Soviet Empire's Weakness at Geneva: Empty Stomachs Behind Iron Curtain

By LEON DENKEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
Paris (NEA) — Western leaders should take another hard look at the Red world before sitting down at Geneva to haggle with Moscow and peering over Korea and Indo-China.

The Reds as usual are expected to talk and act tough. But they will again lead from weakness rather than from strength, for the Soviet empire is in the midst of a grave economic and political crisis.

"The agricultural situation is serious enough in Russia," two Allied diplomats who just returned from behind the Iron Curtain told NEA reporters. "But it borders almost on disaster in the satellite countries."

This is also confirmed by refugees who recently escaped West from Poland, Hungary and East Germany.

Food Plan Failing
Moscow's much publicized plan to increase food and consumer goods production in Russia and the satellite states is running into serious obstacles. There is a dramatic bread shortage in Hungary and a potato famine in Poland and East Germany.

Communist leaders like Poland, Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria which once exported food are now hungry themselves. Everywhere the reason is the same: Communist individualism of the peasant.

It took the Red leaders more than 35 years to discover that nature, especially human nature, is not easily changed. Thus, since the death of Stalin, his successors have literally been jumping out of their skin to woo the peasant.

Stalin originally forced through the collectivization of Russian agriculture at the cost of national famine and four million dead peasants in the satellite states. Their insubordination in the towns not only caused the famine but also because even today workers in industry and Red Army soldiers have a rural background.

Of some 100 million Russian peasants, no more than one million joined the Communist Party since the Bolshevik revolution. This was recently revealed by none other than Stalin himself, No. 3 man in the Kremlin's new hierarchy.

Realist Collectivism
The situation in Poland, Moscow's most important satellite, is even more revealing. In the nine years since the Reds came to power in Warsaw, only five to eight per cent of Polish peasants have enrolled in collective farms. Few peasants joined the Communist Party.

Of the close to 300,000 party members purged in the past six years for anti-Communist resistance—according to Poland's Red newspaper Pravda—the majority were peasants and "counter-revolutionary intellectuals."

In the face of this stubborn and frequently heroic resistance, propaganda for land collectivization in Poland has almost ceased. This is also true of Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Romania, Bulgaria and especially East Germany, the Iron Curtain refugees reported.

More than 35 years after the Russian Revolution the peasants for the most part remain the backbone of resistance to the Red regime.

Thus, despite their immense industrial achievements, the Kremlin rulers now find the food shortage in Communist-dominated Europe is the major problem confronting them today.

Premier Georgi Malenkov must find new food sources to feed the hungry, stirring people behind the Iron Curtain.

HIDING HER FACE to avoid Red reprisal, this East German woman rests beside food parcels she got in West Berlin. Refugees report food shortages plaguing satellite countries.

The Hartford State Central Committee members, in their resolution Monday, said Republicans everywhere "recognize the outstanding record made by Gov. Lodge and that the best interest of the State will be served by having him seek re-election and reelection for a second term."

Bowles Favored By PAC of CIO

Hartford, April 21 (AP)—The Political Action Committee of the CIO will support former Governor Chester Bowles for the Democratic nomination for governor, State Senator Patrick J. Ward of Hartford has indicated.

The former Governor of Connecticut and ex-ambassador to India has not announced his candidacy but Ward, a member of a "Draft Bowles" committee, has indicated that a resolution in preparation by a committee headed by former Gov. Wilbert Snow of Middletown.

Margaret Conner, a District of Bridgeport, CIO legislative agent, is a member of the "Draft Bowles" committee, according to Ward. In furtherance of the draft movement, an all-day meeting of the Political Action Committee of the CIO has been summoned for April 29 at the Waverly Inn, Cheshire.

Democratic State Chairman John M. Bailey conferred yesterday with the former Governor. There was no announcement of the result of the conference. Bowles was scheduled to address a meeting of the Civitan Club here and Bailey was in Waterbury for another of his "sentiment seeking meetings with Democratic party leaders."

MUED FOR $100,000
New Haven, April 21 (AP)—William M. Boteler of West Haven has used a Masonic lodge for $100,000, claiming he was badly injured as the result of his initiation into the organization. He claimed in his Superior Court suit he received multiple head and body injuries at the initiation of Amasa Lodge, A.F. and A.M. in West Haven. He said the lodge had promised to pay him damages but he added he has received only $300, which he says is less than what the alleged injuries cost him. Named in the suit in addition to Amasa Lodge are the Grand Lodge in Hartford, the Temple Building Assn., Inc., owners of the West Haven lodge building, and the officers and the degree team which conducted the alleged initiation.

Bolton Regional School Popularity Grows as Tuition Mounts

Bolton, April 21 (Special).—The two-way radio system on the pump truck, now being used by the Bolton Board of Education, that high school tuition for local pupils next year would be $300, and might be increased to $424 when the new Manchester High School is built, has apparently given residents of this town new food for thought.

With the 4-town regional high school plan ready for consideration at town meetings within a few weeks, quick compactness in available costs, were being made here last night.

A representative of the regional group stated he felt it emphasized the economies his group had estimated could be made by constructing a regional school. It was his observation that on a comparative cost basis alone, the difference was overwhelming.

The regional group estimates per pupil cost at $267, including cost to build, maintain and amortize. Although the Manchester tuition rate at $300 may not be too overwhelming, since it would be reduced by funds from State grants the prospect of going to $424 seemed staggering.

Others stated it looked like regional schooling was "our only answer" and interpreted the report of Manchester's announcement as forecasting Bolton's "decision to leave" in the not far distant future. It was considered foolhardy, in one citizen's opinion, to pay costs of amortization in Manchester for 20 years when the town would have no title in the property and no voice in the administration of the school.

Projected enrollment in the six upper grades from this town was estimated at 272 pupils in 1957 by the Regional Group. Assuming these same students might be going to Manchester, the amortization cost of $124 per pupil would amount to $76,000.

It is widely believed that the cost will be the prime factor in this town's decision regarding entering into the regional plan. The Manchester announcement, it is held, is bound to affect much local thought in favor of the regional proposal.

Firemen Fight Forest Blaze
Bolton, Andover and South Manchester fire departments as well as a State Forestry fire-fighting team fought in Saco blaze. Campmeeting Road yesterday afternoon. The fire started on property of Robert Richardson close to the Manchester-Bolton town line. Richardson, who had been burning a small amount of rubbish, was called to the telephone and found the fire had spread to surrounding brush on his return.

Firemen arrived on the scene at 2:30 after spending a half hour looking for the fire. The original message received at 2 p. m. led the firemen to believe its location was at Bolton Notch.

They were especially grateful for the help of the State Forestry fire-fighting team.

REIN-OFF VOTE NEEDED
Bridgetown, April 21 (AP)—A run-off election to determine the union representative at Columbia Records, Inc., appears imminent. Neither the United Electrical Workers (I. U.) nor the International Union of Electrical Workers (I. O.) obtained a majority in the bargaining election yesterday.

International representative Richard Linsley of the Independent Union said the National Labor Relations Board would call a run-off election in the near future. The I. U. local, which now represents some of the employees at the plant, fell four votes short of the necessary 347 needed. The I. O. lacked 15 votes.

Coming Event

While there Tapley went fishing on the Housatonic River Saturday morning. While standing on the bank of the river, he fainted and fell backward into the stream. He was pulled from the water and taken to Pittsfield General Hospital. His condition was not considered serious and the family returned to their home Sunday night.

agor bought land, got an FHA commitment for a building on that land, and then sold the commitment to a home builder. The builder can realize how much and how often this country engages in the business of bombing Moscow. And it is to be hoped the Russians must feel about it, we merely have to imagine that we catch the Russians, just once, talking about bombing New York or publishing New York that we have to bomb Moscow. But, at least, they never talk about it.

Statement She Read To The Editor: I should like to call to the attention of the people of Manchester, part of a radio broadcast, Feb. 17, 1954, by the Manchester Evening Herald, concerning utility rate hikes. A Thought for Today

Prayer: Forgive us, Lord Jesus, for doing the things that make us uncomfortable and guilty when we pray. We say that we believe in God, and yet we doubt God's promises. We say that we love Thee, O Lord, and yet do not obey Thee. We say that we are Thy children, and yet we do not consult Thee. We say that we love Thee, O Lord, and yet do not love Thy commandments. We say that we are Thy children, and yet we do not love Thy commandments.

Diplomacy For A Democracy

The troubles of operating propaganda diplomacy are proverbial, and they have been wrapped up in an exhibit during Secretary Dulles' effort to talk to the Geneva Conference. The truth is that it is impossible to operate such a propaganda effort, in a democracy, without the use of a gigantic overhead threat—or bluff.

Aging Newspaperwoman Publishes Single-Handed

By HAROLD HART
AP Newsfeatures

Windsor, Ark. — The little lady who huddled at the typewriter, meticulously assembling the weekly Windsor American with a dexterity belied by her 80 years.

Outside a raw wind blew across the face of Boston Mountain, rattling the sideboards of the tiny print shop. A scant 50 feet away U. S. Highway 71 curving northward to Fayetteville, 20 miles from the "top of the Ozarks," the highest mountain range between the Alleghenies and the Rockies.

Twice-widowed Mrs. Maud Duncan has for more than 25 years been publishing "as respectable a paper as possible."

"The decision wasn't too difficult to make, she recalls, but circumstances rather than choice resulted in her becoming an editor and publisher."

Paper Is Needed

Mrs. Duncan's husband, who founded the paper, died Nov. 18, 1918. She wrote his obituary and took over as editor, publisher, printer, circulation and advertising manager and "nearly everything."

"Sometimes I think of giving up the paper," she says. "How does an 80-year-old woman editor feel about any attempt to narrow freedom of the press?"

"My oh my, it wouldn't do at all! It would be Russia over here. We don't want anything like that in these United States of ours. It just wouldn't be a free country."

The circulation list numbers about 500, paying $1 a year.

The sprightly Miss Maud interjects her type setting long enough to throw another stick of wood into the job-bellied stove. Steadily she stands the ancient, foot-pedal job press on which the four to six pages of the paper are printed.

"Mr. Duncan was my second husband," she started. The paper Sept. 1, 1908. I was a registered pharmacist. He was a newspaperman. We used to joke that he was a "funny in the straitjacket" and I was the "primers' devil on the paper."

"When he thought things were wrong, he did something about it."

Tourist Attraction

"Any murders? Mountain tents? 'Oh, no,'" she says. "There's been nothing really distressing except sickness and death to write about."

Mrs. Duncan and the Windsor American have become quite a tourist attraction. On days when a warm summer sun bathes the Ozarks, the great and just average citizens stick their heads in the door, sign the register and marvel that so much can be done with so little.

How does an 80-year-old woman editor feel about any attempt to narrow freedom of the press?

Hebron

Throng Attends Easter Services

Hebron, April 21 (Special)—Local churches were crowded for the Easter services Sunday, with the Congregational Church at attendance estimated at about 200.

The pastor, the Rev. John G. Beck, preached an Easter sermon and also officiated at New Glendon Church.

Chimney Fire Put Out

The fire engine was called out early Monday forenoon to take care of a chimney fire at J. Kellogg White's place in Glendon. The trouble was soon overcome.

Church Notes

St. Peter's Episcopal Church had a congregation of about 115 for the vespers choir sung by 100 members and special music was rendered. Miss Chappell, Miss Shroyer and William E. Leary sang a solo as part of the program.

Leary, who is a member of the Congregational Choir, sang with the choir in invitation. This was really arranged as the two church services come at a different hour. Gardner Q. Shroyer, organist, played a composition on the pipe organ. The Rev. W. R. Brown, delivered a short Easter sermon, and officiated at two communion services, one at 8 a. m. and one at 11 a. m.

Each Sunday School child received a small postal plant. Miss book from the Church School were gathered up to be sent in to Christ Church Cathedral.

Personal Mention

It was a great day for family reunions Sunday. Guests at the home of Miss Marjorie M. Martin and her aunt, Miss Louise Hollister, included all the grandchildren of the late Rev. and Mrs. Theodore D. Martin, Miss Martin's parents.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Martin and son, Zachary, of New Britain, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Zimmerman and two children of West Springfield, Mass., and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hill and son, Theodore, of Thompsonville.

Rockville, April 21 (Special)—A six by eight foot glass window on the north side of the Standard Motors Showroom on East Main Street, was smashed some time last night. Patrolman George Trapp, who investigated a complaint by the firm, said this morning it was an apparent act of vandalism.

Trapp said there was no attempt to break and enter the building. Neighbors in the area did not report any unusual noise during the night.

A stone, measuring four inches across and several inches in diameter was found inside the building.

Police said a large replica of Groucho Marx, which was standing inside the window, may have been the intended target of the missile. Groucho escaped without apparent damage.

Willington, April 21 (P)—One driver was injured last night in a side-wiping accident involving two tractor-trailers on Route 15.

Coventry Voters Facing $10,000 Outlay On New School

Coventry, April 21.—(Special)—Voters will be asked at a town meeting Monday night to approve an additional $10,000 appropriation to defray the increased cost of the new 16-classroom, $450,000 elementary school.

Originally, $30,000 was set aside for the miscellaneous development costs. The added $10,000 will be used to pay for the cost of site, site development, engineering survey of the site and architectural costs of completing drawings and specifications.

Authorization will be asked to permit the Board of Selectmen and town treasurer to borrow the money.

Other matters to be discussed by the town include:

1. Proposed ordinances to regulate the disposal of old tire boxes, refrigerators, freezers and similar articles as requested by the Advisory Health Council.

2. Appointing a bipartisan group to investigate the desirability of changing numerous street names in the town as requested by the Republican Town Committee.

3. Reconsideration of the problem of establishing a small claims court. This matter was tabled at recent town meeting owing to a lack of sufficient information on the requirements of such a court.

4. Action on the sale of lot 11, section 2, in Waterfront Park. A recent town meeting voted that the lot be sold for less than $50. At the time the sale of the lot was to be held, the voters will be asked to decide if the lot is acceptable, or what other action should be taken.

Garbage Report stated

Also noted for the attention of the voters to report by the Board of Selectmen on garbage and refuse disposal. One street has already been made for improper dumping in connection with violation of the town sanitary laws. Reports have been offered for the street of voters.

New Haven, Conn. (AP)—A Yale University lecturer told an audience that back in 1904, a play with this title (try it on today's theater manager) was produced in England.

"The First Part of the Contention Between the Two Famous Houses of York and Lancaster, with the Death of the Good Duke Humphrey; and the Banishment and Death of the Duke of Suffolk; and the Tragicall End of the Proud Cardinal of Winchester; with the Notable Rebellion of Jack Cade; and the Duke of York's First Claim Unto the Crown."

Fight on Stearns' Job Seen Test of Powers

General Manager Claims Board Lacks Authority To Make Appointment—Petition Is Presented

The possibility that a test may develop over the respective powers of the Board of Directors and General Manager Richard Martin in making departmental appointments appeared strong after last night's Board meeting.

A dispute arose when some Directors pressed Martin to reconsider his decision for the job of head of the "Y" department. Mr. Martin, who is also director of the "Y" department, is also director of the "Y" department. He is also director of the "Y" department.

Philip Harrison of Hartford, Conn., was elected chairman of the Recreation Department. The Recreation Department is a part of the "Y" department.

William Malkinson of Manchester, N. H., was elected secretary of the Recreation Department. The Recreation Department is a part of the "Y" department.

Stearns' resignation last night was a surprise to many. He had been in the "Y" department for many years. He had been in the "Y" department for many years.

High School's Spring Music

Warm Praise Given to Program Directed by Pearson, Ross Shirer

By Harold E. Turbin

An enthusiastic audience received the annual Spring Concert by the Manchester High School choir and orchestra in the auditorium of the school last night.

Music Director G. Albert Pearson will present his musical aggregation in the same performance again tonight at 8 o'clock.

Assisting Pearson during the spring presentation as he did at the Christmas festival is S. Ross Shirer, a senior student of music at the University of Connecticut. Shirer graduated from Manchester High School in 1950. He is also student director at UConn.

The school orchestra was heard four times during the program. The program especially the youthful musicians rendered "Marta's" and "The Flower." The brass section of the orchestra, especially the trumpeters, were outstanding in the first and final compositions.

The concert was directed by the combined afternoon choirs, the choir and the entire group of more than 200 voices.

A diversified program was offered. The program included a variety of the middle number in each set, with the exception of the trio "Marta's" and "The Flower." The program included a variety of the middle number in each set, with the exception of the trio "Marta's" and "The Flower."

Michael and His Real Easter Bunny

Life in the country has been exciting for all members of the family of Gerry Tracy, Jr., since they recently moved from town to 940 E. Middle Turn. The family dog, for instance, took on the name of Michael. The dog's activity led the baby rabbit, Michael Tracy, Jr., to a building and feeding in the status of an orphan. The little wild rabbit was discovered, apparently, in the woods, and family strategy developed the proper method of feeding the orphan milk, upon which it now seems to be thriving. Michael and his family are wondering, however, how long the milk diet should continue, and how and when the eventual weaning should be accomplished. They would appreciate any advice from those with experience in rearing wild rabbits.

Surrenders Here On Bigamy Charge

Joseph G. Scata, a 35-year-old truck owner, surrendered himself to police this morning on a charge of bigamy. Scata was arrested at his home in East Hartford, and has been living in and around Manchester for the last four years, and has been employed as a truck driver for a Manchester trucking firm.

Scata was married twice without obtaining a divorce and has had four children by the two wives, three by a first and one by the second.

The first marriage is said to have occurred in 1937 to a Hartford woman, and the second, to a Manchester woman. The second marriage took place in Elkton, Md., after Scata left his first wife, Keith said.

Keith said Scata was admitted to the marriage license office before the maximum time when he was married in Maryland.

The prosecutor started action in the case late last week after receiving a complaint from wife number 1 who, according to Keith, had recently been contacted by the second Mrs. Scata.

Keith said the complaint was lodged after the two women had conferred on the matter last week. Scata's case was presented in Town Court this morning before Deputy Judge John J. O'Connor, and was continued for two weeks under $500 bond.

Board Moves Toward Settling School Issue

Schedule Two Meetings To Clear Atmosphere; Table Inviting Bids On High School Site

A move toward a compromise settlement of the Keeney Street School dispute got under way last night, but the atmosphere was tense as the Board of Directors scheduled two meetings on the school controversy.

The first meeting will take place today when the Board, General Manager Richard Martin, and Town Council Charles N. Crockett will meet in a closed session in the room of the Municipal Building when the School Building Committee will present its plan for action. The Directors will presumably work out some plan for action under way on the school.

The closed meeting was suggested by the Bowers bloc and backed by the Board members, and the opponents of the bloc, voted for the joint meeting.

In his brief opening remarks, Martin said the recent court decision denying a mandamus against him brought the situation back to some date in the controversy. He then suggested the joint meeting. His suggestion was picked up by Directors Theodore Fairbank who moved for the meeting Director Harold Trington seconded.

Urges Closed Meeting

At that point, Mrs. Helen Fitzpatrick urged a separate meeting with only the Board and the town council. Directors Walter Mahoney, Matthew Patton, and Everett J. Wetherill supported the idea. Kennedy said the meeting should be closed to the public and that City John R. Fitzgerald be invited to attend.

Atty. General Fitzgerald sought to enter the mandamus case as counsel for the Bowers bloc but was permitted to argue against the mandamus as amicus curiae.

The Directors who have opposed the Bowers bloc argued against the closed meeting and announced that they would call for a vote on the matter for a joint meeting and joined Directors Trington, Fitzpatrick, Jacob Miller, and Fairbank in voting for it.

Next Friday

He then said he would call the special closed meeting Friday.

The meeting of the First District will be held Sunday, April 23, at 2:45 p. m. in the Junior High School, Mill Street, Newington. At this time, department officers will be guests of the district.

Mrs. Joseph Wallitt and her committee served home made brownies, ice cream and coffee at tables prettily decorated in green and yellow.

Another school matter discussed briefly last night was tabled for further consideration at Thursday's meeting. The Board tabled the

Top Secret Mailmen Carry U. S. Messages

DIPLOMATIC pouch courier will carry in sealed at State Department in Washington. This one was destined for Paris.

By KENNETH O. HILMORH
SIA Staff Correspondent
Washington (NEA)—Frank Irwin, 52, walked into the United States Embassy in Cairo the other day and beside his name wrote the words, "Mission accomplished."

He is one of a group of 11 men moving top secret messages from the world who work for the U. S. Diplomatic Courier Service under the direction of Harris H. Hall, chief of the State Department's courier section. Their job is to personally deliver Uncle Sam's secret documents to foreign service posts in every corner of the earth.

In one year the average courier travels a distance equal to five circumferences around the world. Combined they cover roughly 10 million miles a year. Diplomatic pouches have to be continually carried to 250 U. S. posts in 112 countries.

Some of the outgoing missions are not easy to reach. For example, one trip between Peshawar and Kabul, Afghanistan, requires going over the Khyber Pass by jeep.

The courier service officially began in 1914 when the American Commission to negotiate the Peace

Textile Committee Gives Tariff View

Representatives of labor, management and the public have released the results of hearings held by the New England Textile Committee on the subject of tariff rates on textiles. Representatives of all segments of the New England textile industry presented their views on the subject, discussed and analyzed by the 21 member committee of leading New Englanders. Appointed by the Governor as a public service committee to assist New England's most important industry, the committee's report was released in January, 1954, with a study of the tariff issue which is of vital importance to the textile industry and will be considered by Congress this spring.

The Committee, headed by William Dwight of Holyoke, public representative from Manchester, recommends a two-fold textile tariff policy of no further reductions in tariff rates on any of the different classes of textiles, and raising of tariff rates on textile products where foreign imports are causing or threaten to cause unemployment in the industry.

"The New England textile industry is an industry of highly competitive small businesses and needs protection from low-wage foreign competition. Superior productivity in New England can not offset wage differentials of 200 to 1,400 per cent. Increased imports of foreign textile products are hindering the recovery of New England's textile industry. Menhaden, displaced textile workers are experiencing difficulty in finding new jobs. One out of every twelve New Englanders is directly connected with textiles and all of New England is indirectly affected by the welfare of this leading industry," states Chairman Dwight.

The committee also recommends that the tariff issue be referred to a public hearing in the fall of 1954.

Never in the history of the service has a document been stolen from a courier, a record the service intends to maintain.

PROPHET
Des Moines (AP)—An inquiring reporter interviewed six persons the other day on whether they would approve issuing striped automobile registration plates to drivers who repeatedly violate traffic laws.

Only one, a youth, was strongly opposed. A couple of days later he was sent to jail for allowing two companions to drive recklessly in his car on two different occasions.

embassy supply affairs. This contrasted with Menzies' previous announcement that he was the chief in Australia for the MVD, the Soviet secret police.

The government had surrounded Petrov with a strong cloud of police secrecy since his switch to the West and security agencies were questioning him constantly. Soviet Ambassador N. I. Gerasimov had charged previously that the Australian kidnaped him.

Two Commonwealth security officers also were questioning Petrov's wife today in Darwin, where she left a Europe-bound plane yesterday morning to join her husband in exile.

The Australian people won't be slow to appreciate that this allegation that Petrov is a criminal and a forger is a criminal act. It is the first story that he was fabricated by Australian authorities. Menzies' statement continued, "It becomes increasingly difficult to answer such mutually contradictory allegations. I can assure the public that Petrov and his wife left their own free will.

Shelton (AP)—The Soviet ambassador or any member of his staff does not give evidence before the royal commission on the authenticity of the documents, no objection will be raised and subject to exhaustive examination.

Government sources indicated Mrs. Petrov for the MVD, Australia may result in an extradition hearing.

Hearings probably will not get under way before the May 29 general election.

Frank C. Oemers, Jr., a Republican, won re-nomination.

Mrs. Petrov reportedly a cipher clerk in the embassy, was being held under tight security guard at the Darwin Government House. Reporters standing outside the gates said she spent long hours on the veranda of the two security officers and a Russian interpreter, smoking, talking, laughing and enjoying cool drinks.

It was not known, however, what embassy secrets she might have revealed to the Australians. Nor was it known when she would be returned to Sydney or Canberra, though an Australian Air Force Lincoln bomber stood ready on the Darwin strip for the flight.

The Soviet embassy note was in a reply to a communication from the Australian Foreign Ministry dated today and said she had been granted political asylum.

planned relief their American pilots returned immediately to the carrier.

In addition to this emergency aid, the United States has been sending a billion dollars worth of military and economic assistance to the French and Vietnamese in Indochina.

In Washington, officials commented that Air Force transport chief Jugs C-124 troop carriers, have been assigned from the European and North African areas to airlift French reinforcements to bases in Indochina outside the combat zone.

No information was available in either the current list or the forthcoming flight schedule for the C-124s.

However, normally about 80 to 100 troops could be carried in one transport on a flight, depending on the amount of cargo.

U. S. officials said the military represents no new policy. They said it is part of American foreign aid program for Indochina.

Both the U. S. Air Force crews and the French pilots have been instructed to travel in civilian clothes. This presumably is to meet requirements set up by neutral countries where they land for refueling enroute.

Upon arrival in the non-combat zone of Indochina, the French paratroopers will be flown to the besieged fortress area in French military aircraft or planes flown by Civil Air Transport, the private air line operated by Claire Chenault, retired major general of the Air Force.

The C-124s used in the airlift will return to their stations in Europe and elsewhere after delivering the French paratroopers.

The reinforcements to be flown from North Africa might include the famous 10th Airborne Division, which has been fighting in Morocco. A substantial number of these units are being sent to Indochina for a long time, either in small units or as individual replacements.

Allege Favors For Inspector

Manford, April 21 (AP)—The U. S. Government today accused a Manchester sweater company of "corrupting" a customs inspector.

The accusations were contained in an 11 count indictment returned by a grand jury. The first count was read to U. S. District Judge J. Floyd J. Matthews today.

It is charged that officers of the Roosevelt Mills Inc., 1100 Park Street, delivered under contract between Sept. 1, 1950 and Feb. 1, 1951, hundreds of defective G.I. sweaters to the Army.

Defendants in the case are Samuel J. Rosenzweig, 27 Foxcroft Rd., West Hartford, president; Leo B. Rosenzweig of New York City, secretary; and Joseph J. Carter, 165 Park Street, mill superintendent; and George Arches of Boston, the quarter master inspector.

In reading the indictment, Matthews charged that the company officers would "make various gifts of articles of personal property to George Archer, invite Archer to go on trips and be entertained at the expense of the company, permit and arrange collection of fraudulent sales of wool scrap which was a by-product of the manufacture of the sweaters, and assist him selling the scrap and so enable him to make a substantial gross profit."

It was further charged that the company allowed Archer to purchase large quantities of sweaters at wholesale cost for resale at a profit to himself.

Peterson Attends Oxford Under Fulbright Program

Oxford, England—William Peterson, who graduated from Manchester High School in 1944, is now in his second year at Oxford University, England, as a Fulbright student.

Peterson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Peterson, approved the Fulbright Commission in London, understanding and delighted. They make every effort to be helpful," he says "without interference."

He has attended receptions given to Fulbright students by two American Ambassadors, Clark Clifford and Winthrop Aldrich, oration lectures arranged by the Fulbright Commission, other lectures arranged by them and a discussion in England, his most enjoyable vacations have been a visit to the Welsh Island of Anglesey, and a month in Cornwall, where he and some friends rented a cottage in a village half way between the Lizard and Land's End.

London Fascinating
"We got our milk across the street and eggs from our next door neighbor," he says. "I also enjoyed the feeling of being isolated and removed from metropolitan problems. In the remote areas of England, what you notice most is the quiet, steady continuity of life."

Peterson says: "It is very exciting to be able to study in Europe and learn to appreciate other standards and values. This is particularly important now that our foreign policy is vital to the rest of the world."

Of the Fulbright Program itself, Peterson says: "It is very exciting to be able to study in Europe and learn to appreciate other standards and values. This is particularly important now that our foreign policy is vital to the rest of the world."

An old gray hair near her is painted red on one half of the front; on the other half, flashing letters announce to passers-by, 'I GOT TROTTED.'

Fans Boo Terwilliger For Spoiling No-Hitter

Washington, April 21 (AP)—Some 5,700 Washington fans felt worse than Alex Kellner did last night when an eighth inning single robbed him of a coveted no hit, no run baseball victory.

The Washingtonians had come out to root the home town Senators to a second straight win over the Philadelphia Athletics, but they switched allegiance temporarily and pulled for Kellner to pitch his way to the first no-hitter of his career.

Kellner, a 29-year-old tobacco-chewing southpaw, was rocking along behind a 7-0 lead when Wayne Terwilliger, the Senators' second baseman, stepped up to the plate with two down in the eighth and ranned a single into center field.

But Manager Eddie Jooss of the Athletics told him to go in and pitch anyway, saying something, "I don't know what you're thinking, but I'd like to see you pitch a two or three-hitter."

Kellner, who has had an up and down career in his four seasons with the Athletics, disclosed he was doubtful before the game that he would be able to go all the way.

"I couldn't get loose when I warmed up," he said. "I was afraid I was going to get slipped around."

Kellner Pitches One-Hitter; Cards Involved in Fireworks

It was becoming a vexatious question today after the second straight one-hitter, in the Junior circuit while the National League was going its slug-happy way with another 26-10 record.

Under the circumstances, I believe that the shot I made at the 10th hole at Oakland Hills in 1951 was my best.

I've hit a lot more just as good, but this was a most important shot.

It was the last round of the United States Open Championship and I was two strokes back of Jimmy Dearet and Bobby Locke.

After I had gone out in one under par, I came to the 10th, a real tough, 448-yard par four. I reasoned that if I could get by the hole in one, I could stay under for the round, I would have a great chance. I did not believe that Dearet or Locke would shoot par or over on this final round.

I took a two iron and cut the ball.

"It feathered," he held about five feet from the hole. The shot was about 215 yards. I continued for 67 and the victory.

This was outstanding, thought because I figured this as the key hole to the tournament. Some times you don't know in that position. As it developed, I was right.

So I shall always remember that shot.

(Ben Hogan will play against America's golfers in the PGA and Magnate, Next: Walter Burkes.)
