Twining Says Moscow Visit To Look, Listen

Latest developments. The purpose of the trip is to show our Air Force people what the Soviet people are doing in the way of new equipment and its significance. It is truly a professional tour for their big annual show which shows some 200 new types of equipment. Western observers are guessing that when the show is staged Sunday those jets will be filled by some starting new models.

Already glimpsed in the practice formations screaming over Moscow from the nearby Tushino base are two new types of fighters believed to be an experimental model yet in production, and a new wing jet intercontinental bomber, presumably an improved version of the IL-28 displayed last year.

The five empty places in each formation are taken to mean that five more experimental jets are to be unveiled dramatically before an international audience, including the U.S. embassy said yesterday.

The U.S. embassy said yesterday that during Twining's Monday visit to the Soviet Union he may tour previously top secret air installations, plane factories and institutions. The itinerary proposed by the Soviet government and still to be approved by Twining includes a visit to a missile research field outside Moscow, the Zhukovskiy Air Force Academy, and several factories previously barred to westerners.

He also is scheduled to fly to Leningrad, where he will visit the Soviet Air Force Chief of Staff, an agricultural exhibit, the Tretyakov Art Gallery and the Kremlin. Also planned are receptions by Defense Minister Marshal Georgi Zhukov and Chief Marshal of Aviation Pavel Zhigarev.

Accompanying Twining were the following officers: Lt. Gen. Frank T. Everett, deputy chief of staff for operations; Lt. Gen. Donald L. Pitt, deputy chief of staff for development; Lt. Gen. Thomas S. Power, chief of staff for Research and Development Command at Balltmore; Lt. Gen. Clarence S. Irvine, deputy chief of staff for materiel; Maj. Gen. Albert Boyd, deputy commander of Air Research and Development Command; Brig. Gen. William H. Blanchard, deputy director of operations; Col. Thomas W. Wolfe, who has been assigned as air attache at the U.S. embassy in Washington; Lt. Col. William H. McVey, aide in Air Force Headquarters in Washington.

After Marshal Konev had shaken hands with Twining and the rest of the Americans, a Soviet reporter asked Konev whether "such visits can facilitate the lessening of international tensions."

"Absolutely," Konev replied. A host of black limousines drove out on the air strip to pick up Twining and his party. U.S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen intervened and took Twining off with him in his own car. The American flag flying from the right front fender.

Bohlen and Twining went to the Ambassador's residence for a conference. Twining later was scheduled to pay a formal call on President Eisenhower's chief of staff, Marshal Zhukov's Soviet Minister of Defense.

There were about 200 Russians milling around the field to see the historic first meeting of the U.S. top Air Force leader with his Soviet counterpart. Marshal Zhukov, who was introduced by Marshall Konev.

British Air Minister Nigel Birch and French Air Chief Gen. Paul Bledy are due later today, after making jet transfers.

Altogether three delegations from 20 countries in Moscow for the air show. Never before has the Soviet Union invited any such high-ranking visitors to its air display and this naturally led to the expectation that they would see something really spectacular.

Strawberry Plants Survived Late May Frost

The smiling face of Franklin G. Welles of Talcoville writes a happy ending to a story that might have been grim. It began May 20 when Welles, in top photo, surveyed the young strawberry plants. He was wondering whether the ice coating around them had protected them from the late frost.

Welles had sprayed the plants with water from his pump. But the other morning, being as bright as the sun, the frost melted. The plants were picked more of the hardy fruit.

Town Receives Three Garbage Collection Bids

Three bids for garbage collection here were received yesterday by Town Manager Richard Martin. The bids, submitted by Lombardo Brothers, East Hartford, and J. J. Martini, West Hartford, holder of the present collection contract, submitted a bid of $277,500 for rear of dwelling collection and a bid of $336,000 for similar collection.

For the alternate system of removal at the curb, Hartley was the low bidder with a bid of $259,500 for the next three years. Mitchell bid $287,000 for the same system and Hartman, $270,000.

One bid for removal in District 1 was received from the firm of Duda, Westfield. He submitted a bid of $63,700, presumably for the 3-year period.

The new contract contains, as has prior contracts, the stipulation that the collection cost per year be increased $1,000 for each 125 tons excess of the current year's collection.

Martin said the cost of collection of white carnations, the current year's collection, is $184,000. The present contract expires July 1.

Ike to Discuss Politics Today

Members of the party's national convention opening in San Francisco Aug. 29. In making the prediction, Hall said he had received no word yet from the President regarding his plans.

As for the Hall prediction, Hagerty replied simply that Eisenhower does read the newspapers. But the press secretary declined to give any indication of the President's reaction.

Once again, Hagerty said that so far as he knows no members of the President's family, including Mrs. Eisenhower, have discussed politics with him.

Teenagers Facing Breach of Peace Counts in Court

Four 17-year-old youths were arrested, a teenage was turned over to juvenile authorities and charged against another youth in over investigation as the result of a series of events last night stemming from a reckless driving arrest several weeks ago.

Those under arrest are: Richard G. Wallace, 39 Ardmore Rd.; Ronald A. Gustafson, 125 Glenwood St.; Louis H. Gaskill, 19 Virginia Rd.; and Charles E. Boquet, 97 Hackmatack St. All are charged with breach of peace, and all were released on bonds of $50 each.

According to police, events leading to the arrest began several weeks ago when a Granby youth was arrested for reckless driving by Patrolman Walter Gutsmuth after he was caught racing with another car. The other car got away from police, and the youth who was apprehended claimed he did not know who was driving the other car.

Last night the youth was driving in Manchester with a passenger when he spotted that the other car was racing him the night of his arrest. He went to police headquarters and reported the other car, and returned with Patrolman William Shaw to pick up the driver of the other car.

Police report that after the driver was taken to headquarters, his five companions went to the station in another car and loitered in the rear. They found the Granby youth sitting in the front seat of the car, with the young woman sitting in it. They threatened to harm her companion. Police also allege that the teenager grabbed the Granby youth by the neck in an attempt to make her tell the name of the Granby youth.

After police discharged the Granby youth and the driver of the other car, the former drove to Hartford on Rt. 15. He followed the five youths followed, swearing and making remarks as the couple on route to Hartford. At the Charter Oak Bridge toll gate, the Granby youth and State policeman Raymond Liley and told him the story.

Liley took the youths into custody and returned them to Manchester where four were charged with breach of the peace by Patrolman Walter Casella Jr. and juvenile authorities. The latter's claim is being withheld because of his age while the name of the Granby youth is withheld to protect him from possible further intimidation.

The case will continue to investigate the charge against the driver accused by the Granby youth of racing with him. Court date for the four arrested is June 30.
