sea as formulated by the military committee.
The principal change is the establishment of a Commander in Chief, Mediterranean (CINCPAC). By agreement, CINCPAC will initially be a British officer. His staff will include officers from all nations concerned. CINCPAC will be directly subordinate and responsible to the Supreme Allied Commander in Europe.
During their session today, foreign ministers of the 14 Allies meeting at the North Atlantic Treaty Council also were to review global strategy, including the rights in Korea, Indo-China and Malaya; troubles in the Middle East and difficulties in Europe, where the Allies are struggling to pay for their own defense. They are building against possible Communist aggression.
Defense and finance ministers last night reportedly failed to settle differences over a proposed $428 million program to build new airports, military roads, garrisons and naval facilities next year.
This was the other major item in the council's agenda, last Lord Ismay, NATO secretary general, told reporters after the meeting that only the more urgent requests might possibly be approved.
It thus seemed likely most of the program, which is Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, NATO commander in Europe, and his staff had wanted underway with 1953's first good weather, would be left over for the next council session in March or April, to thrash out.
Mountbatten's assignment will be to keep open vital Allied sea lanes from Europe to Africa and the Middle and Far East. Warships of Britain's Mediterranean fleet, France, Italy, Greece and Turkey will help him.
The U. S. sea forces will remain

"I'm an officer of the law. I'm supposed to see driver's licenses."
"You can't have it. You might not even be a policeman. You might just be dressed up like one."
At that critical moment, W. R. Hill of Amartillo, Mrs. Ombry's uncle, arrived. Nancy gave him the purse. He gave the cop the driver's license.
The officer examined it and returned it to Nancy.
"Aren't you going to thank the policeman?" Hill said.
"No," said Nancy. "He didn't take it."
Nancy's mama was not seriously injured.

Local Schools Still Shy Of Rooms and Teachers

Survey by Illing Shows Need for 19 Teachers and 20 Classrooms in System for Next Year
A preliminary survey of what the room and teacher needs in the Manchester school system will be next year indicates that in spite of recent and projected school construction, 20 classrooms are still needed.
The report on the survey, presented to the Board of Education by Superintendent of Schools Arthur H. Illing last night, also shows that a serious shortage in teachers exists and that the board will have to hire 19 for next year.
Illing's report states that the need for additional classroom space will be met as it has in the past - by the use of activities room and libraries as classrooms, transporting children to schools where there is room for them. The town's present plan, the Widdowson elementary school which was opened in September, will be used to relieve the pinch of a continued increase in school population. Filled to capacity the school opened, it will be shrunken to two rooms next year, and Illing suggests that the shortage can be taken care of by using the library and activity room as classrooms.
Four-Room Surplus
Although the school population is expected to be short 20 rooms, the school population figures are such that there will also be a surplus of four rooms. The report shows that eight of the town's schools contribute to the town's need for 20 rooms, while two of the schools, Lincoln and Robertson, have an extra four rooms between them.
The report did not include figures for either kindergarten or high school needs.
Illing told the board that the problem of securing the needed teacher shortage. This has resulted, Illing said, in a stiff competition for the needed teachers, and in school board superintendents going into the streets to collect for the needed structures.
Two other matters which came before the board last night touched on the city's expansion program of the town, but neither of them indicated an immediate solution to any of the problems.
Keweenaw School Proposal
In one of them, the board gave tentative approval to Architect Arthur Lawrence's revised plans for the proposed six-room Keweenaw street school, subject to additional suggestions made by board members last night and subject to a personal survey of the area by board member George Cheney. Last night, Cheney expressed the concern that the school would be too close to the street line. The school, which will be "V-shaped," would not be built in line with the situation next fall.
In the other matter, Illing told the members that work on the two-room addition to the South School is proceeding rapidly. He said the "V" is already on the new section and that he has been informed by the builder that the two new rooms should be completed in six weeks or two months, at which time work on renovating the old part of the school could begin.
Since one of the rooms is a kindergarten, the construction will add only one more classroom to the school for next year, and that classroom will be filled without easing any of the pressure on the rest of the schools.

Pupils at Barnard Pack Clothing

The Student Council of Barnard School recently sponsored a Clothing Crusade which resulted in the collection of more than 20 bags weighing around 500 pounds. The clothes were mainly children's clothing to be used by those less fortunate than Manchester children.
The winter clothing will be sent by the Save the Children Federation to children in Korea. The summer garments will go to the Navajo Indians in the Southwest U. S.
The room that deserves special mention for the highest percentage of pupils contributing is teacher Charles Perry's section of grade 7. This drive was the first of the year to be sponsored by the Student Council. Members are very pleased with the cooperation received.

Injuries Prove Fatal to Man Hurt in Crash

Kemp and his wife Audrey, 19, were injured Sunday night on Brown road, Manchester. State police today were unable to pinpoint the cause of the crash which sent the truck hurtling across the highway into a tree. The pickup skidded on a straight stretch of roadway.
Succumbs To Shock
It was first believed that Kemp's injuries were of a minor nature. But Medical Examiner Brock E. Rafferty reported that Kemp's death was the result of shock and multiple wounds.

Davies, like Vincent, has undergone various investigations. Local Schools Still Shy Of Rooms and Teachers

Survey by Illing Shows Need for 19 Teachers and 20 Classrooms in System for Next Year
A preliminary survey of what the room and teacher needs in the Manchester school system will be next year indicates that in spite of recent and projected school construction, 20 classrooms are still needed.
The report on the survey, presented to the Board of Education by Superintendent of Schools Arthur H. Illing last night, also shows that a serious shortage in teachers exists and that the board will have to hire 19 for next year.
Illing's report states that the need for additional classroom space will be met as it has in the past - by the use of activities room and libraries as classrooms, transporting children to schools where there is room for them. The town's present plan, the Widdowson elementary school which was opened in September, will be used to relieve the pinch of a continued increase in school population. Filled to capacity the school opened, it will be shrunken to two rooms next year, and Illing suggests that the shortage can be taken care of by using the library and activity room as classrooms.
Four-Room Surplus
Although the school population is expected to be short 20 rooms, the school population figures are such that there will also be a surplus of four rooms. The report shows that eight of the town's schools contribute to the town's need for 20 rooms, while two of the schools, Lincoln and Robertson, have an extra four rooms between them.
The report did not include figures for either kindergarten or high school needs.
Illing told the board that the problem of securing the needed teacher shortage. This has resulted, Illing said, in a stiff competition for the needed teachers, and in school board superintendents going into the streets to collect for the needed structures.
Two other matters which came before the board last night touched on the city's expansion program of the town, but neither of them indicated an immediate solution to any of the problems.
Keweenaw School Proposal
In one of them, the board gave tentative approval to Architect Arthur Lawrence's revised plans for the proposed six-room Keweenaw street school, subject to additional suggestions made by board members last night and subject to a personal survey of the area by board member George Cheney. Last night, Cheney expressed the concern that the school would be too close to the street line. The school, which will be "V-shaped," would not be built in line with the situation next fall.
In the other matter, Illing told the members that work on the two-room addition to the South School is proceeding rapidly. He said the "V" is already on the new section and that he has been informed by the builder that the two new rooms should be completed in six weeks or two months, at which time work on renovating the old part of the school could begin.
Since one of the rooms is a kindergarten, the construction will add only one more classroom to the school for next year, and that classroom will be filled without easing any of the pressure on the rest of the schools.

New Willys at Lower Prices

Countering the almost constant upward spiral of automotive prices during the war, Willys-Overland Motors, Inc. has introduced a brand new and broadened line of 1953 at a high price to pay for such a small strip of land, but isn't that more expensive than the lives lost in accidents caused by the narrowness of the street and lack of visibility caused by two build-out only a few feet apart, or causing motorists added inconvenience by forcing no parking and one-way street travel?

The custodians wanted to join it. Compliments Board To the Editor: In the past few weeks there has been much discussion regarding the purchase of a strip of land on the corner of Main and Pearl streets, which the town needs in order to widen one of the narrowest streets in town.

Editor's Note: We had our say on Pearl street some time ago, and the only "agitation" in progress comes from pen name defenders of the project who apparently suspect that the public does not think too well of it. As we see no reason for further discussion of the matter, not even at Friday night's public hearing, which is a mere formality, we will not discuss it again.

There seemed to be a desire to keep the so-called controversy alive, stirring up the conservative citizens as much as possible, on the part of the Herald, especially the editorials which were written with intent, it would seem, to place the Board of Directors in the position of trying to perpetrate a fraud on the townpeople and strip of land, without a yes or no vote by the majority of the polls.

Connecticut Yankee
 By A. H. O.

Conditions should be somewhat more favorable in the 1953 session of the General Assembly than in the 1952 session. The General Assembly is a judicial Council recommendation which fell by the political wayside in the 1951 session. Actually, more than the three proposed judgments was lost in the political of the 1951 session. For it was in the maneuvers surrounding the effort to create the new judicial system that the break between the Lodge-Brennan regime first developed openly. Will it again be agreed that it would be wise to create three new judgments, Brennan had the impression that he had been delegated to seek an agreement with Democratic State Chairman John Bailey for the passage of the bill and the subsequent distribution of the judicial system. He thought he reached a reasonable agreement with Bailey, which he reported back only to have the Lodge administration attacking the bill. Even worse, Governor Lodge made a statement attacking Bailey for the nature of the proposed bargain. This did not seem quite political in character, but it was in apparent good faith, and the circumstances made it difficult for the Democratic party to point out the Democratic party's disloyalty to a political ally. In the 1952 session, of course, it will not be necessary to send any emissary to Mr. Bailey, to consult him on the proposed judicial system. Mr. Bailey, as Superior Court judge, has a reputation for being a fair and honest man, and it is not necessary to deal with the Democratic party in this regard. A Superior Court judge is considered the finest piece of patronage offered by the state. Therefore, it is not likely to happen to ignore the fact that it has already happened twice, placing in the White House two Presidents who did not win in the popular vote. To ignore the political realities involved because nothing unjust even threatened in this year's election is not sound policy. There is such a fundamental year's election is not sound policy. There is such a fundamental year's election is not sound policy.

fore, any pressure group, with voters, which is seeking some gain of its own, is quite likely to threaten a veto of the creation of such plans. Such a veto would be threatened in order to create a bargain, in which both the judges and the pressure group's pet project would go through. The last time additional Superior Court judgments were created the price, as we recall it, was a few more millions a year for the small town road funds of the state. The so-called "dirt roads" pressure group, in other words, would not vote for any improvement in the Connecticut judicial system until it had got its own version of justice for the local roads program. It made the judges' jobs the most expensive in Connecticut history. So, if the educational lobby, or the gambling wheel lobby, or the later hours for Sunday liquor sales lobby or the Fairfield County Law Farmers lobby should latch on to the proposed judgment, threatening to have them unless something else is done too, the Lodge regime might have to go looking for Democratic votes after all. We do pretty well keeping our high judgeships out of politics, after all. But up to that point, they are fair prey for everybody.

Rioting For The Headlines
 In a sense, it is the exploiters who have become the captives in the Korean prisoner situation. It is as if they are at the mercy of the fanaticism of the Communist propaganda. They are at the price of a few lives, can always propagate trouble inside the Communist world itself, and which do no good in the neutral world, which only increases us deeply in our own world. All they have to do is conduct themselves so that our story sweeps the world. It seems to establish that deep and desperate belief in a cause, the Communist world itself, and which do no good in the neutral world, which only increases us deeply in our own world.

All they have to do is conduct themselves so that our story sweeps the world. It seems to establish that deep and desperate belief in a cause, the Communist world itself, and which do no good in the neutral world, which only increases us deeply in our own world.

All this forces us to ask what it is which makes the Communist propaganda triumph, this embarrassment of ourselves, possible. And the answer is not that the Communist fanaticism is without parallel. The answer is not that we are unusually brutal. The answer is not that we are weak. The answer is not that we are unusually brutal. The answer is not that we are weak.

The answer, we must conclude, lies in an American principle which is dear to us. It is the principle of freedom of information, of a free press. These Communist troubles are effective against us because they are publicized. It pays the Communists to keep these troubles going because they are publicized. They are designed purely to make news which the Communists believe to be unfavorable to us.

So we have to ask why they are allowed to make news. We know there is a military censorship in Korea, as it is elsewhere, keeps from us and from the world headlines other information which might be dangerous to us or advantageous to the Communists. Yet we pursue an open policy on these prison camp developments, which are far more valuable to the Communists than any purely military information made Korea. It is this open policy which nourishes these attempted outbursts—none of which is really designed to create a real break toward freedom—all of which are designed to break into headlines.

Should we clamp down a censorship on the prison camps, the Communist propaganda from outside would have more body than ever, but conditions for the camps themselves would be quieter. We are trying to think of a good reason why we should continue to give the Communists exactly what they want to get from these riots and demonstrations—and we can't think of it. We should say that military censorship is ever justified anywhere, it is justified here.

Anachronism
 Because the electoral college system worked Monday, voting as our next President. The man or woman who won the election that past week was one in which the weight of both the electoral and the popular vote was clearly on the side of one candidate, there is in this year's experience, no urgent reason for the abolition of the electoral college system. The thing to do is to trust the man or woman who won the election to be a bold and experienced lawyer through stormy seasons.

How Can U. S. Make China Want Peace?
 New York—(AP)—How can the Chinese Reds be made to want peace?
 The answer holds the key to what will happen next in the Korean war.
 President-elect Dwight Eisenhower stated the problem clearly in an off-the-cuff summary of his trip to the embattled peninsula. "Just because we can't win the peace doesn't make peace. We must go ahead and do things that induce the others to want peace also."
 This echoed a belief General Eisenhower phrased this way in a formal statement: "We face an enemy whom we cannot hope to impress by words, however eloquent, but only by deeds—executed under circumstances of our own choosing."
 And these two significant sentences herald a real effort to change the stalemate Korean impasse. The period when the present griping yearning for peace will be replaced by some kind of action to win it.
 What form will that action take? Naturally Eisenhower must remain silent on this point at this time. But there are two ways to get a donkey to move forward: (1) hold some hay out in front of him, or (2) kick and beat him until he decides it is wiser to obey your will.
 And there would seem to be only two general methods of action to make the Chinese Reds want peace:
 1.—Through diplomatic channels the U. S. should demand that the Chinese Reds be made to reach a cease-fire in Korea and to withdraw the bulk of their troops toward the orbit of the western powers. Assuming this could be done, such a program would possibly entail the jettisoning of Chiang Kai-shek who is powerfully supported in the American Congress.
 2.—Increase military pressure on Red China to such an extent that crippling losses would lead her to sue for a real peace, even against the wishes of Red Russia.
 A general officer who holds this view recently expressed it to me as follows:
 "Time is fighting on the other side, not on ours. The six steel fellows in the Chinese fielding will outlast us faster than we are. We have to stop this business in Korea now."
 "We are fighting the war the

Supreme Court Refuses to Rule On Korea War
 Washington, Dec. 16—(AP)—The Supreme Court yesterday turned a deaf ear to a contention that the Korean war is unconstitutional.
 It did so in refusing to intervene in the case of Stanley Dale Sydow who was sentenced to three years imprisonment for refusing to report for induction into the armed forces.
 Sydow asked the High Tribunal to issue a writ of habeas corpus releasing him from the county jail in Omaha. His request was filed by Attorney Fyke Farmer, of Newville, Tenn.
 Farmer said the case raised the question of the President's authority to "ship boys to a foreign war... being waged solely by presidential orders without any declaration of war by the Congress and... therefore an illegal and unconstitutional war."
 The appeal judges do not show Sydow's home address.
 In other action yesterday the High Court... Upheld 8-1 the conviction and

Double Ender
Jap Spy Paid
By U. S., Soviet

to send coded messages to the Soviet Union and North Korea three times a month. Each time, Mitsushashi said, he showed the message to American authorities and received money as reward. At the same time he was accepting pay from the Russians. American agents have decided to commit Mitsushashi to a psychiatric hospital. Mitsushashi's home was a "superstitious" household made in the U. S. Navy reports said the transmitter was Russian-made. A foreign office report said the messages were sent to Vladivostok, Siberia.

Inspector Arrested
The case took another weird turn with a report by the newspaper Yomiuri that another man was arrested. This man was the real Mitsushashi and that the man arrested by police was an imposter.
The new Mitsushashi said the story by Yomiuri was a hoax. He said he had been arrested by the police and was in custody in a Japanese prison. He said he was a member of the Japanese Red Cross and was working for the Japanese government.

New Saratoga

The Saratoga will be much like her sister ship Forrestal in everything except speed. Overall length 1,040 feet, 22-foot width, displacement (presumably) not full fuel and plane load) slightly under 60,000 tons; plane capacity of more than 100 aircraft, depending upon the types used as any one time.
But boilers with higher steam pressure probably will make Saratoga faster than the prototype Forrestal.

Tito Ends Vatican Tie over Stepinac

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Premier Marshal Tito's government broke diplomatic relations with the Vatican today as a follow-up to the naming of Archbishop Alojzije Stepinac to the College of Cardinals.

Stepinac, deputy foreign minister, informed a Vatican diplomat, Magr. Silvio Di Oddi, of the action. Magr. Di Oddi said he had no comment. He has been serving as chargé d'affaires here in the absence of the American Archbishop Joseph P. Hurley, the Vatican minister to Belgrade.

Says Vatican Hostile
Marshall Tito, in a speech yesterday to workers in a factory near Belgrade, accused the Vatican of hostile activity against Yugoslavia. Tito also threatened to call off a projected visit to London, because of British charges of religious persecution here.

The future was touched off by British newspaper reports quoting Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, Britain's Archbishop of Canterbury, as saying that British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden would urge Tito to ease up on religious persecution when the Yugoslav leader visits Britain next March.

Tito, speaking before a crowd of about 15,000 in a small factory town last night, said that the charges of religious persecution were inspired by the Vatican. He declared he would not go to Britain unless at least half the British people want him to come.

"I am not going to England to make concessions," he declared. "There will be no discussion of our internal affairs."

Vicarious Prodanov, patriarch of the Serbian Orthodox Church, added his warning against foreign interference in letters today to two Belgrade newspapers, Borna and Politika.

The Yugoslav people are free to worship where they please, he wrote, and "our friends abroad can help us by leaving us in peace and leaving us to settle ourselves our relations."

Annals Remembrance
Tito again attacked Pope Pius XII's nomination of Archbishop Alojzije Stepinac as a Cardinal and declared that Stepinac would never be permitted to serve even as an Archbishop in Yugoslavia.

Stepinac was conditionally re-

Bribe Try Story Told At Inquiry

New York, Dec. 17.—(AP)—A detective told the New York State Crime commission today that he rejected a bribe offered by a member of the AFL International Longshoremen's Association to "lay off the boys" on the Jersey City waterfront.

Jersey City Detective John Waldron said the bribe was offered him in November, 1951, by a man named Johnnie Alu. The bribe—starting with $10,000 for three Jersey City detectives—was intended to put 10 policemen on a stevedoring firm's payroll, Waldron testified.

Waldron took the witness stand as the crime commission's probe of racketeering in the world's largest port stepped up spotlight focused on Jersey City for the second day.

Waldron identified Alu as a member of Local 824 of the I.L.A. Alu made the offer to three detectives when the police were hunting for a bombing on the Jersey City waterfront in March, 1951, Waldron said. The bombing injured five union officials, including Barney (Cockeye) Brown, whose name has figured prominently in the commission hearings.

Waldron said he and two other detectives came to a Manhattan restaurant in response to a tip. There they met Alu. Waldron said that when he asked him what he had on his mind, Alu replied he would "do no business unless you lay off the boys."

Immediately after Waldron left the stand Alu was summoned.

Alu, a balding man, he declined on constitutional grounds to admit having met the three Jersey City detectives in a Manhattan restaurant.

An Refuses To Answer
Commissioner Thomas Teodoro Klenz called the three detectives to the front of the courtroom and asked Alu if he ever had seen them.

Again Alu refused to answer on grounds that to do so might incriminate him.

Asked whether it was true that he had tried to bribe them to lay off the payroll of the Dade Brothers stevedoring firm, he again took refuge in constitutional privilege.

As the commission waded into Hudson County, N. J., politics yesterday in its study of crime along the piers, witnesses pictured Jersey City Mayor John V. Kenny as a protector of waterfront racketeering.

Brink Case Judge Cites Two More

Boston, Dec. 17.—(AP)—A parade of witnesses accused of contempt in a federal grand jury investigation of the $1,219,000 Brink's holdup in 1950 increased to seven today when two men were cited for refusing to answer questions.

The latest so charged were Adolph Maffie of Quincy, and Edward A. Bennett of Boston. They were held in $10,000 each for hearing Friday.

Their bail is double that originally set in the case of four other persons so accused and was set at the request of Asst. U. S. Atty. Edward D. Hassan, who told the court "in view of the knowledge we have we feel $10,000 is reasonable."

Defies Judge
Maffie, 35, Judge William T. McCarthy by saying, "I refuse to answer, when the judge asked him, 'What do you do for a living?'"

The background of Maffie and Bennett was not available immediately. Boston police told news men "The federal authorities aren't taking anyone into their confidence, they have all the answers, you'll have to get your information from them."

The FBI acted in customary fashion by refusing to talk.

Previously accused of contempt were Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Hooley, parents of three children; Donald T. O'Keefe, Boston street cleaner; Joseph T. "Specs" O'Keefe, a Pennsylvania convict; and Joseph H. Carlson, Boston bookie. The O'Keefe men are brothers of Mrs. Hooley.

"Specs" O'Keefe, referred to in open court as "a suspect" in the robbery, is being held at Suffolk County jail. He was brought here from Bradford, Pa., county.

Post-Conference Handshake

President-elect Eisenhower, right, shakes hands with Martin F. Durkin, who is to be Secretary of Labor in the new cabinet, after conference at the New York headquarters. Durkin later told news men "I believe there should be organic unity" between the AFL and the CIO and "meetings to bring it about" should be held.

Eisenhower Set to See GOP Chiefs

New York, Dec. 17.—(AP)—President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower and Gen. Douglas MacArthur conferred today in the home of John Foster Dulles, the Secretary of State-designate.

The meeting was arranged following MacArthur's statement there was a clear and definite solution to the Korean war.

Eisenhower and Dulles left the President-elect's Conyngham Hotel headquarters today to keep the appointment with the former Far East commander who was ousted by President Truman. MacArthur traveled separately to the Dulles home for what was described as a luncheon meeting.

James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's press secretary, announced the conference shortly after the general and Dulles left the Eisenhower headquarters.

The President-elect's list of appointments for the day had contained no mention of MacArthur, but it did list a 1 p. m. appointment with Dulles.

The general had no further appointments scheduled for the day, which would permit the President-elect and MacArthur as much time as needed for a discussion of the Korean problem.

Will Meet GOP Leaders
Eisenhower announced plans for a series of meetings with GOP congressional leaders to discuss, among other problems, "methods of controlling the budget."

The first of the meetings, Eisenhower said in a statement, will be held at his Conyngham Hotel headquarters tomorrow morning (11:30 a. m. e. s. t.) with House leaders.

Sitting in with the general will be Rep. Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts, slated to be Speaker of the House, Rep. Charles Halleck, of Indiana, in line for the job of floor leader, and Rep. Leslie C. Arens, of Illinois.

Eisenhower said another meeting to follow "as promptly as possible" will bring in Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, who served as minority leader in the Democratic-controlled 82nd Congress, Sen. Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, chairman of the Senate GOP Policy committee, Sen. Eugene D. Millikin of Colorado, chairman of the conference of all Republican Senators, and Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, assistant minority leader in the last Congress.

Hagerty said the meeting with the Senate group probably will

Czech Leader Bares Unrest

Venice, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Czechoslovak Communist Premier Klement Gottwald admitted today that "discontent and rebellion" in the nation, and indicated the Red regime has not yet been able to bring popular defiance under control.

This startling admission was published in Rude Pravo, official Czechoslovak Communist newspaper. Premier Antonin Zapotocky was quoted as blaming the rebellion on shortage of food and coal.

The Communist president, Klement Gottwald, previously admitted that the production of milk, eggs and farm goods in Czechoslovakia has fallen lower than it was in 1947, before the Communists seized power.

The admissions lent weight to western reports that the Soviet Union's industrial demands on Czechoslovakia have been severely milking the nation and producing chaotic conditions. The production of heavy industry goods for Russia has cost the satellite country terrifically, pushing down its former high standard of living.

Mossadegh Reported in Tehran Rift

Tehran, Iran, Dec. 17.—(AP)—The Tehran press, both government and opposition, indicated today the rift between Nationalist Premier Mohammed Mossadegh and powerful religious leader Ayatollah Kashani is deepening. Kashani was pictured as "getting ever closer" to the extreme leftist elements.

Kashani has denied any quarrel with Mossadegh and, specifically, denied that he was seeking the premiership for himself, contending that British interests planted the rumor to cause Iranian disension.

Recently Kashani sent a message to the Communist-controlled "Vienna World Peace Congress" describing himself as a "servant of the Iranian people and Moslems of the Middle East denouncing western imperialism in the Middle East and Africa."

He urged efforts to insure "the cause of peace does not remain the monopoly of particular political groups."

The anti-government morning paper Dad surmised "Kashani is getting closer to the leftist elements for whose sake he addressed his recent message to the Vienna Peace Congress. He wants to show Mossadegh he could out him by collaborating with the leftists. Kashani has also instructed his supporters in the Majlis to attack point four activities in Iran in order to please the leftists."

Dad also asserted Mossadegh expressed to Kashani his displeasure with interference by Kashani and his sons in the administration of government ministries.

Dad said Mossadegh has named as head of the customs police the former police chief who arrested Kashani in 1949 after an attempted assassination of the Shah "to make quite clear he is not in the least influenced by Kashani's wishes."

The paper also reported the differences assumed a serious aspect yesterday in a meeting of Majlis national front deputies.

"Kashani's supporters intend to break away and form an Islam

Pravda Blasts Allied Slaying Of 82 Captives

Moscow, Dec. 17.—(AP)—The Communist party newspaper Pravda today printed in heavy black type a report that 82 Red prisoners had been killed in Korea's Pongam island and again bitterly attacked United States' treatment of Chinese and North Korean war prisoners.

In a lead editorial, the newspaper charged that "American aggressors are committing crimes against the conscience of humanity."

The United Nations Command on Korea announced that Allied guards last Sunday killed 82 Communist and wounded 120 others in quelling a mass breakout attempt by war prisoners at Pongam island.

Pravda said the Pongam incident was a new "link in the monstrous chain of crimes by the American military who are following the road of Hitlerite tyranny and blood terror."

"American monsters are using civil law against both POWs and civilians herded in numerous American death camps," the editorial continued. "The lead underfoot the most elementary foundations of international law by

Appeals Court Studies Dispute In Natural Gas

Boston, Dec. 17.—(AP)—The First Circuit Court of Appeals today had under advisement the latest chapter in the long wrangle between Algonquin Gas Transmission Company and Northeastern Gas Transmission Company for the right to serve New England with natural gas.

Chief Judge Calvert Magruder and Associate Judges Peter Woodbury and John P. Hartigan heard three hours of testimony yesterday on the court's order to the Federal Power Commission to show cause why it cannot grant a temporary emergency certificate allowing Algonquin to finish its $45,000,000 pipeline.

Denies Authority
The FPC, which twice turned down Algonquin's application for the certificate, argued through its assistant general counsel, Bernard A. Foster, Jr., that it hasn't the legal authority to allow completion of Algonquin's line.

Attorney Paul Porter, representing Algonquin, told the court the pipeline was built pursuant to lawful authorization by the FPC and would have been operating if a court order forcing cessation of construction had been delayed "10 to 12 days."

Foster said "This is the first case in which the FPC has ex-

10c Charter Oak Toll For Transients Urged

Hartford, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Return of the 10 cent toll on the Charter Oak Bridge for transients was recommended to the Governor's Committee on Highway Financing. The suggestion was made by A. Ward Spalding of Suffield, chairman of the executive committee of the State Grange.

With a second bridge planned at State street in Hartford and a third bridge projected across the Connecticut river near Windsor Locks, Spalding told the committee he felt the legislature should reinstate the toll on the Charter Oak bridge in Hartford for all except local commuters, to help finance the other bridge projects and possible highway expansion.

Spalding said that he felt the present one-cent toll for those who buy books of 100 tickets "hardly pays the effort of getting the books out."

The committee is wrestling with the problem of ways of possibly financing urgently needed highway projects, estimated to cost between $10,000,000 to $375,000,000 over the next 10 years.

In opening the meeting State's Attorney Robert P. Anderson of New London, chairman of the group appointed by Governor Lodge, said their assignment was to determine what sources of revenue might be tapped if highway income appears to be inadequate to cover the 10-year program.

Committee member William H. Mortensen, former Hartford mayor, asked Spalding his reaction to the advisability of increasing the gas tax one per cent.

Spalding replied that the organization would oppose it at this time but if tolls were found to be insufficient to pay the costs of meeting the highway expansion he considered it "the next fairest tax is an increase in the gas tax."

Mortensen pointed out that there were indications of a $44,000,000 gap between highway revenue and costs in the 10-year program. He said that a one per

Justice Prober Airs Duress by Ex-U. S. Lawyer

Washington, Dec. 17.—(AP)—House investigators today confronted a former U. S. Attorney in Iowa with accusations that he abused his official post.

Robert E. Collier, chief counsel, told a Judiciary subcommittee investigating the justice department he obtained sworn testimony to the effect that Tobias E. Diamond, the attorney, tried to force settlement of a civil claim by threatening members of a Miami, Fla., firm with prosecution, Diamond, who is 74, resigned as U. S. Attorney on Nov. 9.

Collier said in his opening statement the accusations were made last month during closed-door questioning of Herman Gross, Mr. and Mrs. David Schiller and Herman N. Rice, associated with Quality Egg Shippers, Inc., Miami, Fla.

The gist of the accusations against Diamond had previously been aired in federal court in Iowa.

Collier said the Miami firm was engaged in a controversy with Richard Swalve of George, Iowa, over a shipment of eggs it bought from Swalve last spring. Diamond represented Swalve, the subcommittee counsel went on, and visited the Miami people last May.

"The witnesses have given sworn testimony that Mr. Diamond unduly attempted to impress them

Gale Damages, United States, Delays Voyage

London, Dec. 17.—(AP)—The crack new American liner United States was damaged and other shipping imperiled today by furious winds buffeting the British Isles. There were gusts of more than 100 miles an hour.

The United States had just pulled away from the Southampton dock on a homeward voyage to New York when a gale caught her broadside and drove her back to the quay.

The port side of the ship's bridge jammed in between two high dockside cranes denting the bridge work and scraping paint off the observation deck.

The liner quickly worked loose and tugs resumed trying to get her out to sea. After an hour of tricky maneuvering in the gale force gusts, it was decided to wait until the wind died down. The liner was tied up at dockside and the 600 passengers aboard were told that sailing would be delayed.

The 1,800 ton Finnish freighter Sobritt was driven on to rocks off the Scotland Isle of Arran. She was refloated five hours later by the Clyde tug Forrager.

The winds, ranging from gale to hurricane force, had coastal shipping scuttling for shelter, felled telephone wires across roads, and forced the cancellation of some airline flights.

Inland, the gales tumbled pedestrians off their feet, disrupted telephone communications and brought chimney pots, slates and television aerials toppling off roofs.

At Morecambe, on the northwest coast, the 54 foot Christmas tree was blown down. Rail services at Prestwick, Scotland, were halted when a two ton
