Coroner Claims Tumieny Brought About Own Death

The police shooting of Edward Tumieny, 32, of 402 Oakland st., after Sgt. Henry Gaudier fired two shots point-blank at him while he was fleeing from the scene of a shooting, was called today in a finding issued by Hartford County Coroner Louis W. Schaefer, a legal action made necessary and dictated by the clear-cut threat of danger Tumieny offered.

'I Am The Way'
Topic of Sermon
By Rev. Simpson

In the fifth sermon in the series of seven on what Jesus said about himself at Caesarea Philippi, the Rev. Simpson, pastor, took as his theme the statement in the upper room, "I Am The Way." He began with an illustration of people scrambling in a dark, confused, slippery fog where helplessness finally turned to hopelessness as they groped for a way out. The light was turned on. Although the darkness and the slipperiness still remained, now there was hope. As of old, Jesus still says to us today, "I Am The Way."

God. We await his forgiveness. His presence, his blessing and his guidance. He contrasted the busy-ness of Martha with the ability of Mary to leave her work and sit at the feet of Jesus and listen. The second quality of American life is its great love of beauty. This is illustrated by the nine billion dollars spent for advertising in this country each year and the high premium that these "same advertisers" put on beauty. He quoted the English lady who exclaimed in exasperation over America's motto of "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" as an indication of our search for beauty. The pastor did not deny the value of beauty or the place of beauty in our life as such, but stressed that anything that stopped at the water surface was not Christian. He then proceeded to indicate the Christian way is the way of being, that is, being like Christ. This means to think on the things of the spirit, and the God of peace will be with us, as Paul states. The pastor also quoted from Santayana and indicated that we should trust "the good" invincible armies." He stressed the accent that Christ had put upon being, in that the Beatitudes indicate that we ought to be something, as peace-making and the pure at heart. He finished this sermon by stating that Jesus Christ in His last weeks was not able to do very much in one sense but, because he was able to be loving, forgiving, steadfast, true and upright, he was, therefore, able to do much more in another sense.

The third quality of the American A.B.C.'s of life is that of comfort. This was illustrated by the large number of people whose lives were made more comfortable by the American way and the Christian way. He described the American way as that of activity, beauty and comfort. The Rev. Mr. Simpson stated that these were not only qualities but actual goals sought by our people. He described America as a people with an over active thyroid and a great love for organizational activity. However, amidst this activity, the pastor stressed the great need for peace, for quiet, for relaxation, for prayer, for meditation and suggested that the Christian A. B. C. began by awaiting

Hebron Fire Extinguished At White's House

Hebron, March 21 (Special)—What might have proved a disastrous fire took place here over the weekend when the chimney was ablaze at J. Kellogg White's residence in Hebron. The local fire company responded to a quick call and rendered aid which ended the danger, with no damage. It was "ouch and go" for a time with this fire old residence, with a high wind blowing.

Coventry Insurance Agent Given Recognition

Several years ago when the late Mrs. Anne C. Gilbert was regent of the Henry Channing Chapter, DAR, she planned a "Blissard Program" and those members who could remember the big snow of 1928 told of their experiences, some of which were surprising indeed. The depth of snow, the enormous drifts, and all that, having been endured, roads blocked and no newspapers. But one member, the late Mrs. Charles Bailey of Colchester, smiled and said, "Why, you people haven't the faintest idea of what a real blizzard is. She was a western girl and had lived through the kind of blizzard they have there. She told of snow so deep that tall trees were covered with it and recalled how, as a school girl, she and her mates used to walk over the tops of those trees all winter to school, the snow frozen and packed down hard. It rather deflated the other members.

Hebron, March 21 (Special)

The best one can say about that big old near-blizzard we just had is that it is over with and we hope it won't come again for at least 50 years. It seemed a little singular that the time of the visitation came pretty close to that of the famous 1888 blizzard, just a few days later in the month.

After what seemed like several money days of the latest storm, but were only part of two days, it was pleasant indeed to see the sun gaily showing itself in the eastern sky yesterday morning, shining over the expanse of snow which glittered with snow crystals.

George Rose and Alice Ann Hammond certainly deserved gold medals for helping out in digging out some of those who aren't tested with the yard stick measured some 18 or 21 inches, of course including the former snowfall of 12 inches, which had abraded somewhat considerably. It was "deep" enough and in drilled places it was much deeper than the above estimate.

There was no school here Monday and yesterday, and Mrs. William W. Hammond also had the days off from her school duties in Colchester at the Central School. The Town Club office and Douglas Library were open as usual yesterday. Roads were well cleared and cars went whizzing by at the customary rate of speed.

Managers at Work

When Washington observers began calling the new farm bill the "omnibus farm bill" they were all too prophetic. For, as it has come out of the American Senate, it has been a very substantial piece of legislation, carrying just about everything in the way of passenger and baggage except common sense and honest attack on the farm problem as it exists.

It rather looks as if the Democrats had achieved their strategic political objective. That objective was, while abiding copious tears for the plight of the farmer, to enact a measure so important that President Eisenhower would be forced to veto it, leaving the safe rest of months of legislative work on the farm program an absolute zero.

This, in the Democratic view, would keep the right of the farmer, whatever it is, fresh and dramatic in the public eye, and would, at the same time, keep the Eisenhower administration from doing anything about it in this election year.

The way to make a mess of the farm bill was to fill it up with inepties, such as better treatment of one crop than another, special allowances for one farmer or another, and so on.

But, although Republican voters may have played some part in the Senate's triumph, they could not have played the whole part. They were, in no way, as they existed, the front line in the Kefauver case. He had gone into a state which was originally regarded as the most fertile kind of gamble for himself, because the entire Democratic state machine was obviously in Stevenson's corner. He was conceded no chance at all when he entered. He has somehow converted that lost cause into an impressive victory.

Part of the answer, of course, lies in his own folly but some what irresponsible charm. He has a handshake for everybody and a quick solution for every issue. He is a rather appealing figure, going around on his own, defying the party bosses.

But the major part of the answer, we believe, with Stevenson, and the changes that have ensued from him in the course of his second effort for the presidency. This has not been the Stevenson of 1952, who won bipartisan respect for the high level of his campaigning. This has not been the distinguished intellectual, who talked sense and issues rather than personalities. This has been a curious fish out of his own natural water, floundering around in the brackishness of cheap, elemental politics, detaching himself in some misguided effort to prove himself "one of the boys," and, inevitably, leading his erstwhile enthusiasts to ask how real the image of 1952 could have been, after all.

In the result, this devaluated Stevenson may still possibly be the Democratic candidate, but it is not likely. There is no visible reason why he should be expected to do better against Kefauver in future primaries than he has done in New Hampshire or Minnesota. If he does do better in some, but not in all, Kefauver will still have him at least neutralized.

The prospective situation now seems to have returned to exactly what was the original scheme of operation for the third man in the picture, and the boss in back of him.

The third man is Governor Averell Harriman of New York, and the boss in back of him is Carmine De Sapio, Tammany's smart new leader. Their original scheme of operation for 1956 was to hope that Stevenson and Kefauver could knock each other out, leaving the way open for Harriman. This scheme seemed lost during the weeks and months in which Stevenson was apparently way out in front, running away with the nomination without even a good fight in prospect. But now Kefauver has pumped this scheme full of life and maneuver again, and now the way is open again for De Sapio to approach those bosses who had gone for Stevenson, but who will never go for Kefauver, and offer them Harriman instead of the fading Stevenson.

There is not necessarily any

The Sense in Nonsense

The true test of a great comedian is the amount of sense in his nonsense. By that test, Fred Allen stood out as perhaps the only American comedian since Will Rogers.

He was the loving, affectionate, tolerant, yet pointed clinical analyst of the American scene. His best jest always had a very substantial element of truth, his best caricature was always something of a mirror to us all. And that, of course, was what set him apart from the rest of the normal, routine comedy of his day was something else again—a belated exploitation of empty froth, a tiresome punning of the great good, a boring concentration on trademarked props and all too little of the real stuff of human nature.

For the quip that was more than a quip, there was, after Rogers, only Allen.

Dropouts by Roger Price

Two Are Trying to Join Golf Club

This Dropout was especially designed for you to draw on your income tax form in the section marked Miscellaneous. I spend a lot of time thinking up unusual places for Dropouts, but they never even ran into a sculpin from South Dakota who had an idea I'd never thought of. He said he was working on a plan to carve out a huge Dropout on Mt. Rushmore right between the faces of Washington and Jefferson. He figured the job would take about ten years if he worked day and night and during coffee breaks and would cost about 75 dollars, which he wanted me to advance him in small bills. Steven hardly enough for such an ambitious chiseler.

Volunteers Asked To Make Returns

Joseph Charvinski, chairman of the residential campaign, and Leonard Rivard, chairman of the retail campaign for the 1956 Red Cross Fund Drive, requested today that all volunteers turn in all returns by Monday. Returns can be left any time during the day at Red Cross Headquarters or will be picked up on request.

George T. Lalonde Jr., chairman of the drive, urged all Manchester and Bolton residents who have not as yet contributed, to mail their checks to Red Cross Headquarters regarding having their contribution collected in person.

Lalonde stated that it is too early to tell just what the final campaign figure will be like. However, he felt that unless the situation improved over the next few days, the campaign would fall below the goal of $25,000.

"This is a desperate situation," Lalonde went on to say, "when we consider that this has been the worst disaster year in the 75-year history of the Red Cross."

Westinghouse Strike Ends After 156 Days

James H. Carey, IUE president, claimed the winter-long strike was a "super and historic struggle" for the right to work without a union that wouldn't have obtained otherwise.

Westinghouse vice president Robert D. Blasier said the company had won what it started out to get—a five-year contract and a new shift pay and work systems to meet changing conditions in the fast-growing electrical industry.

Blasier avoided argument on which side won or lost. He said it was "now vital that bitterness and recrimination be forgotten" and that everybody pitch in to maintain our position as a leader in the electrical manufacturing industry.

The new contract gives IUE workers annual pay raises ranging from 5 to 8 cents an hour, added to their pre-strike average of $2.10 an hour. Additional raises up to $2.10 a year were provided for skilled workers. Pension and insurance benefits were improved. For example, the company will take over full cost of employee insurance after November 1960.

A basic issue in the strike was company agreement to the right to shift pay and production methods to maintain efficiency.

This right the company won. But the IUE obtained agreements aimed at preventing the company from losing pay or work opportunities.

Another point, relatively minor in the overall settlement but probably the most hotly debated of all, concerned 93 workers discharged for alleged strike activities. The company agreed earlier with a government recommendation that it rehire 57 and send the remaining 36 cases to arbitration.

In the final pact, the company yielded further to suspend the 93 and subject their cases to grievance procedure and negotiation before possible arbitration.

The company said it lost $30 million in potential sales.

The contract provides for living cost pay changes related to the government consumer price index. For 1957, the annual cost-of-living pay adjustment will be 1.5 percent, and thereafter on a sliding scale.

Athens Archbishop Dies; Urged Enosis

Island colony with Greece, was called by British authorities March 9. His deposition heightened the anti-British campaign on Cyprus.

Spyridon also took an active part in earlier political activities particularly during the Italian occupation in World War II and when Cyprus was under Turkish rule. Both the Italians and the Turks passed death sentences on him.

Spyridon was born in 1874 in the village of Chali, on the Asiatic coast of the Bosphorus. He was ordained Bishop of Konstantinople in 1909 and Archbishop of Athens and Primate of Greece on June 4, 1920.

The Archbishop's body was placed in state today at Athens Cathedral, the church where Greek bishops had gathered to elect him unanimously as their leader. In accordance with his wishes, he will be buried at Vefa Monastery, near Konstantinople.

The Holy Synod, the ruling body of the Greek Orthodox Church, will elect a new archbishop of Athens on June 28.

Informed sources said Makarios' name may be submitted as a candidate but added that it will be of a purely advisory nature in acknowledgment of his outstanding personality. "They said the church will be a purely advisory nature in acknowledgment of his outstanding personality," they said.

At the time of his death, he was suffering from tuberculosis and doctors did not think he would live more than a few years.

"That he became Primate of Greece, it was thought he could not live more than six months, but he filled the post 36 years."

Last year he went to Zurich for treatment of liver and kidney ailments.

He was chairman of the committee seeking union of Cyprus with Greece. Spyridon organized fund collections and protest meetings and appealed to churches throughout the world for support of a supplemental unemployment fund.

He died in Athens, 40.

The ceremony was performed here Monday. Huxley and his bride both said their homes were in Los Angeles.

The marriage was the second for Huxley.

Under Simpson to Head Cancer Campaign

Manchester, March 21 (Special)—Kenneth Simpson, of Andover Lake, has been named chairman of the Cancer Fund Drive which will be open in April.

He will be assisted by four captains who have been assigned areas as follows: Mrs. David Yeaman, Andover Center and Lebanon; Mrs. Raymond P. Houle, Rt. 8, east of Trump Brook Rd., including Long Hill Rd., Bunker Hill Rd., Bear Swamp Rd. and Wheeling Rd.; Mrs. Richard Holman, including Old State Rd.; Mrs. J. Tansley, including North Main St. and North Main St. and North Main St. and North Main St.

Mrs. Hazel Floyd is campaign chairman and Miss Dorothy Raymond, treasurer, will also serve as publicity chairman.

Dean Hirschon has served as secretary of churches in both Ohio and Pennsylvania.

He is a former associate director of the National Labor Relations Board.

His interest in both educational and inter-racial affairs is shown in his record as co-founder, trustee and former master of the Maumee Valley Country Day School, and co-founder of the Sewickley Colored Community Center.

He is also a former president of the Harvard Club of Western Pennsylvania.

The Union Service will begin on Sunday evening at 7 o'clock, and will be followed by a reception given by the Ladies Benevolent Society.

Third Man Theme Again

It would appear likely that some Democratic Republicanism will become a theme for a day, in order to give Senator Estes Kefauver an assist in his battle against Stevenson. Their motives for doing this might simply have been to try to make trouble for Stevenson's liberal rather than smooth progress toward the Democratic nomination. It could even be that some Democratic Republicanism is disillusioned with their own national administration, and were serious in going for the one, candidate on the Minnesota scene who made them the most handsome promise on farm price supports: "I could be that big political spring fiver."

But, although Republican voters may have played some part in the Senate's triumph, they could not have played the whole part. They were, in no way, as they existed, the front line in the Kefauver case. He had gone into a state which was originally regarded as the most fertile kind of gamble for himself, because the entire Democratic state machine was obviously in Stevenson's corner. Norm Story

To the Editor,

The story grew out of the severe storm we had on Monday, the 20th.

My door bell rang at 8:30 a.m. on Monday. I answered and found a man in distress, having become stuck in the drifts at the corner of Main and Belmont Sts., across the street from my home. A snow shovel is always on the porch and I went out to help. He was stuck in the snow and may have been in for a few minutes. Of course I said yes and he took it. I didn't watch him for Good, Or Bad?

Once again, we are faced with the question of whether we really want the Russians to be doing something we ourselves have been trying to do. Or, when they do what we have been urging them to do, shall we merely regard it as one more sample of treachery and villainy on their part?

We remember, in these columns, using the term "Bloody Joe" for Stalin, over the years. We were impulsive enough to use it even when Hitler attacked Russia, and we were welcoming Russia, as a new ally, when she was originally helped at that. That is an indication of how long the concept of Stalin as a man with blood on his hands has been in American thought.

For at least 10 years of the cold war, we have been calling upon the Russians to realize the tyranny of Stalin, and we have campaigned to expose him for what we believed him to be.

Now the Russians do admit everything about Stalin, and some things about us. It is obvious that, doing so, they are shocking the Russian people in a way which is going to make them wary of "great leaders" for a long time to come.

So the question arises: are we glad the Russians are doing this? Or are we mad at them for doing it?

Most of our counsel and comment sounds as if we were mad, exactly if this, rather than being some cleaning of the slate which our selves have long been demanding, were instead some new piece of devilry. We are being urged to fear and distrust the Russians more than ever now; that they have begun to tell the truth about Stalin. Their plot is, we are told, to make us think that they are human beings like us, not like Stalin. Obviously, they can't make such heavy with us, when we have been telling them that they are not like us as we condemn them if they don't.

Recently, however, we can't go on forever abusing the Russians when they do things we ourselves have been asking them to do. There may even come a time when it would be proper for us to praise them for doing something we have been asking them to do. For our part, we think it is good news, not bad, that the Russians have finally turned Stalin into the "Bloody Joe."

Minor Crashes Listed by Police

Rockville, March 21 (Special) — Two minor accidents were investigated yesterday by City Police to one, a car driven by Alfred Grass, 48, Hartford, traveling east on Windsor Ave. was struck by an automobile being driven by Ed B. Tambling, 28, 200 N. Main St., Manchester, when an unidentified third car pulled away from the curb.

Tambling applied his brakes 36 avoid hitting the unidentified car, skidded and struck Grass's car, the police said. The accident was investigated by Patrolmen Philip Blinn. No arrest was made. Damages of $200 to Grass's car and $100 to Tambling's car were reported.

In another accident, City Police are seeking a man who struck a car being driven by Robert Butler, 24, 3 Grove St., at Mountain and Prospect Sts. last night.

According to Butler, he stopped at a stop sign at the intersection and was struck by another vehicle. The driver of the car got out, had a short conversation with Butler, then drove away. Butler said Butler reported the automobile registration number to the police, who are checking it out with the Motor Vehicles Department. City Police say the man will be charged with evading responsibility. Damages to Butler's car was slight, police said.

Functions of Junior Republic To Be Explained at Meeting

Bolton, March 21 (Special) — The Parents' Day program and teachers have been invited to hear a talk on the work of the Connecticut Junior Republic Friday night at the Community Hall, Philip P. Myers, public relations director for the school, will speak to the Grange in a session that will be open to the public after a short business meeting.

The Litchfield school which was organized in 1908 is widely known for its program for problem boys. Father Flanagan, whose Boy's Town in Nebraska became more famous, is reported to have visited Connecticut Junior Republic for some time and modeled his institution after it.

It is described as a private non-sectarian boarding school in at least an official directory and also regarded as a vocational school. Among other enterprises, it operates a farming program, including dairy, poultry and forestry operations. It is perhaps in a better way than any other institution in the state, it is reported to have visited Connecticut Junior Republic for some time and modeled his institution after it.

Smith Act Reds Slated to Face Jury on Friday
New Haven, March 21 (AP)—The more than 5-month-long trial of eight alleged Communists in federal court here is expected to go to a jury of seven men and five women on Friday.
The jury will decide whether the seven-Connecticut men and a New Jersey woman violated the Smith Act, which makes it a crime to conspire to teach or advocate the violent overthrow of the government.
The government argued yesterday that it had produced "overwhelming evidence" against the defendants.
After the government finished summing up the case, defense lawyers will begin their final arguments.

Before the case goes to the jury, District Judge Robert P. Anderson must rule that there is a "clear and present danger" that the United States government might be overthrown.
U.S. Atty. Gen. J. Lee Rankin, in his summation, told the jury to "draw reasonable inferences from what you have seen or heard" during the trial.
There were more than two million words of testimony, wrapped up in 9,000 pages of transcript.
Cohen said the case was "extremely" important to the government and to the people of the United States.
"The direct defense contention that Marxist-Leninist theory is opposed to violence, and that the only reason the defendants carried their activities 'underground' was to avoid FBI harassment," Cohen said the government pressed to overturn during the trial, while the law requires proof of only one act in the indictment.

At State for Week
Storrs, Conn., March 21—Rudolf Serkin, famed pianist, will present a program tonight at the University of Connecticut Auditorium on the campus at Storrs.
Serkin's concert will mark the fourth in a series of five University sponsored concerts this season.
The Hartford Symphony Orchestra will continue the series in April. A limited number of tickets are available for tonight's concert. They may be reserved by mail or phone by contacting the University of Connecticut management.
Serkin was born in Riga (in what is now Czechoslovakia), in 1903. He was brought up in Vienna and made his debut at 12 with the Vienna Symphony but did not start a concert career until his mid-teens. He was immediately successful and was soon recognized as one of the great pianists of his generation. Serkin and his family settled in Switzerland in 1927, but came to America and his family settled in Storrs in 1937.
Serkin's first visit to the United States was to play for a special invited audience at the Coolidge Festival in Washington.

Indiana Girl Has 25th Heart Attack
New Albany, Ind., March 21 (AP)—Seven-year-old Sheila Whitehead is back in the hospital again, suffering from her 25th heart attack.
The little blonde-eyed girl's heart is too big for her body, doctors say, and they have advised the girl's mother, Mrs. Hazel Whitehead, an operation may be necessary.
Sheila suffered two attacks Monday after her temperature suddenly rose to 106.
So back she went to the hospital, where she was released last year before Christmas, and the family began making plans.

Walker Bid Before ZBA On Monday
An application from Samuel Walker, 101 Clinton St., planning to rebuild his home which was badly damaged by fire Jan. 24, will be among the 10 bids scheduled to be heard by the Zoning Board of Appeals at Memorial Hospital, Worcester, Mass., Monday night at 8 o'clock.
Walker's bid is for a two-story, brick house with a modern style, using the old foundation, but it is seeking permission for an addition which will be closer to the sidewalk than regulations permit in Residence Zone B.

Area Agents Vote Against Strike Here
Hartford area Prudential insurance agents last night voted against a strike in their national union's current dispute with the company.
However, their vote came after partial returns from some 8,000 agents in areas outside New England reportedly indicate a 3-1 vote in favor of a nation-wide strike if the dispute is not settled.
And Steven Kuback, president of Hartford Local 80 of the Insurance Agents International Union, said today his local's 100 agents would walk out if called.
Kuback said the members of his local, meeting last night at the Labor Temple on Park St., Hartford, voted 40-33 against a strike. But he said the vote was merely a "formality" in view of the votes of other union locals throughout the country. "There was no demonstration," he said, "and it was a foregone conclusion that the strike would be delayed because of the weather."

Schools to Close Day Later Here
Manchester public school children will have a day later than elsewhere in the state when they return to school this morning after two days of blizzard-caused holidays.
The first reality was school in the city. The second reality was that their summer vacation will be delayed one day.
Superintendent of Schools Arthur H. Hill said adding another day to the school year will be necessary to comply with State law, which requires public schools to be open 180 days.
The Manchester public school calendar originally provided for 182 days, leaving a 2-day margin in case of emergency. However, Prudential agents average $125 a week, or $5,000 a year, for each of the 18,000 of Prudential's 15,000 agents.

Metropolitan Homes Agrees To Pay Cost of Extension
The Board of Water Commissioners tackled four knotty sewer and water extension problems at a meeting last night and came out with possible solutions to them.
One of the proposed sewer extensions is in Oak St. Ext. The water extension is in Spring St.
Two other sewer extensions discussed are in Lyndale St. and Hackmatack St. The water extension is in Spring St.
Metropolitan Homes, Inc., a development firm which wants the extension in Spring St. agreed to pay the entire $11,300 cost of the installation, with the understanding that if other shunting property owners consent to it later, they will reimburse the firm.
The firm was the only property owner favoring the installation. Police Chief Herman O. Schmidt, who had been asked to give the go-ahead, but he had the line extended 2,000 feet. His own expense on the chance that other owners would back in later and share the cost. He suggested Metropolitan Homes do the same and the firm agreed.
That does not settle the matter, however. The town has taken the position that utilities in the tract should be planned, their cost figured and warnings put on land records that future buyers will be held responsible for the cost. When the utilities are installed, the Water Department must pay department bills each month and approved payment of current bills.
The 30th anniversary celebration of the Connecticut Post, No. 102, American Legion, Saturday night at the Legion Home on Leonard St., is expected to draw 150 to 200 people.
Michael McDonnell, chairman of the committee handling arrangements for the affair, says enthusiasm is running high. Judges Raymond Baldwin and Supreme Court of Errors and William Shea of the Superior Court are to be principal speakers and toastmaster, respectively.
Reservations for the event may be made through Wilbur Little, 130 Center St., or Mrs. E. Samuel Mosley, 50 Clyde Rd., or McDonnell.

First Bus Boycott Case Closed by Prosecution

That it substantially the same policy Bagley had intended earlier. But the company has admitted he had received complaints about drivers disobeying what he called the company policy.

Bagley also testified that recent "get tough" policy was adopted in an effort to discourage white residents of Montgomery from supporting the protest.

The mayor announced the policy on Jan. 31 and urged white people to refrain from going to the Agricultural Center in Circuit Judge Eugene Carter in presiding at King's trial and also decide on the guilt or innocence of the other 99 boycott defendants who likewise have demanded summary trial. The case will be heard separately.

The state was partially successful yesterday in getting evidence admitted which was designed to show that Negroes have been threatened and intimidated to keep them from riding buses during the 16-week-old mass protest against segregation.

Carter permitted two Negroes to testify about threats they said they had received, but ruled out the testimony of another Negro.

Another prosecution witness, city editor Joe Astell of the Montgomery Advertiser, testified questioning from defense attorneys that Negro meetings since the boycott had made a point of urging their followers to shun violence.

works on the Middle East danger. In a 150 declaration they pledged they would do all possible to prevent any change in Israel's borders by force. In recent months they have cited this pledge in answer to Israeli appeals for arms to match those Communist Czechoslovakia is selling Egypt.

Russia has been shown a western plan of action designed to strengthen the U.N. role of peacemaker. The West wants Russia to agree to the Security Council decision will be unanimous. The Soviet nation has given no hint of its attitude. But force in 1954 Russia vetoed U.N. resolutions on Palestine which the Arab nations opposed.

There was no early hint of the new western plan other than a flammarokold mission. A U.S. diplomatic source would say only that "a resolution containing proposals for action is being worked out." Britain had suggested previously that the U.N. trust commission in Palestine, a small international force of military officers which checks on border incidents after they have occurred, be enlarged to permit a preventive patrol.

Lodge in his letter to Council President Sir Piers Dixon of Britain said the leading nations had failed to agree on proposals of Canadian Maj. Gen. S. M. Burns, chief trust observer in Palestine, for pacifying the Security Lodge noted that the Security

Catholic Bishop Quits Diocese in Louisiana City

Washington, March 21 (AP)—The Most Rev. Jules B. Jeannerd has resigned as Roman Catholic Bishop of Lafayette, La., where he had ministered to two women last year in a dispute involving racially integrated religious classes.

The decree was lifted shortly afterward when Bishop Jeannerd said he had learned the two women had repented their act. He did not name them in his decree, but Mrs. Ostermond filed assault and battery charges against two sisters, Mrs. Rita E. Tomers and Mrs. Leta B. Menard.

For reasons of poor health, he announced today by the Most Rev. Ambrose Giovanni Ciochmann, apostolic delegate to the United States.

The announcement made no mention of the excommunication incident, but it said the Episcopal of Lafayette, with one of the largest Negro populations in the United States, has been the scene of Bishop Jeannerd's strenuous efforts to provide church administration and education for the Negro people.

About a third of all passengers between Paris and London travel by air, says the Twentieth Century Fund.

Two Hearings Set by Board

Two public hearings will be held by the Board of Directors April 2 on additional appropriations to the budget, which will not add materially to the net budget for the year.

The hearings were fixed last night on an appropriation of $9,398.75 to the Park Department to replace some equipment destroyed by the Feb. 19 fire in a department building on Middle Temple.

The town's insurance coverage will repay $4,510.94 of that cost.

For much of the fire-damaged equipment, the insurance firm made out checks to the vendors of the replacement equipment and the town endorsed the checks.

That practice was not feasible, General Manager Richard Martin told the Board, for the items involved in the $9,398.75 investment. The other hearing will be on an $8,000 transfer from one Police Department account to another in the budget.

Adopt Permit Fees

1. Adopted new building permit fee effective April 1.
2. Accepted a deed from Andrew Arnold and portion of the deed to a woman who thought she was selling to him in Dobsonville, a section of Vernon.
3. Valued the competitive bid requirement for repair to the fire-damaged park building.
4. Heard a Town Planning Commission recommendation to provide a 50-foot road between Greenwood Dr. and Vernon St. and to acquire the property free from its owner, Edward Lynch.

Lynch wants a water line run through the back of his lot. He has properties as he can sell lots there. The town fearing that the water right-of-way will become a narrow road which will be a town headache, wants a road there.

The Directors made no decision on whether to agree to the road and asked Martin to get estimates of the cost of the paving and to inquire if Lynch will be willing to turn the land over to the town.

Pitkin to Retire

In his reports to the Hon. Martin:

1. Lauded the Highway Department workers for the job done in paving and renovating more in the double bazaar.
2. Noted that William Pitkin, long-time Highway Department worker and a member of the Pension Board, is ready to retire and apply for pension. He will have to be replaced by another in the employ of the Pension Board.

He joined the Highway Department in connection with liability for streets in subdivisions. He said the town customarily accepts portions of a subdivision as they are completed before the entire subdivision is finished. One suit is pending against the town for an industry someone received on a street which had not been accepted. He suggested developers might be required to have insurance coverage to protect the town against such suits.

Board Accepts Bid on Bonds

By unanimous vote, the Board of Directors last night authorized the general manager to borrow $2,250,000 from the First Boston Corporation of New York and Associates at an interest rate of slightly less than 2.7 per cent.

That syndicate submitted the lowest of nine bids received by the town earlier yesterday.

General Manager Richard Martin told the Directors last night the 2.7 rate is the highest the town has had to pay in recent years. He said the bond market is unfavorable to sellers now and that the bonds have long maturities which makes them less attractive to dealers.

The bonds are divided into three

Concludes Series At Center Church

The Rev. Roscoe F. Metzger, pastor of the Bloomfield Federated Church, will be the speaker at the fifth and concluding meeting in the series of midweek Lenten services at the Center Congregational Church to be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the sanctuary.

The Rev. Mr. Metzger has been pastor of the Bloomfield church since the end of World War II, in which he served as chaplain with the Air Force. He was educated at Rutgers and Union Theological Seminary and was ordained in 1933. He has also served churches in Ellington and Dover, Del.

"The topic for the series has been 'Prayer.' The Rev. Mr. Metzger will speak on the subject from his personal experience as well as each of the four speakers who preceded him. The worship service at all of these meetings has been conducted by the Rev. R. Russell Peary, associate minister of Center Church. Music has been under the direction of Mrs. Barron McClellan, Adrien, church organist.

This meeting will be sponsored by the Bethany Group, which will serve refreshments in the vestibule immediately following the service.

farmer dissatisfaction with price and income declines under the Eisenhower administration and with party promises of higher price supports.

Little Help Now

The President's administration's soil bank plan will provide farmers with a $1 billion loan this year, but it can be set up before planting time. But farmers in the South already are planting. Rice, corn and seedling will get into full production in other parts of the country next month.

The Agriculture Department has said that if the soil bank plan is not enacted before April 15, it would be virtually impossible to set it up this year.

The Senate approved the soil bank in a many-faceted farm bill which it passed Monday night. But that bill must be compromised with a vastly different measure passed by the House last year—a thorny and probably lengthy procedure.

Then, too, the Senate bill contains many features opposed by the administration. GOP leaders said after a talk with President Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Benson yesterday they do not see how it can be approved unless drastic changes are made in the legislative conference.

Could Benefit GOP

Some other GOP strategists say that if Congress does not pass a soil bank plan in time for this year, the crop bill would be fatal to their party. Rather, they argue that it would be a vote for the benefit of the GOP.

In the first place, they say that politically speaking it would be easier for Eisenhower to veto an unfavorable farm bill after planting time than before. They say he should point out the merits of a bill providing both a soil bank and administration-opposed price support increases would not deny farmers benefits of the soil bank if passage came too late.

Instead, they say, the President would be in a position to blame the Democratic-controlled Congress.

In fact, some party strategists contend that a soil bank plan lifted up in Congress or passed too late would be a better campaign issue for the GOP than would such a plan actually in operation. They with the Turks to "kill the men and rape the women."

More than 50 persons were injured at Nicosia, including at least 15 Turkish women. But there was no report of rapes.

Kucuk warned that if another incident of this kind occurred, the Greek Cypriot government would take over the island.

The Turkish minority opposed the Greek Cypriot proposal for union with Greece. Kucuk said that Turkey would take over the island.

Britain has issued Archbishop Makarios, leader of the Greek Cypriot side, to the Indian Ocean Seychelles islands. The Archbishop "pled to win his demands for self-determination in five months of negotiations with the British. The British charged that he was at least partly responsible for the campaign of violence."

Towns Will Air Property Taxes

Rockville, March 21 (Special)—The Poland County Farm Extension Service, concerned about the property tax problem facing farmers in area towns, has called public hearings in Cornwall, Cornwallis and Ellington to study the situation.

County Agricultural Agent John H. Elliott said today the problem is based on rising values of property and on the fact that tax levies of these towns, in most areas, are based on property. In most small, inland County towns, as a result, Elliott said, farmers and other big landowners are being hard-pressed on the basis of property taxes, regardless of what their farms produce.

Elliott said Prof. Harold Hall, of the University of Connecticut has compiled figures which show that area education costs are expected to rise 33 per cent in the next eight years. In some towns, the increase could be as high as 50 per cent.

Area property taxes on farms in 1955 averaged about $500, while the non-farm average was about $340, Elliott pointed out.

Meeting dates in the problem mentioned by extension agents, is that people moving into area towns from the urban areas are demanding better roads and other improved conditions in addition to needed educational facilities.

Meeting dates:

Since the towns are without industry, Elliott said, the tax burden for these improvements fall upon the property owners and especially farmers. At the public meetings, Ellington, Monday at the Town Hall; Cornwall, March 23 at the Town Hall; representatives of the Extension Service will offer several proposals.

Two of them, in the rough (Khrushchev in his speech reportedly said Stalin had murdered thousands of Army personnel and Soviet citizens on trumped-up charges during the bloody purges of the 1930s and the later years. The party secretary also accused Stalin of committing irreparable blunders in the war against Hitler.

The New York Herald Tribune reported today from Moscow that Khrushchev also said Stalin before his death had planned to liquidate the State Farm Bureau resolver last year. It also developed that the State Farm Bureau resolver last year. It also developed that the State Farm Bureau resolver last year. It also developed that the State Farm Bureau resolver last year.

Drivers' Licenses Must Carry Seal

A young driver was acquitted of a charge of failure to obtain a driver's license in Town Court today when his mother said it was her failure to comply with the law which caused him to be technically without a license.

However, Judge Wesley Gryn said he was not making his use of a precedent and hoped drivers would take note of the rules to follow when renewing licenses.

The Motor Vehicle Department will send a blank to a driver with an expiring license. One half will be the new license.

But—and this is the important part—the license will then be good only after it has been returned to the Motor Vehicle Department with the license fee and been validated with the State seal.

Signing the license and pocketing it after it is first received from the Motor Vehicle Department will not be enough.

Ochab Elected New Leader of Reds in Poland awarded Ochab the Red Star for his services in the Battle of Lenino as deputy commander of the 1st Polish Army. In 1944 he was assigned to work in the Provisional Polish Government formed in Moscow and in 1947 was elected to parliament. His rise thereafter was meteoric.

Ochab became chief of the Co-operative Council, with broad powers over Poland's peasants. In 1948 he was named president of the powerful Central Committee of Polish Trade Unions. A year later he was named first vice minister of national defense with the rank of brigadier general.

John Poliburo

By January 1956, Ochab was political chief of the Polish Army. He moved out of that job to membership on the Politburo of the party's Central Committee.

Warsaw Radio also announced that Soviet Communist party chief Nikita S. Khrushchev left the Polish capital today after attending funeral services for Bierut.

In London, there was speculation that Khrushchev had remained after the funeral last Friday to take to be pleased with 30 per cent of the vote. That he wanted to get. Stevenson said on election day that he would be satisfied with 25 per cent of the ballots.

Stunning Phenomenon

Mrs. Clara Shipper of San Francisco, vice chairman of the national campaign, described Kefauver's victory as an astounding political phenomenon.

Combined with his New Hampshire victory, she said, it "shows that the Senator's strength is national, not sectional."

In Los Angeles, Joseph Donohue, Kefauver's national campaign manager, said he was delighted but not surprised by the victory.

"I think the inescapable conclusion is that Sen. Kefauver is the only candidate who can successfully run against the President," Donohue said. "If the Democratic horse race is to be won by that need Kefauver, they're going to be out of business."

Among the districts Kefauver carried was the fourth (St. Paul), long a Democratic stronghold. In a row, following his sweep in Hampshire, the second primary was the first head-on contest between Kefauver and Stevenson, who did not run in New Hampshire.

His supporters blamed cross-over voting by Republicans—possibly Minnesota because there is no party registration—for Stevenson's defeat.

Good Boost for Estes

Gerard Healy, Democratic national committee chairman, said Kefauver's apparent cross-over in "wholesale" had not hurt the candidate they thought would be strongest in November.

He conceded that Kefauver's Minnesota victory would give him a good shot at the White House.

Sen. Humphrey said in Washington that it was not his fault that the Democratic primary had become a hunting ground for the Republicans.

Another Stevenson supporter, Sen. Sparkman (D-La.), said Stevenson's 1952 running mate, said the result of the primary that Republican were responsible for his victory.

If the Republicans had switched over to me, I would have made the Fifth District, which is heavily Republican."

Congratulating Kefauver, Gov. Freeman said "a lot of Republicans voted for you. I hope they stay with us. The Democratic chairman, said the primary result was a vote for continuation of Eisenhower leadership."

He added that the rank and file of the DFL party have lashed out against the harsh, historical control of the little clique in the state capital."

During the campaign, Kefauver accused the party leadership of trying to keep him out of the race and attempting to deny Minnesota voters a free choice in the primary.

Stevenson supporters retorted that Kefauver was guilty of "political demagoguery" in trying to make it appear he was being a machiner. Stevenson himself said Kefauver's tactics would play into the hands of Republicans who sought to divide the Democrats.

In the 1952 presidential primary, former Gov. Harold Stassen got 129,076 votes to Eisenhower's 108,000 write-ins and in the general election, Eisenhower got 607,099 to 538,865.

Because of the ballot lineup which had all chief contenders' names listed and made no provision for vice presidential write-ins, this year's election provided no write-in surprises. An undetermined number of ballots were voided by voters attempting to write in the name of Vice President Nixon.

But Secretary of Agriculture Benson got at least one write-in vote on the Republican ticket from a farm precinct.

Youth Drowned, Fell Through Ice

New York, March 21 (AP)—The day was perfect for an ambitious boy.

School was closed. Snow was a foot high and many housewives were eager to hire a strong 14-year-old to shovel sidewalks. The boy, Philip Bruno, 14, of Queens Village, was the ambitious boy. With shovel over his shoulder and accompanied by two pals, Joseph Silverman, 14, and Edward Burns, 14, he started out.

They took a shortcut across a warm morning sun had softened the snow-covered ice. There was a sharp crack. Bruno plunged into the water and disappeared. Bruno fell in, also, but clung to the ice. Silverman

Cut Lawman's Suspension

New Britain, March 21 (AP)—The city's Civil Service Commission last night reduced from six months to three a suspension of a policeman accused of trying to pick up 20-year-old Manchester woman in his car in Hartford.

Patrolman Stanley J. Nadeau was arrested on a charge of breach of the peace, but prosecution was dropped. Nadeau's lawyer said the woman made no complaint, and Nadeau probably wouldn't have been arrested if he had been more cooperative with Hartford Police.

Bridgeport Girl Beaten by Trio

Bridgeport, March 21 (AP)—A high school girl accused of stealing a $300 diamond necklace in a heavy contest today police said three girls beat her up in an unprovoked attack and made off with her shoes.

Georgia Poulos, 18, said she walked barefooted through slush and snow nearly half a mile to her home after she had been assaulted about 8 o'clock last night. Police Sgt. Jules Matus said she told this story.

She was walking near Seaside Park when a car pulled up at the curb and the occupants called to her.

Assuming they were friends, Miss Poulos walked toward the car. Three girls entered from it, knocked her down, whereupon two of them held her prone on the sidewalk while a third lighted matches to her hands.

Miss Poulos, at a successful entrant in a recent "Miss Bridgeport" contest, was arrested March 19 after her picture appeared in a local newspaper. Employees of a downtown store said the white bathing suit Miss Poulos was wearing when photographed was stolen from them.

She was charged with theft of goods exposed for sale, and released in $100 bond.

Her city court arraignment is scheduled for April 4.
