to the Refugee party (HRE), the fraction already has promised to dissolve once its members obtain damages they claim for homes they lost in the war. That would leave SHPs free to line up with whatever develops as a substitute for their own outlawed group.

The radical rightwingers had burst out the day before the election, calling the return of Nazism and its war office were Wilhelm Schepmann, former chief of Hitler's waning "SA" brown shirts, and Albert Gnado, once Nazi mayor of Cottbus.

Schepmann was elected to town and district councils in Giffhorn and Gnado was named to the Göttingen town council. Both points are in lower Saxony. Schepmann was a candidate of the Refugees. Gnado was backed by the far-right German party (DP), the smallest group in Adenauer's government.

The former SA veteran, now unemployed, had not even bothered to campaign. He said his second ad personality "was enough to elect him."

The Socialists handily won the Hannover district parliament seat left vacant by the death of their chief, Kurt Schumacher. Their chief, Ernst Winter, polled 64,614 votes to 29,822 for Gottfried Schlegel, who was backed by all three government parties.

Female Successors

That convention was to open a week from today, but as the CIO's top leadership turned eastward toward Pittsburgh and Murray's funeral there Thursday, there were indications it would be postponed.

Murray's political stand is that he rejects the appeal and upholds the WSB decision, which he has called "very courageous."

Some unionists want the organization to get out of political activity and say the Political Action Committee's campaigning did the union movement more harm than good. They want the political arm strengthened.

Murray's successor, much of the speculation is centered on two men—Alan S. Hayward, veteran CIO executive vice president, and Walter Reuther, United Auto Workers president.

Hayward, long a stalwart in the CIO's organizational campaigns, is age 64, could work against him. Reuther, 45, head of the powerful auto workers union, is popular and energetic. But he may not want the responsibility of both jobs.

That of a miners' union official—Murray was born at Blantyre, Scotland, in 1886. He was introduced to unionism at the age of six, when he father took him to a local mine. He was only 16—and making 30 cents a day—when his family immigrated to the United States, settling in the bituminous coal fields of western Pennsylvania.

He served his time for a correction house, worked all day

West Coast shipping industry from all wage controls. This motion, made after the WSB refused to approve a five-per-cent wage hike agreed to between the Pacific Maritime Association and the AFL Sailors Union, was defeated by a vote of 10 to 4.

High government officials were known to be examining the wage price controls despite the fact they do not yet feel that inflationary pressures have disappeared.

Pumam is now studying an appeal from the soft coal industry and the United Mine Workers, to overrule the WSB and approve the full $1.80 daily wage boost. The industry agreed to give Lewis's 370,000 bituminous miners, but has now won a similar increase from hard coal operators.

The WSB cut the bituminous raise to $1.50, contending that any more would damage the anti-inflation program. The board has not yet acted on the hard coal raise but what happens to that is likely to depend on Putnam's soft coal decision.

Putnam's predicament is this: If he rejects the appeal and upholds the WSB decision, which he has called "very courageous," the nation's labor movement will be split. If he grants the appeal and upholds the union movement more harm than good. They want the political arm strengthened.

Murray's successor, much of the speculation is centered on two men—Alan S. Hayward, veteran CIO executive vice president, and Walter Reuther, United Auto Workers president.

Hayward, long a stalwart in the CIO's organizational campaigns, is age 64, could work against him. Reuther, 45, head of the powerful auto workers union, is popular and energetic. But he may not want the responsibility of both jobs.

That of a miners' union official—Murray was born at Blantyre, Scotland, in 1886. He was introduced to unionism at the age of six, when he father took him to a local mine. He was only 16—and making 30 cents a day—when his family immigrated to the United States, settling in the bituminous coal fields of western Pennsylvania.

He served his time for a correction house, worked all day

Father Hannon to Speak At Hospital Ceremonies Following Parade

Rockville, Nov. 10 (Special)—Judge Robert L. Pigeon today gave a local resident the benefit of the doubt and suspended judgment on three counts of falsifying unemployment compensation documents, while levying a $50 fine on a fourth charge.

Norval E. Wolverson, 51, of 58 West Main street, told the court "it was all a misunderstanding" and cited a previously recorded record to support his testimony. He had been accused of violating General Statutes 37a, Section 736d.

Send Note to Court

An expectant mother, who because of her condition sent a note to the court instead of making a personal appearance, pleaded guilty to a charge of passing a school bus. With the note which told of her condition, Mrs. Louis Jean, 31, of Rockville, also sent a check to cover the fine. Judge Pigeon found her guilty as charged and levied a fine of $25 with $15 remitted.

A 17-year-old local youth, arrested on a charge of illegal possession and breach of the peace while on probation from county jail, was active in protesting against a traffic court action.

Given Jail Sentence

Maureen P. Berton was found guilty on both counts and drew fines totaling $40. In addition, she was sent to jail for 21 days "until a report from the jailer justifies consideration of her release."

In a companion case on the same charges, Mrs. Frank Hallis is charged with a traffic court action.

The Monday Club of Bolton, which is composed of a small group of women of the Congregational Church at Bolton Center, announces its eighth annual Christmas Sale and Silver Tea for Saturday, Nov. 15, from 11 to 6 p. m.

As in former years, this widely patronized sale will take place at the Bolton Center home of Misses Berry, Collins and Brainerd, with Miss "Cotton" serving as chairman of the tea.

In addition to the array of aprons, useful and ornamental articles, new this year will be a display of hand-painted novelties and dried flower arrangements. Dressed dolls will be another attraction, and a variety of green- and brown-baked goods will be on hand.

All profits from these annual sales, in preparation for which the Monday Club members work all through the year, are devoted to the maintenance and repairs to their church.

The Break In The South

What happened in the South, in the election, was a good thing which occurred for bad surface reasons.

In the wonderful Governor Byrnes of South Carolina, who would close the schools of his state rather than end segregation in the South, and in the election of Strom Thurmond, the turn-out of politicians in Texas, in the civil rights issue, and in the tide of the Southern revolt, there is nothing that is creditable.

Yet we doubt that this leadership, or these issues, were the only factors in determining the actual course of the voting in the South. They were the factors which made the headlines, and they played a crucial role in triggering the Southern explosion, but they alone were not the cause of the explosion. Its popular force. It also happened, we think, that people in the South were voting for Ike and for the kind of general change his personal candidacy promised, as were people everywhere else.

In order to realize just what it was which was cracked, last Tuesday, you had only to listen to some of the campaign speeches delivered by Southern leaders who remained loyal to the Democratic ticket. Their speeches went back to the Civil War, and to the notorious brand of Republicanism the carpetbaggers forced upon the South after that war. In other words, the main issue which kept the South locked into the arms of just one party all these 70 years has been the issue of the Civil War and of the reconstruction period which followed it.

Now it has been fairly obvious, to close students of Southern politics, that the South has, even during this period of formal allegiance to one party only, succeeded in maintaining a kind of two party system all its own. This it has done by developing two kinds of Democrats—one liberal, the other conservative and conducting primary contests between these two factions which amount to an election.

But this process has never extended to the federal election. Nor has it ever given those who did not like the results of the primaries any alternative choice such as is usually open to voters in the North who do not like the outcome of party contest.

The birth of full voting freedom in the South is to be welcomed. And we hope it keeps evolving until the day comes when the Republican party can get votes in the South as a party in its own right.

There is an unpleasant little incident which occurred in a little German town near the city of Hanover, in the British occupation zone.

One of the characters in the story is a German war criminal, who escaped from prison a few years ago. Another is the local town official who a month ago encountered a drunk on the street who hobbled in him that he had been drinking and an escaped murderer. The town official, without knowing who the escaper might be, considered it his duty to report the conversation to the police, who picked up the war criminal.

After picking him up, the local police sent for British authorities to take him over. But, before the British arrived, the local police left the window of the town hall open, so that the war criminal

Tariceo Will Play 'Father of Bride'

Alfred Tariceo has been assigned the little role in the comedy, "Father of the Bride" which is to be presented by Rock and Buskin at the Bowers School on Nov. 14 and 15. The other leading parts of the bride herself, her groom-to-be, and her mother have been filled by Lois Cooper, John Allison and Judy Alois.

These are the roles which were acted originally in the famous movie version of Edward Strayer's novel, also called "Father of the Bride," by Spencer Tracy, Elizabeth Taylor, Don Taylor, and Joan Bennett. Other parts in this comedy will be acted by Jack Loeffler, Roger Peterson, Nancy Cole, Kim Shaver and Julia Morrison.

"Father of the Bride" is the story of that man at every wedding to whom no one pays any attention—but who himself does all the paying. He is the man who stopped dancing years ago but still pays the piper, the man who gives his bride away, just the father of the bride.

Admittedly based on the author's own harrowing experience when he went through the tribulations of his daughter's matrimonial entanglements, Edward Strayer's novel told a tale that bubbled brightly from the stagehouse in North Coventry. A spaghetti supper will be served at 7 p. m. for members with Edward White as general chairman. Those planning to attend are requested to call him or Myrton E. Wright before 6 p. m.

Today's Event Calendar Other Monday gatherings will include Troop 71 Girl Scouts 7:30 p. m. Robertson School and the North Coventry Fire Department Club after school, Hans Hansen home.

Holiday Happenings The Town Clerk's office will not be open tomorrow, Armistice Day. Local schools will also have a holiday on that date.

The post office will be open tomorrow from 6 a. m. to 10 a. m. only. There will be no rural deliveries that day.

Major GOP Post Seen For Lodge

out of his Washington Senate office. Mr. Dodge reports to the Budget Bureau Wednesday.

Both men told news conference they hope to have preliminary reports ready for Eisenhower when he confers at the White House next week with President Truman. That session, suggested by Truman, will deal with international and domestic problems as they relate to the forthcoming change in administration.

Truman also urged Eisenhower to name Nelson M. Rosen for a cabinet post. He has been mentioned for Secretary of Defense, but Eisenhower designated Lodge to work with all federal agencies.

The President's selection in facilitating the transfer of public business from the old to the new administration.

Lodge, defeated last Tuesday in his bid for a new Senate term, is regarded as a likely Eisenhower choice for a cabinet post. He has been mentioned for Secretary of Defense and the interim assignment the general has undertaken.

Republican associates who asked not to be named said they were strong indications that the job will be taken on more importance from a policy-making standpoint than under the Democrats.

An expert on foreign financial affairs, Dodge was given the job last August of helping draft American financial policy toward Japan. Earlier he served as assistant secretary to Gen. Douglas MacArthur in Japan, Eisenhower in Europe and Gen. Lucian Clay in occupied Germany.

President of the Detroit bank, Dodge has been president of the Michigan Bankers' association, the Association of Reserve City Bankers.

Both Dodge and Lodge will serve as liaison men until Jan. 20, inauguration day.

A significant feature of yesterday's conference at Eisenhower's vacation retreat at the Augusta National Golf Club, was the presence of Sen. Eugene Millikin of Colorado, who supported Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio for the GOP presidential nomination.

Millikin was an hand in two of special capacities—as chairman of the conference of all Republican Senators, and as incoming chairman of the tax-writing Senate Finance committee.

Blocked Taft

But perhaps even more important was his background as a backer Taft against Eisenhower in the board-of-convention days. His attendance recalled Taft, after meeting with Eisenhower in New York last August, indicated he had received assurances from the general that Taft people would be consulted when it came time for appointments in a new administration.

Taft said then he and Eisenhower were in basic agreement on the most issues and the Ohioan started campaigning in earnest for the right.

There had been talk that Millikin might get the Budget Bureau liaison assignment. But indications after the conference were that Eisenhower made up his mind about Dodge several days ago and that Millikin was aware of it in advance.

The Colorado Senator has been mentioned as a possible choice for Secretary of the Treasury.

Others who met with Eisenhower were retired Gen. Lucius D. Clay, former military governor of Germany and post chairman of the board of Conrail, Jr. Corp., Herbert Brownell, Jr., who managed New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's presidential campaign in 1948 and who played a major role in Eisenhower's selection as the general's campaign; Clifford Roberts, New York investment banker who has been playing golf with the general; James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's press secretary, and Thomas Stephens, his appointment secretary.

Water Rates Topic Tonight

William Foulds, president of the Manchester Water Company, will attend a special meeting of the Commissioners of the Eighth District tonight to discuss his company's proposal to raise the rates of its customers in the North End.

The meeting, which is open to the public, will get underway at 7:30 in the firehouse on Main and Hilliard streets.

The water company's petition for the increase, on which a hearing will be held by the Public Utilities Commission Dec. 1, would raise the cost of public fire protection in the North End $9 per year.

A large number of North End residents who may have to pay an additional half mill for an increase in fire protection costs if the PUC approves the company's petition, is expected to attend the meeting. The additional half mill increase in fire protection would be in addition to an increase in their individual water bills. The company, in its petition to the PUC, is asking for an additional 23 per cent increase in its rates.

The purpose of the meeting with Foulds is to give the public an understanding as to the proposed rate increase, with a special emphasis on the large percentage increase being sought for public fire protection. The North End residents, who pay about $2,000 for this service, is faced with the possibility of that cost soaring to about $5,400.

Vietminh Reds 35 Miles from Capital of Thai

The French union did around Sona.

The possibility remained, however, that the Communists might strike westward along the coastal road to Lai Chau.

Further east, the French claimed a telling blow at the Vietminh yesterday with the capture, in a surprise paratroop attack, of the road junction of Phu Doan. The point is 60 miles south of China's Yunnan province border. It's a vital road to the Vietminh base at Dien Bien Phu, and a main Vietminh supply base of Yen Bay, on the upper Red River.

Capture of Phu Doan left the Reds with only unsatisfactory dirt roads and cart tracks over which to bring Chinese-sent supplies from Route Two to Yen Bay.

Stores Open Tomorrow, Banks and Schools Closed

Socialists Hold Aid for Britain Is Not Certain

the duty of all of us to maintain good relations," he said. "But they may have different policies and there might be economic difficulties there."

British Socialists were rooting mainly for Governor Stevenson in the United States presidential campaign but most labor party leaders have been cautious in their comments since Gen. Eisenhower's election.

A showdown on Queen Elizabeth's speech—read by her on behalf of the Churchill government—has been set for tomorrow on the Socialist demand for a "no confidence" vote.

Prime Minister Churchill served notice today. Britain wants early talks with the United States on many world questions, including relations with Russia.

The "old Commons" through a spokesman, said: "There will be many questions which will be discussed with the new United States administration after it has been formed."

Mr. C. C. Crockshank, leader of the House of Commons, added on Churchill's behalf: "The Prime Minister has no doubt these exchanges will cover such matters as that between the Soviet Union and the free world."

There is open talk among British officials that Churchill is being "washed" by the new administration because the new administration is not being "washed" by the old administration.

Political relations, especially defense and Cold War strategy, are being discussed in the House of Commons.

A questioner got no answer when he asked Crockshank to persuade the British government to bring the trail to Moscow for three days of trying to find it in Korea.

Local Police Do Their Bit To Aid Football Motocade

Manchester police, demonstrating a spirit of cooperation, did their bit Saturday to speed a motocade of Hartford Hall High School rovers safely on their way to the Hall-Wadsworth football game in Wallingford Saturday.

The motocade, which was composed of 35 cars and two buses, and led by a state police cruiser, was escorted by a squadron of West Hartford and Hartford police to the Manchester town line, where it was picked up by a local cruiser. The Manchester police car led the caravan around town, when it got to Wallingford, police from that city completed the escort to the field.

Over the weekend, having delayed their coming until after the conclusion of the American election, the assembly has been holding up completion of its member nation's first item of business—until their arrival.

A showdown on Queen Elizabeth's declaration at a session this afternoon in the program for tomorrow.

But the impending changeover to the Socialist demand for a "no confidence" vote.
