Medicine Near Victory Over Rheumatic Fever

As to exactly what happens, medicine has found the method of prevention. It is to treat any streptococcal infection promptly with penicillin. And to give one of the wonder drugs continuously in the past, victims of rheumatic fever, to prevent future attacks.

The American Heart Assn. has launched a campaign for prevention of this uncommonly crippling daily habit of penicillin or sulfa drugs, or once a month shots of long-acting form of penicillin, now made it possible practically to eradicate rheumatic fever.

One of the best treatments is to cultivate serenity, or imperturbability. (Tomorrow: New techniques in heart surgery.)

Stevenson to Meet Rayburn Johnson

Stevenson's paid lecture on "America's Economic Outlook" is scheduled for 8 p.m. (CST) at the University of Texas, Gregory Gymnasium.

Stevenson will be the overnight guest of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.), the Senate majority leader, for what Johnson called a purely social occasion. The Senator's aide stated there is no political significance in the visit, which was arranged last August when Stevenson was in Houston.

Both Stevenson and Rayburn will be dinner guests of James P. Hart, former Chancellor of the University of Texas and former associate justice, in the State Supreme Court. Hart has frequently been mentioned as a Texas gubernatorial possibility.

Whether or not Stevenson, Rayburn and Johnson will get together simultaneously during Stevenson's visit here was not known.

Stevenson will have no opportunity to meet his political foe, Gov. Allan Shivers, who resented him in favor of Eisenhower in 1952. Shivers will be in Houston for an oil well driller's convention.

Soviet Silent on Plea To Limit Egypt Arms

Blurred by Palestine details of 1948, Iraq's acceptance of American arms last year was bitterly criticized in the Arab world. It is certainly doubtful that Egypt's dealing with Communist states means Prime Minister Gamal Abdel Nasser prefers the Soviet bloc, or that he is leaning leftward. Heavy pressure from his own Army officers probably prompted him to look for weapons from any available source.

Another excellent spread made by creaming equal parts of Roquefort cheese and cream cheese together and adding minced anchovies and Worcester sauce.

Canada Ports Scramble For Traffic on Seaway

Montreal, Sept. 28 (AP)—Canada's shipping business that will be the backbone of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

On a tour of the area that will be opened up to large ocean freighters by 1958, a reporter came up with various regional views.

Further inland at Hamilton, there looks for stimulus from the seaway. Hamilton expects to be as active as the forward cast of the "Golden Horseshoe" around the lake shore from about Ontario, Ont., to the power-producing city of Niagara Falls, Ont.

These Volunteers Enforce Laws: Free of Charge in Coventry

By ROBERT SHAW

Coventry (Special) Headquarters is a brick building, much like an old French guardhouse, situated a few feet back from the sidewalk in the center of South Coventry village. A few legal notices hang from a bulletin board nailed on its front. Inside, on a shelf over a battered desk with an ancient typewriter, rests a new 2-way radio. "The other Howard Craft sits in a swivel chair in front of it, waiting. The cruiser is out somewhere in Coventry's 35 square mile area.

Chief Seward Hillman sits at the table which serves as the judge's desk at sessions of the Justice Court. The Court is looking for new equipment. The station-house is no longer big enough to hold its docket. In his hands Hillman holds a tabulated record of the man-hours worked by Safety Patrol constables from June 1 to Sept. 13. With this record he makes the State Motor Vehicle Department's record of $45,038, including Sunday traffic duty. His own total: 433.75. He leans back and in slow talking, reminiscent fashion recalls the progress of the Safety Patrol since its inauguration last year. Standing by, Constable Len Hillman, and John Pils chime in from time to time. The story assumes proportion. "Everything voluntary," Hillman says, correcting a general assumption. "Everything is on a voluntary basis."

"We're paid for the mileage on our cars," Hillman adds. "That's all." The constables provide figures. Their organization is the only one that returns money to the town. They point out. "Twelve of the fines collected on the 63 arrests made since June 1 are put back into the Town General Fund to offset income; the other one-third is turned over to the Motor Vehicle Department. The Patrol received $1,355 from the town last year. $1,975 of which was for the purchase and equipping of the new cruiser. All of that was for the initial expenses which included: uniforms, removal of the old station-house, chairs, desks, and the 2-way radio which alone cost $800. The constable bought their own guns, handcuffs, personal equipment, paid for equipping their private cars, which are used to assist the cruiser in its long patrols, with red lights, blinker lights, or sirens. By common agreement they put $1,000 received for mileage on private cars back into the cruiser. In regard to maintenance, Constable Croft says, "You could put down 300 hours on the flood weekend alone." Communicated with State Police, the Patrol kept up-to-the-minute bulletins on open and closed roads, had men at all main roads, directed vehicles bearing emergency supplies to Putnam and other flooded areas, and kept sight-seers out of town.

Wives of the constables kept kitchens operating in their homes and at the Community Center, and hot meals were available around-the-clock at the station-house to volunteer workers and the homeless. The constables, accompanied by Justice Leroy Roberts and Harry Olsen, proceeded to the Justice Court, brought food to stricken areas in the cruiser. The only casualty that weekend was Croft's wife, who suffered minor burns when the water of a pressure cooker blew off at one of the emergency kitchens. Hillman refers to the Patrol as a compromise between a constabulary of independent volunteers and a regular police department. In March of '54 the constables agreed on the impossibility of doing work in their status at that time, got together and formed the present, well-organized Patrol. The station-house, formerly a probate court and post office was obtained and renovated, uniforms were purchased, then the cruiser, and just recently the 2-way radio. Constables number 35, auxiliaries two, and policeman one, Mrs. Lila Leary. A policeman may seem non-essential to some, but Mrs. Leary has 20 1/2 man-hours to her credit from cases in which the men couldn't participate. At present the Safety Patrol is more a police department than a constabulary. Duty-suits at the station-house run from early evening to early morning. During the day when the men are at their regular jobs calls are picked up at the First Sergeant's office. Response is just as fast for these day-time calls because three Sectionmen, Goodwin Jacobson, Rich-official information center in emergencies and before important meetings. Also, the men have been called to hunt down lost pets, a routine duty for all police departments. Once they were called to round up a herd of cows that had strayed onto Rt. 44. The cruiser serves as hospital escort whenever the town ambulance is unavailable. The constables recall rushing a Coventry man with a badly cut leg to the Windham Community Hospital, and two other times bringing in a man suffering from severe asthma attacks. These services, and others, have generated a healthy public acceptance of the Safety Patrol in Coventry, but a small contingent remains which is critical of the Patrol on the grounds of its real necessity, and its cost. This group feels that the Patrol is aiming at the eventual establishment of itself as an official police department and fears the cost of this to the town. The Patrol lets old facts (63 arrests since June) answer for its necessity, and to the second argument Chief Hillman replies, "All expenditures in the past have been for equipment alone. That includes many expenses which will not recur." Coventry does not anticipate a paid police force," he adds. "The town can't afford it, and we (the constables) are willing to continue our services on the same basis as in the past, voluntarily."

The people of Coventry are more fortunate than they realize, the constables assert, in receiving all the benefits of a regular police force from the unique Safety Patrol.

With other police groups, they have been instrumental in bringing about the adoption by the University of Connecticut of an identification road system for its students and faculty. The constables are restaurant owners from selling to minors. Officials and constables from other towns have studied the Patrol with an eye to the possibilities in their own towns.

"As far as the Hillman says, we've run the gamut from branch of the peace to narcotics. Although 90 per cent of arrests made are for motor vehicle violations, the men remember the hoodlugging case in which a gentleman from Hartford was bottling his own liquor and selling it to minors at the roller-skating rink. That case, like many others, ran into the hands of many towns.

No police department subsists merely on the apprehension of wrong doers. Serious offenses for the community are many and somewhat constant in their nature. With the Safety Patrol community services, in the scale at the time, Community Service.

The men direct Sunday church traffic, serve at special town functions, such as elections and town meetings; check stores, schools and other town buildings nightly through check system has been established through which the homes of families on vacation. The station house serves as an un-essential to some, but Mrs. Leary has 20 1/2 man-hours to her credit from cases in which the men couldn't participate.

Use of Cement On State Pike Seen Required

Hartford, Sept. 28 (AP)—A Connecticut turnpike bond holder yesterday challenged the State Highway Department's authority to choose between cement concrete and less expensive bituminous surfacing. The question was raised by Frederick W. Beach of Bristol, who holds some of the first series bonds, yesterday after the Highway Department received bids on both types of paving for a 1.5-mile stretch of the turnpike. In the bid invitation, the Highway Commissioner reserved the right to decide whether to award the contract to the low bidder for the cement concrete plan or the all-terrace bituminous proposal. In questioning the right of the Highway Department to make any switch in the type of surfacing, Beach said the prospectus under which his client bought the bonds "specifically said the road would be built with cement concrete." "If there is to be any change in the specifications for paving," Beach added, "we want to make sure that Ammann and Whitney, New York consulting engineers for the project, are satisfied that bituminous would be of equal strength and life as cement concrete."

The Bristol attorney further protested that the bond holders "have never received any official word of this contemplated change-over." Otisvian forwarded the protest letter to the highway commissioner Newman E. Argyrakis with the suggestion that he consult counsel for the issue since the point raised by Beach was valid. Although the bond declaration did use the term cement concrete, Commissioner Argyrakis said, "the design can be modified if the consulting engineers certify that it will be adequate." He said that he had such certifi-

The Doctor Says

Milk Cut Carry Over: Is Sure It's Pasteurized

By EDWIN F. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

Milk is one of the most valuable and widely used foods available to man. It provides energy and contains some minerals and is rich in carbohydrates, fats, proteins and certain vitamins.

But milk can also carry disease germs. Many germs can grow in it rapidly. The germs can get into milk directly from an infected cow or may drop in anywhere along its path between the cow and the consumer. Milk has caused dangerous illnesses in many people. The germs themselves are called pasteurization—some which it received from the milk producer in bacteriology, Louis Pasteur.

For a long time the idea of pasteurizing milk was objected to because people thought that it destroyed some of the nutritive value. These ideas are wrong. The lactin is almost entirely destroyed by pasteurization. It has been shown conclusively that the nutritive value of a nutritional quality of milk is destroyed by pasteurization. The nutritive value of this excellent food.

Pasteurizing germs by heating is no excuse for supplying consumers with inferior milk. The more healthy the cows, the cleaner the collecting and distribution methods, the less the bottling, the fewer the germs which have to be destroyed by pasteurization. Great steps forward have been made in getting cleaner milk. Modern dairy herds are healthier and milking, collecting and transportation methods are much better than they used to be.

Certified milk is that which has been obtained from specially selected dairy herds and collected and distributed under conditions of rigid care. Some certified milk is also pasteurized, and the fact that milk is pasteurized does not mean that it was not also obtained from inspected cows and has been carefully handled.

Anyone who realizes the protective value of pasteurization of milk should feel that a great step forward has been taken. Drinking unpasteurized milk would expose these people to the unnecessary danger of catching disease germs.

For those who cannot purchase pasteurized milk, electrically operated home pasteurizers are on the market.

Plasterer Spends Busman's Holiday

Jacksonville, Fla. (AP)—Paul Brown of Neptune Beach takes a busman's holiday every day. He's a plasterer by trade — and his hobby is working with plaster. He spends much of after work hours casting African masks — putting plaster on what he calls "cans" made of wood.

Brown tries to catch in the characteristic head types of different tribes what he thinks may be a spiritual theme such as might be caught in music or painting. He mounts them on expanded metal — a wire mesh — and frames them in shadow boxes.

WOODRUFF, S.C. (AP)—To keep intact Mr. E. L. A. Thompson's 28-year record of perfect attendance at the First Presbyterian Church Sunday School here, her class made a 17-mile trip to meet in her home town at Spartanburg. Mrs. Thompson broke an arm the previous day while sweeping her front walk.

When I wear Selvis Old Impressing Other Women

If women don't have to impress other women how simple their lives would be.

When a husband calls and says he's bringing a man home for dinner, his wife doesn't go into a tailspin. She makes sure she has a good dinner, and that takes care of the matter.

But if he says he is bringing home a man and his wife it is a different story. The house has to be spotless, the dinner not only good but served just so, the silver

West Bars Recognition Of East German Regime

German regime was the existence of a state in the Soviet zone.
"Finally, as regards a statement which has recently appeared in the Soviet press on the frontiers of Germany, the three foreign ministers reaffirm the repeatedly expressed position of their government that the final determination of the frontiers of Germany must await a peace settlement for the whole of Germany."
Today's conference was another step in the task of mapping out a strategy for the forthcoming Big Four parley.
The problem: Get Russia to agree at Geneva on German unification and a continuing membership in NATO in exchange for a security pact to curb Soviet fears of future Germany and get a start on inspection, control and disarmament program still being debated in the U.N. disarmament subcommittee which resumes sessions this afternoon.
Complete Harmony
Dulles, Macmillan and Pincus held two three-hour sessions yesterday, but it was not until the drafting in Washington last week by lower level officials and the committee and West Germany.
"They came out of the meetings talking 'complete harmony,'" very satisfactory.
Von Brentano also said before the four-lake breakfast that the two sessions would establish complete harmony.
Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov was reported to have agreed last night with Dulles, Macmillan and Pincus on the subject of German unification and European integration.
A four-man conference of an hour and 20 minutes, which was said to have moved along briskly, followed the breakfast. It was reported that the State Department spokesman gave these details of the discussion.
The Big Four foreign ministers agreed that the Geneva meeting probably will last three weeks and that, if it is limited to that time, they might turn over to a group of experts from each of their countries the over-all problem of setting East-West tensions.
The idea was that the experts would meet on East-West issues in the Geneva area, while the ministers discussed the other two items on the agenda—German unification and European integration.
Roda May Make Problem
Molotov raised the question of whether any problem not contained in the directive from the heads of state who attended the summit meeting could be brought up at the forthcoming ministers' conference. Molotov, without giving any clue as to what he had in mind, indicated that the Soviet Union might raise such a question and the agenda matters had been discussed.
The four ministers agreed that the secretary-general and the secretary for the Geneva conference will be provided by the Soviet government.
The Germans will sit outside at Geneva, but will be available for consultation at any time. They were not at last night's dinner. Molotov rose and offered a toast to the health of President Eisenhower at the dinner, which lasted from 8 to 10 p.m.
Dulles planned to go back to Washington tonight, and play host to the capital honororee. The Big Four plus the Germans were also guests at a French delegation luncheon here today.
Pincus speaks Thursday and Macmillan Friday in the U.N. debate and some of the closed session discussions may be mirrored there.
