...are added to methods which operate against the success of their own cause.
 It is not entirely reassuring to be able to analyze this weakness in their strategy. For they might also suppose, try to retrieve their losses and their failures not by a closer observance of sounder and more restrained policies, but by policies and actions still more desperate and rash. There is one institution: imperialist dictators and are always tempted to use to hide and bury their own mistakes—the institution of war.

Wapping
 Mrs. Russell Levack, president of the Garden Club, reports the group picnic, scheduled for June 10, has been cancelled.
 Winners of the poppy contest have been announced by Mrs.
 Clarence Rose, chairman of the poppy sale. They include: Russell Anderson, 1st; Walter Deakin, 2nd; in the Wapping school. Joan Gray was in charge of the sale at the school. Richard Sanders was first and Patty Poia second at Union school.
 Mrs. Rose expressed her thanks to school officials, children and the townspeople for making the sale a success. Because of the whole hearted response, the local group will be able to carry on its rehabilitation for the next year.
 They have found his thoughts useful as a propaganda sample of American thinking about Russia and American antagonism of war with Russia.
 It is, of course, of some importance for the nation to try to make clear that General Grouse's rash and desperate sentiments are not representative of the American people. It is not as eager for the opportunity to strike the first blow as his day was, that we are seeking peace, and quarrel with no one.
 Part of this has perhaps been accomplished by open reprinting to General Grouse. And perhaps the best answer of all would be to have our foreign policy become clear enough and understandable enough so that no general in our service could be mistaken about it, no matter what his own private opinions or wishes.
 But to go beyond this, and decrease that General Grouse must face a general court-martial, which is what has now been decreed, is something close to the ridiculous.
 General Grouse was wrong. How wrong is it that stupidity has been a crime, in the Army or anywhere else?
 It is the court-martial procedure itself which is the question. If it is tried, he ought to be cleared.
 But yet, if he is cleared, that will now amount to approval of the views he did express in his diary.
 We afraid this is related to be a strategy—the threat of a court-martial for the purpose of making trial for the purpose of making but a propaganda trial something else, and one ruthlessly considering of real justice to the individual involved.
 When we report to trials for propaganda purposes—even perpetrating it in Italy, they look to us—we are learning altogether too fast and too much from the Communist.
 In this situation, the Russians would have, if they could manage to play it with restraint, the ideal role. They supposedly object to the permanent partition of Germany, they supposedly offer German unity, they supposedly stand for the everlasting peace solution of German problems which would appeal most to Germans themselves.
 But, instead of standing on this atmosphere, as it had been feared they might, they have been doing us the favor of resorting to threats and pressures aimed at punishing the Germans for what we are doing with Germany. And the result, so far, has been in the direction of convincing the Germans that, however unpopular specific policies may be, it would be better for Germans to go along with them than to resist them to the purpose behind these threats and pressures.
 In such instances, the Communist are expert at the business of making friends and influencing people—for us.
 They do little better within their own political territories, where they are seeking to solidify their own political control, and where invariably, they eventually employ the methods which guarantee their own eventual loss not only of the countries they seek to dominate, but of any sense of solidarity in the world Communist hierarchy itself.
 They have just purged Anna Pauker in Rumania. She was in every way the perfect symbol of Communism. If Communism has any capacity to be true to its own words, it would be true to her. If it could trust anybody, it ought to be able to trust her. Yet this tough, passionate leader of Communist destinies in Rumania has been establishing the conclusive manner of Russia swiftly enough, apparently, and she has to be cut down from power. What other Communist leader can feel secure, anywhere? And how are we possible of Rumania going to feel about having Moscow go to such lengths to try to keep them in line and outdistance them as a nation?
 The truth is that the Communist

Over-Playing Their Hand
 This is one of those reassuring yet still dangerous periods in which the Communists seem to be pressing too hard with strategies which boomerang against themselves.
 They themselves seem constitutively addicted to the extreme manifestation with threat of the plausible with the extreme, and this habit of theirs, fortunately, keeps them from ever attaining to what might be their own most effective strategy.
 They have, for instance, just gone very well for themselves in the municipal politics in Italy.
 They are now gaining in spite of the most violent campaigns against themselves, by the process of winning after all, to be reasonable people, dedicated to the solution of the problems nobody else seems to be trying for.
 One would fear that they might be wise enough to acknowledge their own success in Italy, and play the same kind of politics elsewhere.
 But, in France this week, it was time for the other side of their
 a call for a general strike of French workers on behalf of the Communist leader, who gets his instructions from Moscow, and their answer, from the workers of France, was one of the most Communist leadership.
 Where they had just gained ground in Italy, they lost it in France. In the one instance, they pretended to identify the people's cause with their own, in the other they sought to make their cause the people's cause.
 In the German situation, the Russians would have, if they could
 manage to play it with restraint,
 stand for the everlasting peace
 mans themselves.
 But, instead of standing on this
 threats and pressures aimed at
 the result, so far, has been in the direction of convincing the Ger-

 and pressures.

about $1,400,000,000 less than Truman asked.
However, it was cut less than had been advocated by some lawmakers when it was sent to Congress in 1949. At that time there were requests to slash the $7,500,000,000 demand in half.
These demands could be assumed when Congress considers the Foreign Aid appropriation bill, assuming that Congress, there is no work-out of international tensions meanwhile.
The House Appropriations Committee is to begin closed-door drafting of this measure today.
"I will stress the feeling of the country which the money cannot go."
The committee authorization bill includes $4,598,424,000 for military assistance and $1,800,000,000 for economic aid in all friendly parts of the world.
Sponsors of the measure maintain that the military funds are essential to permit America's friends throughout the world to build up their armed strength as planned to resist possible Communist aggression.
"I am sure that the money will enable western European nations to make military equipment for themselves and permit backward nations to buy the modern weapons standards this combating Red propaganda."

McMahon to Get First Delegates

Hartford, June 9.—(AP)—Senator Brian McMahon is about to pick up his first bloc of delegates in his campaign for the Democratic nomination for President.
They are expected to come from his home state of Connecticut with Democrats holding their state convention here Friday and Saturday to name a 16-vote delegation. State Chairman John M. Bailey said today the prospects are that the convention will "thrust" the delegates to support McMahon until the Senate session then opens.
"President Truman will be in Connecticut about the time the delegates are being chosen Saturday. He is to speak at the keel laying of the Navy's first atomic-powered submarine." McMahon has been closely connected with the project as chairman of the Atomic Energy committee.
Democrats invited the treatment to visit the convention after the keel-laying ceremonies. But the White House said he would return to Washington immediately to spend a last week with his wife and daughter Margaret before she leaves for Europe.
The submarine, the Nautilus, is being built at the shipyards of the Electric Boat Division of the General Dynamics Corp., near the Navy's submarine base at Groton, Conn.
Sen. William Benton is expected to be renominated without opposition. Republicans have nominated William Purtell, Hartford manufacturer, as his rival for the November election.
