Heard Along Main Street

And on Some of Manchester's Side Streets, Too

We have been puzzled, for some time, over some of the designs and visions which seem to attach themselves, automatically and by custom, to certain seasons.

Why is it always a "rising young barrister"? As far as we can observe, attorneys are like other people. Some go up, and some go down, and some of those who go down go down sooner than they need to if they had cool heads in the hand life deals them.

Then why is it always a "struggling young doctor"? What are they struggling about—the business of fitting their incomes into their bank accounts?

Why the "energetic" or "up and coming" young businessman? We know some young businessmen who are pretty clever in a very quiet, lazy way.

There here is the young mortician who has his feet on the ground and, in this age of fourth estate activity, the "dignified young newspaperman" and others which bear no relationship to reality. There is only one adjective we would really apply to some young careers and that is "promising." If they have the talent for "promising" they are likely to prosper and somebody "to be watched," as in "keep an eye on that young fellow," is going places. Wethersfield maybe. We like, too, that supreme tribute, "he has a head on his shoulders," primarily because we like to imagine how fine future Mr. Big would get along without one.

A stray black and white mongrel dog tried last week to get into the gas chamber set up in Dagl Warden Lee Frachia's especially constructed dog catcher truck in the garden beamed from ear to ear.

The episode all started while Warden Frachia was servicing a car at the service station. The little dog came running into the yard. He did not have a license on his collar. The dog watched sniffing around and finally jumped into the cab of the truck. He was there but a few minutes when he decided around to the back of the truck and tried to get into the dog catcher's ever cage. However, he wasn't content there and kept sniffing.

Finally, he jumped down to the ground and then walked up the gas chamber door entrance. The warden opened the chamber door and the stronged went inside. He crawled up in a corner and was soon off to sleep.

Several hours later the dog got up and ran back home. The dog was recognized by a passerby and when last seen it was back with its owner. Oh yes, the dog was properly licensed but the tag had become lost in the yard.

Vacation time means a period of freedom from worries and day-to-day responsibilities. Unfortunately, many of us over-do the festive spirit to the extent that we even shed ordinary good driving habits as completely as we do our regular business clothes.

A safety slogan for the month of July is "Have a Safe Trip and take your manners with you."

Relaxation of ordinary courtesy combines with the abnormally high mileage driven in July to produce a constant hazard to the millions of persons who take their vacations at this time of the year. All vacationists should bear in mind that they are someone's guest every moment they are away from home. Every discourteous example of driving reflects both on them, personally and on the state represented by their license plate. Death never has two weeks off with pay.

The latest official word on the country's fire loss standing from the National Board of Fire Underwriters certainly doesn't make good reading. Although losses for the month of May showed a decrease of .03 per cent compared with the same period last year, the overall picture for the first five months of 1951 is discouraging.

As of May 31 this year the nation had lost $531,038,000 due to fire. Last year's five-month total was seven per cent less. With more than half the year to be recorded, we may even beat last year's staggering total. And it's not much for the country to be proud of—when fire safety experts still insist 90 per cent of this needless waste could be eliminated with commonsense fire prevention and fire protection.

Although these figures are not synonymous, both of them aim at the same goal—the ultimate reduction of loss of life and property as a resulting of fire. If you manage to contribute them effectively in your daily routine, you can be pretty sure you're doing your part to make the country more fire-safe.

Fire prevention boils down to a continuing program—at home and in industry—of plain old-fashioned "good housekeeping." Any fireman can tell you that the saying "a clean place seldom burns" is more than a well-worn phrase.

In spite of apparently sound fire prevention, many fires still occur. That's where fire protection enters the picture. Many small fires can be kept under control with relatively small damage through more effective use of such fire protection equipment as approved extinguishers. It's not enough to have these life-saving weapons on hand. Learn how to use them so you won't be helpless in the face of emergency.

Let's see it we can't make the fire picture for 1951 brighter by the time the next National Board report rolls in.

Thanks to Mrs. Claribel Carr, 59 Foster street. Heard Along now has some copies of the Herald dated 1921 the year in which Manchester celebrated its Centennial. We are indebted to Mrs. Carr for some very interesting reading.

The Centennial celebration was quite an affair. The Herald, which boasted a circulation of 3,952, published a special edition. Chief of Police Samuel G. Gordon lined up 35 men, many of them recruited from the state police, to handle the celebrating crowds. The Waranoke Hotel was featuring a special Centennial dinner. Over 35,000 people turned out to view the pageant of Manchester's history.

And here are other glimpses of Manchester yesterday:

The Manchester Trust Co. was celebrating its 15th anniversary. . . . Cook's Cider Mill advertised cider in 1-5-10 and 50 gallon jugs, kegs and barrels. . . . Colleen Moore and Antonio Moreno were playing in "Look Your Best" at the Circle in "an irresistibly funny picture that will make fat folks thin and thin folks fat with laughing."

E. J. Holl was described as "the largest real estate proprietor and one of the biggest individual property owners in town". . . . R. J. Smith was advertising a new two-family house with bathroom, laundry tubs, electricity, cement walks and cellar plus seven building lots for $5,500, 12-room house for $8,000 that "would cost about $8,500 to build," and "a single cottage of five rooms and bath" for $3,600.

The Connecticut Company ran a big ad picturing one of its 98 "high-speed" cars and traveled between Hartford and Manchester in 40 minutes. The Hupmobile and Oakland Six opened a "new home" at 14 Eldridge street, the Manchester Motor Sales Co.

A leading automobile company, the name one which recently was the first to "go modern" in car design, sponsored a full-page ad pointing out that "wooden" bumpers are unnecessary, mechanically impractical, and dangerous in the hands of unskilled drivers" and "will cause more accidents and trouble in a month than they will prevent in a year."

Chenery Mills' 21 covered 36½ acres and employed 4,500. Manchester had 110 tobacco growers from the small farms up to the big plantations. . . . Bon Ami had been made in Manchester for 37 years and hadn't scratched yet.

Radio was enriching everyone's language, the paper said. . . . The R. F. Hilliard Co. had operated continuously for more than 120 years. . . . The celebrators hailed such are protection equipment as approved extinguishers. It's not enough to have these life-saving weapons on hand. Miss Jane E. Sitenan

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Sitman of 22 F. St. James street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss June Eileen Sitman, to Thomas Alden Bailey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alden E. Bailey of 382 Main street.

Miss Sitenan is a graduate of Mount St. Joseph Academy and a senior at Lasel Junior College, Auburdale, Mass. Mr. Bailey is a graduate of Manchester High school and Boston University General College. He is a senior at Boston University School of Law, and a member of Lamba Chi Alpha fraternity.

Later in the evening they decided to take a trip on a miniature train that winds about the outskirts of the park. Everyone enthusiastically agreed it was a fine idea.

The air was warm and the trip was cool and the ride was thrilling almost. It was near the end of the line where the train passes by some bushes. Seems that some little monsters had their own idea of what is amusing in an amusement park.

As the train passed the thicket, a couple of buckets of water descended over several confused passengers—including our friends and hubby.

The unexpected bath failed to dampen wife's spirits. She just laughed and laughed. The New Yorkers got a kick out of it too. But the harder wifey laughed, the more hubby burned. It would only have been spray on a speed-boat ride, she giggled.

But the water didn't douse the fire in hubby's eye and he sought out the manager. An agreement was reached whereby the water-logged ones would have their clothes cleaned and send the bill to the manager.

Now that it's all over, even hubby can laugh and say, "I thought it was funny right from the start."

Children love pets and are always ready to take one to take another into their hearts. A case in point: A local family on their way home from vacation in a distant state stopped at a place where they raised rabbits. The children admired a group of little, almost black, bunnies and pleaded with their parents to buy one. The owner explained that they didn't sell them at that age but would give them one. They brought it home, hunted up a strawberry crate and took the best of care of it for a week or more; fed it lettuce leaves and clover, and took it out of the crate for exercise on the lawn. They didn't know that a cat in the neighborhood had been watching its opportunity for a meal of tender rabbit meat and was seen making off with it.

They did in the meantime told a friend about the new pet, when he was reminded that a state law prevents rabbits and a number of other things being brought into Connecticut without a permit. By the time he was ready to obey the law, the little animal was gone and another pet had replaced it—a young robin not able to fly was engrossing the attention of the children. The couple who found it on their lawn had been feeding it with baby food and giving it water through a medicine dropper. The mother had probably met the same death as the little rabbit through another carnivorous cat.

Now, here's a new one. Did you ever hear of anyone getting himself pinched?

One night last week a call was received at Police Headquarters. The party reported a disturbance at the home around 3 o'clock in the morning. A patrol car went to the scene. When the officer got through investigating, he found the party that called was the responsible person for the disturbance and arrested that person on a charge of intoxication.

That's what is called doing your duty to society, reporting a disturbance, even if you are the cause yourself.

Local Guard Unit Praised

Commendation Is Given To Manchester Company by Commander

At a ceremony preceding the Regimental Parade held Friday, July 15, at Camp Lodge, Niantic, Conn., the following commendation was read to the men of the 2nd Battalion, Connecticut State Guard.

HEADQUARTERS
2nd Bn. 1st Inf. Regt. CSG
CAMP LODGE
NIANTIC, CT.
13 JULY, 1951

SUBJECT: COMMENDATION.
TO: THE OFFICERS AND MEN
CSG
NIANTIC, CT.

1. The Battalion Commander wishes to express his commendations and appreciation to the Officers and Enlisted Men of Headquarters Company, Manchester, Conn., for:

a. The excellent team work and the outstanding cleanliness and appearance of the quarters assigned to Headquarters Company.

b. To Headquarters Company for their splendid cooperation in the execution of all administration duties within the Battalion.

2. In recognition of the above, Headquarters Company is awarded Gold Bar Streamers for Excellence and Blue Streamers for skillful performance of duties.

Fobian E. Johnson,
Lt. Col. Inf., Commanding.

This special commendation is only one given to any Headquarters company of the regiment. It testifies to the effort that the Manchester unit has put forth and upended building the local unit into a crack outfit. Later that afternoon the company drew applause and numerous compliments from the spectators as they passed in review before Lt. Col. Allen, Col. Butler and many other distinguished guests.

The 1st Regt. C. S. G. arrived in Niantic about 10 a. m. Sunday, July 8th and immediately set about making camp. Double decker beds with comfortable mattresses were assigned and made up, personal clothing and equipment were hung in correct order and by 12:30 the troops sat down to a Sunday dinner of half a roast chicken plus fixings per men. In order to give more time for training, all food service and KP duties were performed by a caterer and the quality and variety of food served was excellent. The enlisted men were served cafeteria style, eating from compartmented trays. Religious services were held at 2 p. m.

Little known to many Connecticut residents, the establishment at Camp Lodge is one of the largest and best equipped State owned military reservations in the United States. There are sufficient modern buildings to quarter and feed a regiment of State Guards. There are office buildings, school rooms, shops, hospitals, club rooms and a theater. The camp, bounded on the east by Niantic Bay, has a parade ground over one mile square in addition to areas for bayonet training, rifle fighting and practice and other phases of military education.

It is located in Niantic, within a short walking distance of the business center, and is close to many fine beaches and places of amusement.

The serious part of the training schedule started on Monday with a physical examination of all officers and men. Lectures and field practice, followed by written examinations on various phases of military training took up the remainder of the week. Also included in the schedule was a five mile hike, formal guard mounts, three battalion and one regimental parade.

The program was so well planned and supervised that two weeks training was telescoped into one, yet the men still had plenty of time left for athletic events, swimming and evenings out on pass.

After policing camp Saturday morning, the troops boarded chartered buses and the bivouac contingent arrived at the Manchester armory at 11:45. Field equipment was checked and turned in after which the men were paid off and dismissed. There was an agreement that they had had a good time and were looking forward to two weeks in camp next year.

The regular Monday night drill period was resumed this week starting at 8:15 sharp. Absence as the men would have called it Saturday. Any men interested in joining the State Guard are invited to drop in and talk it over.

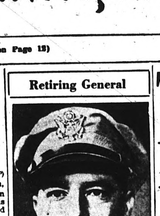
Petain Dies; Verdun Hero

Verdun Hero Dies

MARSHAL PETAIN

Retiring General



Lt.-General Elwood R. (Pete) Quesada, one of the Air Force's top tactical commanders, plans to retire soon at the age of 47. He is reported at odds with his superiors over the role of strategic bombing. A native of Washington, D. C., he has been in the Air Force since 1924, his most recent assignment having been as commander of the joint task force that conducted atomic tests at Eniwetok this year.

Ile D'Yeu, France, July 23.—(AP)—Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, the French hero of Verdun in World War I, died today on this bleak island where he had served more than five years of a life sentence for treason in World War II. He was 95 years old.

He was not a prisoner when he died. The French government commuted his sentence last month, shortly after the parliamentary elections, because of the state of his health, and he was moved from his prison cell to a private mansion here off the southwest coast of France.

It was announced that funeral services will be held Wednesday in the Church of Notre Dame Du Port, in Port Joinville, on this island. Petain's lawyers wired government officials a request to relent and permit burial at Verdun, instead of on Ile D'Yeu. There was no immediate response.

Petain succumbed at 9:20 a. m. (3:20 a. m., e.s.t.), in the island's military hospital. He had been in failing health for months and since an attack of pneumonia in April had suffered several relapses.

Two days ago his family and his lawyers again were called to his bedside. His 74-year-old wife, Annie, who had voluntarily shared his exile, was with him when he died.

Ironically, death came to Petain only three days after the death of the German commander—former Crown Prince Wilhelm—who opposed him at Verdun. Wilhelm died Friday at Hechingen, Germany.

Petain's heroic defense at Verdun in 1916 halted the drive of the Hope Fades for Lives Of 38 on Plane Missing on Hop to Korea

Juneau, Alaska, July 23.—(AP)—The search was carried out over rugged Alaska coastline early today as the nation's worst peacetime disaster involving a military transport and its 38 occupants entered its fourth day.

The search for the Canadian Pacific Airlines DC-4 was widened with a gradual improvement in weather conditions, hope for the occupants diminished. Searchers said the area where the plane last reported was one of the wildest in the North American continent.

The transport, carrying among its passengers 29 Americans including two "high-rated" civilians, left Vancouver, B. C. late Friday for Anchorage, Alaska, on the first leg of a flight to Tokyo.

The pilot, Capt. Victor Fox, last reported off Cape Spencer, Alaska, at 12:17 a.m. p.s.t. (3:17 a.m. e.s.t.) Saturday. Fox said the plane was on course at 9,000 feet, about 80 miles due west of Juneau, with a 5½ hour fuel supply.

Says Some Insurance Firms Aid China Reds

Washington, July 23.—(AP)—Chairman O'Conor (D., Md.) said today a Senate subcommittee on export controls has received reports that certain American insurance companies are aiding trade with Red China.

"We are told," he said, "that these insurance firms, in cooperation with British companies, are helping to make possible a continuation of the flow of materials to our enemies by jointly underwriting maritime and war risk insurance on the vessels engaging in trade with the Communists."

His statement did not name any of the companies, but O'Conor said he considered the reports "of such moment to be the security of our country that x x x I intend to have the matter explored fully."

He said information about the "re-insurance pool" to provide coverage for foreign flag ships carrying cargoes to Red China eventually would be given the committee investigator in the Far East.

Under such pool arrangements, O'Conor said, each participating firm earmarks a portion of its assets to re-insure a part of each

Paris, July 23—(AP)—U. S. Senator Brian McMahon (D-Conn), flew to Belgrade today. He hopes to talk with President Marshal Tito on Yugoslavia's role in the East-West crisis.

Anglo-Iran Settlement On Oil Due

Tehran, Iran, July 23.—(AP)—An Iranian cabinet member said today a formula has been found for reopening negotiations with the British on the oil nationalization dispute.

The first specific statement of progress in settling the critical British-Iranian deadlock came from Dr. Karim Sanhari, Minister of Education, after a six-hour conference between Prime Minister Mohammed Mossadegh, the cabinet and the Iranian Oil Nationalization board.

Another member of the government indicated that some formal announcement of the extent and nature of the progress might be made after continued talks tonight.

Soon after the conference ended a top British trouble-shooter W. Averell Harriman arrived.

Agree on Memo

Kazem Hasabi, a government representative on the oil board, said:

"The cabinet and the joint oil board agreed on a memorandum which will be handed to Harriman tonight.

"It forms the basis on which negotiations with the British might be resumed."

The memorandum apparently is based on the result of week-long talks between Harriman and Iranian leaders.

There was no immediate indication what specific points were contained in the memorandum.

Sanjabi hinted, however, that Iran is sticking to its position

Solons Stress West Defense

Agree Europe Can Do More to Build Lines Against Communism

Washington, July 23.—(AP)—A group of Senators returned from Europe today in general agreement there is need for greater speed in building western defense against Communism.

Senator Green (D-RI), chairman of the foreign relations subcommittee which visited seven countries in two weeks, said in a statement that some of the North Atlantic treaty nations "can do more than they are now doing to develop their armed forces."

Green emphasized that these countries need U. S. assistance to build their military strength.

Senator Wiley (R-Wis) said "the western world is woefully weak. We cannot build our strength too fast."

Aid For Spain

During the group's absence strong support has built up in Congress for the idea of dealing Spain into the U. S. foreign aid program in exchange for their use as one of Spanish military bases.

Nickel Soda Pop May Fade Like Five Cent Cigar, Beer

Washington, July 23 —(AP)— Nickel-a-bottle soda pop soon may be only a memory.

The Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) today authorized soft drink bottlers the kind of ceilings to retailers to a top of 96 cents a case.

This probably will mean an increase to six cents a bottle at retail on the beverages whose bottlers take full advantage of the new ceiling, the agency said.

In the trade it was reported unofficially that Coca-Cola will stick to its present price. However, some other large companies do plan to change, OPS spokesmen reported.

The new ceiling applies to both six-ounce and 12-ounce bottles, effective July 28.

OPS said it will relieve bottlers of "extensive and serious" hardship. The Senate Small Business committee, after a 1950 survey, estimated that two-thirds of the country's 6,500 soft drink bottlers were losing money or barely breaking even.

The new price will permit a wholesale boost of up to 16 cents for the 24-bottle case, so long as the resulting price does not exceed 96 cents. Some wholesalers may elect to take less than the whole 16 cents, depending upon their competitive situations.

The new order also permits an increase in the deposit charge for bottles, up to the amount it would require to replace them if lost.

The regulation does not apply to soft drinks mixed at soda fountains or, except as to deposit charges, to soft drinks in bottles of more than 12-ounce size.

Seeking Throne

Prince Talal (above), 40, the anti-British eldest son of assassinated King Abdullah of Jordan, was reported to be furious because his younger brother, Prince Naif, has been named regent and apparent successor to Jordan's throne. Talal is under medical care in Switzerland for a nervous disorder.

Middle East Calm as Arabs Weigh Effect of Jordan King's Murder

Amman, Jordan, July 23 —(AP)— Bugles sounded a farewell salute across the barren, rocky hills of Jordan today as the body of murdered King Abdullah was lowered into its grave. Guns of the Arab legion boomed out at one-minute intervals as the cortege moved to the grave.

The wailing of thousands of subjects could be heard on the surrounding hills during the solemn funeral process from the mosque-attached king's royal palace to his burial place.

Black flags draped this dusty little capital in preparation for three months of mourning for the

More Arrests Due In Prison Probe

Hartford, July 23 —(AP)— More arrests in the smashing of a smuggling ring at Wethersfield State Prison may be made "on the outside and the inside" of the prison, County Detective John F. Reardon said today.

Two suspended guards and an inmate have been seized since the case broke into the open after months of investigation last Friday.

The name of Ralph Mele, 46, murdered gangster who once ruled a group of "tough guys" at the prison, and after his release in 1945 continued to operate a "pipe line" there, was brought

Body of Naval Chief Of Operations Will Be Flown from Naples

Naples, Italy, July 23.—(AP)—Admiral Forrest P. Sherman, his last mission completed as head of America's Navy, starts his last flight home tomorrow—in death.

The 54-year-old U. S. chief of naval operations died in Naples hotel yesterday noon after suffering two heart attacks. He had just completed a tour of Europe's Atlantic Pact defense area.

His body will be flown from Naples to Washington, D. C., by the U. S. 6th Fleet flagship Roanoke, which left Gibraltar at 2 p. m. today and is expected to reach Washington tomorrow—in death.

The 54-year-old U. S. chief of naval operations died of a heart attack. He had been attended at the hospital by Italian doctors after he had suffered a severe heart attack on the previous night.

Sherman's death came as a surprise to his colleagues. He had been in excellent health during his trip to Europe.

Sherman's body will be taken tomorrow to Naples airport aboard a helicopter from the deck of the American warship, U.S.S. Mt. Olympus, anchored in the Bay of Naples. The body will be taken to the ship yesterday.

Four U. S. destroyers, all veterans of the Korean fighting recently returned to join the U. S. Mediterranean fleet, will be alongside as the shipboard services are held.

As the ship's flag—the "Pusko," the "William R. Rush," the "Hawkins" and the "Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr." —moved into position today their forces stood at attention at the rails.

An Italian armed forces guard and an honor guard of American sailors will render final honors at the airport. A four-motored American plane carrying the body will

Faction in TWUA For Rieve Ouster

New York, July 23.—(AP)— Some 400 members of the CIO Textile Workers Union of America have pledged $100,000—and "more if necessary"—to help finance a revolt against Emil Rieve, the union president.

The ump conferees also have formed a 70-man "pre-convention committee for a new democratic TWUA." This group will map the strategy to be followed against Rieve and his administration at next April's TWUA convention in Cleveland, Ohio.

George Baldanzi, executive vice president of the union, led the two-day meeting that ended yesterday. He said he would call for a democratization "from top to bottom" of the 400,000 member union.

OPS Grants Price Hike In Clothing

Washington, July 23—(AP)—Higher prices on some clothing, automobiles and radios were permitted today under a ruling of the Office of Price Stabilization (OPS).

The OPS also lifted a 23-day freeze on wearing apparel ceiling prices. The freeze was ordered June 30 on a long list of clothing items. It followed a five-month general move banning price rollbacks during July while Congress considered new economic controls legislation.

Another member of the government indicated that some formal announcement of the extent and nature of the progress might be made after continued talks tonight.

Soon after the conference ended a top British trouble-shooter W. Averell Harriman arrived.

Agree on Memo

Kazem Hasabi, a government representative on the oil board, said:

"The cabinet and the joint oil board agreed on a memorandum which will be handed to Harriman tonight.

"It forms the basis on which negotiations with the British might be resumed."

The memorandum apparently is based on the result of week-long talks between Harriman and Iranian leaders.

There was no immediate indication what specific points were contained in the memorandum.

Sanjabi hinted, however, that Iran is sticking to its position

Chamber, Senators Dispute Tax Need

Washington, July 23—(AP)—The U. S. Chamber of Commerce declared today there is no need for a tax increase this year, but Republican Senators Taft, (Ohio) and Millikin (Colo.) were skeptical.

"There will be a tax bill," Millikin told Ellsworth C. Alvord, who represented the Chamber before the Senate Finance committee.

Both Taft and Millikin, members of the committee, challenged Alvord's argument that federal spending can be cut enough to help avert a tax increase.

Anglo-Iran Settlement On Oil Due

that any negotiations will be with representatives of the disputed Anglo-Iranian Oil company and not with the British government.

An informed source said earlier that Harriman had suggested resuming the negotiations with a British government delegation.

If the British find the Iranian formula acceptable, Harriman's mission may have cracked the deadlock which brought the world's biggest refinery at Abadan on the Persian gulf, to a virtual standstill and might have influenced the peace of the world.

See Compromise

Although both sides were silent on details of the discussions taking place in the mirrored Saheb Divanieh palace, it is understood that the talks included the possibility of resuming temporarily the shipment of oil from Iran under some compromise arrangement which would meet the objections reposed.

The first negotiations between officials of the AIOC and the executive nationalistic Iranian government broke down a month ago after neither side could agree on a basis for the talks.

The disclosure at the end of Harriman's visit that Mossadegh and Harriman subscribed the recent rise in optimism that President Truman's envoy was making progress on his mediation mission.

One Briton here said Harriman's tireless efforts to inject reason into the Iranian atmosphere seems to be working.

Asks U. S. Aid

Washington, July 23 —(AP)— Premier Mossadegh of Iran today made a frank bid for American men and vessels to keep Iranian oil flowing westward at the very Britons now refuse to help supply under the nationalization program.

Iran's Premier Middle Eastern statesman, whose move to nationalize Iran's British-operated oil fields has aroused the western world, made his proposal in a copyrighted interview conducted by cable and telegraph with the magazine "U. S. News and World Report."

In addition to his appeal for technicians and tankers, Mossadegh made it clear he also looks to the U. S. for other economic and to strengthen his nation's lot as the southern neighbor of Russia. And western diplomats have been concerned that the nation's economic distress might make it ripe for Communist infiltration.

Asks For Loan

Declaring that Iran itself will come help from America for raising the standard of living of her people," Mossadegh reiterated that his country still hopes to obtain a $250,000,000 loan from the World Bank to help develop Iran's economy.

He blamed "foreign elements" and "the former oil company"—Britain's Anglo-Iranian Oil Co.—for a rash of recent attacks on America by the Iranian press, and added:

"Iranians recognize the American nation as staunch supporters of right, justice and freedom, and are desirous of expanding their friendly relations with them."

And, despite his adamant stand against compromising with the British on the nationalization issue, he insisted his government "has never had any hostile tendency against Great Britain," but rather "supports the continuation and strengthening of cordial relations."

Premier Holds Stand

However, Mossadegh showed no sign anywhere in the interview or any weakening in his insistence that Iran would take over and operate the rich oil fields and the giant British-built refinery at Abadan.

"In case of the probable refusal of English experts to serve in the National Iranian Oil Co.," the premier declared, "the Americans can companies can remove any stoppage in this great industry, which would certainly be detrimental to the western world, by their expert help and by putting at our disposal an adequate number of technical experts, and by giving help in the transportation of Iranian oil to former customers. The American government can also encourage American companies, in that respect."

Although President Truman authorized the Iranian government in the early days of the oil nationalization dispute that America does not have enough technicians of its own to share with Iran, a number of American oil men have since indicated that technicians might be found if Iran showed signs of making overtures toward Russia.

military actions still going on in Korea. The conferees wouldn't discuss what they were told by military officials.

Discuss Appropriations

"We also discussed the program to get appropriations bills through Congress as soon as possible, Mr. Maryland said.

"I assured him (Mr. Truman) that tax hearings by the Senate Finance committee are going along as fast as possible and that we will pass a bill in the Senate."

McFarland would not speculate on when the Senate will act, but gave any estimate of how much new taxes that body will approve.

A Senate-House conference committee now has the job of hammering out an economic control bill from the differing measures passed by the two chambers.

The House has named seven of its members to the conference group and the Senate tentatively has picked five. Senate Banking committee officials said two other Senators, Sparkman (D-Ala.) and Ives (R-NY), probably will be named.

Name Senators

The five senators tentatively designated are Maybank (D-SC), Fulbright (D-Ark), Robertson (D-Va), Capehart (R-Ind), and Bricker (R-Ohio).

The conference committee has one week in which to turn out its finished measure, because present controls are scheduled to expire July 31.

Conferees will get their heads together Wednesday and hope to finish their task in four days. Their job is to compose an acceptable compromise out of separate and complicated bills already passed by the Senate and the House. Then both branches must approve the compromise.

Regardless of what the conferees recommend, the final product, in view of the limitations contained in the two measures, is almost certain to fall far short of what Mr. Truman wanted.

Dead is William Torvinen, 38, whose survivors include a wife and three daughters.

Joe Ozich, 62, the rescued miner, is recovering in a hospital.

Big Turnout At Barbecue

Over 400 Are Served At Vernon Church Grounds; Recreation

A new and novel experience for hundreds of men, women and children was the chicken barbecue picnic on the grounds at the Vernon Center Congregational church, Saturday evening, and needless to say, Manchester was well represented. It is estimated that over four hundred were served.

The weather was all that could be desired. The picnic tables were set under the trees on one side of the church, and on the other a large area was roped off for dancing, both round and square, with prizes for costumes and exhibition sets.

Plenty of Food

At six o'clock two long serving tables were ready for those to serve the diners; both men and women of the church were assigned to ladle out potato salad, green salad, pickles, relishes, rolls and coffee. Later they were served ice cream for dessert. Great platters of half broilers were constantly replenished at both tables, hot from the barbecue pit.

The latter was built above the ground with cinder blocks, over which heavy wire mesh was stretched. The fire was made of briquettes, which are long-burning and give steady heat. The time required to cook the chickens to perfection was carefully determined by the barbecue experts.

Before it would be a "military produced by friendly countries, Mr. Truman urged full support for his $8,500,000,000 program of foreign military and economic aid. It will take, he said, only two per cent of total production and 15 per cent of the defense outlay.

He repeated his request for a pay-as-you-go budget, policy, calling for an increase in taxes of at least $10,000,000,000 this year.

Economy of stepped-up employment and earnings, the personal income of Americans may rise $15 to $20 billion annually by next July 1 while the supply of civilian goods declines. The disparity, unless offset by taxes and savings, represents the inflationary gap, Mr. Truman said.

Repeats Requests

The President also repeated his long-standing requests for:

1. Authority to build defense plants which industry cannot or will not undertake.

2. No impairment of the Federal Reserve System's authority to control consumer credit. The House bill approved Friday would force the Reserve to relax its present purchase terms).

3. Authority to regulate margins or down payments on trading in commodity futures, as a curb on speculation. Congress has ignored the request in the past.

4. A "realistic and practical" wage policy, with pay allowances to offset rising living increases as well as increases in production, to compensate for greater worker productivity.

5. "Effective" rent control.

6. Completion of the St. Lawrence Seaway and power project.

Smoking Lamp Lit For Marine Pilots

With the First Marine Aircraft Wing in Korea—(AP)— To smoke or not to smoke has long been a question bothering Marine aviators, since their jet-set fighter bombers had no facility for disposing of ashes.

But now makers of the Corsair (Chance-Vought) has solved the problem by installing ash trays, but a cigarette lighter. Marine pilots in Korea today serve on the way home from a combat strike.

The new cockpit fixture replaces the time-tested method of opening the canopy and throwing the ashstream to carry away ashes. The new system was another made long and other stop-gap measures highly impractical.

Hospital Cost Analysis

The cost of hospital care is often unreasonable to the patient because he does not see all the work that he being done throughout the hospital for his benefit. The Manchester Memorial hospital supplies these figures. In the average room in the public patient for one day here is where the dollar goes—

Nursing	27c
Food	13c
Upkeep of Building	11c
Housekeeping	7c
Laundry	3c
Administration and Business	3c
Special Services, which include Operating Room, Delivery Room, X-ray, Laboratory, Medical and Surgical Supplies, Drugs, Anesthesia, etc.	31c
	$1.00

Not all patients use all the medical services available and they pay only for the ones actually used. However, to determine the average cost per patient per day, the above is considered. Like a fire department, these services must be maintained for use when needed.

ceiling freeze imposed last June 30.

Any manufacturer who complied with the OPS manufacturers' price orders and who could have sold at new ceiling prices on or before June 30, was permitted to put his new price increases into effect.

Price Stabilization Director Michael V. DiSalle, in explaining the decision, said that to "invalidate" the manufacturers' price list or announcement and make him revert to his previous ceilings would be a burdensome requirement which was not necessary to the stabilization program."

15-Day Wait

Compliance with OPS manufacturers' price orders required manufacturers to file public forms announcing contemplated new ceilings and if any increases are involved to wait 15 days after receipt of the forms by OPS before selling at higher prices.

Thus, no manufacturer can put the effect new price ceilings into effect before July 15 even if the new forms were filed on or before June 14.

The new regulation affects all commodities.

forces, now almost reached, an "interim goal" which may be increased "if we lose ground in Korea," he told the legislators.

The strategic and military studies needed for such decisions have not been completed, it is indeed necessary to raise our sights, I shall later submit to the Congress requests for the additional funds required."

Whether or not new air groups, Army divisions and Navy and Marine units are added, he said, "We must move full speed ahead toward our present goals."

Backs Pentagon

It has been known that the Pentagon chiefs were weighing an expansion of their forces. Today's message, however, was the first token of White House blessing for the proposal.

Congressional opposition could be foreseen. Senator Taft (R-Ohio) already has proposed a half-million man cut in the authorized strength; a slow-down in rearmament to space it over four years instead of three so as to reduce planned federal spending and taxing.

Mr. Truman struck out at "extremists," as he called them, who "at the first signs of a let-down of the conflict in Korea, . . . have commenced to clamor for a reduction in our defense program."

"As soon as there is a slight softening of inflationary pressures, these extremists are ready to discard the whole structure of inflationary controls or shoot it full of holes," he said.

It would be a "costly mistake" to need such counsel, he said, because the need for military strength "did not begin with the Korean war. Nor will it end when and if the fighting in Korea ceases." The President went on:

Cites Red Threat

"The main danger to world peace comes from the Soviet rulers, from the growing military force at their disposal, and from their proved willingness to use aggression to gain their ends.

"The military build-up of the Soviet Union, which has been continuing since 1945, has no other purpose than to blackmail the free world into submission to Communist domination.

"Or, if the free world lacks strength or determination to prevent it, the purpose is to overrun its members one by one.

"This is the central threat to our country, and to every free country in the world. We cannot have peace unless this threat is overcome."

The President reported that the country's economy, in the best of health aside from inflationary troubles, can support the ambitious defense program "and yet remain strong and grow stronger."

The costs of national security, domestic and foreign, now are running above $35,000,000,000 a year, he said. The rate will be $50,000,000,000 by New Year's Day and nearly $65,000,000,000 a year hence.

Whereas six per cent of total production went into defense before Korean 11 per cent now is going and 20 per cent will be so channeled in mid-1952. That compares with 60 per cent in 1944.

Treble Deliveries

In the next 12 months, deliveries of military "hard goods" will treble their present billion-dollars-a-month rate, Mr. Truman said. Aircraft output will be tripled and tank and vehicle deliveries will be quadrupled.

Rockville Mill Future Dark

Tells Kiwanians Repair Work Needed Reason For Foreseen Closing

"The future of the operation of the Stevens' mills in Rockville is dubious," Joseph Dyar told members of the Manchester Kiwanis club at today's regular dinner-meeting at the Manchester Country club. The speaker is employed by the State Labor department and recently concluded a study of the work situation in Rockville.

"Condition of the Steven' mills, which are very much in need of repair," is one of the main reasons why the speaker feels the mills will close their doors. Mr. Dyer said that he feels that when present work contracts are fulfilled the mills will close.

The Stevens Company has mills located in Rockville and Bristol and is expected to be absorbed by these mills.

"It is amazing that a great number of Stevens' employees have been able to secure other lines of employment within a 20 mile radius of Rockville," Mr. Dyer said.

He also related a survey of working conditions he made in Bristol over a several month period.

Attorney John Mrosek won the attendance prize which was donated by Ed Adams.

N.K.V.D. Outpaced By American Cars

Munich—(AP)—Many a Soviet face has been left blushing red in the blue wisp of an American auto exhaust.

Soviet agents are always charged with knowing a foreigner's whereabouts at all times of day. When an American car enters Berlin's Russian zone, Soviet plainclothesmen squeeze into a little, Europe-make car and begin the job of shadowing.

A glance in an American car on a German superhighway usually gets away from the shadowing has to be done in relays. Russian Checkpoint and East Germans must sit .fli along the route, and a final group sits in the city at the end of the road. This group spots the hotel the foreigners enter and the original police car puts into town—sometimes as much as two hours later—they are told where to pick up the watch again.

How to Pray Sermon Topic

Edgar Uses Instruction Of Jesus to Demonstrate Correct Way

Prayer was the theme of the sermon delivered by the Rev. Fred R. Edgar at the South Methodist church yesterday. The scripture lesson was taken from St. Matthew, 6:5-13, and the minister spoke on the subject, "When You Pray," at both the 8 and 10 o'clock services. The message by the minister stressed three main points: Preparing for prayer, how to pray and what to do after prayers have been prayed.

The minister used the admonitions of Jesus regarding prayer to demonstrate how prayers should not be prayed. He pointed out that Jesus taught men that they were not to pray in conspicuous places to be seen and heard of men. Men should not pray for the praise of men have their reward in receiving the praise of men. Neither are men to use vain repetitions or high sounding phrases when they pray. Real and effective prayer is not a matter of eloquence, but of sincerity and faith.

Jesus taught men that they should go into the privacy of one's home or to some quiet place, far removed from the public where men feel it necessary to pretend or to please the crowd. Effective prayer is that from which all affectation, insincerity and vanity are taken away and a man can commune alone with God. This does not mean, the minister pointed out, that Jesus condemned group prayers nor public prayers. However, he was emphasizing the point of being utterly and completely sincere with God when one prays.

It was at this point that Mr. Edgar called attention to the great place Jesus gave to prayer in his own life and to the prayer that he taught his disciples. This prayer, he noted, is not the only prayer which men should pray, but it is a complete prayer, containing all that any prayer should ever contain to be a real prayer. Rev. Edgar urged his congregation to make greater use of prayer in their own lives.

In conclusion, the minister commented on the necessity of real faith in God for effective prayer. "Jesus has promised to answer prayers prayed in His name, and on us we know that this means in the spirit which enables Jesus to pray, 'Not my will, but thine be done.' When we pray in that sense we can make our request known to God in prayer and then leave the matter in His hands, knowing well that that God will answer that prayer in the way that is best for all concerned."

The minister related the account of a little girl who, instead of saying her usual prayers one night, started to say the alphabet. When admonished by her mother for saying the alphabet rather than her prayers, she replied, "But, mother, I am praying. I say the letters, and I let God put the words together in the way he wants them, because he knows so much better what I need than I do."

Music for the service was provided by the summer choir under the direction of Herbert A. Fraser, minister of music. Miss Jackie Bradford, soprano, sang "Come Ye Blessed" by Scott as the offertory solo for both services.

Earlier O'Connor had said that in recent weeks "thousands of tons of highly strategic materials" have been delivered to Communist China by ships flying the British and Panamanian flags.

He said the cargoes were loaded at ports in Europe and India and included high-grade steel, synthetic rubber, trucks, optical instruments and steel rails.

O'Conor said that such trade "offends the conscience of the right-minded people" and that some way must be found to halt it.

German shipping authorities said the Alpha Orange is owned by the Moller Line, of London, and that she was chided here and also by the German Bechmers Shipping Line.

A spokesman for the Rickmers Line declined to comment, however.

Cracker Ban Stirs Debate

Proposed Ordinance to Forbid Fireworks in Town Faces Board

Many Manchester parents will probably be grateful if the Board of Directors dacide to adopt an ordinance that would ban fireworks in this town. Others will be opposed to such legislation.

Two conflicting views of the ban are found among the directors themselves. Director Katherine Hoorn, who raised the issue, said that many parents dislike the crackers but find it difficult to take an individual stand with their children because the use of the fireworks is so widespread. She pointed out the dangers of She pointed out the dangers of Director Walter Mahoney opposed the motion that an ordinance be prepared. He said that he felt the people should bring in a petition requesting such action and that the initiative shouldn't come from the board. He added that from a personal viewpoint, he feels that he can control his own children's use of fireworks and provide for their safety.

The directors voted to ask Town Counsel John D. LaBelle to draw up an ordinance to be submitted to the board for discussion at the next meeting. The proposed law would allow the annual American Legion show on July 4 but would prohibit private fireworks at all times.

The directors will discuss the ordinance at their next meeting. Should they then decide to adopt the measure, they will have to schedule a public hearing before final action can be taken.

Modern Heargear For William Penn

Philadelphia— (AP) —There's a "feather" in the hat that crowns the statute of William Penn atop Philadelphia's City Hall. It's the antenna of one of two newly-installed radio stations that enables the city's fire department to maintain two-way communication with crews manning fire-fighting apparatus.

Radio Corporation of America designed and built the two 250-watt stations which provide the nation's third largest city with round-the-clock protection against disasters of any kind. The system, costing $87,000, is said to be the most modern in the U. S.

The two radio stations, within a few mile of each other, can be operated from either location. They are in constant contact with 150 30-watt transmitter-receiver units installed on fire engines, pumpers and other motorized equipment.

New Voice Tops Loss of Speech

Weirton, W. Va.— (AP) —Stanley Falik, a young steelworker, lost his voice Feb. 28, 1950, after a brass bar struck him across the throat. His vocal cords were permanently injured.

A Pittsburgh specialist suggested sending him to the Department of Psychology at the University of Pittsburgh. There, Dr. John Mathews, director of speech, said a course in voice training might help. He enrolled in a special speech clinic class for eight weeks.

There Stanley developed an entirely new voice. At first it had husky overtones but at time went on, the huskiness disappeared. He returned to work last month on a new job.

Conduct Rites For Abdullah

powerful British-supported Arab king.

Commanders of Abdullah's Arab Legion had carried the flag-draped coffin from the palace to a gun carriage, and then from the carriage to the grave. At the side of the grave the coffin first was placed on a pedestal covered with Jordan's national colors. High Moslem priests chanted death prayers.

Arab Legion troops in full battle dress guarded every corner of the capital, but the city was calm. Strict security precautions have been taken.

The late king's nephew, Prince Abdul Illah, regent of neighboring Iraq, and his son, Prince Nasir, now regent of Jordan, headed the list of mourners. Abullah's eldest son, Prince Talal, is ailing in Switzerland and did not come home for the funeral.

President Truman was represented by Gerald A. Drew, U. S. Minister at Amman.

Special delegations from all Arab countries, a military mission from Turkey, the diplomatic corps, high Jordan officials and notables attended.

Abdullah was shot to death Friday noon as he entered the Mosque of Omar in Jerusalem to pray at the tomb of his father. The assassin, a Moslem Jerusalem tailor, was immediately killed by Abdullah's guards.

Armed Camp

Jerusalem, July 23— (AP) — The Jordan-held old City of Jerusalem was turned into an armed camp today as 50 miles away in Amman cannon volleys sounded every minute for the funeral procession of assassinated King Abdullah.

The city was quiet and the usual early morning cries of peddlers were stilled as the thong of hobnailed Arab Legion boots sounded on the cobblestones of the narrow twisting lanes.

Israelis living in the border zones could see clearly new sandbagged positions on the old city's battlements. They were assured by Jordan that the military preparations were for internal security and not directed against Israel.

Nevertheless, the watchword in Israel was increased vigilance. This country felt that time must elapse before a considered judgment of the effects of Abdullah's assassination could be made.

The diplomatic correspondent of the Jerusalem Post, unofficial spokesman of the Israeli Foreign Office, said today that the government is keeping a careful watch on the situation.

He stressed that Israel has no doubt that the exiled Mufti of Jerusalem, leader of Moslem fanatics, was connected with the slaying.

The correspondent also said that the Mufti's presence at a Pan-Islamic conference in Karachi, Pakistan, was the prelude to the murder of Iranian Premier Razamara. He concluded: "The Mufti's purpose is to provoke fanatical elements through the Arab world as a political weapon."

In Cairo the Mufti denied that he had anything to do with the assassination.

The Cairo newspaper Al Ahram said two relatives of the Mufti— Dr. Daud El Husseini and Sayed Tewfik Saleh El Husseini—were among 500 persons arrested in Jordan following the assassination.

The arrests, reported by anti-Abdullah sources in Cairo, were reported to have centered in the Jordan-occupied old City of Jerusalem, and other portions of the territory which Abdullah annexed after the Palestine war.

The annexation was never popular with Palestinian arabs, especially after it became apparent that Abdullah was willing to come to terms with Israel.

The former Mufti, who headed the Arab higher committee in a long fight against British rule in what later became Israel, also hated Abdullah because of the annexation.

More Arrests Due In Prison 'Ring'

into the case over the week-end.

Storms Gang Leader

Police said his successor as head of the gang in the prison was Gennaro "Jerry" Azzisi, 39, who was in jail on charges of getting sedatives, and possibly narcotics into the prison and with passing letters and other contraband in and out.

Guards Louis A. Deloretto, 28, and Johan Abramovitz, 36, both of Hartford, were the next to be arrested for their alleged part in the illegal traffic.

A third guard is under suspicion, according to State Police Maj. Leo F. Carroll, but he said today he has nothing more to report about this individual now and that no more action is expected immediately.

Major Carroll said the guards were getting money from outside the prison on orders from leaders inside. He indicated there were not large sums of money involved.

Drugs In Jail

The men receiving the drugs, he said, did not use them all themselves. They were apparently sold to other inmates of the prison.

Most of the drugs received by prisoners were barbituates or sleeping pills in capsule form, Major Carroll said, but there also was evidence that paregoric, which has a narcotic ingredient was being received by the prisoners.

Four prisoners besides Azzisi are held in segregation at the prison for handling the contraband drugs. Since the investigation began a prison began last fall others have been segregated as state's witness police said, but the exact number of the men were revealed.

Warden Ralph H. Walker said that the men would take one or two of the capsules "to produce the desired effect. It makes them a little more ambitious," he said. "But they were very cautious in taking them."

Warden Walker said the men now held in segregation were the distributors. Capsules were not changed, he said, for packages of cigarettes.

No Liquor Involved

He said that there has been no liquor involved in this traffic. Rearden pointed out that the combination of liquor and sleeping pills could be fatal to anyone using both at the same time.

Neither Major Carroll nor Rearden had any comment to make about Abramovitz being hired as a mail carrier in Newington after he had been suspended as a guard only last Monday.

Rearden did express surprise that anyone could be hired so quickly by the Post Office department. "I don't think you can get a job that quick," he said.

Abramovitz was arrested Saturday in Newington where he was delivering mail.

Postmaster John F. Heneghan could not be reached this morning at his office or at his home. He said Sunday that he would decide today whether the Post Office would prosecute Abramovitz for falsifying his application. "I have to get all the facts," he said. The former guard is no longer a mail carrier.

Marshal Petain Dies; Verdun Hero

France's greatest military heroes. His immortal battle cry—"They Shall Not Pass"—echoed around the world. With it he rallied the French to a memorable stand in one of the great battles of modern history.

But the national hero of World War I and elder statesman of the between-war years became a traitor in the eyes of many Frenchmen after Hitler invaded France in 1940.

Summoned at the age of 84 to form a new France reconciling before the onrushing Nazi armies, it was his lot to surrender that country to the victorious Germans. Then he became chief of state of a semi-puppet government set up in Vichy.

After the liberation of France, Petain faced trial in the summer of 1945. It was the first trial of the head of a French government since King Louis XVI was convicted and guillotined in 1793 for "treating with the enemy."

Found Guilty

The High Court of Justice found Petain guilty of intelligence with the German enemy and pronounced a death sentence. But the court expressed hope the sentence would not be executed.

Gen. Charles De Gaulle, the wartime "Free French" leader who became president of the French provisional government immediately after the war, commuted the sentence to life imprisonment.

Petain, a feeble warrior of 89 at the time of the trial, stood in the prisoner's dock at the conclusion of testimony and told the jury that "on the threshold of death, I swear that I always served France."

Besides the death sentence, the court sentenced him to "national indignity", and ordered all his property confiscated. He retained his title of Marshal, which under French law is a personal title lasting for life.

On Nov. 16, 1945, he was sent to this tiny, sea-lashed island on the French Atlantic coast, southwest of Nantes, to serve out his sentence.

Petain—his full name was Henri Philippe Benoni Omer Joseph Petain—was born April 24, 1856, at Chaucy-La-Tour in northern France. He was a graduate of St. Cyr, France's military academy. Promotion came slowly to him and he was only a lieutenant colonel at the age of 40.

But in August, 1914, he charged at the head of his regiment with a whip in one hand and a pistol in the other, driving into the Meuse river those Germans who could get across a bridge. Later he won his first big victory in the Champagne, capturing Carency and Albain-St. Nazaire and pounding the Germans 40 days.

Then came Verdun and his stubborn defense of that vital point. After that he was appointed chief of the general staff and still later commander-in-chief of French forces. Ten days after the war ended he became a marshal of France.

Rain, Wind Hit West Flood Area

northern Missouri and northcentral Illinois. There were scattered storms in the St. Louis area.

The new rains, accompanied by strong winds, aren't expected to bring the major Missouri and Mississippi rivers back to their record levels of last week, but may keep remaining flood waters from draining as rapidly as expected.

The small Grand and Chariton rivers, which feed into the Missouri river in the central part of the state, are out of their banks.

In Illinois the storms centered around Canton and Peoria where creeks are overflowing. They feed into the Illinois which in turn pours into the Mississippi above St. Louis.

But Weather Bureau officials point out the new rain has several days of travel before reaching the present flood zone. Only prolonged rainfall, which wasn't predicted, would make the situation critical again.

A few spots south of St. Louis still are considered danger areas, but Army engineers believe all major levees will hold.

Nine hundred workers, including 500 soldiers from nearby Scott Air Force Base, Ill., were toiling on levees reported in critical condition 60 miles south of here in Perry County, Mo., to break there would flood 23,500 acres of rich farmland.

Seven hundred men labored in an emergency reinforcement of the Grand Island levee, just north of St. Louis on the Illinois side where several thousand acres of farmland was in peril.

Except for the immediate riverfront section, St. Louis is on high ground out of reach of the flood. Thirty-one miles of huge earth barriers protecting the heavily populated area across from St. Louis in Illinois were pronounced in good condition. They're being patrolled around the clock.

Surgical Practice Brings Jail Term

Aden— (AP) —An Aden barber received a two-year sentence here today for causing the death of a child by removing its uvula with a pair of hair-cutting scissors. The uvula is the pendent fleshy lobe in the middle of the posterior border of the soft palate. Cutting it out is a widespread practice in this Moslem protectorate. It ranks with blood-letting and branding, to which local inhabitants regard as a cure for children's ailments.

The operation is usually carried out by barbers who make a profitable sideline of it. A number of deaths have resulted from this practice in the last few years but it has been difficult to secure conviction, which would run counter to popular feeling.

Senators Cancel Price War Probe

Washington, July 23— (AP) —Because the price wars of late May and early June have "all but died out," two Senators said last night, committees they head have decided not to investigate.

The price war, centered in New York, followed a May 21 Supreme Court decision that stores which have not signed "fair trade" agreements with manufacturers do not have to honor minimum prices the producers fix.

Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo), chairman of the Senate-House Economic committee, and Senator Sparkman (D-Ala), head of the Senate Small Business committee, said they have dropped plans to hold hearings on the question.

They said a study made for them by Dun and Bradstreet, financial survey institution, showed that the price war spread from New York to only a few cities and covered only a few items.

Bombards Denied Candy Permission

The Zoning Board of Appeals has approved and denied another application, both hold-overs from recent public hearings by the board.

Nussdorf Construction Company was granted two years permission to drive-in a store and process to an industrial use on the north side of North Main street, west of Hawthorn place, in a Residence Zone A.

Preparing To Yield?

General Nam, the North Korean who officially heads the Communist truce negotiators at Kaesong, smoked so furiously at Saturday's session that, for the first time, he forgot to use his cigaret holder. That, according to the member of the United States delegation who briefed the press afterwards, may have been a sign of inner tension on his part.

The Chinese Communist members of the delegation, who have hitherto played a quiet role, Saturday whispered among themselves. They whispered to their interpreter. Then their interpreter whispered to General Nam. It was then that the Communist proposal for a three day recess in the negotiations was made.

The inference derived from this chain of whisperings is that, for the first time, the Chinese Communists were exercising special influence on the negotiations, that they acted to keep General Nam from outright refusal of the United Nations position that withdrawal of troops would not be a topic on the cease-fire agenda, and that their purpose was the preparation, in consultation with higher Communist authorities, of an acceptance of the United Nations stand or of some compromise counter-proposal.

This is as much as we know of what the Communist-inspired recess may mean, and it may be all wrong in its inference and deductions. For all we really know, the Communists may be preparing a tougher stand.

What seems likely to us however, is that the Communists are preparing to yield on the troops withdrawal issue in return for a United Nations yielding on the matter of the position of the troops in Korea. There is no evidence from the negotiations yet that the United Nations has agreed upon the 38th parallel as the prospective truce line. The United Nations military commanders would like to pass this question over, leaving our present position, some distance inside North Korea at various points, as the truce line. But actually the United Nations is already committed to acceptance of the 38th parallel as the line quite as definitely as it is also committed not to discuss, now, the general withdrawal of troops from Korea. From General Ridgway's statement last winter that the 38th would represent a major United Nations victory, through Malik's proposal, and on to Secretary of State Acheson's statement accepting the 38th as the line, the United Nations is bound to come down to the 38th, and acknowledgment of this may be what the Communists take in return for their own abandonment of the withdrawal issue on which, by the same Mr. Acheson's public statement, the United Nations will not yield.

Changes In Spain

Dictator Franco's cabinet shifts give stronger representation to two elements in Spanish life which have been becoming more and more discontented with his regime. One is the monarchist element, which wants the restoration of the Spanish monarchy, and the other is the Roman Catholic element, which has been championing the welfare of the Spanish people in face of present economic conditions, and which has, moreover, been discontented with the policies of the Franco regime in the field of education.

Such yielding on the part of Franco to these domestic elements apparently springs from two motives. One is to appease his critics at home who have, in the past few months, seemed to be close to having him on the ropes. The other is to appease public opinion in Europe and the United States, preparatory to a greater acceptance of Spain in the western family of nations.

It may not be quite clear what these changes, which imply an eventual return of the Spanish monarchy to its throne, are intended to do for Spain in the question of the western world. But we would guess that the front appearance of a monarchy is supposed to be an improvement over a naked dictatorship, and make Franco more civilized company.

Judging by the statements of Secretary Acheson and President Truman, no such inconsequential appeasement of western thought is necessary. We have, according to these statements, conquered our own dislike of dictators, and our attitude toward Franco is governed purely by the question of what bases he has and what he wants for them.

As we keep saying, this is at once a most cynical admission and a clarification of our own basic position in the world. It means we have ceased quarreling about the nature of governments anywhere, so long as these governments keep their troops behind their own boundaries. If this is a comedown from our previous level, it points to a consistency we never have attained on that selective level. We have, up to this time, clasped dictatorship in Latin America and in Portugal and in Yugoslavia while quarreling with them in Spain and in Russia. We have let some dictatorships in the United Nations, and blocked the admission of others. There has never been any real reason for regarding Franco as either better or worse than other dictators. The era of inconsistent distinctions seems about over. Franco and Communist China will probably come into the United Nations on the same day.

A Party Liability

The fact that a meeting of the Young Republican Organization of Senator Joseph McCarthy's home district in Wisconsin has adopted, by a vote of some 30 attending members a resolution calling for his defeat next year does not mean that the Republican party as a unit is on its way to a rejection of Senator McCarthy. He will continue to have large numbers of enthusiasts in Wisconsin and elsewhere even such a supposedly responsible figure as Senator Robert A. Taft seems to consider political association with him happy and fruitful. And, judging by the appeal such characters have for some sections of the American public, Senator McCarthy will survive, for some time, even the effects of his own compulsion to turn continually to new and more sensational charges to cover up the fact that his old charges have never been proved.

Still politics being what it is, there is real news in the fact that Wisconsin Republicans have dared express itself. A good many Republicans, the nation over, have sense enough to consider Senator McCarthy a dangerous liability rather than an asset. But to say so, instead of merely thinking so, is a step over the line of normal political conduct. It is good news that somebody in organized Republican politics, on the district level, has taken such a step, just as some of Senator McCarthy's own Republican colleagues in the United States Senate took it when they condemned McCarthy's tactics last summer.

Why is it good news? It is good news because the Republican party has a reputation and a cause and a set of principles for political and public service conduct which are altogether too good to be debased by any identification with the principles and techniques of Senator McCarthy. Here is a man who has now been campaigning for fifteen months with a series of charges, who has repeatedly said that he would stand or fall on this or that charge, who has not yet proved one of his charges, who has seen the verdict on his key charges turn definitely against him and who, nevertheless, is still coming up with new charges against new targets. During all this period, some Republicans, like Senator Taft, have tolerated him in the hope that he might eventually come up with something after all; others have believed him even when his charges have been disproved; but the long range certainly is that no good to the party can come from him.

A Tribute -- To Our School Teachers!
Today, as no time before in history, the school teacher is recognized as the builder of tomorrow's America! With juvenile delinquency increasing apace, and foreign ideologies creeping into our school books, it is high time that glowing tribute was paid to these patient men and women who instruct our young. Let's remember that teachers are human beings, not machines. Let's give them the support and confidence they so richly deserve. Let's attend P-T-A meetings and contribute something more than children. This commonwealth is fortunate in having such fine schools and outstanding educators. We applaud their work and their good American achievements!

Final Week of Camp

The final week of the Girl Scout Camp, located at the Fun and Game club grounds on Mile Hill started today. Many mothers visited the camp last Friday afternoon when open house was held. Fifty Brownies were expected to be in attendance at the camp this week.

Scout Camping Period Ended

The second two week period at Camp Merri-Wood, the Manchester Girl Scout Day camp on Gerard street, came to a close last Friday with an exciting program planned by the girls themselves. They staged a circus at an afternoon picnic to which parents were invited. The Brownies, Flyups and Intermediate Scouts transformed into wild west cowboys on broomstick steeds, Indians with feathered headdress, and there were even a fat lady, a snake charmer, tightrope walker, set of Siamese twins and a two-headed creature. There was general group singing in between acts. The performers enjoyed the show as much as the guests did.

The program ended with a Scouts' Own prepared by the eight members of that week's Court of Honor, a group of the day campers to represent them in camp government. Certificates of accomplishment for work done during the camping period were presented to a number of girls by Mrs. Lucille Baker, camp director.

At the conclusion of the ceremonies, guests and campers mingled together in admiring the evidences of campcraft and enjoyed punch and cookies.

For many Brownies who were at Merri-Wood during this period, it was their first camp experience and so enthusiastic were they that there was not one youngster absent last week. They learned to hike, to lay a trail and carry out a treasure hunt, worked on textile design and participated in games, singing and folk dancing.

Last Thursday's interminable rain was no occasion for inactivity. One of the unit leaders remarked that it was perhaps one of the camp's highlights. The girls were so busy working on arts, crafts, badges and making masks and costumes for their Jamboree that the day was not long enough for them. An overnight took place that evening and there was fun "over" breakfast cooked at supper time and campmade biscuits next morning.

Camp Merri-Wood is beautifully situated in cool, piney woods. It is fun for a visitor to walk on slippery pine needles and rest for a moment on an overturned log. Spectators at Friday's performance were comfortable in sweaters and surprised when they got down to Main street after the show and realized that the mid-summer sun was hot.

Another camping period starts today and will extend for the next two weeks.

Weddings —

Webb-Massey

Miss Beverly Ann Massey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Wadsen Massey of Hebron Road, Andover, formerly of this town, became the bride of Harold Webb, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Webb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Clifford Webb of Williman-tic. The ceremony was performed at eleven o'clock Saturday morning in the Second Congregational church by the minister, Rev. Le-land O. Hunt. James W. McKay of Porter street played the traditional bridal music and the decorations consisted of yellow and white gladiolus.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by her sister, Miss Jean Elizabeth Massey. Theodore Curtis Wagner of Rockville was best man for Mr. Webb, and the ushers were David S. Doeman of New Britain, and Roger S. Adamy of this town.

The bride wore a gown of rost-ed, flowered marquisette over taf-feta. The fitted bodice was de-signed with a double Peter Pan collar and satin trim. Her veil of French illusion was held in place by a coronet of seed pearls and her bridal bouquet was of white roses and achillea.

The maid of honor was gowned in yellow flocked organdy, bal-lerina style. Her cap was of yellow lace and she carried an old-fash-ioned bouquet of Talisman roses and achillea.

Mrs. Massey chose a gown of white and blue organdy for her daughter's wedding, which had blue accessories and pink rose corsage.

The bridegroom's mother was at-tired in navy blue print with match-ing hat and accessories and corsage of red roses. They assisted the bridal party in receiving at a large re-ception in the Italian-American club, which was decorated with yel-low and white gladiolus.

For a wedding trip to Lake Winnepesaukee the bride selected a shell colored suit with navy and red accessories. On their return they will live on Webster street in Bolton, and be at home to their friends after August 10.

The bride was graduated from Manchester High school and Wil-limantic State Teachers College, class of 1951, and is engaged to teach at Rawson School, Hartford.

The bridegroom attended Wind-ham High school, Willimantic and is a carpenter. At present with the Army, he holds the rank of T-5.

Await Judges Case Verdict

the General Assembly should ap-point the judges for terms of two years.

Since the 47th amendment fails to specify the length of terms, Gordon claimed, the Democratic judges are entitled to stay on the bench until the legislature estab-lishes the terms of office.

The 47th amendment provided that the judges of the minor courts shall, upon nomination by the governor be appointed by the General Assembly for such terms and in such manner as shall be by law prescribed.

Attorney Meade Alcorn, heading the staff of lawyers on the Republi-can side, argued that "until the implementing" of the 47th amend-ment is accomplished the two-year term under the 20th amendment "remains in effect."

This, he contended means that the terms of the Democratic judges expired July 1 and the Re-publican appointees are legally the judges.

As the hearing drew to a close, Alcorn drew from Gordon the fact that he was aware that for-mer Chief Justice William M. Maltbie has done research that convinces him that the Republican appointees should replace the Democratic incumbents.

Gordon confirmed that in recent talks with the former Chief Jus-tice he was told that Judge Malt-bie believes there are a number of cases to back up the Republican claim that the 20th amendment, setting the terms at two years, still is law in Connecticut.

Allies Ready To Renew Talk

foreign troops from Korea be placed on the cease-fire agenda?

The Reds have insisted that the question be debated in full-scale armistice talks to start when the list of topics for discussion has been adopted.

The United Nations have said it is a political matter to be decided after an armistice.

Wednesday's meeting may pro-duce an unbreakable deadlock, or a compromise that will permit the talks to go on.

The eighth meeting between Allied and Red negotiators ended abruptly Saturday after the Com-munists requested a recess "to en-able both sides to study the pro-posals thus far presented."

It may be the Reds wanted time to consult Peiping and Moscow.

In agreeing to the recess, Joy suggested the conference resume earlier if possible. There has been no indication, however, that it will.

Maj. Gen. H. I. Hodes and Maj. Gen. Paik Sun Yup, the other two members of the Allied delegation, did not accompany Joy.

It is presumed Paik used the interval to report to South Korean President Syngman Rhee.

No Statements

There has been no statement from either side as to what specific items have been agreed upon for the agenda. They probably include an exact time for the meeting to end, exchange of pris-oners, creation of a buffer zone, and inspection of behind-the-lines territory by neutral observer teams.

It is not known here whether the Reds journeyed to Pyongyang, the Red capital, or stayed in Kaesong.

Adm. Sherman Coming Home

take off for Washington at 10 a. m. (4 a. m. E.S.T.).

It will be accompanied to the U. S. by Sherman's aide, Marine Maj. Sherman Smith of Salt Lake City, Utah, and by Marine Capt. Clifford Miller of Toledo, O., cap-tain of the armed guard on the Mt. Olympus. The plane is expect-ed to arrive in Washington Wed-nesday afternoon after a refuel-ing stop in the Azores.

Generalissimo Franco of Spain messaged that the admiral's pass-ing "was an irreparable loss to the world."

Premier Alcide de Gasperi of Italy sent condolences to President Truman saying "Adm. Sherman's premature death strikes the Italian people deeply" and calling him one of the "major organizers for the defense of peace and Atlantic union."

The Soviet Press, which had severely criticized the admiral's mission to Spain, reported his death briefly and without com-ment.

A message from President Tru-man said the "Country's loss is great" and Secretary of State Dean Acheson hailed the naval member of the joint chiefs of staff as "a statesman who saw beyond the military problems to the ob-jectives of national policy."

Mrs. Sherman, who was at her husband's bedside when he died, left last night for the United States by special plane.

Also at the deathbed was Adm. Robert B. Carney, American com-mander of Allied Forces in South-ern Europe who is being mention-ed as a possible successor to Sher-man. Adm. L. D. McCormick, Vice Chief of Naval Operations, will take over Sherman's job until President Truman fills the post.

Sherman replaced Adm. Louis Denfeld as navy chief in the bitter squabble over unification of the Army, Navy and Air Force. A brilliant "flying admiral," he was jumped over the heads of nine sen-ior officers to become the young-est chief of operations in the Navy's history.

ed to represent one-third of the union's membership. Forty Rieve supporters and a reporter for the union's newspaper, Textile La-bor, were denied admittance.

Baldanzi said Rieve tried to "purge" him at last year's Boston convention and added that more than a dozen union members who opposed Rieve have been fired.

Speakers at the meeting asked that the next convention strip Rieve of power to appoint most of the union's salaried officials. They said Rieve's appointive power was used to set up a "totalitarian organization."

Financial pledges to the Anti-Rieve movement came from heads of many TWUA locals and joint boards in eastern and southern states and Canada. In addition to the $100,000 specifically pledged, numerous delegates said they could not make commitments until they contacted their local membership.

The largest specific pledge, $20,-000, came from Edward Brancard, president of Yonkers, N. Y., Local 122. He offered all the local's $175,-000 assets, and added: "We'll sell our building if necessary."

Baldanzi was chosen to head a five-man steering committee for the anti-Rieve faction.

Although he was the central figure of the rump meeting, Bal-danzi at no time commented on the possibility he would oppose Rieve for the presidency at the next convention. Nor was any ac-tion taken naming Baldanzi as a candidate.

Baldanzi, and other speakers, said their faction had no inten-tion of seceding from the TWUA.

Mariano S. Bishop, a vice presi-dent in the pro-Rieve group, de-nied admission to the meeting, told newsmen that it was "highly ir-regular for a group of people to air complaints out in the general public" with rank and file mem-bers denied access.

He said he was not at present saying the meeting was illegal, but added that the executive council and general membership "will deal with the question between now and the convention."

Bishop said Baldanzi was play-ing politics in an attempt to take over the union, using the "demo-cratization" issue as a spring-board.

waters off the Alaska Panhandle yesterday but poor visibility hampered their missions. Other planes scanned mountain peaks above the 8,000 foot level without success.

The U. S. Weather Bureau flight forecaster expected gradual im-provement of yesterday's soupy weather conditions. He said since by lifting cloud ceilings would per-mit closeup studies of deep fjords and towering mountain peaks dot-ting the Panhandle.

Passengers listed by military authorities as aboard the missing aircraft included three civilians, Audley Stephan, Trenton, N. J., Vernon E. Hersey, Mitchell, S. D., and Glenn R. Chason, Seattle, Wash. No further identification was available from military au-thorities, but in Trenton Stephan's wife reported her husband was on his way to help the Army with fi-nance problems in Okinawa.

The Civilians were attached to the Army and reportedly were on a United Nations mission.

Other passengers included 26 American servicemen, two from the Royal Canadian Navy, and a crew of seven Canadians, includ-ing two stewardesses.

British Dropping Leaflet 'Bombs'

Kuala Lumpur — (AP) — British pilots are doing more than drop-ping bombs on Communist terror-ist hideouts in the Malayan jun-gle. they're carrying on a propa-ganda war, too. During a 30-day pe-riod, the airmen dropped 4,000,000 leaflets urging surrender to anti-Sembian state.

Some of the leaflets, directed to terrorists themselves, called upon them to surrender. Others publi-cized rewards offered for informa-tion leading to the capture or kill-ing of terrorists by security forces.

Solons Stress West Defense

None of the returning Senators commented directly on that.

But Green voted in his state-ment against efforts to enlarge the scope of the North Atlantic treaty would increase the obligations of each member. He added:

"A chain is as strong as its weakest link and we must, there-fore, be sure that each nation add-ed to the North Atlantic treaty organization can and will make a real contribution to the joint de-fense effort."

Praises Ike

Wiley told reporters that Gen. Dwight Eisenhower is "doing a magnificent job, but it is one in which we can find success only if each nation contributes according to its ability."

Senator Sparkman (D-Ala), said that the North Atlantic treaty and the European recovery program had "stirred a real re-vival of hope throughout Europe."

Some of the difficulties faced by Eisenhower were stressed by Senator Brewster (R-Me), an-other member of the group. He said that factions in the various countries are "hoping for delays" of different parts of the common defense.

Seen Long Road

Brewster said western Europe has made notable progress, but added that there is a "long, hard road ahead."

Both Green and Wiley said the group's report drew "great concern" in deciding what to do about the administration's request for the $4,000,000,000 for foreign military and economic assistance.

There has been increasing talk in Congress of cutting down the amount.

That request was made before negotiations with Spain regarding bases got started last week. Those talks, described as preliminary by President Truman, had been carried on in Madrid by Ad-miral Forrest P. Sherman, who died of a heart attack in Italy yesterday. Sherman, who was Chief of Naval Operations, was preparing to return to Spain.

Mr. Truman told his news con-ference last Thursday that this country has changed its policy to-ward Franco Spain to some ex-tent for military reasons. Secre-tary of State Acheson had de-clared the day before that the United States is seeking to enlist Spain in "the common defense" against possible Communist ag-gression.

Generalissimo Franco reported-ly has indicated that Spain's price for use of its air and sea bases is substantial economic and military aid from the U. S.

Teen-Ager Dominates Phone?

I read somewhere that in order to cope with the telephone prob-lem that develops in almost every family with a teen-ager, a num-ber of families in one Southern city have let their high school-age children have their own private lines.

That way when the telephone rings in Sis or Junior's room and there is no Sis or Junior around the parents just relax and let it ring.

It also frees the family tele-phone for the rest of the family.

On first thought that sounds like a little too much—teen-agers with private phones.

Maybe it is the most simple so-lution to the problem for those who can afford it.

There's no getting around the fact that today's teen-agers have telephonitis. In fact, the telephone habit seems to be taking hold of today's youngsters at age eight and nine.

By then Johnny is picking up the phone to ask Jimmy two doors down to come on over and read comic books. And Sis, instead of Susie by taking her telephone calls away from her.

As for the cost of the private telephone, why not let the Teen-ager pay for it himself? From the family's point of view it would be a good time to start Junior on baby-sitting or odd-job earnings.

Civil Defense Exhibits Please State Leaders

Gen. Hesketh, Lt. Governor Allen, 300 Visiting Directors Enthused At Local Show

Manchester's largest demon-stration of Civil Defense mutual aid was carried out yesterday in a very satisfactory manner that elicited a great deal of praise from State Civilian Director, Gen. William Hesketh, Lt. Gov. Edward N. Allen and over 300 visiting di-rectors and their staffs. It was a tribute to the untiring energy and enthusiasm of Manchester's Civil Defense Director, Chief Her-man O. Schendel, who did much of the planning for yesterday's event.

The program started with the arrival of visiting directors about 1 p. m. at the Municipal building where they were registered under the direction of John Jaremko, head of the administration divi-sion of the local Civil Defense Council.

After being registered the visitors were assigned to buses provided by the Manchester Motor Coach Service and divided into individ-ual, white-book them for Charter Oak Field which was the desig-nated assembly point for local Civil Defense personnel taking part in Sunday's demonstration. This also gave the visitors an op-portunity to inspect some of the types of equipment that had been gathered there.

With sounding of the air raid alert the program started with the joint fire departments. All of the visiting directors and their staffs assembled at a point back of the site of the old Rogers East mill where the brook had been sandbagged to form a pool. There they saw the firemen under the direction of Chief James Schaub and Chief John Stern start laying about 1,200 feet of 4 inch alum-inum pipe from the Eighth District which was sta-tioned at the pool to the pump of the S. M. F. D. located on the football field at Mt. Nebo which was the simulated bombed out area in the program. The visit-ing directors followed the pipe laying up the hill on foot and then proceeded to the seats provided for them on the south side of the football field.

Building Set on Fire

On the north side of the foot-ball field the firemen were ready to get their hose lines ready while a fire was set in 12 by 18 foot building standing in the northeast corner of the field. After the building had been set on fire four victims rushed out and this was the signal for the Red Cross First Aid teams under the direction of Clerk Stranefield to go into ac-tion. In the meantime another victim was carried out of the now blazing building by four firemen using the new Scott Air Packs. These victims were all given first aid treatment at a tent set up at the southeast corner of the field under medical and nurse supervi-sion. They were then taken by station wagon and panel trucks (simulated ambulances which would have to be used in a real emergency) to the tent at the southwest corner of the field which served as a clearing sta-tion for the assignment of the various types of casualties to hos-pitals for further treatment. This clearing station was under the supervision of Dr. Elmer Diskan and Dr. Joseph Barry assisted by registered nurses and nurses aids under the direction of Miss Anna Sampson.

At this tent there was also an interesting display of equipment used at a clearing station which this area was up to simulate the 10 cheats of first aid equip-ment which has been accumulat-ed and packed here under the di-rection of Dr. Barry. There is enough equipment to serve in event of a disaster for several hours until more could be sent in from central supply depots now set up by the state.

Fire Fire Fire

In the meantime, while the First Aid demonstration was being fin-ished the firemen extinguished the fire in the building with Rockwood fog nozzles. This type of equip-ment will take care of most any type of fire without the use of chemicals.

This action was followed by the clearing of a road block under the direction of Ernest Turek and Frank Batstone of the Engineer-ing Division. Work was started after the debris had been monitor-ed by the radiological team which gave it the all-clear signal. Two bulldozers and a crane went into action and quickly and efficiently removed a sizeable pile of debris consisting of old automobile bodies and fallen trees. The engineering division had a fine display of heavy construction equipment on hand including a crane bulldozers of various types, power shovels and trucks.

A very interesting and instruc-tive demonstration on radiological detection was put on before the stands where the visitors were seated under the direction of Tim-othy Horan. Radioactive material was distributed to the guests of the day, Town Manager George Waddell, Lt. Gov. and Mrs. Ed-ward N. Allen, Gen. William Hes-keth, head of Conn. Civil Defense and Town Directors Alden Bailey and Harry Firato. The team then proceeded to locate the radioactive material with a Geiger counter.

Previous to this demonstration Manager Waddell, Lt. Gov. Allen and Gen. Hesketh were introduced to those present.

The field radiological team was in charge of Russell Wright and the whole group has been under the instruction of Dr. Fyrold S. Barrett.

Ten teams of three persons each under the direction of York Stranefield gave a fine demonstra-tion of first aid work on five "vic-tims" including head bandages, arm slings, open head bandages, leg splints, arm splints and ankle bandages and received a great round of applause from the audi-ence.

Amateur radio communications under the direction of Stuart Lynde and Fred Edwards gave a fine demonstration of what they can do with their mobile units. In addition to the permanent head-quarters in the police station tying in, a headquarters was set up on the field with loudspeakers so that the entire audience could hear the messages sent and re-ceived. During this demonstration a report on "unknown" planes passing over Manchester was giv-en by Lieut. Raymond Griffin's plane spotters located on the top of the Odd Fellows block at the Center.

Manchester Civil Defense has 110 auxiliary policemen in addi-tion to the regular force. They teamed up to put over a very in-teresting demonstration including drilling under the direction of Michael Murphy that drew some favorable comment by spectators. Music for the drilling was furnished by the Man-chester Pipe Band. The drilling was followed by P.R.I. shooting by teams of auxiliary policemen. Targets were life size and live am-munition was used. The judo dem-onstration following was received with enthusiasm by spectators. As pointed out by Chief Schendel, this is a very important technique for officers to know how to stop panic in a congested area where the officers do not want to resort to the use of firearms.

Field Kitchen Shown

The affair closed with a demon-stration by the Canteen Service and Feeding Division un-der the direction of Herman Heck and Stuart Johnson. A field kitchen was brought on to the field and Mrs. Veronda served to all the visiting directors and staff members.

A commentary on the sequence of events from the time the demonstration started to the finish was given by Leon A. Thorp of the public relations division of Civil Defense assisted by Jo-seph Dyer.

William Lake, Area Director for Civilian Defense did a fine job of liaison work at the demonstra-tion. Police work and patroling in town during the demonstration was taken over by the State Po-lice.

Molotov, Zhukov At Polish Fete

freedom and liquidation of the Titoist Fascist regime."

Attacks West

Russia's former foreign minis-ter also attacked the western powers for setting out on what he called an arms race. He denounced establishment of American bases in Europe and the Middle East and accused the western powers of be-ing remilitarization of western Germany and Japan.

"In those conditions," he de-clared, "it is necessary not only to maintain but also by all means to strengthen the vigilance of the peoples in the cause of the preven-tion of war and the defense of peace. Only in this (way) can we see a reliable guarantee and se-curity."

On the platform at the Polish National theatre when Molotov spoke were Poland's President Boleslaw Bierut, Marshal Zhukov, Deputy Prime Minister Walter Ulbricht of the East German Re-public and Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky, Poland's defense minister.

This group, with high ranking officials of Albania, Czechoslovak-kia, Bulgaria, Mongolia, Hungary and Romania, reviewed the cream of the Polish armed forces from a stand in Zierzynsky square yes-terday.

Huge numbers of militia in grayish blue uniforms and armed civilian auxiliaries cordoned off the stand. Special passes were de-manded of anyone trying to enter the square.

The mechanized section of the parade included about 200 Rus-sian-style tanks and self-propelled guns. It took about 45 minutes for the tidal wave to pass.

A sprinkling of aircraft, includ-ing jets, flew overhead.

Rokossovsky Present

Western observers were in-terested to see Rokossovsky at the festivities. His prolonged absence from official functions had led to rumors that he had been shot or had committed suicide.

They were also inclined to take much great importance to the pres-ence of so many Communist dig-nitaries at the Polish celebration. The Kremlin has never paid so much attention to the festivities in Poland.

Diplomatic circles in Berlin speculated that a meeting of the Cominform is going on for trans-mittal of the Kremlin's newest in-structions to the satellites. They have been expecting a new Com-munist "peace offensive."

They think its purpose would be to counter the growing strength of the West especially since Gen. Eisenhower has begun the buildup of western Europe. They also point out:

1. The new American under-standing with Spain may have hit Moscow hard.

2. The Iranian oil crisis has failed thus far to develop the ex-pected anti-western explosion.

3. The economic crisis of the cold war has pinched the Soviets in sensitive areas.

Frank Frisch Disappointed, Wanted More of a Chance

New Rochelle, N. Y., July 23—(AP)—Frankie Frisch, deposed Chicago manager, said today that Cubs are a first division club despite their present seventh-place standing and wished he had had "more of a chance."

The famous Fordham Flash, who insisted his resignation last Saturday was not prompted by official pressure, promised the Cubs' poor showing except to point out that it was a young club and that it was beset by numerous injuries.

"I harbor no resentment against Mr.-Wrigley or any of the other officials," Frisch said. "I think I ever heard of wish, though, they had given me more of a chance.

"After all, it was understood by everyone, I thought, that we were building a young club. I'm sure they didn't expect results for another couple of years.

"It's a pretty good club," he added. "And it is bound to be much better next year. Sure-fire first division. There are some fine young players on the club, but a big improvement is needed before it can come along."

Bill: "You put him right on the next bus and send him back."

Joe: "I can't do that, Bill. The boy hasn't any money."

Bill: "You get him over there; it's up to you to get him back."

P. S. The lad returned on the next bus and relations between the two schools are all sweetness and light.

Fried Southern Style

Except for the names, the following phone conversation between two Mid-South football coaches is furnished as a public service just as told by a guy who listened in one end:

It took place the evening after their teams had met in a spring scrimmage . . . Bill: "Joe, do you have a boy named Soandso over there?" . . . (Joe irreflectively): "Soandso? No, I don't think I ever heard of him." (He was a 215-pound tackle who had just finished wrecking Joe's team) . . . Bill: "Well, my boys say they saw him talking to you just before they got your team got on the bus. I want him back."

Joe: "Is that so?" (Very surprised): "Oh, Soandso. Is he your boy? He came to me and said he wasn't happy at your school and wanted to transfer to our place so I told him to come along."

Bill: "You put him right on the next bus and send him back."

Joe: "I can't do that, Bill. The boy hasn't any money."

Bill: "You get him over there; it's up to you to get him back."

P. S. The lad returned on the next bus and relations between the two schools are all sweetness and light.

Bolduc, Booth, Plecan Pace Attack With Two Hits Each; Cephus Scatters Six Blows

Power in the Silk City batting order proved its potentials again Saturday evening when the Aces, making their first start in the State semi-pro championship, swept past the Wethersfield Shadows by a score of 5 to 1. The Twilight League second place team came up with four extra base hits among 10 hits garnered from the offerings of Tom Tewksbury, Springfield College right hander, while Dick Cephus, young Negro star, limited the visitors to a half dozen singles going the route.

The crowd was small but the game was fine, dominated by good pitching. Wethersfield hit the ball hard but always right at the outfielders. Leverett Spencer was the only member of the Shadows to get two hits, Bob Hart, Dartmouth ace, and Carl Dobler, Providence College second baseman, showed plenty of power at the plate as they drove Freddie Booth and George Kepler back deep on four occasions to gather in long fly balls.

Hart, the no-hit fame pitcher, pulled an arm muscle warming up before the game and couldn't pitch, Tewksbury displayed a variety of stuff and had only one bad inning, the third.

Ed Brown drove home the first tally in the second when Mike Plecan scored on his ground-out after Bolduc had walked. Plecan scored on his ground-out after Bolduc had walked. Plecan scored on his ground-out after Bolduc had walked.

Sense and Nonsense

Classified advertisement in Wichita (Wichita Falls, Tex.) Daily Times: "Extremely lucky individual, in order to dispose of only tangible evidence of his foolishness, will give some sucker a real bargain in a new, unused ring set. Call 2-7640."
—Mrs Travis Johnson,Olney, Tex.

A tourist, trying to have a game with the "natives," pointed to a tall telegraph pole.
Tourist—I say, can you tell me what kind of fruit grows on that tree?
Native—Yes, indeed. — electric currents!

The man chased the train to the end of the platform but failed to catch it. As he walked slowly back, mopping his brow—
Onlooker—Miss the train?
Man—Oh, not much. You see, I never got to know it very well.

We don't know what kind of deal he'll rig up when he gets a television set, but we heard of a chap the other day who had taken a donkey head to a taxidermist and had it made into a loudspeaker. The animal's jaws are wide open, teeth showing in a constant show-case grin. Out of that stuffed throat come the gentleman's radio programs.

Many of us never solve a difficult problem because the right solution is the most unpleasant one to carry out.

Snob—Have any of your family connections ever been traced?
Slob—Yes, they traced an uncle of mine as far as Mexico once.

"Chinese Communists turn out division after division in Korea." Turning out Chinese seems to be one item of mass production with which we cannot keep pace.

How True
The one who thinks our jokes are poor,
Would straight-way change his views
Could he compare the jokes we print
With those we cannot use!

The Most valuable sense of humor is the kind that enables a person to see instantly what it isn't safe to laugh at.
—Ladies' Home Journal

There's a story about an efficiency expert who only says his prayers once a year. New Year's Day. The rest of the time he just jumps into the bed, and says "ditto."

"A big mining venture in Norway has flopped. The search was for uranium. But all they hit was gold, so they gave up."

Males are dropping off, giving way to womanhood in the U. S. The 1950 census reveals that there are 96.1 men for every 100 women in the nation and incidentally, that's the first time in U. S. history that a census has revealed women outnumbering their male counterparts.

Pa. GOP Rule Is Contested

Philadelphia, July 24—(AP)—Control of the Republican party in this traditional GOP stronghold was at stake today in the Pennsylvania primary election.

The principals in the major contest—the Republican mayoralty nomination in Philadelphia—are the Rev. Dr. Daniel A. Poling, 66, nationally known Baptist minister, and Walter P. Miller, 49, paper box manufacturer.

This is the first election in Philadelphia since the voters ratified a new city charter. The "Old Guard" Republican organization, which has controlled this third city of the nation for nearly a century, fought against the charter.

Thus the voters are in effect selecting the "new" Republican party in Philadelphia.

The incumbent mayor, Republican Bernard Samuel, is not seeking reelection. Samuel, who was appointed mayor upon the death of his predecessor on Aug. 22, 1941., has been elected to two full terms.

Miller has contended that Dr. Poling is playing along with the "Old Guard." In a television address last night, he warned Dr. Poling of being a "good front" for the "old pros."

Dr. Poling maintains that he is independent of the GOP organization, which has announced its support of Dr. Poling.

In an election eve message last night, Dr. Poling urged the city's voters to ballot "into political oblivion those who would race to support their charges, smear public officials, civic employes and private citizens."

Strong Mayor Charter

The new city charter avowedly established a "strong mayor" city government with less authority than before for the city council, which, incidentally, is being whittled from 22 to 17 members in the general election next fall.

Elsewhere in the state, the primary is pretty much routine. There is only one statewide contest, for a seat on the State Supreme Court, to which Attorney Ben Lipez is running a contest for the mayorally nomination, the City Controller Joseph S. Clark, Jr., is expected to win easily over Joseph Sharfsin, former city solicitor.

Richardson Dilworth, city treasurer, is unopposed for renomination for district attorney.

Warns State On Borrowing

Treasurer Adorno Hits Methods, Cites Triple Rate on Housing Notes

Hartford, July 24—(AP) — State Treasurer Joseph A. Adorno said today that Connecticut ought to put a "Buy, Borrow and Listen" sign over its borrowing practices.

He said that while the State's credit is still excellent as compared with other states, Connecticut is beginning to "feel the effect" of continued borrowing.

"While our credit is still good," he said, "we should pause and realize that continued heavy borrowing by future legislatures can react to our disadvantage."

Treasurer Adorno said the effect of mounting borrowing practices can be seen, in part, in the almost crippling of the interest rate the State now pays on new State housing notes. Two years ago when the state went in, it paid the rate was 456 (less than one-half of one per cent), now it is 1.36 per cent.

Used Retirement Fund

While federal credit policies are partly responsible for this, he said, the increasing borrowing—from an authorized $15,000,000 four years ago to an authorized $165,000,000—can't be overlooked.

Adorno recalled that when he took office in January 1947 the State had an indebtedness of only $28,000,000. But against that, he noted, the bond retirement fund to pay it off was around $12,000,000, thus leaving a "net debt" of around $13,000,000. This retirement fund has now been used up.

Nagging The Help Held Unjustified

New Haven, July 24 —(AP)— A ruling by Judge Thomas J. Molloy of the Superior Court says nagging your employes is unjustified.

The judge decided yesterday that Michael Goldberg of New Haven was acting reasonably when he quit a $135-a-week job as a marker and cutter for a clothing manufacturer.

The judge's ruling upset a decision by the Unemployment Compensation commissioner that Goldberg had quit without sufficient cause and therefore was not entitled to unemployment compensation.

Goldberg said he quit because

Ask New Data on Bid To Increase Military

Washington, July 24 —(AP)— Some Senators called today for more information on why President Truman wishes it probable will be necessary to build the armed forces beyond the present goal of 3,500,000 men.

Senator Morse (R-Ore) declared, however, he is convinced the President is right. The Oregon lawmaker said the strength of the fighting forces must be increased for both air power and ground equipment standpoint "If we are to make it clear to Russia she has everything to lose and nothing to gain as a result of any aggression."

In his midyear economic report, Mr. Truman told Congress yesterday the 3,500,000-man goal, now almost reached, may prove inadequate regardless of the outcome of the truce talks in Korea.

The President urged "full speed ahead" on the military build-up generally and said 3,500,000 men in uniform may not be enough to start a global rout of Soviet "blackmail" and aggression.

Mr. Truman also declared there should be no yielding to those who would discard the anti-inflation control system "or shoot it full of holes."

Conferees to Meet

On the economic controls front, a Senate-House conference committee is scheduled to start work tomorrow on the job of ironing out differences between separate

China to Bolster Tie With Vietnam

San Francisco, July 24—(AP)— The Chinese Red Radio said today a Communist delegation from Indo-china has arrived in Peiping to "strengthen the friendship between the peoples of China and Vietnam."

The Peiping broadcast, heard in San Francisco by the Associated Press, said the delegation was headed by Hoang Quoc Viet, vice chairman of the National United Front." The organization is waging against the French-sponsored Bao Dai government of Indochina.

The radio gave no hint what form the strengthening might take.

Flood Threat Held Easing

Little Damage Expected as Crest Moves South of St. Louis

Cape Girardeau, Mo., July 24—(AP)—The Mississippi neared a crest today but the flood waters from Kansas and Missouri were expected to do little additional damage to this town of 20,000—the last endangered community of any size between here and the Gulf of Mexico.

At mid-morning the river reading was 41.8 feet. A crest of 42 feet was expected this afternoon. This would be about one-half foot below the all-time mark of 1943 here.

Several blocks are awash but no new flooding of any serious consequence is anticipated here.

Cape Girardeau is in southeast Missouri, more than 100 miles south of St. Louis.

Harriman, Iran Talks On Oil Feud Hit Snag

Tehran, Iran, July 24—(AP)—Negotiations between President Truman's special envoy W. Averell Harriman and Iranian officials were reported to have hit a snag today over details for ending the bitter British-Iranian feud over nationalization of oil.

The snag was not described as a deadlock.

Both Harriman and members of the Iranian government's oil nationalization board still expressed "satisfaction" with progress made in the talks so far.

But after 10 hours of discussion yesterday in the bedroom of ailing Premier Mohammed Mossadegh, the Iranian cabinet still fell short of reaching agreement on the basis for resuming formal negotiations with Britain.

Similar Proposals

Both Harriman and the Iranians were understood to have submitted proposals "along the same general lines," according to a source close to the negotiations.

These would call for British acceptance of Iranian government ownership of the country's rich oil resources, including the installations of the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil company which ex-

Weather Hampers Hunt For Plane

Juneau, Alaska, July 24—(AP)—Wrbsening weather continued to hamper planes today in the search for a Korean airlift plane missing along the Alaska coast since Saturday with 38 aboard.

Sixteen planes and three Coast Guard cutters have been attempting to comb the lower waters of the Gulf of Alaska and the mountain peaks rising as high as 15,000 feet along the coast. But the weather has prevented an intensive search since the plane vanished. The pilot made his last report 80 miles west of Juneau.

Coast Guard and Air Force officials held a midnight planning conference to set up a search schedule for today. The Weather Bureau reported meanwhile that fog and low clouds would interfere with low level searches over the water. And it said much of the mountain area would be obscured today.

Planes were able to check parts of the mountains Sunday above a cloud layer but yesterday flights were restricted to wave skimming runs.

Admiral Sherman Rites Set Friday

Washington, July 24 — (AP) — Adm. Forrest P. Sherman will be buried Friday afternoon (2 p.m. e.s.t.) at Arlington National Cemetery with high military honors.

In announcing this today, the Navy said the body of the former chief of naval operations will lie in state in Washington Cathedral from tomorrow afternoon until time for the funeral.

Sherman died Sunday of heart attack at Naples, Italy, while on a tour of Atlantic Pact countries. A plane carrying his body left Naples today and is due here tomorrow afternoon.

The body will be taken from the airport to the cathedral on Massachusetts avenue, about five miles from the cemetery.

France Turns Down Petain Request for Verdun Grave

Ile D'Yeu, France, July 24—(AP)—A simple funeral and a grave-stone bearing only his name were readied today for Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, who in life had worn the laurels of a national hero and the chains of a condemned traitor.

Denied burial at Verdun among the soldiers he led in World War I, the 95-year-old chief of the Nazi-dominated Vichy regime will be laid to rest here tomorrow in the little stone-walled cemetery of Port Joinville.

Friends and admirers hurried to this bleak Atlantic island for the rites. The grave was made ready. Ready, too, was the simple headstone reading "Philippe Petain"—without mention of his rank or qualities.

Petain died here yesterday, after almost six years of exile following his conviction of treason for his acts as head of the Vichy government. In death he remained a controversial figure, as his supporters continued their fight to clear his name.

An appeal from Petain's lawyers to bury the old soldier at Verdun, where he often said he wanted to be put to rest, was turned

8 Bradley Hoopsters Admit Fix

New York, July 24—(AP)—District attorney Frank Hogan announced today that eight Bradley university basketball players, including an All-American athlete, had admitted accepting bribes to fix basketball games.

Bradley, which is in Peoria, Ill., has had key players in the scandal the past few years.

Hogan named four of the eight players, who are all under questioning by the State's Attorney in Peoria as:

Eugene Melchiorre, 23, of 860 Taylor street, Highland Park, Ill., the All-America athlete; William Mazza, 24, of 17 High street, Peoria; Aaron Preece, 24, 1806 Western avenue, Peoria; and Charles Smith, 22, 97 University avenue, Peoria.

Hogan said the men admitted taking up to $2,700 in bribes since the 1948-49 season when the fixes began.

He said the matter would presumably be investigated by State Attorney Michael Shore to the grand jury of Peoria county.

According to Hogan the games fixed were Bradley against Washington State in Peoria, 1949-50 season and Bradley against Oregon State in Peoria, Dec. 7, 1950.

He said there was an effort to fix the Bowling Green-Bradley game at Madison Square Garden in the 1948-49 season, but that the Bradley players involved failed to lose by the number of points agreed on with the fixers.

Hogan named Nick Englisbee known as "Nick the Greek" as the "Sollazzo" of the scheme. He referred to Salvatore T. Sollazzo,

New Haven, July 24—(AP)—The medical adviser of the New Haven County polio foundation said today the organization will ask the families of infantile paralysis patients to assume a greater share of the cost of their treatment whenever possible.

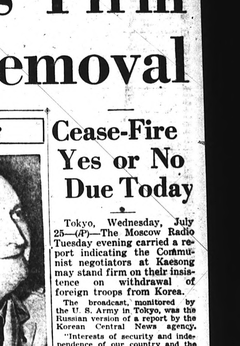
ITALY GETS MANDATE

Rome, Italy, July 24—(AP)—Christian Democrat leader Alcide de Gasperi today accepted a mandate to form a new Italian government.

An official communique said De Gasperi called upon President Luigi Einaudi at his summer home 30 miles south of Rome to accept the mandate.

So What?



Brig. Gen. David J. Crawford, head of the Army's Detroit Tank Automotive Center, admitted to Congressional investigators in Detroit that he accepted a free hotel suite in Washington from an agent of two companies which hold more than $33,000,000 worth of ordnance contracts. Crawford said he considered it "perfectly all right" to accept the hospitality. (NEA telephoto).

Cease-Fire Yes or No Due Today

Tokyo, Wednesday, July 25—(AP)—The Moscow Radio Tuesday evening carried a report indicating the Communist negotiators at Kaesong may stand firm on their insistence on withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea.

The broadcast, monitored by the U. S. Army in Tokyo, was the Russian version of a report by the Korean Central News agency.

"Interests of security and independence of our country and the interests of world peace demand withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea. Our representatives in Kaesong resolutely insist on the final solution of this question."

The recessed armistice talks were to resume at 11 a. m. today (8 p. m., e.s.t. Tuesday.)

Await Red Reply

U. N. Advance Headquarters, Korea, July 24—(AP)— United Nations truce negotiators return to Kaesong tomorrow for a yes or no answer from the Communists on a Korean war armistice agenda.

The Red North Korean Pyongyang radio indicated today the answer will be "No."

U. N. officers insist cease-fire talks omit any discussion of withdrawing foreign troops from Korea.

In an unofficial answer Pyongyang Radio quoted the Communist "Korean Central Press" news agency:

"All our people demand withdrawal of all foreign national troops from our territory."

Supreme Court Ruling Gives Green Light on New Britain's Project

Hartford, July 24—(AP)—The Supreme Court ruled unanimously today that the State did not violate its Constitution when it arranged to expand the facilities of the New Britain Memorial hospital with State funds.

The ruling presumably paved the way for resumption of construction on the New Britain project which has been held up for many months while its legality was under question.

The question was raised in Hendler Taxpayer's suit brought by Robert C. Legat, Jr., of New Britain.

The suit raised the question of whether the State properly could build an institution on land it does not own, a question that had to be decided before the State could sell bonds to finance the project.

Legat also raised the point that

British Labor Showdown Near

London, July 24—(AP)—A showdown fight between Prime Minister Attlee's Labor government and the dissident forces of Aneurin Bevan was seen shaping up today as the party's local echelons voiced open concern over Attlee's policies.

Marked hostility by rank and file laborites to rising living costs and concern at the size of Britain's rearmament program was highlighted in the publication of preliminary resolutions submitted for the ruling party's annual conference at Scarborough Oct. 1 to 5.

The resolutions indicated that many of the party's local units feel the Attlee government follows Washington's foreign policy line too closely.

5-Nation Europe Army Gains Favor in U. S.

Washington, July 24— (AP) — United States officials are taking a long, but sympathetic look at a scheme proposed over the weekend to fuse the armies and finances of five European nations in the interests of Europe's defense.

The proposal was in reports from a conference of western European representatives. The American military men think the plan offers the firmest basis yet for mutually-conscious Europe's common defense.

One highly placed American officer today said: "We are neither saying the plan nor selling it short until the sponsoring nations show that they want it and are willing to make it work."

However, some Senators just returned from Europe quoted Gen. Eisenhower as telling them that when he first was approached about the plan,he asked Washington what its attitude was toward the project.

Cleared With Washington

The Senators said he general told them he got clearance from Washington to go ahead with vigorous support for the project.

The European army scheme is aimed at simplifying the maze of committees, groups, councils and governments that make up the

House 'Get Acheson' Drive Reaches Climax This Week

Washington, July 24 — (AP) — House critics of the State department get their long-awaited chance this week to try to knock Secretary Acheson off the federal payroll.

The showdown will probably come tomorrow, when the House considers amendments to the annual money bill of the State, Justice and Commerce departments and the Federal judiciary.

In advance of the voting, Truman administration leaders voiced confidence they could halt the "Get Acheson" drive, although they conceded the vote may be close.

Support Divided

An amendment that would have the effect of removing Acheson from the payroll—although not from his job if he wants to serve for nothing—is being drafted by Rep. Phillips, (R-Calif).

It has strong backing from Republicans and from many Southern Democrats, although not all Republicans are expected to support it.
