

GOP Senator for Reversal Of Carr, Hensel Dismissal

Washington, May 28 (AP)—Sen. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) joined Democrats today in demands that the Senate investigations subcommittee reverse the dismissal of Francis P. Carr and H. Struve McCarthy as principals in the McCarthy-Hensel case.

The dismissal was voted 4-3 by Republican members of the subcommittee, and Smith proposed in an interview that the Republican Policy Committee of the Senate review the decision which Democrats have threatened to carry to the Senate floor.

"I think the committee made a critically serious mistake," Smith said. "Both men should be put on the witness stand."

Ray M. Cohn was recalled to the stand for the start of the 23rd day of the televised hearings to complete his direct testimony and probably face cross-examination.

Contradict Testimony

Cohn told the committee yesterday that Army counsel John G. Adams had testified that he had seen Carr and Hensel together in the rooming house of Carr's sister, Mrs. Hensel, in the Air Force in the subcommittee would address the hunt for Communists at Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

He said Carr, chief of the subcommittee staff, was on hand when Cohn testified Secretary Stevens said he would "have to resign" if the inquiry were continued.

Stevens and Adams have accused McCarthy, Cohn and Carr of starting inquiry pressure to get Army treatment for Pvt. G. David Schine, a former unpaid subcommittee consultant. Over Army objections, the subcommittee Wednesday dropped Carr as a principal.

Dirkens Disgraced

Hensel, assistant Secretary of Defense, was named along with Stevens and Adams by McCarthy's camp as having sought to discredit the subcommittee. Stevens and Adams were accused of having tried to get Schine as a "hostage" to help McCarthy's investigation of the Army. Neither Hensel nor McCarthy objected to the dismissal of Hensel as a principal.

Smith's proposal for a GOP policy committee review of the Carr-Hensel decision brought sharp disagreement from Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.), a subcommittee member.

"We are not subject to monitoring by the policy committee," Dirksen said. "We are in a position to know more about this situation than they are."

Cohn also named Carr as having heard McCarthy tell Adams at a New York luncheon that the Senate would not be silent if Stevens

Polio Strikes Child In Salk 'Shot' Test

Identifying vaccine shots and the other material are broken down for study of results of the evening test.

These developments were disclosed yesterday by Dr. Hart E. Van Riper, medical director of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Dr. Van Riper again expressed confidence in the safety of the polio vaccine, developed by Dr. Jonas E. Salk.

He said one question already had been answered by the test.

"That is that the vaccine properly made is safe, and is not the killer referred to by some reporters."

FIND MURDER-SUICIDE

Hartford, May 28 (AP)—Cornelius W. Schaefer says that the deaths of a West Hartford man and woman in a third floor bedroom of the man's Farmington Ave. home last April 21 were murder and suicide.

Schaefer in an official finding yesterday said that John A. 174-year-old, first apprehended by George W. Quinn, 36, with chloroform, and then took his own life with the same anesthetic.

The partially clad bodies of the pair were found side by side on a bed, a towel saturated with chloroform was over Mrs. Quinn's face, while if a red towel wrapped head was encased in a plastic bag.

The coroner said that autopsy had fixed the cause of both deaths as chloroform poisoning.

Ike Assails Statements By Senator

may seek to set himself above the laws of our land or to override orders of the President of the United States to federal agencies of the executive branch of the government.

Questioned further on the latter quotation, Hagerty said it had reference to a book which he had written and which he had not authorized to receive it and presidential directives on security matters.

During the Army-McCarthy hearings yesterday, Sen. McClellan (D-Ill.) suggested McCarthy and an Army officer who McCarthy says gave him secret information may be "guilty of a crime."

McCarthy's reply was that if anyone wanted to indict him for "knowing Communists," that was all right with him.

He said he hopes the day will come when the administration will call on all federal employees to make a statement as to whether they are members of subversive activity or of any wrongdoing connected with their knowledge.

To Keep Names Secret
McCarthy said he would continue to keep secret the names of any government workers who give him information. He has said that government employees give him information, day and night, and that great volume to help him in his investigations for subversive activity.

McCarthy said yesterday: "I want to compliment the individuals who have placed their faith in me to defend their country against enemies, and especially Communists are enemies, above and beyond what they are as individuals."

And none of them will be brought before any grand jury because of any information that I give to any administrative agency to indict me for receiving and giving the American people information about Communists. They can just go right ahead and do the indicting."

McCarthy's expressed stand prompted Sen. McClellan to remark: "If this principle is adopted in America, it will destroy it. You can have no security system totally and irrevocably open to have information given it out indiscriminately."

Last May 12, President Eisenhower got directly into the subject of federal employees who have information given it out indiscriminately.

He told a news conference that it is reprehensible for an individual officer or civilian to give away secret information involving national security. He stated such action as insubordination and that not for one moment would he think of condoning it.

The President's May 12 remarks were in reply to a questioner who asked McCarthy if he had testified before an Army officer gave him classified FBI security information. Brownell said that the information should not be made public in the interest of national security.

McCarthy, in his comment to day, said "there seems to be a great deal of confusion on the part of some of our friends in the executive department."

Needs Facts To Do Job
"Because of the duties they perform, they seem to think they are entitled to secrecy," he said. "If we are to do the job assigned to us under the congressional reorganization act, we must be able to get information freely from the executive department."

McCarthy said that in no case had anything made public by his committee "not in violation of the national security and that will continue to be my policy."

The Senator said he recognizes that he has a heavy duty to the Republican party and that he is "After yesterday's happenings at the hearings it is clear that the Republican party in the hope of the nation," he said. "When Sen. McClellan and other Democrats say they regard it as a crime for anybody to give information about treason, that is an approach to treason. It is clear that the Democrats have learned nothing in the last 20 years."

Escape Seen As Beautiful

Let the kids have their comic fiction, westerns and adventure stories; I escape stark reality through the fashion magazines.

The gent at the desk next to mine undoubtedly has a fine time vicariously sitting a spaceship to Mars, saving the ranch for the murdered cattlemen's daughter and avenging all over the Spanish Main, but I find my kicks sometimes in full color, dreamy fantasies of the ladies who model the high style clothes.

In these halcyon moments I'm about 20 years old, and I'm currently a tawny blonde with eye-catching features, cropped hair, heavily made up around the eyes, enormous earrings, and gloves.

Assuming the most bizarre and non-displacing stances to show off my size 10 figure and chic clothes.

Flipping through the pages, I lead the most glamorous existence. Sometimes in the most exciting little dressmaker suit and water-under-water Panama, I feel the pigeons in the park paying homage to a distinguished young man in a white shirt and a skirt spread like a calla lily and rounded omicron necktie.

Two Fires in Homes Cause Loss Estimated at $1,100

Coventry, May 28 (Special)—Friday night, the firemen were busy with two small home fires, one causing an estimated $400 in damages and the other resulting in an estimated $700 in losses, broke out here within a 12-hour period yesterday and early this morning.

The first fire, which broke out in the home of Eugene C. Glover of 26 Meadow Dr. at 3 p. m. yesterday, was caused by a defective fuse. South Coventry Volunteer Fire Dept. Chief Delmar W. Potter, who made the estimate of damages and cause of the blaze, said Mrs. Glover told him she had been burning wood in the kitchen range but had let the fire go about five hours earlier.

The fire fighters, including a unit from the Bagville Fire Dept. which answered the call under the direction of Chief Potter, worked for about 15 minutes before the blaze under control within 15 minutes after their arrival.

An unidentified neighborhood fire, discovered by the fire fighters in the park, broke out in the alarm. It was not revealed whether the house was insured.

About eight hours after the firemen had extinguished the Meadow St. fire, they were called out again, this time to a house trailer owned by Richard Falson at 100 West of the Milkbar, Chief Potter said this fire, which caused $200 damage to a refrigerator and $200 damage to other articles of personal property, originated in a defective wiring in the refrigerator.

Potter said that the fire fighters were badly handicapped because insurance in the trailer prevented them from locating the source of the blaze.

Falson told Potter he was awakened by the smell of smoke and rushed to the trailer to find it had built up on the trailer and turned in the alarm. The building was not insured.

A. I. C. Anthony J. Prolix received a letter of appreciation from the commanding officer, Lt. Col. George P. Gaffney, for his part in the rescue of a helicopter which was forced down by high winds at Inwon-mi, Korea.

The fuel supply in the helicopter had been depleted by the unusually strong headwinds.

According to the Colonel's citation, the progress in which Prolix, his pilot and co-pilot delivered the fuel to the stranded helicopter to accomplish their mission with the minimum of delay.

Gaffney continued in his letter by saying "although the service performed is not exactly in line with our assigned mission, your actions in this matter were just and reflected very favorably on the Air Rescue Group."

Gen. Hayden was one of a party of four conducting an inspection trip in the helicopter after Prolix's mission.

The letter of appreciation from Col. Gaffney was sent to Mrs. Prolix here.

Carrier's Death Toll Now at 97

Clara Capistrano, 267 1/2 Riverside Ave., Burlington, Vt., with death occurred early today when Raymond C. Demers, radio-enthusiast, died at Naval Hospital. He was the husband of Mrs. Donna Demers, 242 Danden St., Norfolk, Va.

The 90th to die was Jesse H. Flannery, electrician, second among class also succumbed at the hospital. His wife is Arnette Flannery, 527 Washington Ave., Chillicothe, Ohio.

The Chief of Naval Operations promised in visits to the injured at two hospitals that "those fellows needing anything, we'll get the funds if we have to steal them."

Adm. Cressy stated what he called "my youngsters," the young sailors who took hold of the ship's plish heroic rescue work, despite the fact that they were not officers, warrant officers and senior enlisted personnel were killed in the blast.

Cressy also said:

1. He had no idea where the explosions started except that it was in the vicinity of the warroom on the third deck.
2. No special orders have been issued to other Navy carriers because of the Bennington tragedy.
3. Any carrier that is not certified to carry a full complement of officers, warrant officers and senior enlisted personnel will be sent to the shipyard.
4. Damage to the big carrier will run into many hundreds of thousands of dollars.
5. The Bennington had been due to undergo a fitting with a catwalk deck—the new-type aircraft carrier deck which permits easier handling of planes by allowing planes to take off without interfering with craft parked on the deck.
6. Damage to the big carrier will run into many hundreds of thousands of dollars.

It was reported without confirmation that high Navy officials are considering a re-study of the catapult launch apparatus aboard all carriers. It was a fuel oil leak the catapult launch equipment of the ill-fated carrier Lacy that caused the blast which took 37 lives in Boston last October.

Cressy said with reference to the Bennington's catapult apparatus:

"I have been told that at the time of the blast jet planes had just been launched by the Bennington and the propeller-driven aircraft were being prepared to take off."

The court inquiry, headed by Rear Adm. John S. Hookins, commander of Fleet Air at Quonset Point, is a fact-finding board. It will inspect the disaster, call witnesses and gather information about the disaster. It makes a formal report to the Navy Dept. in Washington, but does not fix punishments.

A month before elections are held, but that some U.S. troops must remain until after the election has been certified by the United Nations.

Smith told the conference the United Nations "is the only instrument left to us for ridding the world of the scourge of war."

"It will be a tragedy for all the people of the world if, as has been threatened here, the United Nations is discredited and disbanded."

Smith said May 11, 1954, would stand out in history as the day the Soviet Union, through Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, "denounced the United Nations and characterized it as a beligerent institution, unworthy of confidence."

On another hot conference issue, a group of experts met for two hours in an attempt to disentangle the conflicting proposals for an Indo-China cease fire, but were give any indication that the cabinet had discussed changing the 1950 law.

The question of using citizens rather than draftees has been pushed into the background. It is political dynamic. It may have to be brought up for discussion, however, if the United States takes a sagger hand by Indochina.

While both the United States and Britain send draftees to Korea, France does not send them into foreign fighting. It is for-Indochina problem at all, but both made the concession period.

Until the defeat at Dien Bien Phu, the problem was not considered too critical. Enough volunteers could be recruited, at special rates of pay, to supply the forces France considered necessary. In fact, the number of volunteers was changed and manpower is needed. War-weary, demoralized French men want peace most of all. If they can't get a negotiated peace, they must find a way to lay down their arms honorably in Indochina.

It is not certain his view would prevail, but he is not alone in feeling France cannot continue alone.

Reds Pound Fort

At Hanoi, Indochina, Vietminh mole squads burrowed closer to the battered Red River delta post of Dien Bien Phu yesterday, according to a report from the French Union garrison.

Following the same tactics that won them Dien Bien Phu, the Vietminh are expected to strike with overwhelming thousands when the rebel command believes the post is sufficiently "softened up." Some 12 Vietminh battalions already have raked Dien Phu for two months, but the Vietminh have troubles too. French war planes as chairman of the full committee.

The peppy Michigan Congressman said that the Republican leadership "cut me down" in his own special probe of alleged racketeering because "we got too close to some high people who thought we were stepping on their toes."

Bender yesterday attributed the firing of Rice and Toll to Rice's "taking exception to certain reporting on the part of a Democrat member." He said Rice and Rep. Molihan (D-W. Va.) had an altercation at Minneapolis several weeks ago, and that subcommittee Democrats voted against holding hearings at Minneapolis and "refused to participate in the hearing at Pittsburgh."

The Ohioan, who is running for the Senate this year, said he would take up the matter with Speaker Martin (Mass.) and House GOP leader Halleck (Ind.) next week.

To their future...your gift of a U.S. Savings Bond

What a wonderful start for their life together! A wedding gift that becomes more valuable, more appreciated with time. Because that Bond is more than an ordinary gift... it is a symbol of their future hopes and plans. And a reminder of your thoughtfulness for years to come.

For the happy young couple just married, for the June graduate, for any really important person or occasion in your life, give the present with a future—a U.S. Savings Bond. No easy to give... no sizes, colors or patterns to worry about. So nice to receive... because it increases in value with the years, as much as 80% more than the original price.

Why Not Give Yourself a Present, too?

Start today on a systematic, sure way of saving for the things you want most! It's easy—with the Payroll Savings Plan. Here's how it works:

Go to your company's pay office, choose the amount you want to save—a couple of dollars a pay day, or as much as you wish. That money will be set aside for you before you even draw your pay. And automatically invested in U.S. Series E Savings Bonds which are turned over to you.

If you can save only $3.75 a week on the Plan, in 9 years and 8 months you will have $2,137.30. If you can save as much as $18.75 a week, 9 years and 8 months will bring you $10,700!

U.S. Savings Bonds earn interest at an average of 3% per year, compounded semi-annually, when held to maturity! And they can go on earning interest for as long as 19 years and 8 months if you wish, giving you back 80% more than you put in!

Eight million working men and women are building their security with the Payroll Savings Plan. For your sake, and your family's, too, how about signing up today? If you are self-employed, ask your banker about the Bond-A-Month Plan.

FRENCH LOCKUP PAPER
Paris, May 28 (AP)—Authorities confiscated all copies of the independent weekly L'Express today and sealed its editorial offices. A police source said the action followed a defense ministry complaint that L'Express' current issue contained an article revealing decisions on Indochina taken at a secret cabinet meeting.

An anti-slipping routine and housework can be combined easily. When using a dust mop or carpet sweeper, tip-toe. Do this for only a few minutes the first day and gradually work up to tiptoeing through the entire mopping process.

How Bob Montgomery Produced A New TV Look for Eisenhower

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

NEA Staff Correspondent
Washington—Movie actor Robert Montgomery sat slumped in a chair in the rear of a White House conference room, thinner, grayer hair and slightly more weight were the only apparent changes in the man who reached film fame in the '30s as a jaunty, sophisticated young man.

He watched intently as President Eisenhower warmed up on his talk to a group of businessmen. Suddenly the actor and continued talking in front of his desk with increased earnestness and force.

Notes Effectiveness
Montgomery noticed that the listeners edged up on their chairs and became even more absorbed in Ike's words.

That same afternoon Montgomery had a conference with White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty. He pointed out that the spoke most effectively while on his feet. Further, the movie actor explained, TV camera angles and lighting could be used to maximum advantage with the President.

Hagerty, Montgomery and Murray Snyder, assistant White House press officer, kicked the idea around and then asked the President what he thought about making his next TV address an address in his own words.

The President is an extremely forceful, convincing and sincere man," he said. "No tricks or gimmicks could possibly improve this. The most that anyone could do to help the physical appearance of a TV production is to interfere with the best production of his personality."

Stresses Naturalness
Eisenhower's naturalness has done for Ike's TV performances has been simply in the direction of permitting Ike to be as much like his natural self as possible.

When Hagerty handled press relations for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's campaign in 1948 he got to know Montgomery through numerous personal appearances the actor made in behalf of the GOP cause.

Around the first of this year Hagerty asked Montgomery to lead a hand on White House TV problems, feeling that they weren't getting quite the professional touch needed. Montgomery obliged quickly and willingly. He refused any pay.

In a few weeks Montgomery had established just the right blend for Ike's lectures. He had the electric blue lower lip lights to minimize the glare from Ike's bald head and emphasize the fine furrows of his face.

Montgomery insists on staying down his own neck in helping to improve Ike's TV appearances. "The President is an extremely forceful, convincing and sincere man," he says. "No tricks or gimmicks could possibly improve this. The most that anyone could do to help the physical appearance of a TV production is to interfere with the best production of his personality."

Varying degrees of make-up had been used on Ike for the TV camera before Montgomery arrived. Now practically none is used and Ike looks better than ever, critics agree. He likes it better, too.

Not the least factor in the President's appearance is the fact that he is a member of the National Association of Broadcasters.

President's great improvement as a TV performer, Montgomery points out, is the greater ease and confidence before the camera. The obviously now enjoys making TV talk, about as well as former President Roosevelt relished his "fireside chats."

"Tonic Talk" is the title the White House staff hung on Ike's address. Montgomery uses all the tricks of a really professional TV producer in his handling of the mechanical side of the White House productions. His calm, assured air has helped eliminate the tension which used to be generated in the White House TV room just prior to the President's appearance.

He'll adjust a light at the last minute, direct a final word of instruction to the cameraman and remind Ike of the timing of the speech just before he goes on the air.

Standing behind the camera during the talk he'll give the President a brief signal every once in a while to make change of gesture or to watch the clock.

Montgomery's TV know-how has put him in great demand by the cabinet members. He helps much as his two or three days per week in Washington permit. They rush to New York to handle his own show or attend a meeting of one of several boards of directors of which he's a member.
