Crime Probers End Hearings

Subpoenas, Warrants For Missing Men to Expire in Two Weeks

Washington, Aug. 18 — (AP)— Racketeers and gamblers sought by the Senate Crime Investigating committee can breathe a little easier today.

The group which threw a spotlight on many top underworld figures and won nation-wide acclaim for it, formally closed down its open hearings late yesterday.

The committee's life still has two weeks to run. But Chairman Kefauver (D., Tenn.) said these would be devoted entirely to writing a final report, due by September 1, and pushing 18 legislative recommendations.

Subpoenas and arrest warrants issued by the Crime Probers will not expire until the committee does. But the lawmakers indicated that no further searches would be made since the witnesses would not be heard if found.

O'Conor said the final report was certain to have a large section dealing with the narcotics traffic. The committee centered much of its attention during recent weeks on the illegal drug racket.

The committee has indicated, too, that it would have much to say about Abner (Longie) Zwillman, former bootlegger kingpin now said to have tie-ups with many racketeers elsewhere.

Zwillman was one of those who eluded the committee's dragnet for its last three days of hearings. But the Senators heard much testimony about his past and present activities.

The lawmakers spent much of their final hearing yesterday on gambling in the shadow of the Capitol. They heard that:

1. A numbers racket grossing $45,000 to $50,000 a week has been flourishing in the district of Columbia and adjacent prnts Georges County, Maryland.

2. A reputed top figure in this racket, Charley E. Nolan, offered to pay $15,000 a month in bribes to three Prince Georges officials

Baltic, Aug. 18—(AP)—About 40 families living near the Shetucket river here were warned late last night to be ready to evacuate their homes when fears were expressed that the Baltic Mills dam might collapse.

The dam, which had been undergoing repairs, started leaking in two places near its center around 9 p.m. and as the leaks grew larger, Baltic firemen and Town Constable Adelard F. Simoneau began notifying the families they might have to evacuate their homes.

Three days of rain swelled the river and piled up so much water behind the Scotland Dam, some distance up-river from the Baltic dam, it was necessary to open the floodgates. The water liberated from the Scotland pond struck the

Finds Discrimination In Hartford AFL Local

Hartford, Aug. 18—(AP)—The State Civil Rights commission has found the Hartford Employment Practices Commission yesterday ordered the local to admit two Hartford Negroes, Mansfield T. Tilley, and Warren B. Stewart, 25, to membership.

Commission members said it was the first time in the nation that a union has been found guilty of racial discrimination under fair employment practices legislation now in force in only a few states.

The decision was handed down after a hearing before a panel of the commission.

In its finding the commission criticized the union for what it called a continuing "pattern of discrimination against Negroes." No Negroes ever have been admitted to membership, and the union's policy of giving preference to sons and relatives of members "precludes absolutely" the admission of Negroes, the finding said.

The commission said that the union had a virtual monopoly on employment in the electrical trades in Hartford.

The union admitted that Tilley and Stewart were excluded, but claimed it was justified because they were "too old" and were not sponsored by an employer. Age

Arrests Fourth Round of Hunt for Reds; Brings Score to 46 Accused

Washington, Aug. 18—(AP)—The FBI rounded up six more Communist leaders yesterday and charged them with plotting to overthrow the government by force.

The arrests were the fourth round in the big hunt for Communists which began after a Supreme Court decision last June upheld the conviction of 11 top Reds charged with violating the Smith act.

That law makes it a crime to teach or advocate the forceful overthrow of the government.

Arrests

The arrests, all in the Pennsylvania-West Virginia area, brought to 46 the number of Communists accused under the act since the Supreme Court decision. Four of these have not yet been found. And four of the convicted 11 top leaders jumped bail instead of surrendering to begin serving their terms. They are being sought.

Steven Nelson, 47, described by the FBI as schooled in espionage and sabotage in Moscow, was among those in the latest roundup.

Nelson has been chairman of the Communist Party of Western Pennsylvania since July, 1948.

The meeting was Moscow's idea.

Joy Warns Reds About Cease-Fire

Munsan, Korea, Aug. 18—(AP)—The Senior Allied envoy to the Kaesong cease-fire talks said tonight the United Nations "must retain defensive positions" in Korea.

"We must keep up our military guard until the final settlement of the Korean problem seems assured," said Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy in an official statement released at his headquarters here.

Joy added:

"The sole objective of the U. N. command delegation is a military armistice, based on military realities. These armistice negotiations are an essential prelude to any eventual long-time solution of the Korean problem."

Read at Kaesong

Joy's statement had been read at the Kaesong talks but the U. N. command did not say when.

Joy warned that "the net effect of any armistice will be of greater military advantage to the enemy than it will to us."

He rejected the Communist demand for a buffer zone astride the 38th parallel with these words:

"An ever-increasing military threat capable of being launched from across a few kilometers of any demilitarized zone, which is based on an imaginary parallel of latitude, would be intolerable."

Joy said it was the primary mission of any field commander to insure the security of his troops at all times, and added, "We have a solemn obligation to our fighting men to afford them maximum security during the armistice."

Could Renew War

The Senior Allied negotiator said both the U.N. and the Communists are capable of continuing their military actions.

"International Law," he said, "specifically defines an armistice as a temporary suspension of hostilities, and just as specifically points out that hostilities may be resumed by either side if proper prior notification is given.

"Thus it can be seen that it would be foolhardy, and perhaps be disastrous, for either com-

Dangerous Storm Hits Major City

Miami, Fla., Aug. 18—(AP)—All communications with Jamaica were severed by the 120-mile-an-hour Hurricane which battered the British Caribbean island during the night.

Cable and Radio communication with the island was still blanked out at 9:30 a. m. today. The last word from Kingston, the capital on the south coast, reported rain squalls — prelude to the storm — were sweeping in from the sea at 6 p. m.

Havana, Aug. 17—(AP)—The National Observatory said tonight that a Caribbean hurricane was over Kingston, Jamaica, or close to the south of that city at 10 p. m. EST today.

We have received no reports since this afternoon from that island but it is certain that Jamaica will be battered by the hurricane during the entire night," the bulletin said.

"If there is no change in the route of the storm, tomorrow at 7 a. m. it should be a short distance west of Punta Negril, in the western-most end of Jamaica, moving toward Grand Cayman which will probably be hit by the hurricane after midday."

The course of the hurricane now is toward the Yucatan strait along the western section of Cuba, which should be alerted, the bulletin added.

Hoodlum Boss Briber In Hoop 'Fix' Hunted

New York, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Police throughout the nation today hunted for a Kansas City hoodlum indicted as the master briber of Bradley university basketball players, including one All-America star.

Authorities described their quarry as Joseph Benintende, 41, "a known gunman and very dangerous."

Benintende was named yesterday along with three Bradley cagers and seven other assertedly "fixers" in six indictments charging bribery and conspiracy.

The Bradley players—All-American Gene (Squeaky) Melchiorre, William K. Mann and George M. Chianakas—were released in $500 bail each yesterday after they pleaded innocent to the charges.

Five other Bradley players figured in the probe, but were not cited in the indictments.

Low bail for the three indicted Bradley players was set after a representative of the District Attorney said they cooperated in the inquiry.

Meanwhile, in Kansas City, police said they were investigating reports Benintende was involved in an alleged fix of a basketball game there March 21, 1950, between Bradley and Kansas university.

The Kansas City reports, according to police, were that Bradley players received $4,000 to win by less than four points. They won by two, 59-57, and the fixer allegedly raked in $80,000.

The game was played in the National Collegiate Athletic Association's western playoffs.

District Attorney Frank S. Hogan in New York said Benintende was the leader of the gambling ring and the other seven in-

Hopes Senate Trims Foreign Aid Slash

Washington, Aug. 18—(AP)—Administration leaders looked to the Senate today to restore at least part of a $1,001,250,000 cut the House made in President Truman's $8,500,000,000 foreign aid bill.

They were particularly hopeful of recapturing an unexpected last-minute slice of $350,000,000 in economic aid for western Europe. That cut was pushed through by a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats shortly before the bill passed last night by a vote of 200 to 101.

The House Foreign Affairs committee already had lopped $340,000,000 off funds for European economic help.

Wider Cut

The additional cut was imposed by 149 Republicans and 37 Democrats over the opposition of 162 Democrats, 11 Republicans and one Independent. It was sponsored by Rep. Reece (R-Tenn), former chairman of the Republican National committee.

The House left the European economic allotment at $985,000,000 instead of the $1,675,000,000 requested by President Truman.

There were no House-voted reductions in other funds recommended by the Foreign Affairs committee. This group had trim-

Chinese Reds to Kill Two Foreigners in Plot on Mao

Hong Kong, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Red China for the first time has entered non-Chinese in its blood purge net, sentencing two foreigners to death for allegedly plotting to kill Communist leader Mao Tse-tung last fall.

It remains to be seen whether Peiping will carry out sentence of the two, an Italian and a Japanese. But Peiping radio yesterday denounced them as "spies" for the United States.

But it caused fears among observers here that this means a new turn in Peiping's campaign against foreigners and that the purge by execution squads may be extended to non-Chinese.

Deny Charges

The State department in Washington and the U. S. military attache on Formosa immediately denied the charge. The Red radio said the attache, Col. David D. Barrett, hired the "spies" while in Peiping.

"I never at any time," said Barrett at Taipeh. Formosa "either on my own initiative or on orders of any agency of the United States government ever attempted to assemble or contrive the assassination of anyone."

The Boulder, Colo., soldier added that while in Peiping he never spent a cent on intelligence agents. He left Peiping February 6, 1950.

The State department in a statement backed him up, saying any assertion that he was the in-

Gears Wages Rise, Fall With Cost of Living

Washington, Aug. 18.—(AP)—The government has adopted, temporarily at least, a general policy of making wages to rise and fall with living costs.

In approving the policy yesterday, Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston said it was "in line with the overall stabilization objective of keeping the American economy in balance."

However, Johnston said the whole stabilization program would have to be reviewed next spring. He okayed the new policy, proposed by the Wage Stabilization board, until March 1, 1952.

Will Back Boosts

In the meantime, the board will approve wage increases granted by employers to offset the rise in living costs. Roughly, they have risen 11 per cent since January, 1950 and about two per cent since the wage-price freeze of last Jan. 25.

The new policy supplements but does not change a separate regulation under which employers may grant increases of 10 per cent over January, 1950 levels without coming to the board for approval.

The board promptly applied the new policy to a series of northern cotton-rayon textile mill cases. It granted a six and one-half per cent boost, amounting to eight and one-half cents an hour to 90,000 CIO-Textile workers, effective last March. Those of other New

China Reds to Kill 2 In Plot on Mao

stigator of such a plot "is a barefaced lie."

"It will be obvious to anyone," said Washington, "that allegations of this sort are deliberately false and are designed to contribute to the current and virulent 'Hate America' campaign being conducted by the Peiping regime."

Peiping Radio said two of the alleged plotters, Antonio Riva, 55, Italian merchant, and Rinichi Yamaguchi, 7, a Japanese bookkeeper, were sentenced to death. Two other Italians, a Frenchman and a German, got terms ranging from life down to five years.

The broadcast said the plotters planned to fire a trench mortar and smaller weapons at a review stand in Peiping October 1, 1950 when Mao and other Red big-wigs were to review a national day parade.

The plot outlined was so fantastic none here took it seriously.

Given life sentence was Monsigner Tarcisio Martina, 64, bishop of Yihsien diocese in Hopeh province who also was representative in Peiping of Apostolic Delegate Antonio Ribert of Nanking. Ribert is under house arrest, the broadcast said, in unnamed charge.

The "involvement" of Martina stirred suspicion here that this might be part of a new move against missionaries, who already are being driven from Red China on espionage arrests.

Others who were sentenced to alleged plot were: Henri Vetch, 52, a Frenchman who owns a bookstore, 10 years; Victor Gerli, 56, an Italian formerly in the Chinese Maritime Customs service, six years; Walter Genther, 39, a German trader, five years; Shih Hsing-kuo, 36, Chinese businessman, nine years.

Peiping asserted the plot was unfolded by the arrest of Riva and Yamaguchi on Sept. 26, 1950.

Finds Hartford Union Guilty

and sponsorship requirements are in the rules of the Hartford Joint Apprenticeship committee, which the union said, guides its admission policies.

The commission found that the union had permitted exceptions to its policy and described the council as a "paper organization" whose appointment procedure was "practically defunct."

Under the law, the commission has no direct power to enforce its order. It can apply for enforcement to the civil courts, and if the order is sustained there those who violate it can be held in contempt.

Appeals from the commission's orders may be taken to the Superior Court, and it was indicated that the union would do so.

How New Policy On Wages Works

week—11 per cent of $50. That wouldn't have been legal last week without a special government okay.

That doesn't mean you are automatically entitled to the raise. It doesn't mean the employer has to give it to you. It simply means you can bargain for it and the employer can grant it without any clearance from the government.

Say two months from now the cost of living is two per cent higher. That would mean another possible $1 a week for you. And so on.

Gears Wage Scale To Living Costs

England mill workers who have contracts with cost-of-living escalator clauses. These allow wage increases when the cost of living goes up—and decreases at and when the living cost declines. The board also okayed a future escalator clause for the 90,000.

The board declined to approve the full-scale one-shot 10 per cent increase negotiated by the Textile workers and the northern manufacturers, saying that would exceed the cost of living.

The arrangement to give severance pay to retiring workers also agreed upon by the employers. Those held to a severance while the board studies all types of pension and severance plans now in effect in the textile industry.

Under the cost of living policy, workers may get a pay boost in these three ways:

1. If they were working under a contract with an escalator clause in effect before the January 25 wage freeze. Under such a clause, pay adjustments are usually made every three months, at the rate of one cent an hour for each rise or fall of 1.14 points in the government's price index. A new one will be out next week, reflecting changes as of July 15). About 4,000,000 workers already are covered by such escalator clauses, including most of the rail-road and auto industries.

2. If they get a new contract.

2. If the employer and union agree to write a clause into the future to such an index, the board will approve the contract provisions.

3. If employers and unions want to make their own arrangements out such a binding clause, they may open their agreements every six months, take a look at what has happened to living costs and, if hands, telephone lines or bodies fluctuations. The board would approve such arrangements.

Johnston cautioned the board in a letter to Chairman George R. Taylor to live up to the "spirit and the letter of the cost of living principle."

"We all know that wage increases are reflected in price increases, and that price increases lead to wage increases," Johnston said. "Rigorous enforcement of the program is essential to prevent the vicious circle from skyrocketing to new heights."

Hay Needs Water And So Does Hair

wrap your arms around your head when you sleep. Put lots of water on your hair, too. That helps.

Mantello says rubbing the hair on arms or a pillow weakens it at the hairline.

As for the water part, he says hair grows like hay or any other crop. Hay needs water, doesn't it?

You don't see anywhere near as many bald women as bald men, says Mantello, because thicker hair on women's heads retains moisture and keeps the scalp damp, which promotes growth.

Peace Talks First Coast to Coast TV

New York, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Coast-to-coast television will be inaugurated Sept. 4 with telecasts by three networks of President Truman's address opening the Japanese peace conference in San Francisco.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Co. previously had set Sept. 20 for the cross-country TV hookup over its new $40,000,000 microwave radio relay system which started operation for telephone service yesterday. The official setup for the conference's initial major transcontinental video presentation.

A.T. and T. announced the setting of the new starting video date a few hours after the microwave system's telephone opening. The company said the State department requested the peace parley telecasts.

Thus, the three major networks —ABC, NBC and CBS—said the president's address at 4 p.m. EDT, dress at 9:30 p.m. e.s.t. on Sept. 4, will be the first time any television conference will be temporary. Regular commercial TV service will start in the months.

DIPLOMAT'S WIFE WATCHES

Beauvallon, ——French Riviera, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Police set up a discreet watch today around the villa rented by Mrs. Malinda MacLeay, wife of a missing British diplomat.

She, her three children, mother, a sister, and a nephew, are installed in an isolated villa near St. Tropez.

Asked whether she planned a long stay, she replied: "Perhaps a fortnight. Don't insist. I have nothing more to say."

Her husband, Donald MacLean, disappeared May 26 with Guy Burgess, a Foreign Office colleague, perhaps behind the Iron Curtain.

Periodically, reports — usually started in bars—have cropped up that the man has been seen on the Riviera. Police have investigated many such reports, to avail.

Light On Nehru's Objective

We are somewhat relieved to be able to clarify, at last, what Nehru of India means when he discusses the United States and Britain of failing to understand the basic issues involved in the Kashmir dispute.

Underneath what has seemed, to the West, merely Nehru's harsh refusal to accept any kind and degree of compromise he is always advocating for other nations, there is a case. And it has been brought intelligibly into the open, for the first time, by a statement from fourteen Moslem leaders in India.

Remember that they are distinguished Moslems, and that the claim of Pakistan to Kashmir is based largely on the consistent claim that the population of Kashmir is overwhelmingly Moslem. Why do Moslem leaders inside India oppose the aim of Pakistan, the Moslem state?

The answer is that they agree with Nehru on the point he is trying to make with Kashmir. That point is the division of India is not and should not be a division on purely religious lines. At the present time, there are 40,000,000 Moslems inside India. Apparently, they want to stay there, or they would have shifted to Pakistan. Nehru wants them to stay. Their own Moslem leaders want them to stay.

The stand which Nehru and these Moslem leaders take on the Kashmir issue is this: that if the Kashmir issue is settled solely on a religious basis, and Kashmir is awarded to Pakistan merely because Pakistan is the Moslem half of former India, then religious lines will be sharpened throughout India.

Then, they fear, the position of the 40,000,000 Moslems still inside India will become less stable. Then, they fear, there will be a tendency to become purely a Hindu state, a nation based on its own religion. Nehru wants to keep it a secular state.

Nehru and the Moslem leaders who support him, then, are fighting for Kashmir primarily as a symbol. They think that if they can prevent its being awarded to Pakistan on purely religious grounds, they will have dealt an important blow to the idea that India must continue to divide into two rival religious nations. They think that if they can bring Kashmir into India, that will reassure the 40,000,000 Moslems in the Indian Union, and establish, beyond question, the obligation of the Indian government to rule over both religions fairly, and never become the mere servant of one.

Now it will occur, as one analyzes this, that Nehru and the Moslem leaders who agree with him may not be sure that they are doing justice to the people of Kashmir itself. They may claim that the people of Kashmir agree with them; but they are not sure enough to agree to a plebiscite, to put the case candidly, they are probably willing to countenance some possible injustice to the sentiments of the inhabitants of Kashmir in order to establish a principle which they feel is necessary to the future welfare and peace of all India.

So even their ethical position is not completely comfortable. What has been made clear, however, is that Nehru is, after all, functioning on a level and with a purpose higher than that of mere jingoist obstructionism. Basically, he is looking ahead to an eventual restoration of that unity which India abandoned in order to get its freedom quickly. We retract some of our own harsh comments on his stand.

More Patchwork

It is perhaps unduly frivolous to call a solegon-looking document like the proposed mutual defense treaty between the United States and the Philippines nonsense, but that is what it is.

It is nonsense in two ways. First, it is a statement of something we already have stated. We are obligated to defend the Philippines by all manner of ties —by ties of sentiment, by ties of obligation to the nation we first conquered and then freed, and last, but not least, by our ties to the United Nations. The proposed treaty is merely a statement of the natural and the inevitable.

In the second place, the proposed treaty is one more crossbatch on the world's best system of security, which is the United Nations itself. Under the United Nations, we are, or should consider ourselves, obligated to resist aggression wherever it may occur. Now that we have, in fact, recognized that obligation in Korea, with whom we have an Atlantic Pact nor any Pacific Pact nor any special defense obligation of any kind, the thing to do is to acknowledge that precedent and obligation for what it is, and not cast doubt upon it by continuing with our ceaseless negotiation of special pacts which, by their very existence, imply something uncertain about our present course under our United Nations obligations.

Why, then, do we do this? The main answer is that this special pact with the Philippines, like the similar pacts we are also negotiating with Australia and New Zealand, is an expression of reassurance offering because we want these countries, who still remember the threat Japan once was to them, to be sure that Japan should be re-armed. In effect, we are telling them we want to talk about the rearmament of Japan, because we will protect them against Japan. We want to use Japan to protect ourselves against Russia. So we must, in turn, guarantee to protect other Pacific countries from Japan. That's the queer game of checkers we are playing in the Pacific.

If all this seems incomprehensible and self-defeating, it has its dangerous connotations, as well. In these arrangements, we are not acting primarily as a member of the United Nations, but seeming to make ourselves, as an individual nation, the school of action for other nations. We are building not a system of collective security, in a true sense, but a system of American security. Yet, in any test, these ties, designed to be stronger than those of the United Nations, would be quite likely to prove weaker, for they are ties in which we, whether we mean it or not, assume the status of an overlord and special patron, as contrasted to the other nations as that of servant of the United Nations.

The Non-Transferable Mercy

Down in New York City the other day, a gray and white tigerstriped kitten somehow found its way into a five inch crack between two tenements, and finally maneuvered itself into an immovable position.

There were several noteworthy things about what happened next. The forces which devoted themselves to the rescue of this kitten allowed nothing to stand in their way. They stopped below through the building's wall. They were obviously determined to do whatever was necessary in order to complete the rescue. Finally, they got close enough to the kitten to put a hook under its collar and bring it to safety.

It's an old familiar appealing story, and an old familiar implied contrast. We are always, we humans, devoting similarly single-minded, determined, failure-refusing efforts to the business of saving the life of some pet, or, in a higher field, of some individual human. It's amazing what we can do, when we recognize the challenge, when we refuse to accept failure.

What we do when the challenge is over many lives, when devotion and single - mindedness and heroism are really called for, is something less inspiring. Do we know any group of men who would drop everything else for as long a period as 31 hours in order to work for peace?

Do any of us agree that a lot of old walls have to come down if we are going to save the lives of millions of human beings? Even if we did set ourselves the goal, and decided to devote time to it, wouldn't we spend most of our time arguing about which rescue method to use? Could we be as common sense about rescuing man as we are about rescuing a kitten? Do we really care about anonymous human beings as much as we care about a particular kitten?

The kitten proves our good instincts, our compassion, our mercy, again and again. The record of humanity proves, again and again, that we have some strange incapacity to apply these same good instincts and qualities to mankind itself. Yet if we had that same tender, compassionate regard for every human life, that would most assuredly work a change in the conduct of men and of nations. There is one more ironical point. The religions we profess do their best to instil that regard in us.

Connecticut Yankee

By A. H. O.

If we may not have seemed too charitable toward the present campaign of the organized state employes for an additional pay increase, we also hold the belief that they should be rescued permanently from the need for campaigns of such a type.

Let us assume that they do not need a pay increase at this moment. If we were to admit that, the fact would remain that only the present kind of pressure, exerted now, can guarantee them their chance at a future raise, at the time it might be judged truly necessary.

How do state employes get a raise? They do it by building and maintaining what is known as what the politicians, by howling in as many directions as possible in order to build up that pressure. They stand their greatest chance of success when they bring the pressure to bear on another and when therefore, neither party dares be caught in the position of turning them down.

That circumstance — the fact that there is no election right in the offing — has really had a chance to do with the fact that they haven't got their latest demand more than the actual economic or budgetary considerations involved.

When the political heat is really on, it doesn't make any difference whether there is money in the state treasury. That factor was of absolutely no consequence. We ignored blithely by both parties, when the last pay increase was won last October, not too many days before the state election. Given such a situation and expert timing of his pressure on the part of Bernard H. McCusker, plus knowledge of the precise individuals upon whom to direct the greatest pressure, and the pay increase was won. It would never have been won by a meek group of unorganized employes who had hesitated about being as ruthless as to apply a thing like political pressure. The politicians give the state employes a break when they are afraid of them.

The supreme irony of all this is that most of these employes are under the merit system, which is supposed to free them from either the lash of political influence or the need to acquire and maintain political influence of their own. Where this exemption from politics may work individually, the state employes as a group are forced into politics in a big way, when the chance of their employment conditions is at stake.

This is not pretty, and it is not healthy for anybody, and it is not the way the income of state employes should be determined, even though, the state employes, following this system, may have eventually attained dollars and cents justice.

What we would suggest, for a permanent solution, would be the institution for state employes of a cost of living index control of their salary scale, similar to that now in effect in many large industries, so that when economic conditions indicated a pay increase, the state employes should not have to resort to political pressure tactics or wait until the moment before an election to get fair treatment.

Winners of the Tolland County Pasture Contest have just been named. Among the winners is Mrs. Ruth Welles Fabyan of Coventry. The judging was done by three farmers from New London County, according to John H. Elliott, Tolland County Agricultural Agent, of Tolland.

Mrs. Fabyan started farming two or three years ago. The farm was run down but the land was pretty much good. She started off to develop the land first and purchased a few good heifers. At the present time there are 26 milking cows and other head of young stock on the farm. During the last two years about 18 acres have been cleared, limed, fertilized and seeded to ladino for pasture. At present there are about 26 acres of ladino and 4 more acres recently seeded. All of these fields have been limed and fertilized with about 500 pounds of 0-20-20 per acre. The fields have been grazed in rotation and good management practices followed, according to Mr. Elliott.

Special awards for pasture winners and outstanding production in Dairy Herd Testing were also to be presented at the State Pasture Day program at Storrs on August 16. A tour and picnic program has been planned and everyone interested in crop and pasture work is invited.

Helen Jordan of the Hi-Growers 4-H Garden Club was named one of the four delegates to represent the Tolland County 4-H Council. Kansas City, Mo.—(AP)— If he can hold out for a few more years George R. Rose will have walked around the world—25,000 miles—just getting to and from work.

"It's two and a half one-half miles from my house to my job," says Rose, 75, a fireman in a boiler room for 55 years. "Using five days a day as an average for the round trip, I figure I have walked 17,160 miles since 1939."

Bike Riders' Needs Here

School days are not too far away, not far enough for the average youngster, but the last few weeks gallop fast and then it is off to school for another year. More and more of the youngsters ride their bikes to school and this brings us to the point of new bicycles. At the present time the Spruce shop, proprietor of Bill's Tire and Repair Shop, 180 Spruce street has a sufficient quantity of bicycles, unless there is an unprecedented demand for them, but his quota is on a month to month basis.

Mr. Green does not intend to have people buy that an actual shortage is at hand, but he does say that the Columbia people will guarantee delivery of a quota for only one month ahead. That means that he cannot say how many bicycles he will want and be certain of their delivery. He is on a quota basis and that quota is only for the next month—in other words no assurance is given beyond one month.

Therefore, if your children are in need of a new bicycle in the next few months it would be well to stop in at Bill's Tire & Repair Shop, 180 Spruce street and place an order for one. You will then be certain of getting it now. As everything under the government has ordered curtailment in the use of copper for civilian use, this will produce shortages in practically everything that is now used in its making, including bicycles.

Accessories are in full supply at Bill's Tire & Repair Shop, baskets, speedometers, etc., and one thing really necessary is a good repair service on all types of bicycles. If your boy or girl does not ride around after many many days, a return from school when visibility is poor in the winter time and a good reflector and a bicycle lamp may save them from injury.

Bicycles that are in need of repair come out of Bill Green's alcinest as good as new and are carried a full line of spare parts, also tires and tubes. No doubt you'll find an inexpensive story new reflectors for bicycles and bicycle parts.

Browns Turn on Power To Trounce Stars, 33-0

Veteran Stars Prove Too Much for Collegians Before 92,180 Fans At Soldier Field

Chicago, Aug. 18—(AP)—Word was out that old age was seeping into the marrow of the Cleveland Browns and the 1951 National football League season would see them knocked from the pinnacle.

All that has been revised today. The Browns are still the team to beat. They're a long way from being turned out to pasture.

With a big gusto and vigor of college kids, the amazing Browns sandbagged the Collegiate All-Stars 33-0 last night to open the football season officially before 92,180 fans in Soldier Field.

An estimated 50 million more saw the game on television. Gross receipts amounted to $428,000, including $100,000 for the radio rights, the Chicago Tribune Charities.

Great Defense

The Browns' ridiculously easy triumph over an inept bunch of graduated campus stars who never were within 45 yards of the goal line gave the Cleveland juggernaut a perfect record for the season.

For four years Coach Paul Brown's mates won the All-America Conference championship. When the league was disbanded, the Browns picked up with the NFL last year, and without losing any of their punch or power company, went on to down the Los Angeles Rams for the championship in the December playoff.

Last night the Browns, who established with many of the same players who have been with the club for three years a consistency for four years ago, capped the streak with a spectacular championship performance.

Speaking "old men" as Otto Graham, Marion Motley, Mac Speedie, Dante Lavelli, Lou Groza, Lou Tomkins, Bill Willis and Lin Houston—all pressing 30 or more—give the collegians the second hour beating ever absorbed in the 27-year history of the series.

Only the Philadelphia Eagles' 61-0 blasting of Oklahoma Coach and Wilkinson's All-Star group in 1946 was more lopsided.

The Browns have now won 16 games in the rivalry to six for the collegians. Two contests were ties.

"We have no alibis," said Herman Hickman of the losing coaches' staff.

The All-Stars who used 46 players, out of 50 suited up, "Browns are truly a great football team. Their defense kept us bottled up. Graham completed 18 of 31 passes for 260 yards and two touchdowns—14 yards to Lavelli and 15 after the Myers' surge in four days; and eight yards to Emerson Cole to end a 32-yard push three plays.

Bob Jeter scampered 105 yards, 12 carries, scoring on six and Pete Pihos accounted for the Browns' other touchdown. Motley, the 31-year-old fullback, added 26 yards in nine rushes. Lavelli smared seven passes for 109 yards and Speedie hooked nine for 107.

Browns Empty Bench

While emptying their bench of men, the Browns gained 425 total yards rushing and passing the All-Stars' 126, and scored every time they pushed over 21 points in the last half.

The 1950 campus heroes never penetrated beyond midfield save in the fourth quarter. Scatback Wilfred Whitner White of Georgia State, who now will pull a Chicago Bears' uniform. Junior Chamber of Commerce National junior golf championship contender.

A pair of so-called "country boys" from Hartford in the Eastern League ended in a knockout. Both were benched in the eighth inning last night after yielding 11 hits to the Elmira Pioneers. Helped the four unearned runs Elmira whipped the Chiefs, 9-7.

Coaches' Clinic Starts Monday

Baseball, Football and Basketball Lectures On Uconn Schedule

Storrs, Aug. 18—Dan Jessee, Trinity College football and baseball coach, will open the sixth annual four-day University of Connecticut Coaches' Clinic here Monday at 9:45 a. m.

Harvey J. Harman, coach of football at Rutgers and the Clinic headliner, will appear Wednesday and Thursday. Following Jessee Monday morning will be Billy O'Brien, coach of New London Bulkeley's New England high school basketball champions.

Jessee comes back in the afternoon session and will be followed by Art Valpey, who starts his second season as football mentor at Connecticut. Baseball will conclude the opening day activities and will be handled by J. O'Sullivan, director of athletics and veteran diamond mentor at Connecticut.

Basketball will be Bee Lavelli coach, and Hugh Greer, his counterpart at Connecticut and producer of an NCAA Tournament quintet, as the main speakers. Greer will appear Tuesday. Wednesday members of the Connecticut quintet will be on hand to demonstrate pet purposes. Steve Witowski, Westeyan trainer, is slated for several sessions on training.

Last year some 80 college, prep and high school coaches attended the clinic, won by Howard Dartmouth's Tuss McLaughry.

First Football Practice Monday

The Silk City A. C. will hold its first football practice Monday evening at 6:30 at the Charles Oak football field. Alex Ferguson will be in charge of all drills until a head coach is appointed. The Aces will drill every Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings until the season's opener in September.

The local organization also welcomes any high school or college player to attend the sessions until they return to their respective schools.

Silk City President Pat Bolduc hopes to see many new faces as well as all of last year's players as well as all of last year's players assemble, especially since the club will offer the players their best proposition in years. All prospects will be football guaranteed to go directly to the players. The Manchester squad will receive a split at the first practice following each game. The only exception to this of the football receipts except that each man making the team must join the club whose membership is two dollars per year.

There will be a club meeting at 8 o'clock Monday evening at the K.P.W. headquarters. Bolduc welcomes any new member to attend. Plans for a membership drive will be discussed.

Jaycee Finalists

Durham, N. C., Aug. 18—(AP)— You have to look closely at the man to find Whitefish, Mont., and Kyle Whitner White of Cedartown, Ga., but these two small towns have produced the finalists in the sixth annual U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce National junior golf championship tournament.

A pair of so-called "country boys" from Hartford in the Eastern League ended in a knockout. Both were benched in the eighth inning last night after yielding 11 hits to the Elmira Pioneers. Helped the four unearned runs Elmira whipped the Chiefs, 9-7.

Paris Curtains copped first place and championship honors in the Rec Softball League last night as it downed the Garden Grove 6 to 0 in the final game of the league schedule. The Curtain nine pushed across six big runs before they forced the contest to a halt at the end of four and a half innings.

Lloyd Jackson was in top form for Coach Nino Aceto's entry allowing but one base runner, that coming on a hit by Johnny Rivosa. Calvert left fielder Pete Aceto, meanwhile, found the going rough as the Curtains pounced on him for six walks which were backed up by poor defense and three hits.

Hippo Correnti drove home two runs for the winners while Frank Vetenzis scored three times. Philips, Venesula and Correnti collected two hooks for Paris Curtain while Rivosa contributed the only Garden Grove hit.

Tuesday night the Rec League playoffs will get under way with Green Manor Playing Army and Navy at Charter Oak. The playoffs will follow the "sudden death" pattern with the winner playing the Garden Grove at a later date.

Third sacker Dave Golas was the hero of the Red Sox game in an abbreviated Little League baseball game against the Yankees at Memorial Field. It was the infielder's single which drove in the second Red Sox run in the third frame which provided the 2 to 1 edge Manchester was nominated in the fifth inning by rain before the Yanks at bat.

The setback was the first for Coach Harold Geer's red hot Yankees in the second round after two wins. Steve Cooper and Charlie Kenney were the rival chuckers with the former getting the nod. The Sox collected five hits and the Yankees four.

Yanks Tally First

Dimunitive Leo Cyr got the Yanks off and running in the opening canto when he singled to right, advanced to second on a passed ball, to third on a wild pitch and dented the platter on another wild pitch. This was all the scoring for the Yankees.

Bounding back in the bottom of the fifth Coach Geer's mighty men were late and wide. When the ball got away, Richard went all the way home and the batter, Red Stevenson, moved along to third. Golas' single knocked in Stevenson with what proved to be the deciding marker.

Tonight the Dodgers play the Yankees at 6 o'clock at Memorial Field.

Tightly Packed Sioux City Field

Sioux City, Ia., Aug. 18.—(AP)—A tightly packed field headed into the second round of the Sioux City Open golf tourney today.

There were 17 professionals and five amateurs carrying scores of 69 or better into the second 18 holes of the 72-hole test.

The five pacesetters along the PGA trails were deadlocked at 67's. Five under par 72 for the 6,500-yard Elmwood course. Nine challengers were grouped at 68's and four had 69's.

Sandwiched after a scorching first round were Lloyd Mangrum, Chicago; Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, Tenn.; Earl Stewart, San Antonio, Tex.; Tommy Bolt, Durham, N. C., and Fred Haas, Jr., New Orleans.

Middlecoff, the former National Open champion, had the best chance to break away for single possession of the front spot. Cary was six under going to the 13th hole but he lost two strokes to par on the next two holes.

Dressen Turns Cool to Writers

New York, Aug. 17.—(AP)—A debate-of-words has arisen between Manager Chuck Dressen of the Brooklyn Dodgers and the writers who record the daily operations of the National League leaders.

The spat, which does not promise to subside in the near future, was churned up recently when the little Brooklyn pilot chose to deny he had made a crack about one of his young pitchers, Erv Palica, which the reporters say they have made—not once, but twice.

The reporters recall that Dressen was reported to have snarled at Palica, who had been benched after a game just concluded, was lacking in intestinal stamina and fortitude for the big leagues. It was such a harsh and cruel statement for a manager to make about one of his men, the reporters say now, they felt impelled to tell their readers about it.

"I didn't intend to want it printed," they agree, "Otherwise, why did I run in the second room when he came upstairs to the press room?"

There is no immediate denial of the statement from Dressen, but reports that Dressen could have employed such pointed language in front of his men received national circulation and created considerable comment between fans and players alike.

But then, weeks later, the Brooklyn manager went back over to its wedges to hear that a radio broadcast he was slated to give listeners that there was nothing to the Palica story and Dressen didn't said any such thing.

Didn't Recall Blasting

They stood pat, however, and he said that was right, that he certainly didn't recall having blasted Palica to the extent he had been quoted. That's what he still says, and about the only thing he can be charitable in saying the boys are saying about it. The press says it is true, that maybe he actually did forget he had the conversation, that he castigated the young pitcher.

But that is not the full extent of the unfortunate incident. It has caused the fellows who search the passing remarks of the men for each game to take a dim view of a spectacular event and impugn the accuracy of their reporting.

The reporters have also stirred up the rackus declares, for his part, that he and the press have told him all wrong, that he did not report that Dressen had told him that he was a yellow-bellied coward. He says that he positively did not write the story Dressen told.

"Red" Barber, the noted Brooklyn broadcaster, devoted six typewritten pages to disagreeing "Red" was not the microphone announcer who issued the Dressen denial, but he feels very strongly about his prerogative of saying anything he pleases about anything or anybody over the air. He declares that no sponsor, no radio station nor anyone connected with baseball ever has tried to give him any instructions.

May Go On Disabled List

St. Louis, Aug. 18—(AP)—Hal Newhouser of the Detroit Tigers may go on the disabled list, Manager Red Rolfe indicated as much today after his once ace lefthander's arm ailment pained him in warmup. Rolfe said he would decide tomorrow whether to send Newhouser to the sidelines.

Newhouser, who has been the afternoon session and will be followed by Art Valpey, who starts his second season as football mentor at Connecticut. Baseball will conclude the opening day activities and will be handled by J. O'Sullivan, director of athletics and veteran diamond mentor at Connecticut.

Basketball will be Bee Lavelli coach, and Hugh Greer, his counterpart at Connecticut and producer of an NCAA Tournament quintet, as the main speakers. Greer will appear Tuesday. First Football Practice Monday

The Silk City A. C. will hold its first football practice Monday evening at 6:30 at the Charles Oak football field. Alex Ferguson will be in charge of all drills until a head coach is appointed. The Aces will drill every Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings until the season's opener in September.

The local organization also welcomes any high school or college player to attend the sessions until they return to their respective schools.

Silk City President Pat Bolduc hopes to see many new faces as well as all of last year's players assemble, especially since the club will offer the players their best proposition in years. All prospects will be football guaranteed to go directly to the players. The Manchester squad will receive a split at the first practice following each game. The only exception to this of the football receipts except that each man making the team must join the club whose membership is two dollars per year.

There will be a club meeting at 8 o'clock Monday evening at the K.P.W. headquarters. Bolduc welcomes any new member to attend. Plans for a membership drive will be discussed.

Sense and Nonsense

Anybody Want More?

Breathes there a man
With heart so tough
Who claims that taxes
Aren't high enough?

—D. Tgtech.

An old man had come a long way to attend a reception at the White House. The guests were lined up and led past President Lincoln under the watchful eye of the usher. No one was allowed to come very close to the president or to shake his hand. The old gentleman was very much disappointed at not having shaken the great man's hand. Just before leaving he waved his hat at the president and shouted, Mr. President, I'm from way up in York state where we believe that Almighty God and Abraham Lincoln are going to save the country. The president waved back at him and said, "My friend, you're half right."

A friend was showing a Scot around his cutlery works at their field. "Here's a souvenir for you, Mac," he said when the visit was over, and handed him a pocket knife. "But," he added, "you'll have to give me a halfpenny for it, as it can not cut our friendship." With much embarrassment the Scot searched his pockets and at last produced a penny. "Hae ye got change?" he asked anxiously. "Sorry," replied his friend, "I'm afraid I haven't."

Mac thought for a minute. "Then ye can just gie me another knife," he said.

The modern man believes in life, liberty and the pursuit of women.

Lawyers once in a while will tell a story on members of their own profession. One of them told us about the attorney who was called by an elderly woman, who was very ill.

Mrs. Jones—I wish to make a will and I want to explain about the disposition of my property.

Attorney — Now, Mrs. Jones. Don't exhaust yourself with long explanations. Just leave everything to me.

The woman sighed and sank back in bed.

Mrs. Jones—I imagine I might as well. You'll get it anyway, no doubt.

She—Have you noticed Joan's new bathing suit?

He—No, I haven't. What does it look like?

She—It most places it's a lot like Joan.

All addicts are dangerous.

A camera addict went big-game hunting in Africa. One of his companions was charged by a lion, and fled for camp with the lion at his heels. As the poor fellow fled he heard a shout, and looked hopefully toward the thicket whence the sound came, for he thought salvation was at hand.

But it was the camera addict instead. The addict came bounding forth with his camera raised.

Camera Fiend—Hold on there. Slower! You're too far ahead. I can't get you both in.

Money alone doesn't bring happiness. A man with $10,000,000 isn't one bit happier than a man with $9,000,000.

Heard Along Main Street

And on Some of Manchester's Side Streets, Too

An item in the state news the other day to the effect that one of Danbury's hat shops had closed down permanently, throwing two hundred out of employment set us to thinking of the serious consequences of this hatless vogue that has swept the country. No doubt had to do with men's hats, but for men are completely sold on the idea of going bare-headed everywhere, as well as women. We haven't tried it, but we believe if one set out to count the people wearing hats on any trip along the Main stem it wouldn't reach to a baker's dozen. Why even the horses wore hats in the old days, light-weight contraptions of basketry with holes fitting over the ears!

About all the only place the women wear hats nowadays is in church, and there again the men have the advantage over the women for they are not supposed to wear hats anywhere, even in an elevator. Another curious thing about the women is the way they crowd to a hat sale, probably through their love for bargains. If the hatless trend keeps on, the stores won't stock hats, that is if they have to sell them at a loss.

We can recall several successful dressmaking and millinery establishments in town, but now ready-made dress and wholesale millinery houses supply the stores; and in the neighboring city of Hartford, we can think of but two women who still find it profitable to continue in the millinery business.

Manchester's first drowning in several years—and first at Saltair's Pond since it was opened as a public swimming pool several summers ago—took place last Tuesday. It was an unfortunate accident.

Since news spread around of the drowning of a youngster, there have been stories making the rounds that the lifeguards at the pool "were sound asleep and always pay too much attention to the young girls."

This statement, and any statement along these lines, is untrue. The writer has had occasion to visit Salter's Pond on many occasions this summer, and also during past seasons when the pool was opened to the public, and he has never found any fault with the work of the lifeguards. In fact, the lifeguards this season have been stricter than ever with bathers, at least during the hours and times the writer and his family has enjoyed the pool.

Lifeguards at Manchester's two public pools, Salter's and Globe Hollow, are always on the alert. The group of specially trained young men deserve credit and not criticism in the wake of an unfortunate drowning for their efforts. And in this week's case the medical examiner definitely stated that the victim had suffered an "attack" while in the water.

A former member of the town police department, b.p.r., (before present regime) that is—came out of a Main street building the other day to find that he had a ticket for over-time parking. He took the ticket off the automobile and went on his way. He didn't show up at police headquarters however, to pay for the ticket. His brother did. You see it was his brother's automobile he was driving at the time.

The editorial rooms of The Herald received the annual call of insults this past week. Earl Yost, the sports editor, and completely submerged supporter of the Red Sox, got a letter from a sports book publishing house. The letter asked Yost for his home address. It went on to say that a brand new sports manual had been published by the company and they were forwarding Yost a free copy. Biff (and there's the insult) the letter said they wanted to send it to his home for fear of the "grapevine" in the Herald office. The idea that anyone in the editorial rooms, other than Yost, would want a sports manual is ridiculous. Now if it had been a manual of artists' models—well, that would be different.

A difference between pre-prohibition and post-prohibition days was called to our attention the other day. In the old days the WCTU and other prohibition organs issued cartoons showing poor starved little children with clothes worn thin, hanging on barroom swing doors calling out "Is my daddy in there?"

The other day a girl, who looked well fed and well dressed went to the door of a local grill and called out in a strong voice, "Hey, Joe, is my mother in there?"

Mother was in the grill, all right, with a beer in her hand, but she was there watching television because they couldn't afford one of the TV sets at home.

We have at hand a letter from the Japan L. P. F. club in Tokyo which we judge from the letterhead means the Japan Lasting Peace Friendship club. It is from the president of the club and he is seeking new pen friends for Japanese boys and girls from boys and girls in the United States. The address of the club is P. O. Box 19, Shinjuku, Tokyo, Japan.

The letter follows:

"Dear Editor:

"Under the uneasy condition of the world it is the matter never to be neglected to promote understanding and friendship between your country and Japan.

"The Japan L.P.F. Club is an organization established in order to increase international fellowship and understanding by means of friendly correspondence between young people of the world.

"With support and encouragement of the UNESCO office in Japan and the Educational Department, we have done much, having over 3,000 members here in Japan, and more than 6,000 pen friends outside of Japan.

"My young people have been very anxious to know more about your country. Not all of them, however, can travel to your country, but we may carry on friendship through the mail. This is because I wish you would kindly report in your newspaper about my club, who desire to make many new pen friends for Japanese boys and girls.

"Those who are so kind as to be future pen pals of Japan are invited to send in their names, together with their sex, age, addresses and interests or hobbies. They are sure to receive friendly letters from Japan soon.

Sincerely yours,
Hiroshi Nishimura,
President.

In talking with Bill Murray of the State Highway department the other day the lowered tolls on the Charter Oak bridge the other day. Bill remarked that Manchester folks should be pleased at the one cent per crossing rate now in effect. We told him there were a lot of Scotchmen in Manchester and they wondered why the toll rate couldn't be wiped out since it had been such a sharp drop.

Bill replied, "Well as one Scotchman to another I'll tell you a story. Seems that Sandy McNab gave his five youngsters a penny apiece each night to go to bed on time. They put the pennies under their pillows and when they were sound asleep Sandy stole into their rooms and removed the pennies. In the morning Sandy asked the youngsters if they had their pennies. They all said they couldn't find them. So Sandy promptly told them that since they'd no use for the like of them, he'd keep them. Since you lost your pennies you'll have to be off to school without any breakfast".

We had no answer to that one so we told Bill we accepted his explanation and would be satisfied with the new penny toll.

A good many justifiable arrests could be made and possibly some accidents avoided if police watched automobiles coming out of Porter street into East Center street. Nine out of ten of them do not observe the "stop" line painted on the roadway. Most of the drivers cross the line and nose out into East Center street trying to break into the line of traffic.

Many times these drivers close a gap so that it is difficult for drivers on East Center street to proceed. Many near accidents have been noted at the junction because of this. Drivers who observe the "stop" line have just as good a view of traffic going both ways on East Center street as they get by nosing out over the line.

The other evening when lightning started what might have been a bad residence fire on Lake street, the fire-engine chasing jockeys were at it again. It seemed as though some of them wanted to try to beat the apparatus to the scene.

Many attempts have been made in town to stop this way of thing but it seems to continue.

We heard just the other day of a community in New England that found a solution. One evening the fire apparatus in this particular community started out and with the aid of sirens did a neat trick.

When the auto jockeys chased after the fire-bell the driver of the truck turned into a dead end street with the boys following or alongside. When all of the jockeys were on the dead end street the truck closed off. An open end of the street and proceeded to arrest all drivers caught in the trap except those who were actually volunteer firemen. They made plenty of arrests and the court was not at all lenient with those who were arrested. And it taught those jockeys a good lesson.

Whatever became of the Golden Sweet variety of apple that used to make us smack our lips when we were kids? We haven't seen any of that variety in many years. And how about the famous Russet apples that farmers once raised for the quality of cider they produced. Whatever became of them? And while we're on the "Wonder-what-became-of" subject whatever became of "technocrats"?

To Play At Ball

Freddy Martin

Big news from the Cigar Harvest Festival headquarters in Hartford is the announcement that Freddy Martin, nationally famous orchestra leader, will bring his entire television organization to the State Armory in Hartford, Sept. 15, for the Festival Coronation Ball.

Featured in the Martin organization are such stars as Merv Griffin, vocalist; Murray Arnold, pianist, and the Martin Men, versatile members of the orchestra who can turn a neat tune before the microphone.

It was announced earlier that Xavier Cugat would be on hand for the Coronation Ball, but the Cugat organization, faced with an earlier commitment, was forced to withdraw.

The Freddy Martin orchestra, however, can hardly be called a "substitute" for Xavier Cugat, for his organization has long been among the top orchestras in the country.

Several of his records have passed the one million mark, and his orchestra holds several records throughout the country for being called back for return engagements.

The Coronation Ball, with its two bands, is being planned on an elaborate scale. The second ball will be Paul Landerman's, one of Hartford's top musical aggregations.

The Ball will be the highlight of the Hartford Festival program, which is under the sponsorship of the Connecticut Valley Cigar Tobacco Co-operative Associates, including growers in Massachusetts and Connecticut.

Following the Hartford program, Sept. 11-13, the C.V.C.T.A. will transfer operations to Springfield, where they will open a month exhibit at the Eastern States Exposition during the week of Sept. 16-22.

Several Enter Queen Contest

Asking Candidates Submit Glossy Picture; To Judge by Points

Mrs. Martha Stevenson of the Manchester Chapter of Connecticut headquarters for the return of entry blanks in Manchester's Cigar Harvest Festival Queen Contest, reports that the first entries have been received. The contest opened on Thursday, August 16 and the final date of entries will be Saturday, August 25. It is therefore important that all organizations, groups and individuals that wish to enter a candidate in Manchester's Queen Contest do so in the coming week.

The entry blanks for Manchester's Queen Contest may be secured from the merchants of Manchester, Mrs. Helen Finlay, chairman of entry blank distribution committee, announces that the entry blanks and a poster are being displayed in all Manchester's stores.

It has been asked that a glossy photograph be returned with the entry blank. This photograph may be a snapshot. It is not necessary for the candidates to have a special portrait taken to enter the Queen Contest. A clear snapshot will be accepted.

Harold DeCormier, chairman of the Committee of Judges, announces that the selection of Manchester's Queen Candidate will be based on a point system. Beauty, 35 points; Personality, 25 points; Poise, 20 points; Grooming, 10 points; Speech, 5 points; and Talent, 5 points. The chairman and his committee believe that this system will enable them to choose the Queen on a fair basis. The candidates will be judged August 30 at Center park in Manchester. It is planned that a program of entertainment will precede the selection of the Queen.

Kaesong Neutrality Violated, Reds Say

Report China Patrol Shot By UN Troops

Munsan, Korea, Aug. 20—(AP)—Allied and Communist subcommittees met briefly in Kaesong today as a new threatened efforts to top the Korean war.

General headquarters in Tokyo said the Communist "violation of cease fire order" may be trying to wreck armistice negotiations. The statement was in reply to charges that U. N. forces established a Red patrol inside Kaesong's five-mile neutral zone Sunday. A Chinese patrol leader was shot dead and a Chinese soldier seriously injured.

North Korean Lt. Gen. Nam Il, senior Communist delegate at the Kaesong talks, said the Chinese patrol was "carrying out policing duties" in conformity with the armistice agreement.

The subcommittees met for only 9 minutes Monday. It was their shortest session since they took over for the main truce delegations Friday.

No Progress Report

There was no report of progress from the secret talks. But the negotiators agreed to meet again at 11 a.m. Tuesday (8 p. m. Monday e.t.)

The subcommittees are trying to

abre Jet Averages 628.698 MPH to Better British Record

Detroit, Aug. 20—(AP)—Keepers of American and world records began rewriting their books today, because no less than seven speed marks were cracked over the week-end in the National Air races.

Only one record, civilian military, withstood assaults in that experts agreed was the greatest demonstration of air power in history.

The 165,000 persons saw the big show, 91,000 of them turning out on Sunday. The races and demonstrations were run off in ideal weather at Wayne (Detroit) County Airport.

Not only Air Force and civilian pilots got into the show but so did the Navy, Marines, Royal Canadian Air Force—and U. S. Army. Hundreds of planes split the air including the still-secret 647 stic-engine jet bomber. All but one another 100 were on exhibition on the ground.

Timberland Fires Rage Over Northwest Area

By The Associated Press

Forest fires, spurred by winds of high temperatures, covered more than 15,000 acres of Pacific Northwest timberland today.

Near Portland, Ore., yesterday

2 Dead, 30 Hurt In Ship Blasts

Singapore, Aug. 20—(AP)— Two explosions aboard the Shell Oil company tanker Drumus today killed 2 men and injured 30 others. Two are missing and it is feared they were trapped in their sinking ship.

The dead included three Britons: Edward James Dyer, 54, Glasgow, the chief officer; Samuel Arthur Pilling, 34, Preston, Lancashire, second officer; Edwin Garth, 38, Leicester, third officer.

Cause of the explosions was not determined. Two blasts and fire rocked the tanker as she lay at anchor off Bukom Island near the little suburban residential community of Bonny Slope was threatened to encircle the 250 homes. An adequate water supply made fighting the blaze difficult. The Port Arthur fire department sent a fire engine to a nearby school to care for the homeless. The fire spread from a small blaze which started Saturday in the Portland city limits.

Out of Control

Largest blaze in the Northwest was to the south in the Siuslaw national forest, southwest of Eugene, Ore. An estimated 8,000 to 10,000 acres were charred in the blaze which started Friday. It still was out of control last night as 500 loggers attempted to ditch a fire line around it.

Six families were moved from their homes and an old C.C.C. camp which served during the war as a camp for conscientious objectors was given up as lost.

Further south near Roseburg, Ore., 1,200 acres of privately owned timber lands were ablaze.

Congressional leaders said after a conference at the White House today that Mr. Truman had read to them parts of the still incomplete message.

The conference lasted more than 20 minutes. House Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex) said it was devoted exclusively to the "flood disaster in the Midwest."

The President is preparing to send a message to Congress "suggesting a course to help those people get out of the mud and out of the flood," Rayburn added.

Withhold Amount

None of the conferees would say how much Mr. Truman would ask in the way of money or what he proposes precisely.

Barkley, 73, Assails Idea He's Too Old for '52 Race

Washington, Aug. 20—(AP)—Vice President Barkley today brushed aside the idea that he may be too old for a political race in the 1952 national election.

"I have already let me lots of years," Barkley said in an interview published by the magazine U. S. News and World Report,"—whether they will be years of service may depend on the American people. A man who is 70 now is supposed to be about what the man 50 years old was 50 years ago."

The Vice President is 73. Some political observers have speculated his age might rule him out of consideration in any Democratic search for a possible successor to President Truman—should Mr. Truman decide not to run.

On other subjects, Barkley said:

1. He thinks a Democratic ticket headed by President Truman could win in 1952. But he has "no information whatever" as to Mr. Truman's intentions. He added however, that should the President decide to run "as a matter of public duty . . . he can and undoubtedly will be nominated, and, in my opinion, will be elected."

2. He thinks that a Vice Presi-

Say Breakdown Near In Iran Oil Sessions

Report Harriman Hits Iranian 'Good Faith' And Threatens to End Attempt at Mediation

Tehran, Iran, Aug. 20—(AP)—An informed source said today W. Averell Harriman has threatened to end his mediation efforts unless the Iranians negotiate "in good faith" with the British on their oil dispute, a breakdown in the crucial talks is believed near.

Premier Mohammed Mossadegh was reported visibly shaken by the strong words from the usually soft-spoken Harriman. President Truman's trouble shooter here.

Postpone Rejection

Mossadegh met with Harriman and Richard Stokes, chief British negotiator, this morning but observers doubted if he would make any real concessions which could make the talks successful.

Harriman is the only person who has kept the talks going this long. Mossadegh has been trying to keep the United States on his side of the oil dispute, and Harriman's threat to walk out has at least postponed his formal rejection of British settlement offers.

The Iranians reportedly handed the British a new set of counterproposals yesterday rejecting four of the eight British points. It was supposed to have been published last night.

Harriman reportedly told the Iranians, after he saw the counter

U. S. Partially Curbs Bonus, Profit Plans

Washington, Aug. 20—(AP)—The government today imposed a partial freeze 'on bonus and profit-sharing payments by companies to their officers, executives and salaried employees.

At the same time the Salary Stabilization board disclosed it is hunting for a formula to let employers maintain their customary spread between the pay of supervisors and that of subordinates whose take has gone up.

The board's bonus order does not bar increases in individual bonuses except at the topmost level, but restricts the total sum a company may earmark for bonuses — in most cases to last year's level.

The ruling thus forbids use of bonuses as a device for evading salary ceilings and aims to block any widespread expansion of the bonus system as an inflationary threat.

Honor Contracts

The order honors all bonuses which are paid under contracts with employees or written plans. These may be based on percentages of the company's earnings or a percentage of the employee's pay.

For other bonuses—those paid from year to year at the discretion

Attack GOP Peace Aim Leaving Korea Divided

Washington, Aug. 20 — (AP) — Democrats today defended President Truman's Far Eastern policies and assailed a Republican assertion that any final peace which leaves Korea divided would be a "delusion."

Eight Republicans, in a weekend report on the inquiry into the ouster of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, called for "liberation and unification" of Korea.

They blamed what they labeled "appeasement" policies of Mr. Truman and Secretary of State Acheson for the loss of China to the Communists. They said the Yalta Agreement spawned most of America's difficulties with Communism in Asia.

Answering unofficially, Senator Hunt (D., Wyo.) said that if the eight Republicans—headed by Senator Bridges of New Hampshire—want to risk World War III by "excessive" demands in Korea, they ought to say so flatly.

The casualty figures showed that 50 died in the capital, Kingston, and the rest in the outlying area.
