Dulles To Give Report on Suez To Legislators

While the announced purpose of the Sunday session in Washington was to "brief" the leaders on the latest developments, the Secretary himself presumably wants to determine his attitude concerning how far the United States can go with congressional backing in any support it may give any British and French plans to use force in the Suez situation, if necessary.

Dr. Schweine, who suggested this Droodle, claims that members of the Animal Kingdom should take more exercise such as this because they are, as he put it, "getting soft." To prove it, he insisted on dragging me over to the Central Park Zoo, where he pointed out some lazy lions, a flabby flamingo and several obese swans.

A Thought for Today... Take It Easy... There is a small group of men who are not as anxious about your life, what you eat or what you shall drink, nor about your health, as you shall put out or in 50 not life more than food, and the only thing that you can do to keep it is to eat and drink as you would have your heavenly Father feed them. Are you not more than satisfied with the food that they are giving you? And which of you being anxious can add one cubit to his span of life? And why are you anxious about clothes? Consider the clothes that you wear today. They neither last nor spin; yet I tell you, even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these. But if God so clothes the grass of the field, which today is alive and tomorrow is thrown into the oven, will he not much more clothe you, O men of little faith? Therefore do not be anxious, saying, "What shall we eat?" or "What shall we drink?" or "What shall we wear?" For all these things your heavenly Father knows that you need them, all. But seek first his kingdom and his righteousness, and all these things shall be yours as well. (Matthew 6:25-33)

Hal Boyle Hollywood's Code Puzzles French

New York (AP)—No matter what Hollywood rules, it'll never get so many Frenchmen to see anything as important as a double bed.

sumably saw the undraped bosoms of some night club chorines. "Why should he look embarrassed?" argued the French cameraman. "That's how the French perform in a night club."

The cameraman also couldn't understand why Krausa wouldn't let him turn his lens on the chorines and put them in the film. Patiently, the producer explained the scene wouldn't pass Hollywood's film moral test.

"What's immoral about a bosom?" demanded the cameraman, unconvinced. "In a later bedroom scene in which Adolphe Menjou and Myrna Loy played the ambassador and his wife, Krausa ordered the double bed removed from the set and replaced by twin beds."

At first the French crew thought Krausa was joking. Then they began to suspect it was a plot to ridicule their nation by spreading the falsehood that French husbands and wives used twin beds.

"All married couples in France sleep in double beds," they insisted. "It is the only way."

When Krausa explained again that Hollywood's strange morality code required twin beds, one Frenchman observed: "These Americans—they must all have ailed minds."

The twin beds proved an expensive item. None could be found to match the rest of the 100-year-old furniture in the bedroom set, and a new pair had to be built.

Krausa, a slender, quick-witted man of 46 who started his theatrical career as a copy boy for critic Alexander Woolcott, had another problem intact. He had to turn down U.S. Ambassador C. Douglas Dillon's courteous offer to use the American embassy in Paris for his exterior shots.

"An American audience wouldn't think it glamorous enough," he said. "So we used one of the Roshilds' castles."

The producer said his experiment in employing all-French technical crews probably would be successful.

Marble Monument Erected In Honor of Clark Griffith

Washington, Aug. 9 (AP)—A marble monument stands today at the entrance to Washington's ball park in honor of the late Clark Griffith—the man who symbolized baseball in his nation's capital for 44 years.
