Glenn L. Martin, Dies, U.S. Aviation Pioneer

Baltimore, Dec. 5 (AP)—Glenn L. Martin, one of aviation's greatest pioneers, died here last night of a heart ailment.

The 68-year-old founder of the Glenn L. Martin Co. was stricken last night at his home in Baltimore, Md. He had been in poor health for some time. He was taken to University of Maryland Hospital in Baltimore, where death came at 8:30 p.m.

Behind him stretched a brilliant career crisscrossed with aviation "firsts."

On Aug. 1, 1920, he made his first successful test flight, with the plane leaving the ground under its own power. The Wright brothers, who flew a heavier-than-air plane in 1903, were still experimenting with a propulsion tower.

Nearly half a century later the Glenn L. Martin Co. was the first to develop a successful airplane.

In 1924 he was credited with being the first to develop a successful airplane which could be operated by the pilot at a distance of 100 miles from the pilot's seat.

Two Mayor Hold City Elections

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Two Democratic mayors, in Putnam and Williamette, were elected today.

In Williamette, largest of the three communities, there are 8,000 eligible voters. Mayor Florimond Bergeron, who won a one-sided victory two years ago, is opposed by Samuel N. Rosenstein, a Republican who relies less than a year ago on the Connecticut director of the Small Business Administration.

In Putnam, Gov. Rilloker's chief administrative aide, Mayor John N. Demsey, faces an opponent for the first time in four elections. He is opposed by Republican Herbert MacLaren, an insurance agent. Putnam has about 4,000 eligible voters.

Ruth Millett

Keeping Mito Slim, Trim Is Another Wifely Duty
The wife who watches her own weight cavity and her husband's hand load up on rich potatoes, second and third helpings of potatoes and apples pie, topped with cream is striking one of her duties as a wife.

Dr. W. H. Sebrell Jr., former director of the National Institute of Health recently told a group of doctors attending the 26th annual scientific meeting of the American Heart Association that they must not eat too much of the so-called "fat" foods.

Dr. Sebrell pointed out that "it is the housewife who buys and prepares the food, mixes the meals and does the quantities of food to be eaten and more pleasant to cook a man all the rich food, cream and lard to him, sigh contentedly when he finally pushes his chair away from the table than to serve him the kind of food he ought to have in the quantities that will keep him slim and down. But that doesn't make it right."

Feed the Brute But Feed Him Properly
If we women are going to do our utmost to keep our husbands in good health and prolong their lives we've got to become diet conscious not just for ourselves, but for our husbands.

It isn't going to be an easy job. For the man who likes to eat is easily made happy by the old system of feeding the brute.

But if we want to keep that man around a long, long time we'd better add a qualifying phrase to that old saw. It's not right to just feed the brute. We've got to feed him what is good for him in quantities that don't permit him to put on excess weight.

Herald Defendant In Libel Action

The Manchester Evening Herald has been named defendant in a libel action filed in Hartford Superior Court in behalf of Neal Andrews.

The action claims that The Herald published in a news report on Oct. 9, a Herald news story based on information given by the Connecticut State Police, said that Andrews had been arrested along with four Vernon youths, in connection with the theft of uniforms from a housing development in South Windsor, and said that the youths had obtained from the Herald the information.

Andrews denied this participation and this confession, and State Police admitted that the information was in error. On Oct. 11, 1954, The Herald published these facts.

Subsequently, in South Windsor Town Court, the four youths were fined and given suspended jail sentences on the charge of theft, and Neal Andrews was fined $25 on a charge of breach of the peace. He was not charged with any other crime.

The Herald subsequently published the outcome of the court proceedings, again stating that Andrews had not been involved in the theft, and expressing his regret for the error contained in its original story.

Andrews, in his court action, claims that not only the first article, but the second article, well libeled him. The action does not cite the publication of the third Herald news story.

Drama Group Here Offers Sabrina Fair

Sabrina Fair, presented Friday and Saturday evenings at the Westford School, added another hit to its growing popularity, purchased by a millionaire Frenchman, proposed to by David, the younger son of the Larrabee, both of whom she rejects.

Finally to win her man, she has to tell Louis Jr. pointblank that he is the one she loves. An added complication to the story is the romance disclosed in the act that the "black" character, played by Sabrina's father, has become a millionaire in his own right by playing the stock market and buying in particular 7,000 shares of Larrabee Shipping.

Other Characters. The part of Maude Larrabee, the sheltered wife and mother, was capably played by Ruth Hancock-Louis Sr., who has relinquished control to the family to his son Louis Jr., was convincingly interpreted by James Souville. Linda building made an attractive and realistic actress and manager. Betty Lou Wallace read the part of the maid with the assurance of an experienced trouper.

FOR THE BIRDS. Chicago (AP)—Pigeons atop the Graham Methodist Church have a corn crop this year—they grew it themselves.

Ray E. Lester said they discovered a corn stalk growing in a rain gutter, near a pigeon's nest. He had only one explanation. "Kernels of corn carried to the nest by the pigeons were dropped into the gutter and grew."

Fewer Youngsters Receive Second Salk Vaccine Shot

Washington, Dec. 5 (AP)—About 20 per cent fewer youngsters are being finished in shot that received the first in the Salk vaccine drive against infantile paralysis.

State health authorities on the average, estimated about 80 per cent of the children who took the first shot would get the second. They advanced a variety of reasons for the drop-off.

Early District Cited Officials in 18 states attributed it mainly to distrust of the vaccine stemming from an accident early in the program. That was when some lots produced by Cutter's laboratories of Berkeley, Calif., were discovered to have dangerous live virus.

Scores of polo cases developed in California and the government promptly reported the incident was in effect due to its own "fundamental weaknesses in safety" regulations. The whole inoculation program was suspended while the government revised its standards.

But state officials also expressed the opinion the decline in second round shots stemmed from such things as immunity which already had been built up.
