Finance Unit to Be Named
By Selectmen Before May 10

Rockville, April 18 (Special)—The selectmen of the town of Rockville, in the wake of the Vermont residents who have named a Finance Unit to be named by the Board of Selectmen last night when that Board met to appoint a new Board of Finance, however the legality of operating town schools without a budget remains unanswered.

Acting on a legal opinion rendered Town Council Harry H. Lugg the unit picked one of two alternatives offered by law in choosing a new Board of Finance. The alternative, according to Lugg's opinion, would be to hold a special election to fill the vacancies.

The selectmen will make their Board of Finance appointments before May 10 as the law provides vacancies must be filled within 30 days from the date they occur.

The second Board of Finance would be named by the Board of Selectmen. The Board of Finance would be named by the Board of Selectmen. The Board of Finance would be named by the Board of Selectmen.

A-V Workshop Held at School

An interesting and inspiring Audio-Visual Workshop for Manchester teachers was held at Buckley School yesterday under the direction of Arthur Lalzime, A-V director, with the cooperation of Vernon Hamlin and Miss Marjorie Laidholm, principals of Buckley and South schools, respectively.

Arthur H. Hling, superintendent of schools, in his word of welcome, stressed the fact that through the use of A-V aids the quality of instruction has improved. Teachers have become more creative and the child's scope of interest has been broadened.

Interest in Sale of County Building Wanes

Rockville, April 18 (Special)—Interest in the sale of the Tolland County Home in Vernon, Conn., has apparently all but died. The home has been up for public bids for some time, and on Friday as closing day for receiving bids, County Commissioner Francis L. Prichard said today none have been received.

However, the commissioners are expecting one bid—from the town of Vernon. Selectmen said last week they were preparing a bid on the property, which the town is interested in obtaining for possible classroom space.

Board May Fight Sidewalk Claims

The Board of Directors balked again last night at paying claims to persons alleging they are injured on defective sidewalks.

Such claims have always rankled the Directors, and last night the Board refused to approve three settlements recommended by Town Councilman Charles N. Crockett and the Board's claims committee.

The Directors decided to meet with Council Tuesday to discuss the cases with a view toward fighting the claims in court if necessary.

All cases should go before the court unless there is reasonable doubt as to liability. Director Harry Pirato objected.

Director Walter Mahoney based his objection on a statement in a newspaper report of a Superior Court case.

The board decided that, before it was possible to get the cooperation of the architect, Willard Wilkins, in a modified renovation project, the Board should first get the cooperation of the architect, Willard Wilkins, in a modified renovation project.

The building for kindergarten classes and has said it would consider renovating the larger building for elementary classrooms if purchased.

In making the bid, selectmen emphasized that if the offer is accepted by the county, it would be subject to approval by Vernon townpeople.

Disposition of the home has been pondered by the commissioners and county legislators since it became vacant last July, when all welfare children were placed under State care. Decision to sell was made last November, when the legislators recommended the commissioners seek bids.

Last fall, at the height of the bidding, it was reported that the town of Vernon had expressed interest in purchasing the home.

Among them were reportedly a private hospital, who wanted to convert the building to rest home, a real estate developer and the Tolland County Farm Bureau. The Farm Bureau, one of the

Ike Can Afford Luxury Of Moderate Campaign

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Staff
Washington, April 18 (AP)—Politics in the United States today depends on how you feel. If you feel pretty confident, you can play it relaxed. That's how President Eisenhower is playing it right now.

His speech last night, in effect opening his campaign for reelection, was a concentrated collection of generalities and high-sounding principles. His whole talk was about "people and principles or anything else was probably the most significant point in his talk to the Republican strategy conference here.

He was even nice to the Democrats, acknowledging they are just like Republicans in their loyalty and devotion to the nation and differ only in methods, traditions and philosophy.

Since politicians can build a campaign around attacks on their opponent's methods and philosophy, as Eisenhower himself did against the Democrats in 1952, he left himself plenty of room for future maneuver.

Apparently he doesn't think he had to get down to cases yet. To be able to launch a campaign on the vague plane used last night is a kind of political luxury. It's a luxury Eisenhower can enjoy for a while, at least.

He doesn't have to worry about getting the Republican nomination. He has it sewed up. And not until their August convention will the Democrats pick a candidate to throw against him.

All Eisenhower sees in front of him now are two Democrats—Adlai Stevenson and Estes Kefauver—battling each other around the country for their party's nomination.

After the conventions Eisenhower may have to get rough, talk on the issues, be specific, and make promises. Perhaps even then he won't feel he has to do much of that. He already has said that because of his heart condition he won't go stumping the country.

He may do what President Roosevelt did to Republican Thomas E. Dewey in 1944: Try to break off the opposing candidate with a few relaxed speeches demanding for victory on public devotion and appreciation.

It will be unusual if he gets by as easily as Roosevelt did. Roosevelt had one thing in his political favor which Eisenhower lacks: There was a war and a great public reluctance for change right then.

And this year both Democrats and Republicans are anxious because of the strong feeling about racial segregation—for the northern Negro vote and the white Southern vote. They also are warring the farm vote.

Eisenhower addressed himself to the farmers Monday night. Last night, because of his references to equality, no matter what the race, it can be assumed he was talking about civil rights and desegregation.

If he was, he never said so in so many words. That he said what he vaguely did may have been some comfort—but perhaps not much—to the Negroes who want segregation in the South ended of fact.

At the same time Eisenhower's very vagueness in this field could hardly have antagonized white southerners toward the Republican party. It's doubtful he can remain this vague on this issue to the end of the campaign.

Red Aim Unaltered By Cominform End

move came yesterday from deputy Soviet Premier A. I. Mikoyan.

The official announcement said the purpose was to "overcome the division of the workers' party."

This was a frank reference to Moscow's desire for establishment of united fronts between Europe's Socialists and Communists, as well as to the Stalin-Tito split between Yugoslavia and the Soviet bloc.

The expansion of the Socialist system beyond the Soviet Union's borders, it added, had carried new conditions.

"The Information Bureau of the Communist and Workers' Parties (Cominform), both in its composition and in the substance of its activities, does not meet these conditions," the announcement said.

The dissolution was agreed on after they decided the Stalin-sponsored bureau set up in 1947 had "exhausted its functions."

Pravda's editorial clearly indicated the move was a matter of expediency.

He said it was vital to take into consideration the new dictum by Soviet party chief Nikita S. Khrushchev that it has now come possible for Communists to take power by parliamentary means, without violence.

"New possibilities have opened for uniting parliaments for transforming capitalist society into a socialist one in individual countries," the editorial declared.

Under these circumstances, Communists and workers parties, must, as never before, especially thoroughly consider the differences and national conditions of their countries.

Communists can unite all national democratic elements in their countries only on condition that they remain as parties of the working class, will at the same time fully express the national aspirations and interests of their people.

"Communist parties are faced with special tasks in eliminating the division in the working class movement and creating the unity of the working class in the struggle for its urgent vital interests and rights, in the struggle for peace and socialism."

The objective prerequisites have matured at the present time for uniting the efforts of the workers' parties and workers' organizations are primarily Communist and Socialist parties as the main trends of the contemporary workers' movement."

Argentine Probe Hits Peron Waste

Buenos Aires, April 18 (AP)—Outlet director Juan D. Peron spent about 65 million dollars during the last year of his 18-year regime to corrupt Argentina's youth, a government report says.

The National Investigating Committee reported on activities of the union of secondary students, youth organization formed by Peron after his wife, Eva, died in 1952.

Peron now is an exile in Panama.

The report said Peron set up the student union to serve his "personal and political ends" and incited the youths to rebel against conventional, moral, customs and institutions.

Very Reasonable Blackmail

The Soviet statement on the Near East made yesterday is important news.

The best guess, all along, was that Russia did not want war, but that she wanted recognition, prestige and influence.

What has happened now, in the Russian statement of yesterday, is a relatively easy answering of these questions.

For what the Russian statement judges support and cooperation to be the United Nations effort for peace in the Near East.

Having apparently determined to play the game this reasonable and moderate way, Russia has immediately contributed to the chances of success for the United Nations effort by warning all parties in the Near East, including the Arab states, not to resort to war.

Further, it behoves distinguished visitors to bear gifts, and this gift, which may possibly be one of peace in the Near East, is by far the most handsome gift Khushchev and Bulganin could possibly bring to a worried and desperate Britain.

Killing Kindness?

Apparently, the way to stir up trouble for Franco, the Spanish dictator, is to be friendly to him, not to condemn and ostracize him, as we did during the years when we thought that the dictator had been fought to get rid of him too, as well as Hitler and Mussolini, who helped put him in.

At any rate, during the years when we had the freeze on Franco, he seemed to do well enough. But now, since we have been kind and friendly to him, his troubles seem to be multiplying.

There's an out-of-work Magician named "GIZMO" the great" living at Mrs. Googart's boarding house this month.

New York (AP)—To get ahead in the entertainment world, says Hal Boyle, you have to be willing to turn down jobs and eat macaroni.

Veteran Bolsheviks Emerge From Stalin's Obscurity Veil

Moscow, April 18 (AP)—Old Bolshevik veterans of the Russian revolution are emerging from the shadows into which Joseph Stalin has thrust them.

The official sanctioned re-entrance into public prominence of the Bolshevik revolution is part of the party's program to cut Stalin down to size.

The re-emergence of the remnant of old Bolsheviks does not mean that they represent an important political force in the country.

Stalin seemed to have a particular dislike for old Bolsheviks. He was responsible for dissolving the Society of Old Bolsheviks, a once powerful organization for the expression of the opinion of the old revolutionaries.

Anne Frank Diary Wins Play Award

New York, April 18 (AP)—The Diary of Anne Frank, has won the New York Drama Critics Circle Award as the best new American play.

The play previously won the coveted Antoinette Perry Award for the American Theater Wing as the outstanding play of the season.

"My Fair Lady," the musical version of Shaw's "Pygmalion," was chosen as the best musical, receiving the first unanimous vote in the 21-year history of the critics' awards.

"Tiger at the Gates" was voted the best foreign play.

Bolton Students Given Many, Varied Articles for Coming Auction

Bolton, April 18 (Special)—A TV set, an 87-year-old pocket watch, a clock, an outdoor motor, a bureau, and many other articles were given to Grade 8 children this week during their canvass for the Bolton, Morris, Grade 8 teacher, who directed the canvass, said enough articles had been given to fill a 3-story garage.

Morris said about 35 of the town's 40 eighth graders, a number of parents, went from door to door all over town from 2 to 7 o'clock in Sunday's rain.

Morris, referring to the search as "fruitful and towpersonable," said he had received many telegrams, letters, and other donations were given to the children.

Whatever is not sold at the auction, Morris said, will be given to the Ladies of St. Maurice, who are holding an auction on May 1.

Eisenhower Airs Policy In '56 Re-election Drive

Eisenhower has said he would be happy to run on any ticket with Nixon, but that Nixon must chart his own course. Last night, Nixon may have indicated, at least indirectly, that he had made a decision to seek re-election.

Introduced by GOP Chairman Leonard W. Hall, who repeatedly has assured Nixon would be on the ticket, the Vice President told Eisenhower:

"We shall serve in any capacity necessary to assure your reelection to the position you now hold. We pledge ourselves here and now to do our best to give you in November what you need and deserve to carry out your program and to win the House and Senate."

Eisenhower, half turned in his chair, listened intently as Nixon said that "What marks any great President is summed up in one word, courage—courage to do the right thing as he sees it regardless of what the political consequences might appear to be at the time."

Nixon said most politicians believed the easiest way was for the President to sign the farm bill. But he said Eisenhower did what he thought was right in vetoing it.

"I make the prediction that this action of the President not only will prove to be best for the American farmer and the American people; but in the end will prove to be politically wiser as well," Nixon said.

Some Critical Letters

Eisenhower told the Republican leaders—most of whom had closed ranks in support of his action—that he had received a flood of messages. He said some were critical, citing one from a man in California who he said advised him to "ride out Secretary of Agriculture Benson and follow him yourself as fast as you can."

Eisenhower said the writer accused him of being persuaded by his "rich business friends" to "betray the farmers of the U.S."

Eisenhower said every message he had from a business man urged him to sign the bill.

Eisenhower said the future course of the country will be at stake in the November election.

"Americans will decide the course our Republic shall take through a four-year span of intense capability problems and mighty challenges; of many dangers for the timid and weak; of rewarding opportunities for the courageous and wise."

Eisenhower said that on whether the Republicans will "depend the progress we shall make toward a 'No Walls of Birth or Creed'."

He stressed the Civil Rights theme with an assertion that the Republican party "sets up no walls of birth or creed."

"I said it was one of the fundamental principles of the GOP that every American is equal before the law and the conscience of government."

Hall told the largest audience he thinks the 1956 campaign will

The full description of her clothing followed.

Just as Straton finished his report, Patrolman Primo Amadeo, in a cruiser, called to his sergeant and reported that he had the little girl in his custody and was looking for her home. Minutes before the cruiser, the alert patrolman had found the little girl wandering in the neighborhood.

When told where the tot lived, Amadeo drove the little girl home and she was reunited with her worried mother.

Cop Hot on Tot Tip

Shortly before 10:45 this morning, Sgt. Milton Straton of the Manchester Police Department broadcast a message on the police radio to all officers.

"There is a little girl who lives at 41-Lake St. who is missing. She is 3-years-old."

The full description of her clothing followed.

Just as Straton finished his report, Patrolman Primo Amadeo, in a cruiser, called to his sergeant and reported that he had the little girl in his custody and was looking for her home. Minutes before the cruiser, the alert patrolman had found the little girl wandering in the neighborhood.

When told where the tot lived, Amadeo drove the little girl home and she was reunited with her worried mother.

Hike Sought In Water at Shore Area

The Public Utilities Commission has reserved decision in an application for a 25 per cent increase in water rates at Point-O-Woods in South Lyme.

Forty property owners opposed the increase at a public hearing in Hartford yesterday. W. S. Travis, acting chairman of the Board of Governors at Point-O-Woods; and P. M. Heald spoke for property owners, claiming that water is costly and has risen when bottled, mains are not large enough to handle the required load on weekends when the demand increases, many cottages get no water at all during these peak periods and pressure is greatly reduced at other cottages. Both objected to an increase until such time as the Point-O-Woods Water Co. takes steps to correct the water situation at the beach.

The opponents also claimed that there has been an increase in the number of cottages at the beach, but no increase in service or facilities has been provided by the company.

Several local residents who own property at the beach would be affected. It could not be determined if any attended the hearing, but three here this morning said they were opposed to the hike.

If granted, the rate rise would affect the first faucet charge raising it from $10 to $15 a year. All 30 customers would be affected. Present company rates are $10 for the first faucet, $2 for the second faucet, $2 for a wash bowl, $2 for a bath, $2 for a laundry tub, $2 for a water closet, and $5 for a shower. No water is provided for lawns and garages. According to John B. Wolshuber of the company, speaking at the hearing, the average rate for a customer per year is $22.40, and service is provided from April 1 to about Nov. 30.

An increase of 25 per cent would increase the company's annual income by $1,800.

Applications for the same increase were sought by the White Sands Beach Water Co. of Old Lyme and the Black Point Water Co. of Black Point. No opposition was voiced and decision was reserved by the P.U.C.

While Sands has 47 customers and the hike would increase its income of $735, Black Point's 260 customers would increase the company's revenue by $1,325.

Although half the German Lighthouses were destroyed in World War II there is more reference material in the country than ever before.

Film Queen Grace Kelly Weds Rainier III, Becomes Princess

Just as they stepped out on the balcony, the sun came out for the first time today. Before that day had been gray and cloudy, threatening rain.

Grace was dressed in a rose beige silk suit on which silk lace designs had been stitched. It had a fitted jacket, and a bell-shaped skirt, dropping below the knee. Her tiny tiara was of pleated organza, exposing her blonde hair both fore and aft. On the right side was a tiny cluster of flowers and green leaves.

Rainier and all the other men of the ceremony except members of the church, was in formal morning suit and striped trousers.

"Tall and calmly regal, Grace had entered the throne room first, following two officials in tailcoats and medals. Then came her family, and then the prince and his family.

The couple took seats on red upholstered Louis XIV chairs facing Porticiers. Both stared straight ahead as the formal ceremony was read, the same in Monaco as it is in France in all essential details.

Each wife up with the same question.

Grace was the first to reply "oui" in a low voice when asked if she took the prince and his family. Then Porticiers turned to Rainier with the question, the prince replying with an even lower "oui."

Porticiers then picked up the book of marriage registers, and then the prince and his family, and then the bride and groom, who signed with a fountain pen and a flourish. Then the book went to Grace, who fixed a dainty, feminine signature.

As the signing came forward to the registrar, the couple looked at each other, smiling briefly. He still looked strained and stiff.

Finally after the witnesses had all signed, the bride and groom led the guests out of the throne room and down a hall lined with busts of past rulers of Monaco. Photographers came in to snap the party and then Rainier for the first time released as he and his bride started the procession.

Half married.

Eighty-one guests were crowded into the throne room, all eyes on the legged gilded chairs. But only a brief two dozen followed into the private apartment where the bride and groom began at once to compliment the new Princess.

To one of her bridesmaids, Grace remarked:

"I am half way married now," echoing her father's comment.

To Mr. Kelly it was a great day, but he was not overwhelmed.

"What do you think of your new son-in-law?" he was asked.

"He seems to be a nice boy," he replied, "if he is half as nice as the other two we have he will be all right."

"What do you call him?" "We call him Ray."

"Does this marriage give you any titles?"

"I don't think so," Kelly replied, "I want only to be the father of the Duke of Schuykill. That's what I did all my rowing."

Philadelphia.

After the Prince and Princess sail away on their honeymoon tomorrow, the senior Kellys, leaving for Paris, and will start home next week. The junior Kellys, Jack and wife, will fly to Spain for a few days, then home.

Asked when he expected to see his daughter again, the senior Kelly said "not for quite a long time. I suppose, I think she is coming to the States next fall."

For the Prince and the Princess, the marriage ceremony was only a part of the work of the day. A luncheon for the diplomatic delegations to the wedding followed the ceremony.

Garden Reception Tonight

In the afternoon the people of Monaco were welcomed to a garden reception at the palace.

Tonight the couple were to go to a gala in the Opera House sheltered in the Casino. The program includes a series of ball numbers by the London Festival Ballet Company and the Paris Opera

Grace's Gown 'Regal Style'

Monte Carlo, April 18 (AP)—The wedding dress Grace Kelly will wear tomorrow is described as a "regal style" designed along Renaissance lines. It represents the work by 35 persons in the wardrobe department of the actress studio (Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer).

Into the ivory silk tulle and lace creation, Academy award winning designer Helen Rose put 25 yards of pearl de soie—that's heavy tulle, 25 yards of silk tulle, 100 yards of silk net, and 300 yards of val lace (marquetry strips) for the petticoats.

The gown combining the ivory pearl de soie and rose point lace has a cathedral train 3 1/2 yards long. The long-pleated bodice is of rose point lace, remounted so there are no seams. It is closed down the front with tiny lace buttons and fitted with a foundation of silk mouliné of pure French tonnage.

The pseudo sole overabundance of lace and embroidered with thousands of tiny pearls. It is attached to the bodice with tiny orange seed pearls. Embroidered on the back of the veil are two tiny lace garlands.

The bride will carry a prayer book in the left hand and a rosary in the right. The crown on which the crown is used for the gown. The crown on her hair is embroidered in small pearls.

Philadelphia Miss Kelly's homecoming will get the gown for its Museum of Art, after the wedding. But the studio's description pointed out that the second of the three necklaces is a "regal" style "could be made into an evening dress."

Crowds Cheer Britain Arrival Of Red Chiefs

for the arrival of visiting royalty and heads of state. This perhaps was because Bulgaria is head of a government, not a chief of state.

The two Soviet leaders sailed into Portsmouth harbor this morning aboard the sleek, 12,000-ton Soviet cruiser Orskonikovo.

The cruiser's guns boomed out 21-gun salutes in honor of Queen Elizabeth, Britain's head of state.

Bulgarian and Khrushchev will be presented to Queen Elizabeth and will see most of London's great historical attractions. They also will visit the atomic research center at Harwell and will tour the great industrial city of Birmingham.

Their first day was left free for rest after the voyage. They had no official engagements.

Tomorrow they will go twice to No. 10 Downing St.—the official residence of the Prime Minister—in the morning for talks with Eden and in the evening for dinner. They also will lay a wreath at the Cenotaph, Britain's war memorial, and attend a reception at the Soviet Embassy.

"Scattered Showers," a 1-act play, will be presented by members of the Manchester Green PTA tonight at 8 o'clock in the school auditorium. A short business meeting will precede the play, during which a nominating committee will be formed to choose candidates for next year's officers.

The play by Nora Sussing concerns the reactions of three average mothers confronted with the problems of a discussion of the points illustrated by this thought-provoking comedy will be led by Mrs. Robert Alshury, 25 Elmwood Rd. She is a graduate of Vassar College, holds BS and RN degrees from Columbia University, and is a member of the Mental Health organization of Manchester.
