Manchester—A City of Village Charm

Bulgarian Says New Major Talks By Big Powers 'Can Be Fruitful'

Moscow, Dec. 31 (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev said today the people of the world "want the Geneva spirit and with it the hopes for peace and a better future" and therefore it will not be "buried."

He declared it was wrong to believe that possession of powerful weapons such as the H-bomb by both East and West could be 100 per cent effective in preventing another big war.

He asserted another summit conference of the chiefs of the big powers "can be fruitful."

These and other statements were made by Khrushchev in a series of answers to written questions from the Washington Bureau of the Associated Press.

Asked if he was still in favor of the Geneva talks, Khrushchev said he was "in favor of the Geneva talks for the restoration of international peace and security."

West Diplomats Riled by Nikita Attack on Ike

By RICHARD K. O'MALLEY Moscow, Dec. 31 (AP)—Western diplomats here today were riled by Nikita Khrushchev's free-wheeling attack on the Soviet Union's Communist party boss.

They are waiting to see if Khrushchev's attack is adopted as an official Soviet attitude toward the West.

Another western diplomat said he did not regard the speech as a call for reversal of the Cold War.

The westerners are angry at Khrushchev's attack on the Soviet Union's Communist party boss.

Heard Along Main Street

And on Some of Manchester's Side Streets, Too

Fads! the Buck

There are many among us who deny the limited facilities of the small town shopping areas and longingly point to the abundant array of commodities available at the large metropolitan department stores.

Such individuals put us in mind of at least one instance in which the sheer size and abundance of such stores proved a little worse than a mixed blessing.

A friend of ours, not unlike many people at this time of year, neglected to have the recipient's initials embossed on the gift.

Now, in honor of the brief case had, for reasons not divulged, decided to return to the place where the brief case was purchased and have his initials carved in the leather.

When he arrived at the store he went to the small luggage department on the first floor. Here he was told, "This wasn't bought in this department; it must have been purchased in leather goods up in front."

At leather goods, our friend was told, "We don't handle brief cases here. Take it to the luggage department on the eighth floor."

On reaching the luggage department, our friend was told by a likable salesman, "We don't have brief cases this small. Take it to small luggage on the main floor."

Back at small luggage, our friend, who was by this time working up an unhealthy rage, learned, "you couldn't have gotten this here. We don't handle this merchandise."

(Our informant is willing to swear that the item in question was most certainly bought there.)

At this point, our much-abused friend picked up his unembossed briefcase and stomped out of the store. Later, while relating the epic tale, he admitted that at one point he was actually beginning to doubt his own sanity.

Statistics gleaned from a Washington agency report the baby boom is continuing. The birth rate hovers around 25 new babies per year for each 1,000 population, while in the depression years it was 18 per thousand.

The peak year for marriages was 1948, 2.5 millions. By 1950, another new marriage wave is expected, and all through the 60's another all-time high in the baby boom. For every 100 women, there are 109 men of marriage age.

That's enough to go around with some bachelors left over. To women asking for good hunting, the reply is "Go to the farm where there are 152 single men for every 100 single women."

Divorces are running level about one divorce for every four marriages, but three out of four divorces re-marry.

Women live six years longer than men by national average, also women are about three years younger than their husbands on the average, which means a 9-year difference in the life expectancies of average couples. Thus, it occurs that 12 per cent of women are widows and only 4 per cent of men are widowers.

Add the fact that men leave their forDogg, big or little, to the widows, and we see why it is that widows have so much of the nation's wealth.

Connecticut leads as the fastest growing state in the East. Florida has the edge on California, but in actual numbers of population gain, California is way out in front, and will probably top even New York by 1965. The population of the United States is now 167 million.

You Vote Your Way . . . You can urge a person to vote, but unless you know him, it's wiser not to tell him how.

J. W. Cheney of 191 Hartford Rd., who was at the polls Tuesday during the referendum on bazaars and raffia, witnessed an incident illustrating the wisdom of this advice.

He reports that a gentleman approaching a voting booth saw two persons leaving the polls and thanked them for voting on the issue.

The two voters, Cheney says, responded to his thanks by telling him to vote "yes," not realizing, Cheney adds, that the gentleman was a minister of a member church of the Manchester Council of Churches, leader in the fight against bazaars and raffia.

Patrolmen Win Prize We're happy to report that two Manchester policemen received some words of praise this week. Most members of the force are assigned to the fact that these kind thoughts are usually rare.

Anyway, here is what one citizen had to say in letter to The Herald.

"On Saturday, Dec. 24, while going to shop in Manchester, I had the misfortune to have my car at all on a busy street during a busy time, 5:30 p.m.

"Police Officer Cavey (officer's note, evidently Patrolman John Cavagnaro) and McDowell (Patrolman William McDowell) were very kind, considerate and helpful in helping me to obtain a parking place while I phoned for a mechanic to come down and replace a bad coil and points in order to get started.

"They should be mentioned in your column Heard Along Main Street as it isn't often people say kind things about policemen."

It's a little late, but the writer continues:

"I wish them both a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. Yours truly (signed) S. J. Snegal Wethersfield."

Resolutions We've heard some ugly rumors about a New Year approaching. Obviously our disgust is partly self-directed because the resolutions so fondly made each year are never kept--by us, that is.

For those of you who may care to attempt this little exercise in self-delusion, we recommend not making any resolutions you can't keep.

Don't, for example, feel you have will power enough to stop smoking. If you do, our prediction is that you will wind up either suffering a nervous breakdown or nervous prostration.

Other self-imposed restrictions likely to produce the same results are:

- 1. Working harder.
- 2. Not spending so much money.

In this era of easy-come prosperity according to the way we hear it! these resolutions are almost always made and universally ignored. Don't fight the trend, be a conformist!

We heard of a golfer who won two golf handicaps by stopping smoking for a short period. He took it up again when we deduce he found his golf game going to pieces from sheer eagerness.

Then there was the guy who resolved to stop spending, bought a cheaper car, and generally made a nuisance of himself at home. He achieved economy!

But what did the neighbors think? Obviously, they said he must have suffered financial reverses. Our hapless recipient of dirty looks from such people as credit managers had to give in. He is now happily in debt everything has returned to normal.

We often feel that resolutions are such things as only the angels probably ever carry out. Us humans is too frail.

Us humans is too frail; We'll have to be more careful; must be more grammatical.

Operation Trees What does 1956 hold in store for Manchester?

For one thing, trees. At least, that is one of the hopes of the Chamber of Commerce entertains for 1956.

The Chamber recently created an Arbor Day committee, charged with the task of "getting the trees back into Manchester."

Frankly, we didn't know they had left Manchester. But that was only because we weren't as observant as we might be.

After all, hasn't there been one new housing development after another in recent years, each development occupying once vacant land?

True, most of these developments occurred on farm land, but still, there must have been some trees to fall before the housing tidal wave.

And besides, what about that logging operation on Tyler and Parker Sts. a few weeks ago? Many a good pine left Manchester for service as pilings and rigging blocks in that black period.

It seems to us that there is a lot of significance packed into the Chamber's call to get the trees back into Manchester. Here is a civic group that seems to feel that Manchester, a town beginning to look like a city, had better work at holding onto its village charm.

Making History When a detailed political history of Manchester is written, November and December of 1955 will be labeled "the period of the where-ases and hereinafters."

And the historian will point out that it was a period of "unparalleled unanimity of civic purpose." He will probably say that while the two months were marked by political tranquility, events transpired

Directors at Brae Marr Day Camp

John A. Dyber, 24, Frederick St., and Howard W. Gold, 59 Barry Rd., will direct activities next summer at Brae Marr Day Camp, which plans to expand its facilities.

The camp, which is located on Bolton Lake in Vernon, will, for the first time, accommodate both boys and girls on a day-camp basis. For the past 10 years, it had been a girls overnight, full-season facility.

Children from 6 to 14 years of age will be eligible to attend, and it is expected that over 200 youngsters from the Rockville-Manchester-Vernon-East, Hartford-Hartford area will make use of Brae Marr's 20 acres of lakeside facilities.

Both Dyber, who will be program director, and Gold, who will be his associate director, are members of Hall High School faculty in West Hartford. Dyber is a graduate of Springfield College and a reserve captain in the Army Corps of Engineers. He holds a master of education degree, and for many years has been associated with Boy Scouting and Red Cross water safety activities.

Gold was formerly guidance counselor at East Hartford High School, and is active in the American Personnel and Guidance Assn. and the National Vocational Guidance Assn.

The two Manchester men will conduct the camp's pre-season planning from their homes.

Leads Discussion On Mental Health

Miss Ethel Robb, principal of Waddell School, will act as moderator when the PTA of the school holds a panel discussion on "Mental Health in Our Community" at its meeting Wednesday evening, Jan. 4.

The panel will also include Dr. Francis Helfrick, chairman of the clinic committee of the Manchester Mental Health Assn., and Mrs. Maxine Hahn, chairman of the needs and resources committee and a member of the Children's Services of Connecticut.

Miss Robb, who is chairman of the educational committee of the MMHA, will lead the group in an informal discussion of long-standing, immediate and eventual needs for mental health in Manchester.

Members and all interested persons are urged to attend, and to take part in a question and answer period following the discussion.

Concordia Ladies Meet on Tuesday

The Ladies Aid Society of the Concordia Lutheran Church will meet Tuesday evening at 7:30 in the church parlors.

After the business meeting, Otto Kohls will show colored slides of Florida. Also, perfect attendance prizes for 1955 will be given to eligible members.

Refreshments will be served by the following hostesses: Mrs. Ann Wabrek, Mrs. Betty Walters, Mrs. Anna Walek, Mrs. Susan Weiss and Mrs. Katherine Wenzler.

Local Financial Institutions Plan Family Finance Forum

Manchester residents are going to be offered a course in how to make ends meet, and it will be taught by representatives of every financial institution in town.

The course, which is being offered as part of the adult education program of the Board of Education, is called "The Family Financial Management Forum."

It is believed to be the first of its kind ever given here.

It will run for eight Tuesdays, starting Jan. 10, with 2-hour lectures beginning at 7 p.m. It will be given in the library of the high school. Registration for the course is open now.

Because of space limitations in the library, registration is limited to 100. It is hoped that the course will become an annual feature of the adult education program. If it is given next year, the greater space available in the new high school will permit a larger registration.

The course, which is designed to help families plan sound financial programs for themselves, was felt necessary in the library of the high school after a survey of the amount of credit buying. That is being done, here as well as elsewhere in the country.

One local bank official said today, "We feel it's time some sound planning was done by families. It will help us as well as our customers."

Scores Credit Buying He also regards the amount of buying on credit as so vast as to warrant concern over the possibility of government intervention. He said government controls could be "kept out of the picture," if there is sensible control and planning on the part of families and local financial institutions.

Manchester, the official pointed out, is ideally equipped to offer such a family financial management course, since it has every type of financial institution, including savings and loan associations, finance companies, credit unions and insurance companies.

Each of these institutions has agreed to provide instructors for the course, which will be wound up on Feb. 28 with a panel discussion by all guest lecturers. General Manager Richard Martin will moderate the panel.

To determine how much their students learned from the course, the participating firms are putting up $200 in Savings Bonds as awards for the three best family financial plans submitted at the end of the eight weeks.

The plans are to be based on notes taken during the course, and will be judged by a panel of three judges. Submitting a plan will not be required as part of the course.

Money for the bonds—one for $50 and two for $25 each—will come from some of the funds the Board of Education generally pays its adult education program teachers. The money remaining from this source will go toward the purchase of notebooks for students taking the course.
