Art 'Censorship' Hit in Baltimore

Baltimore, Dec. 3 (AP)—Rebellion broke out at the city-supported Peale Museum yesterday as five artists walked out with their paintings to protest what they called "over censorship."

The rebellion was touched off by the removal from the museum's "Life in Baltimore" show of a painting of two nudes by Glenn Walter, Baltimore artist.

The picture was ordered transferred to the office of the gallery director to be viewed by request, only Mayor Thomas D. Mansandor, who called the exhibit "indecent and female figures in bad "obscene" and "immoral" words, "ordered its removal.

The artists said the museum's "over censorship" threatened their "creativity and livelihoods."

Pianist's Wife Killed in Crash

In West Reich

Stuttgart, Germany, Dec. 3 (AP)—Mrs. Walter Gieseking, 66, wife of Germany's famed concert pianist, and an American soldier were killed in a bus accident here last night. The pianist and 12 other persons, including 8 U.S. soldiers, were injured.

Authorities withheld names of the Americans pending notification of their relatives. Unofficial sources tentatively identified the American killed as Specialist 2 C. Homer Ryan (hometown unavailable).

The Gieskings were en route to Rome where the pianist was to play Sunday with the St. Cecilia Orchestra.

After the accident Gieseking, 60, was brought to Maria's Hospital here. A doctor said the musician had suffered multiple injuries "of a serious nature but not of a kind that will hamper him in his profession."

The bus was taking 18 air passengers from the fog-bound Frankfurt airport to Rome when it was struck on an icy section of the highway and crashed into a bridge.

A convoy of U.S. army ambulances followed the bus to Rome, where the injured to several hospitals in Rome.

It was Gieseking's second motor accident. She had been seriously hurt in Switzerland, December, 1951.

Forgotten Lunch Saves Girl's Life

Darien, Conn., Dec. 3 (AP)—Elsie D. Ferris, 18, forgot her lunch and saved her life.

Miss Ferris, who is engaged to be married next year, had entered her car to start for work yesterday morning, when she realized she had left her lunch box in the house.

She got out of the car, and re-entered her home.

Within 30 seconds a heavily loaded tractor, which had broken loose from its tractor, careened down a hill, hit the car and drove over Miss Ferris, crushing it flat.

Police said the Puritan Transportation Co. truck was driven by Earl Le Johnson of Danbury who told them the coupling connecting the tractor and trailer broke.

Johnson said the tractor was on St. Luke's Hill, near the top of St. Luke's Hill.

Jury Indicts Pair On Operating Still

Hartford, Dec. 3 (AP)—A federal grand jury here has indicted two men on charges of operating a moonshine still in the Montrossville State Forest near a Nike missile launching installation.

The two are James J. Jones, Jr., 41, and Charles L. Carson, 28, both of this city who were indicted Sept. 21, after State Policeman William M. Ackerman became suspicious of a car being driven in a part of the State forest in the nearby town of Portland.

When Ackerman and agents of the U.S. Treasury Dept.'s alcohol tax unit reached the scene, they said they found four gallons of moonshine. But, they added, they also found evidence that the pair had operated the still for about a year.

Specifically, yesterday's indictment charges Jones and Carson in three counts with the evasion of the federal tax on spirits.

No date was set for their trial.

Ostrinsky Pays for Waste Paper, Metals

Especially welcome news from Ostrinsky is the fact that he will pay extra money to church groups, Cub Packs, Boy Scouts, service organizations, social groups, etc. for paper delivered to the plant at 731 Parker St.

With Christmas approaching, many of the different church groups, service organizations, school groups, etc. are endeavoring to earn money for charitable purposes. Many of them have found that one of the easiest ways to do this is to sell waste paper to Ostrinsky. Mr. Ostrinsky says that organizations planning a waste paper drive should contact him or one of his salesmen for a list of the various waste paper dealers in the area. He says that he will be pleased to cooperate with these groups and has made a practice of buying them more money for their charitable purposes.

At the present time there is a shortage of waste paper to Ostrinsky. You will be pleasantly surprised to find out how much this will help toward buying those Christmas gifts.

Waste paper may be delivered to the plant at 731 Parker St. and it must be banded or boxed. Mr. Ostrinsky says that organizations planning a waste paper drive should contact him or one of his salesmen for a list of the various waste paper dealers in the area. He says that he will be pleased to cooperate with these groups and has made a practice of buying them more money for their charitable purposes.
