Friedrich Guida, 20-year-old Austrian concert pianist, was detained three days and ordered to leave after he makes one appearance, because he joined the Hitler Youth as a boy of 10.

It was Guida's detention that drew Senator Ferguson's protest. The U.S. executive committee was that most had belonged to a former Fascist-dominated maritime union.

Edward J. Shaughnessy, district director of immigration, said the 83 will be questioned and reports sent to the Commissioner of Immigration in Washington for final action.

During the Guida detention, the State Department, in answer to an Austrian protest, said rules under which he worked out shortly to handle such situations on a routine basis would remain in effect.

Ferguson said the attorney general has the power to admit such aliens if he considers them harmless. He accused the administration, which opposed the bill, of failing to use its discretionary power.

Another alien, Czeslaw Grzelak, vice president of the Gdynia America Line, left the United States today under an immigration service deportation order. He had been free on bail since December, when deportation has not been secured at the corner of Main and Locust streets, opposite the existing Jarvis building.

It has been repeatedly rumored that Sage Allen company of Hartford is planning a Manchester branch store, but Jarvis said that details for any building for such a move are far from complete.

Escaped Prisoner Found in Maine

Bridgton, Me., Oct. 11.—An escaped prisoner from the Federal Correctional Institute at Bridgton, Conn., was recaptured here last night. State police reported the man, who had been on the run since he escaped from the institution last Thursday in a government truck, was turned over to an FBI agent.

Walker, who claims Houston, Tex., as his home, was hearing the end of a two-year sentence when he fled from his work detail outside the prison walls. He was convicted in Syracuse, N. Y., of transporting a stolen automobile across a state line and was due for release Nov. 25.

Retail Prices Of Food Rise

milk, eggs, butter, coffee, round steak, veal cutlets, bacon and several fresh fruits and vegetables. These more than offset drops in prices for pork chops, sugar and some fresh vegetables.

On the basis of the survey in 13 large cities, the bureau placed its retail price index on Oct. 21 at 210.1 on the basis of 1957 as the base period of 1953-59. That was 1.4 per cent above Sept. 15, 1.7 per cent above Aug. 28 and 2.1 per cent above June 15.

The peak retail price index on Oct. 21—216.8—came in July 1948. That index was based on a survey of prices in 56 cities, however.

Cities Included in Survey

The cities in the latest survey were Boston, Buffalo, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Los Angeles, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, St. Paul, and Washington.

One thing they're likely to put out of business is the "second mortgage," now a much-sold means of borrowing cash for down payments, to go with first mortgages obtained from private lenders.

The Federal Reserve board aimed a lethal blow at second mortgages with this provision:

Minimum down payments must be made from the borrower's own funds in connection with extensions of credit on new residential construction and not from proceeds of supplemental mortgages or personal loans in excess of the permissible loan value.

Boston Group Chairman Scores Mayor's Action; Robeson Answers

Boston, Oct. 11.—The banning of a portrait of Paul Robeson from an exhibit of famous Negroes was described today by the chairman of the local display committee as "regrettable and political."

Mayor John H. Hayes barred the actor-singer's portrait from being exhibited in any public building in Boston on the ground that "his philosophies are destructive to the principles of our land."

"The issue of color," he added, "has no significance in this case whatever."

William G. Dooley, chairman of the exhibit committee and director of Education at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, challenged the mayor's action.

"While the committee intends to cooperate in every instance in promoting this Negro Hall of Fame," he said, "it is not a regrettable that politics is entering into it."

Robeson Replies

Robeson issued a statement in New York saying "the mayor of machine-ridden Boston" was attempting to make headlines by "forbidding the free citizens of the proud Bay State to look at my picture."

"He shall have his headline," Robeson added, "but if his aim is to erase from the hearts of the people the kind of life for which I work and speak, he shall not have his objective."

The life-sized painting of the singer is among a collection which has been on tour of principal cities of the nation under the auspices of the Harmon Foundation.

The Foundation said the exhibit was designed to lead to better understanding among racial groups.

32 Foot Refrigerated Truck To Process Human Blood

Schenectady, N. Y., Oct. 11.—A 32-foot, refrigerated truck that will process human blood for medical use was given its first showing today at the National Academy of Sciences meeting, held at the General Electric company's new research laboratory.

The truck is the beginning of a new national blood program. It will be driven directly to donor's homes. In the truck, fresh blood will be processed by new automatic machines that extract every bit of plasma, leaving only the red blood cells.

This water is nearly three-fourths of your blood.

"This human water will contain some alcohol, added to aid blood fraction separation. Because of the alcohol, the Internal Revenue Service requires that the water from blood processed here today be transported to the national blood program."

The truck was demonstrated by Dr. Edwin J. Cohn, director of the Harvard university laboratory of physical chemistry, and a group of scientists who made the blood separation discoveries.

The program, for which this is the first of a dozen or more trucks to be scattered over the United States, is sponsored by the National Institute of Health, Office of the United States Atomic Energy commission. Contributors include John G. Gibson, 2nd Edward H. Renshaw, Jr., and Ced. Walter of Harvard, Maurice Lewis of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Red Cross mobile units will travel with the truck, taking donor blood. In the truck are new apparatus and five new whirling machines, known as centrifuges. The fresh blood first will have its red cells separated by a new process. The red cells will be preserved by new methods and will be given free to doctors for the many medical uses already made of red cells, and for research.

Next the white cells—your protection against infectious disease—will be separated. This is the first time that live white blood cells have been available in quantity. What they are good for is not yet known. They will be tried as medicine, and probably for replacing the white blood cells whose destruction is one cause of

Robeson issued a statement in New York saying "the mayor of machine-ridden Boston" was attempting to make headlines by "forbidding the free citizens of the proud Bay State to look at my picture."

"He shall have his headline," Robeson added, "but if his aim is to erase from the hearts of the people the kind of life for which I work and speak, he shall not have his objective."

Boston Group Chairman Scores Mayor's Action; Robeson Answers

Boston, Oct. 11.—The banning of a portrait of Paul Robeson from an exhibit of famous Negroes was described today by the chairman of the local display committee as "regrettable and political."

Mayor John H. Hayes barred the actor-singer's portrait from being exhibited in any public building in Boston on the ground that "his philosophies are destructive to the principles of our land."

"The issue of color," he added, "has no significance in this case whatever."

William G. Dooley, chairman of the exhibit committee and director of Education at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, challenged the mayor's action.

"While the committee intends to cooperate in every instance in promoting this Negro Hall of Fame," he said, "it is not a regrettable that politics is entering into it."

Seeking DP Work Leads

Dorland S. Sammis, chairman of the State Displaced Persons Committee, today sent letters to 148 leading Connecticut manufacturers to inform them of the skilled and professional refugee manpower pool in centers of the International Refugee Organization in Central Europe.

Mr. Sammis, an industrial executive as well as chairman of the DP Committee, wrote to chief executives of firms employing more than 500 people.

"As chairman of the State Committee on Displaced Persons, I am convinced that DPs, eligible to enter the United States can make a valuable contribution to our displaced persons to meet their needs and to our growing manpower requirements." There are nearly 100,000 professional and skilled refugees in I.R.O. camps in Europe. There are doctors and dentists, architects and engineers. Skilled mechanics and steel workers; machinists and electricians.

During the past two years I.R.O. officials have maintained special schools where these men could work and keep abreast of the most modern developments in their chosen trade.

Total Blood Donors Here Breaks Record

Number Volunteering to Aid Program Is 176 Today; Unit at Center Church All Day Friday

A total of 176 donors, the highest number since the organization of the Manchester Community Blood program in June, are scheduled to give blood here Friday during the Bloodmobile's visit from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. Chairman John D. LaBelle announced this morning. The unit will be stationed at Woodruff Hall at the Center Congregational church.

Fourteen hundred telephone calls another record for one visit were made by local Red Cross workers to contact a sufficient number of donors, LaBelle said. Each donor will be reminded by post card of his appointment.

Donor's blood is used for a variety of purposes, including the treatment of anemia, the transfusion of blood to patients with various types of anemia, and the treatment of hemorrhages.

The chairman pointed out that although indications point to a record number of donors for Friday's visit, the success of the program will depend on the number of donors who appear at the Center church. The Red Cross workers are urged to contact the local Red Cross office for an appointment.

Since June, 193 plates of blood have been sent to the Connecticut Regional Blood program from Manchester. During this same period, the local need for blood has totaled 117.5 pints.

Reason for Demand The continued demand for blood, despite the fortunate turn of events in Korea, is more easily understood from the following figures, LaBelle said. Experience in Korea has shown that an average of 10 pints of blood are needed, over a period of a month, for each wounded man requiring blood. That obvious need, plus the

U. S. to Launch New Cargo Ship

New York—America's new post-war freighter, scheduled to be launched late this fall, may be the foremost of a new line of cargo ships. The S. O. Bland, named in honor of the late William Bland, is a prototype of a type that would serve as a model in the event there is another major production ship construction program to replace the slower Liberty ships of World War II fame.

Not since 1947 has there been a dry cargo vessel turned out by U. S. shipbuilders for American flag operation, according to the American Merchant Marine Institute. While the top speed of the prototype is a secret, its design calls for 30 knots or nearly double that of the Liberty ship and will show the Victory and Cargoes. It will cost $5,000,000 and at 10,500 deadweight tons will have the same capacity as a Liberty ship.

The annual meeting of the Mother's Club will be held at the home of Mrs. George Lang, 800 Hill on Wednesday, October 11 at 7 p. m. The hostesses will be Mrs. Lester Thompson, Mrs. Nelson Warner, Mrs. William Haber, Mrs. Walton Yerger and Mrs. L. B. Whitcomb.

New Theory of How Cancer Begins, Is Told Scientists

Schenectady, N. Y., Oct. 11—(AP)—A very small particle, a fact well established by cancer research. One source of cancer is mutations of single tissue cells, which are changes in hereditary characteristics of a single cell. The general electric researchers from the American society the rates of cancer in human being, people and in plants than in children. The crystal mathematics showed that these differences in cancer in the three age groups were what would be expected if the gene mutation evidence were correct. The elderly, in these mathematics, the more cancer because the accumulation of mutated cells over the years increases the probability of them getting together. For infants the explanation is found in the much faster rate of cell growth during their early period. These crystal mathematics and therefore better chances of them getting together. As from a very small nucleus and grow surprisingly like living things mathematics. Fisher and Hollomon applied these mathematics to cancers. They assumed that a cancer started from

Plan Cerebral Palsy Seminar

Newington, Oct. 11—Cerebral palsy will receive the undivided attention of Connecticut doctors and dentists next week. This afternoon these professional men are meeting at the Newton Home and Hospital for Crippled Children for a Cerebral Palsy seminar jointly by the Council on Dental Health of the Connecticut State Dental Association and the Connecticut State Department of Health. The program consists of four three-quarter hour sessions, coordinated by a half-hour discussion period. Louis Spitzer, M.D., chief of the Division of Crippled Children, Bureau of Maternal and Child Hygiene, Connecticut State Department of Health, will present patients to illustrate his remarks on the medical aspects of cerebral palsy. He will be followed by Edward Reder, D.D.S., attending Dental Surgeon, Newton Home and Hospital for Crippled Children, who will discuss the dental techniques involved in the care of cerebral palsy patients. The staff of the Newton Home and Hospital for Crippled Children will give demonstrations of occupational and speech therapy. Concluding the formal portion of the program will be a presentation of the New York Plan for Dental Treatment of Cerebral Palsy, by James Jay D.D.S., president, and Robert Fisher, D.D.S., secretary-treasurer, Dental Guidance Council for Cerebral Palsy, New York City.

Looking for POWER? Better Buy Buick!

THAT bold bonnet that stretches out before your eyes on a 1950 Buick isn't there just for show. Lift it up, and you'll find that the space beneath is abundantly occupied, by one of the biggest hoodfuls of power you'll find in any motorcar. But the best way to find out what all this horsepower is to touch off the eager response out on the highway by a gentle nudge of your toe—and feel your shoulders press deep in the cushions behind them. Now all this sounds thrilling, you say, but how about the feed-bills for all these horses? How about miles-per-gallon? Your Buick dealer is eager for the chance to demonstrate how sound this hint really is. The practical answer to that one is found in this year's experience with the SUPER and SPECIAL—and even the ROADMASTER. In all three, the horsepower was stepped up at the start of the year—and in all three, happy owners report the best mileage in modern Buick experience.

Gas Pipeline Still Growing

Texas-N. Y. Line Now Ready to Cross Hudson; 1,840 Miles Long

By NEA Service
Edgewater, N. J. — (NEA) — Down the rocky sides of the Fall-ades snakes a 26-inch pipeline. One end dips into the Hudson River at Edgewater, across from Manhattan; the other in 1,840 miles away at Corpus Christi, Tex.

It is a milestone that marks the coming of age of natural gas, a commodity that for years went up in smoke and flames in the old days because there was no way to make use of it.

Every gather that is brought in has millions of cubic feet of the gas. Residents near the fields got the benefits of the low-cost gas but they could only use a small part of it. Unaccounted millions of dollars worth of it was burned off.

World War II and the oil shortage helped change the picture. To carry oil that was being lost in torpedoes, tankers and pipelines, the government built the Big and Little Inch pipelines. At war's end, they were sold to a syndicate which began shipping natural gas instead of oil.

Today, there are 292,000 miles of pipelines in service, and when New York is linked to the rest of the country, the Pacific Northwest will be without natural gas. According to W. P. Jones, the nation's top gas application manufacturer, by the end of 1950 the pipeline will account for 20 per cent of the nation's total fuel energy.

The pipeline system is being expanded at the rate of seven to nine thousand miles a year at more than $600,000,000 annually and by 1954, experts expect even major industrial area in the country will be served.

U. S. Aid Helping France Rebuild Steel Industry

Paris (NEA) — In two years, France's richest iron ore region will signify one of the Marshall Plan's top industrial recovery projects on the European continent.

To France, this project called "SOLLAC" is a trump card in meeting her 1953 steel capacity target of 12.5 million metric tons. The project is a joint venture of more automobiles, more radios, more refrigerators and combines with other steel enterprises, an anticipated national income of $23,000,000 annually in foreign exchange.

In 1930 France produced 9,472,000 tons of steel, 10 per cent of world production. Because of war damage and other disruptions, by 1945 production had dropped to 1,861,000 tons.

Without financial assistance from ECA, the French steel industry has been able to reinstall and reactivate the blast furnaces required to bring French production to 9,124,000 tons, only three per cent less than the 1930 production.

SOLLAC (Societe Lorraine de Laminage Continu) is an organization of nine leading iron and steel firms which have been given priority to modernize the industry and boost production. The project is located near Hayange.

France's new steel mills are expected to reduce even eliminate sheet and tin plate imports. In 1948, France and her overseas territories imported 24,000 tons of sheet and tin plate at a cost of $18,000,000 in foreign exchange.

When both projects are working at capacity, France hopes to be able to export 200,000 tons of tin sheets and 50,000 tons of tin plate, or about 17 per cent of her tin output. This means that $23,000,000 in foreign exchange — a big help in France's overall trade picture.

While SOLLAC is being financed by government loan and ECA aid, it is an entirely private enterprise, with no government participation in the company or its administration.

Draft Rejects No Reflection

State Health Dept. Explains Reason for 70 P. C. of Draftees

Hartford, Oct. 11.—The rejection of 70 per cent of the Connecticut draftees, on mental or physical grounds, during July and August does not reflect the true health picture for the state. This week's health bulletin of the Connecticut State Department of Health points out that the selectees recently examined were men, 23 to 25 years old, who had not seen previous military service. In 1945, these men were between 18 and 20 years of age and were prime candidates for conscription. A large number of them had been examined and rejected for service as many as three or four times during World War II.

"Under the circumstances," says the bulletin, "it seems more surprising—perhaps gratifying—that 30 per cent of the selectees in this age group were recently found qualified."

Actually, the bulletin reports since 1945 the health of the people of the state has continued to improve. The total death rate has been reduced 5 per cent and infant mortality has dropped 26 per cent.

The bulletin attributes this improvement to the conquest of some of the diseases which account for a sizeable number of deaths in people under 60 years of age. Since 1945 the tuberculosis death rate has declined from 35.2 per 100,000 to 21.5. The pneumonia rate has dropped from 29.9 to 13.2. The death rate for a group of acute communicable diseases (typhoid fever, diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles, poliomyelitis, etc.) fell from 9.0 in 1945 to 2.5 in 1949.

The Economic Cooperation Administration, throwing its financial backing into the enterprise, has earmarked $48,000,000 for equipment. The balance of the cost is expected to come from the French counterpart fund and the modernization fund and normal financial channels and the purchase of labor and materials to be obtained in France.

The SOLLAC project's 80-inch mill frequently is referred to as "the second continuous strip mill." Construction work on a 66-inch mill at Dennin, in the northern French coal basin began in 1947 and is being completed with the help of $12,000,000 in Marshall Plan funds.

France's new steel mills are expected to reduce even eliminate sheet and tin plate imports. In 1948, France and her overseas territories imported 24,000 tons of sheet and tin plate at a cost of $18,000,000 in foreign exchange.

The Doctor Says

Convalescence Is Important Part of Cure for Any Disease

By Edwin F. Jordan M. D. Chief of Staff for NEA Service

Few people go through life without at some time encountering a more or less serious illness. The disease has been severe and long-lasting, good health does not exist once, even when the symptoms have all gone. Normal vigor and pep may take a long time to return.

This period between the end of the active symptoms of a disease and the recovery of good health is called convalescence. People are often somewhat discouraged when convalescence seems to drag on for a long time. Yet convalescence from a disease or an operation is an important part of the picture and requires understanding and good medical care.

An unusual amount of rest is almost always necessary. At first rest in bed is generally required. The person who gets up too soon or stays up too long may suffer a relapse which delays the return of perfect health. The motto of convalescence should be: "Do everything gradually."

At first a short period out of bed in a chair is in order. The periods of bed rest are gradually extended to other rooms, other floors, and the outside world. The amount of fatigue shown after the period of being up is a good sign as to whether they have been too long or just right.

In addition to gradually increasing the activity, plenty of sleep and rest is essential. Convalescence is a period of rebuilding and requires frequent small meals rather than a few large ones.

Don't be impatient. The inclusion of special foods at this time depends on the disease or operation experienced and must be individually prescribed. The principle of small frequent meals is almost always the same, however, regardless of the type of illness suffered.

Relaxation and realization of the fact that the recuperation process is slow is an important factor. Many people are impatient to get well and tend to take chances too soon. The gradual increase of activity, proper diet and relaxation of normal life is the best guarantee that convalescence will progress as rapidly as can reasonably be expected. The care used during this period has a great deal to do with eventual complete recovery.

Lexington, Ky. — (NEA) — There are lots of wealthy people around. Some have mink jackets and gold-plated collars. But Nigel the Sultan, a handsome Dalmatian, is the only dog who has his own checking account.

His paw-print is on file at the Security Trust Company here, among the signatures of the bank's other accounts. And his checks are cashed by the bank and honored. It's all very legal.

Nigel's checking account was set up for him by his owner, J. H. Ransom. Ransom figured Nigel deserved it. After all, he was earning a comfortable income as stud, making anywhere from $50 to $250 a piece for the public. As a successful businessman, Nigel should be able to spend a little here and there for little luxuries like beer and dog biscuits if he wanted to.

It's a typical American story of success. Nigel is the son of an immigrant. His father Nigel of Welford, capped a brilliant career as a show dog with a championship Garden dog show.

The younger Nigel was well on his way to follow his father until an accident ended his career in his chosen profession. His leg was cut by a mower. But the versatile Nigel immediately took up another profession, a stud dog. Ransom bought him four years ago. He wanted a sire with distinct black rings around his eyes, something his other Dalmatians checked. Nigel obligingly produced sons and daughters with black eyes.

And now, the successful entrepreneur has his own checking account, with a picture of himself in the corner of each check. He has his own stationery, too, with the same picture on it.

The bankers aren't worried about the account. They know Nigel as an outstanding member of the community who has a steady income. They don't figure on encountering any check frauds on his funds becoming insufficient.

But there is one thing puzzling them—how will Nigel manage to balance his account each month?

Young Working Wife Must Not Hate To Retire To Her Home

Her parents think she hasn't any business marrying him until she can support her. But he and she both think it's silly for them to wait when they could be married now if she got a job, too.

Who is right? Well, you can't blame parents for wanting to know that a man is able to support his daughter without any help. For parents are old enough to know that the unforeseen can come along to spoil the best-laid plans.

Suppose she should have a baby and have to quit her job? Suppose she should find out that combining a job and housekeeping puts too great a strain on her—as many women have found? Suppose this man she is about to marry gets so used to having his wife help earn the living that he comes to expect it as a permanent arrangement?

Those are the questions that pop into parents' minds—and you can't answer them for them. It is often better to marry young, even though it means that both husband and wife will have to work, than to wait until the young man is able to support a wife.

It seems to me any young couple today has a perfect right to try the experiment.

One word of warning, though. They should set a definite time limit on how long the wife is to continue working. Whether it is for one year, or for two or three—that should be understood and agreed upon when they marry.

Otherwise they are likely to set a pattern of living that is dependent on both holding jobs. And while that is all right, so long as it is understood that it is temporary, it isn't good over a long term period.

Why? Because a couple keeping together by starting a family, a man gets used to the idea of having both with the job of earning a living. A woman gets worn out trying to hold down two jobs. And a couple geared to living on two salaries acquires a lot of wants they consider necessary and which they couldn't get along without.

Tel Aviv, Israel.—(AP)—Communist demonstrators halted a United States information service film on Korea off the screens in two Tel Aviv theaters.

Showing of the film had been approved by the Israeli censorship board. But the cinema, fearing the Communists might rush up and try to damage their screens, ordered the projection stopped.

Let's, pharmacists and nurses. It was formed to enable these professional people, acting as individual American citizens, to take an organized, active part in public affairs. Specifically, in the current political campaign, it is working actively on behalf of state and national candidates who have organized the Executive Committee of 31 members that, if elected, they will vote against all attempts at government control of private medicine.

The AMAAC is strictly non-partisan. It is not financed or subsidized by any political party or group. It is not concerned with the propagation and stocking of fish and game. We favor a long term State program to acquire steadily more forest acreage for recreational and conservation purposes. Recreation has become an increasingly important part of the Connecticut industry. The subject of conservation should be given a much more prominent part in the education of our youth.

candidate of Senator McMahon for the six-year term also was endorsed after he convinced the Executive Committee of his intention to vote against government control. At the same time, the candidacy of John Davis Lodge for Governor was endorsed, as well as the following Congressional candidates: Harry Schwelby, 1st District; Ellsworth B. A public announcement also was made of this action, and the statement listed the new endorsements as well as the September 8 endorsements. Unfortunately some newspapers and wire services deleted the paragraph listing the previous endorsements, evidently on the assumption that it was old news rather than an integral part of the new story. As a result, the endorsement of Senator McMahon was widely publicized and, with the deletion of the paragraph with Mr. Talbot's name, the impression became widespread that Senator McMahon was favored and Mr. Talbot was opposed.

This definitely is not correct. The AMAAC has given its endorsement to both candidates. Thomas M. Francis, M.D., State Chairman. At a meeting September 29, the

BLUE CROSS CASE Number 682,415 Tommy Murphy Age: 3 1/2 Address: Cost of Serum Albumen During 21 Days of Hospital Care . . . $995.00 Paid by Connecticut Blue Cross . . . 995.00

That's the story of what Blue Cross SERVICE BENEFITS meant to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Murphy of Hartford when 3 1/2-year-old Tommy went to the hospital last summer.

Actually, there's more to the story than that, for Tommy's total Blue Cross benefits came to $1,271. But like most hospital bills these days, by far the biggest item was one of the expensive SPECIAL SERVICES which Blue Cross members receive regardless of cost for 21 days in any Blue Cross member hospital when the doctor prescribes them as necessary.

In Tommy's case, it was Serum Albumen. It might have been penicillin . . . streptomycin . . . aureomycin . . . or any of the new "miracle drugs" now in general use.

It could have been X-rays . . . oxygen and serums . . . laboratory service . . . use of the operating room . . . physiotherapy . . . or any of the other Blue Cross SPECIAL SERVICES.

Whatever the cost, whatever amount is needed, these services are covered in full for 3 weeks each year when necessary for the patient's treatment.

This is the Blue Cross SERVICE principle . . . just one of the reasons why over half the population of Connecticut now holds membership in Connecticut Blue Cross.

Urge Dress Care For House Work

Hartford, Oct. 11.—Elaborate dresses and shoes may be beautiful in a night club but they are not safe for working in the home. In the current issue of its weekly health bulletin, the Connecticut State Department of Health stresses the advice of the National Safety Council, for women to wear trim clothes while doing house work.

The bulletin points out that long, dangling sleeves or flimsy, fluffy clothes are to be shunned for neat, sturdy garments. They can catch on to pan handles, ignite from the flames of the stove and otherwise cause painful accidents. Diagonal pockets have less tendency to catch than straight pockets. Short skirts allow free motion. It's a good plan, too, to avoid a skirt or apron that shows when cooking. This lessens danger from burns by spattering fat or hot boiling liquids.

Wearing long, non-skid rubber-soled shoes is advised for the house. Rubber soles tend to prevent electrical shock, and a scarf tied around the head will keep the hair out of the machinery, while busy in the laundry.

A son, Norman Frank, was born October 2 to Mr. and Mrs. John W. Leigler of Hartford, formerly of South Coventry, at the Hartford hospital. The baby weighed eight pounds at birth. The baby's paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Miller as general chairman in charge. Following the arrival of the children at the Center, the costumes will be judged according to the following age groups: three years; three years through five years; six years through ten years; and children over 10 years of age. Each class will be judged according to the prettiest, funniest and most original costumes with prizes to be awarded to the three winners in each age group. Games for children under six years of age will be under the direction of a committee to be contacted in one of the downstairs classrooms of the building. Games for children six years of age and up will be held in the auditorium. Mrs. Alex D. Proulx has been elected refreshment chairman and she will choose a committee to assist her. Judges of the costumes will be announced at a later date. Volunteer services of persons able to assist with the program as well as donations from local clubs and organizations are being urged. New Grable Hit Circle Offering Betty Grable is the nation's top box-office attraction and her fan mail proves it. The blonde actress, currently co-starred with Dan Dailey in the Twentieth Century-Fox Technicolor musical, "My Blue Heaven," which opens Thursday at the Circle theater, averages no less than 11,000 letters a week—better than 800,000 a year! Throughout her years in films Betty's popularity has continued to grow. Her recent profile in the Saturday Evening Post, making her as the world's most popular blonde, has helped it.

Turkey Meat To Be Tested

Nine State Growers in Competition Thursday To Determine Quality

Storrs, Oct. 11.—The nine Connecticut turkey growers who are the contestants in the state's first turkey-of-tomorrow contest will learn tomorrow how successful they have been in producing turkey meat economically.

Two tom and two hen turkeys, selected by each grower from the 100 he has grown especially for the contest, and New York dressed, will be exhibited for judging as one of the features of the Connecticut "Turkey Producers" Association meeting at the University of Connecticut tomorrow.

The contest was announced by E. Jones, poultryman with the Agricultural Extension Service at the Storrs, Conn., campus, Oct. 10. He said that the contest is one of $50 and a plaque. Four other prizes are $50, $20 and $10, also will be awarded to the first, second and third place winners.

Believed to be the first turkey contest of this kind in the country, it started on April 28 when each contestant began growing his 100 turkeys in a separate plot and keeping a record of the amount and cost of feed they ate. Judges will be Prof. John V. Dell of the University of Massachusetts, Amesbury, and Prof. Frank A. Ryan of the University of Connecticut.

Official features of the meeting, which will begin at 10 a. m., include talks and demonstrations by the contest judges, Dr. E. A. Jones, a talk on the outlook for turkey producers by Dr. J. A. Peregau, head of the University's agricultural economics department, and a talk by Prof. Wendell Phillips J. Wadhams, manager of the Connecticut Farmers' Cooperative Association. East Hartford, will discuss the turkey storage situation, and Carl Volz of the State Department of Farm and Markets will announce the Connecticut yellow tag turkey marketing program for 1950-51.

The meeting will close with a discussion of reasons why all Connecticut turkeys should be sold at retail, by William H. Hutchins, president of the Connecticut Turkey Producers Association.

A turkey steak dinner will be available at noon.

Vet Pilots Learn to Fly With Powerless Planes

By Jack Chandler NEA Staff Correspondent
Half Day, Ill.—(NEA)—Soaring like a bird in an everyday setting, the school in the Mohawks Flight Institute, one of three glider flight training centers in the U. S. and the only one which has Veterans Administration approval for GI training.

Why do ex-military aviators qualified to handle airplanes with power want to learn to fly without it?

"For a power pilot to develop confidence, skill and judgment, learning to fly a glider can't be beat," explains Joe Steinhauer, veteran gliderman who runs the school.

Power planes call for "more technical knowledge," but real skill, says Steinhauer, and he can cite many instances when pilots whose rights went dead were able to use the skill gathered in glider training to make safe landings.

Steinhauer's flying classroom weighs from 350 to 450 pounds and has wingspans of from 32 to 46 feet. Only instruments are a tow line release, compass, altimeter, and a delicate device which shows whether the glider is gaining or losing altitude.

Technically, gliding is steady downward flight without a motor after the plane has gained altitude by being towed or launched by a winch. Soaring, in an advanced form of gliding in which the pilot takes advantage of wind, heat

Fire Prevention Week—Checklist
Fire Prevention Week (October 8-15) is upon us. How effective and how successful it will be in our community depends on how seriously it is taken by each one of us. Some of our readers may wonder just what they are supposed to do during Fire Prevention Week. The answer is that there are no rigid rules but that there are a few simple suggestions that are worth following because they might help save your life.

Here they are, in the form of a 60-second questionnaire:

1. Do you know how to turn on an alarm? (Do you know where your nearest alarm box is?)

2. Have you and your family rehearsed just what you would do in case fire broke out in various parts of your home?

3. Have you cleaned out your basement lately to be sure it's as fire-safe as possible?

4. Is your attic a fire-trap?

5. Do you have the proper types of extinguishers at various potential danger points in your home?

6. Are you sure all your extinguishers are "approved by the Underwriters?"

7. Are matches kept in a safe place, away from children?

8. Has the electrical wiring in your home been checked by a competent electrician during the past year?

9. Has your chimney been inspected for fire cracks and other possible defects within the past six months?

10. Are paints, varnishes and flammable cleaning fluids stored in a safe place in closed containers?

11. Are oily rags and mops kept in closed containers at all times when not in use?

12. Do you have an adequate supply of ash trays?

Yes, they seem like simple questions. But each one is there for a reason. This is one quiz where, if you miss a single answer, you are leaving yourself wide open for trouble and disaster. Why take a chance, this week or any week?

Grant's Noting Its 44th Year

First in Chain Opened in Lynn, Mass., in 1906; Special Sale

The W. T. Grant company of 513 Main street this month celebrates its 44th anniversary and is holding a special sale from Oct. 12-21 to commemorate the event. The first Grant store was opened in 1906 in Lynn, Mass., by William T. Grant, who is presently chairman of the Board of Directors, and was the first 25-cent department store in the country.

Lawrence Vachon, manager of the local branch, has announced that, as a special feature of the "Grant's Noting" all Manchester couples who are celebrating their 44th wedding anniversary this month will be presented with an anniversary cake baked to order by Key's Pastry Shop on North Main street.

The local store is presently in the midst of extensive alterations and an addition that will make it one of the largest and most attractive department stores in Manchester. Work is scheduled for completion in February.

"Must render genuine service."

Using as a touchstone his belief that "He who would achieve success must first render genuine service," Mr. Grant has developed his business from that single Lynn store to a huge chain with 181 stores in 29 states spreading from the Atlantic to the Pacific seaboard.

The first W. T. Grant store in 1906 grossed $1,500 in its first year of business. In 1949, the massive Grant chain passed the $200,000,000 mark in yearly receipts. The million dollar mark was passed in 1941, ten million in 1947, and 100 million dollars was the gross for 1949.

Marine Wins Race With 6-Foot Bear

Marines Corps Air Station, Cherry Point, N. C. — (AP) Pvt. Robert A. Switzer, USMC, recently proclaimed the world's "fastest man," unofficially, when he out-paced a six-foot bear in a treadmill encounter.

Switzer, on guard duty, was armed only with a night stick when the bear tried to crawl through the window of the guard shack. The Leatherneck fled for the door and headed for the nearest shelter which was a few feet away.

He sprinted over the threshold of the plant a few bounds ahead of his pursuer.

Henceforth sentries assigned to this particular post will be armed with shot guns.

Ellington

Mr. and Mrs. Empson Aborn of Maple street will celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary by holding an open house Sunday, October 15, from 3 to 7 p. m. They were married at Mrs. Aborn's home in Newport, Vt., and following a wedding tour they came to Ellington to live where Mr. Aborn is engaged in farming. The couple have four children, Duane, a student at the Howell Cheney School in Manchester, Dale a student at the University of Connecticut, Jean who is employed at the Connecticut Mutual Insurance Company and resides in Hartford, and Janet who is Mrs. Robert Thompson, resident in Ellington.

Dr. Francis Birc announced there will be a newspaper, magazine, scrap metal and rag collection by the Ellington Boy Scouts, Saturday, October 14, beginning at 8 a. m. Those who have papers and magazines kindly tie them in bundles and place at the curb.

The ABC group 3 led by A. Benvenuto Society are requested to meet in the Hall Monday, October 16, at 7:30 to make plans for the first in the series of church suppers that are held annually.

The Ellington Assessors, Charles E. Fressler, Jr. and Clement A. Rasi have announced that they will be at the following places at the houses named to receive lists of taxable property: Crystal Lake, Pritchard, Saturday, October 14, from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Quality, Ellington avenue, Saturday, October 21, from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. and November 1, a. m. to 5 p. m.

Ellington Grange will hold a "Booker T. Washington" meeting in the Ellington Town Hall Friday, October 13 at 8 p. m. This meeting is open to the public in which an entertainment will be presented by the committee. The supper hall refreshments will be served by the committee.

Mrs. Mary B. Hale and her daughter and grandchildren spent Friday visiting former, night club and friends in Ellington returning to their home in Ellington.

Plans are in the offing for the annual Friendly Club banquet which will be held in November in Ellington. Organized by the club, Ernest Gerber and daughter Betty Lou of Maple street have returned from a visit with Mr. Gerber's secretary and daughter, Mrs. and Mrs. Simeon Stoller, in Ellington. They made the trip out with Mrs. Gerber's son, Melvin Gerber who has been vacationing in Ellington and returned with her husband-in-law, Walter Gerber of Norwich.

Joker Furnishes His Own Dinner

Mound City, Ill. — (AP) A prankster invited 25 guests to dinner at the home of James Finley, Mound City school superintendent. He instructed some of the "guests" to slip out and raid the suspect's own kitchen. They gathered coffee, cakes and utensils, returned to the Finley home, and served the lot.

The suspect knew his own silver and his wife recognized her own cakes," Finley chuckled.

Hebron

It is estimated that a crowd of more than 200 attended the Republican rally and dance Saturday evening, Oct. 7. The program opened with a dance before the speaking with the local youngsters playing the party was held in the new school auditorium, and there was plenty of room for one. Horace Seely-Brown of Post-Office Center, candidate opposing Mrs. Chase Going Woodhouse for the U. S. Congress, spoke vigorously against the Truman administration, blaming the Korean war, the atomic bomb, the administration for its spending during the past four or five years, with a resulting tax increase. He didn't give the administration any credit for victory in the present hostilities, but claimed it was all due to the grace of God, General MacArthur's genius and the sweat and blood of our boys.

Vote Republican to avoid a repetition of such measures, was the gist of his conclusions.

Everybody had a good time, and there were Democrats present as well as Republicans.

Edwin T. Smith, who is nearing his 80th year, is reported in a serious condition at his home at Burrows Hill, Hebron. He has been in failing health due to old age and rheumatism. Mrs. Harry H. Kirkham was with him as nurse and last heard from him. His daughter, Miss Florence E. Smith, was home from her school duties in West Hartford. Mr. Smith is probably Hebron's oldest inhabitant.

Week end visitors at the home of Mrs. E. G. Lord were her son-in-law and daughter, the Rev. and Mrs. Howard C. Champs of Shelton, their daughter, Miss Ruth Champe and Mr. and Mrs. Gorton I. Will and sons of Yonkers, N. Y.

The Champe returned to Shelton in time for the Sunday services. Mrs. Annie Champe, who is recuperating from the effects of a broken hip, sustained about a week ago, and who is being cared for by Mrs. Harry H. Kirkham at her home at Hebron Center, had a week end visitors, her brother

Inventor Opens His Own Factory

Racine, Wis. — (AP) If necessity is the mother of invention, then Albert J. Dremel has many needs. He owns patents on 65 devices used in the home, office and shop. Dremel, 62, has invented home appliances, electric, photograph motors, electric clippers and small power tools.

His first important invention was a widely used wringer with a special fast-opening safety device. That started him on a series of Dremel inventions that have put him in the manufacturing business for several years. More than one man fell before her sword, and pistol. She was condemned to hang but "Moto-Tool." It is a small grinder used by home craftsmen and hobbyists. His newest invention is an electric eraser. The machine was created for architects, accountants and other whose work requires pinpoint erasing.

Calm and Cool

Pure water if absolutely calm will not freeze as quickly as agitated water. It can be reduced to several degrees below the freezing point without congealing, but a slight shaking will cause it to solidify quickly.

Female Photo

One of the most daring pirates of the Spanish Main was a woman, Mary Read. More than one man fell before her sword, and pistol. She was condemned to hang but "Moto-Tool." Green's PTA Plans Auction

Will Be Held at Rear of School on Saturday Morning, October 21

That ever popular chant of the auctioneer will soon be heard at the Green School. The Green PTA is conducting an auction to be held in the rear of the school Saturday morning, October 21, at 10:30 a. m.

Planned as its major project of the year, the PTA hopes it will receive the support of the community and the town as a whole. All cleaning will be made that much easier when it is known where those items stored away in the attic, cellar, or closet may be sent.

The committee in charge will accept all and any kind of goods to be auctioned. Such items as children's toys, clothing, furniture, dishes and appliances always prove popular.

In order to take care of the appetites, refreshments will be sold during the auction.

If anyone has items they would like to have picked up, they may call Mrs. Leon Huettner, 2-4131.
