Russia Warns West On Use of Strength

It had received some applications from German pilots in other countries.

Two Italian pilots were hired in Rome. The Egyptian embassy announced the two already had left for Egypt and said applications from many other Italians were being processed.

The Moscow radio hammered away at the 15th station plan. U.S. sources in London expressed belief Russia was trying to make it difficult for Nasser to accept the plan as a basis for negotiation.

The Suez Canal Conference has shown again the policy of force does not accord with new conditions and that Nasser's attempts to take action against the will and desire of people who are awakening in the East are doomed to failure. The Moscow Radio said quoting an article in the government newspaper, Izvestia.

In justification of the Suez problem, vigilance is needed as the colonizers have not renounced their attempts to exert pressure on Egypt.

While the Russians were raising alarms over the danger of resorting to force and that a conflict over Suez could not be limited to that area, there was much less talk in the west of military measures if Nasser rejects the proposals.

Britain and France continued building up forces in the Mediterranean. About 15,000 British troops in Egypt. A British government spokesman indicated that the responsible not to have sufficient military strength nearby to protect these national interests.

Many Egyptians and foreigners in Cairo were convinced Britain was not bluffing when she moved warships and paratroop troops within striking distance of Suez. The Egyptian government appeared to be trying to avoid any incident that might lead to a clash.

Several of the delegates who attended the London conference— including U.S. Secretary of State Dulles and the foreign ministers of France and West Germany—said they hope that Egypt would accept the majority proposal.

But Soviet Foreign Minister Shepilov warned of serious consequences in the Middle East if the West tries to break Egypt's grip on the Suez Canal.

Shepilov departed by plane for Moscow today. Dulles left for Washington yesterday.

The Soviet Union seemed to be making its propaganda troops to support a rejection from Nasser of the 15th station international control plan. Moscow radio said the plan was "a one-sided ultimatum" backed by the notorious policy of force.

British Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd said in a television broadcast that it is "a very serious matter" if Egypt rejects the national authority over the canal's operation.

The general feeling in Cairo was that Nasser would show a firm military spirit and possibly would suggest some basis for negotiating but would not under any circumstances accept the proposal that the Suez be placed under international control.

Nasser worked through yesterday, a religious holiday and into last night framing his strategy. He met with the Indian ambassador, Nawab Ali Jung, apparently to discuss possibilities of finding a compromise suitable to the West, India, which introduced the substitute plan for the Egyptian control, was one of the chief voices at the London conference for solution it thought acceptable to Nasser.

The committee to present the 15th station plan to Nasser is composed of representatives from Australia, Ethiopia, Iran, Greece and the United States. It met in a secret session yesterday to frame its approach to the Egyptian leader.

thought enough of his project to give him a $1,600 grant in 1941. His institute had an operating budget of $100,000 a year before the book on Female Sex was published.

Since then, Kinsey continued wide travels and had outlined books on sex of men in prison, Europeans and of animals. However, the institute did no new work as close to completion when Kinsey died.

With Kinsey the dominant figure in the project, a spokesman said university officials have not discussed what status the institute will have. However, the university has been nearly providing quarters, with all operating costs coming from book sales and foundation grants.

Kinsey recently went to South America to study sex symbolism in ancient pottery. His institute was one of the world's largest collections of photographic material.

A controversy with customs officials over a shipment of "art material" has been pending several months. The government recently started court action to destroy the impounded material as obscene.

Kinsey is survived by the widow and two daughters Mrs. Robert Young, Mrs. Getz, and Mrs. Elizabeth Young. He was born in Gallatin, N. M. He had lived in Yuma, where her husband and mother, Mrs. Bruce, of Cleveland, Ohio. Another son died in infancy.

Funeral arrangements were made today. The institute said the family asked that contributions be sent to the institute instead of flowers for the funeral.

Texans Voting In Democratic Governor Race

Daniel has been rated a conservative.

Yarborough, who twice failed in the primary against Gov. Allan Shivers, has stressed party loyalty in his race. He is identified with the liberal or party-loyalist faction. Shivers did not seek reelection this year.

Yarborough has come out flatly for Democratic candidates Stevenson and Kefauver in this year's presidential election.

Daniel said he would support the Democratic nominees unless something in their stand or platform forces him to do otherwise.

Both have said they will support the Democratic national platform, which includes a strict anti-communism line in the public schools and have called for local school boards to vote on segregation in the effect. Neither candidate has said much about segregation.

Daniel has charged that the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) and the CIO and Walter Reuther have been instrumental in the nomination because of the merged AFL-CIO. He has supported and controlled Yarborough.

Yarborough has been indicted on charges and asserted that millions of dollars have been funneled into Daniel's campaign and that Daniel is the candidate of what Yarborough called "forced integration."

Daniel has denied the charges. He has said he will resign from the gubernatorial nomination in time for a special election to elect to fill the Senate seat.

He has said he would rather be elected Wednesday as President of the United States.

Navy Pushing Hunt for Plane Off Red China

The four engine-P4M Mariner was recovered yesterday in "international waters" amid the wreckage of the plane about 100 miles southeast of Shanghai. He was identified as technician I.C. Albert P. Martin, Delta, Ohio.

The last radio message from the patrol craft said it was under serial attack off the Chink Coast.

Red China protested that the search conducted by the U.S. 7th Fleet violated Chinese territory.

Peiping Radio accused the Americans of a "act of military provocation" and of "grave provocation" to the Chinese people. The broadcast charged at least 54 U.S. planes violated the area near Shanghai and the Tachien Islands Friday.

Intergovernmental committee of the 7th Fleet, commanded by the Peiping Radio, have no objection over what the Chinese communications say. The Admiral declared, "I can't imagine what would bother me less than what the Chinese Communists have done."

The Peiping Radio said late Thursday that Communist planes had damaged a "China National plane" about 3 a.m. Thursday over Hainan Island. Officials here said the damaged plane flew away toward the southeast, which would be toward Formosa. Officials here said no Nationalist Chinese planes were in the area at the time.

The Navy said the Mariner crashed on a southern island and training mission from Japan when it flashed the attack signal early Thursday. The message went out when the aircraft was 160 miles north of Formosa over international waters, the Navy said.

The message gave no details of how many planes were in the attack, their nationality or whether the navy plane was returning fire.

The Navy and Air Force launched an immediate search of the area. In addition to Matting's body, they found two empty life rafts and two fuel tanks from the downed plane.

LaBelle Levels Sharp Attack On Amenta Campaign Tactics

Atty. John D. LaBelle, chairman of the Democratic Town Committee, leveled a sharp attack yesterday on Amenta campaign tactics.

In a statement, which contained the sharpest attack yet leveled against Amenta by a local Democrat, LaBelle said that the New Britain senator is "not deserving" of the nomination because of his campaign methods.

LaBelle is supported by Mayor Patrick J. Ward, in the primary that will be held Wednesday.

Number of Voters In Parties Drop

Both the local Democratic and Republican parties have shown net drops in their numbers of registered voters since May. The registers of the two organizations show only 4,120 on the rolls, a decrease of 230.

Donald Hemingway, Republican registrar, said he has not taken a complete census since the last election. He said that the loss of voters was probably made up during the year.

The decrease in local party strength are attributed to the loss of voters who move away from Manchester, each year. But Samuel J. Turkington, Jr., town clerk, said that families move in to replace those who move away.

It is his idea that the drop in registered voters is more than real. A time lag exists between the census and the actual vote. He said that the drop in registered voters was probably made up during the year.

Two former Cheney Bros. buildings under lease to United Aircraft and its subsidiaries, one at Prospect St. and South of Hartford Rd. are being sold to Harry Liebman, Ellington, for $80,000, according to an instrument recorded yesterday at the town clerk's office.

The former production building and the bread goods warehouse, located together on an "L" shaped piece of land east of Prospect St. and South of Hartford Rd. are the buildings involved in the transaction.

So Lavitt, president of the Sheppard & Equipment Co., Rockville, and an associate of Liebman's, said the deal, said no changes are planned. The property will continue under lease to United Aircraft, he added.

The buildings contain about 55,000 square feet and only the small amount of land on which they stand is included in the deal. The property has access from Hartford Rd. and Prospect St.

Four arrests, including three for speeding, were made yesterday during a radar check on E. Middle Street near Greenwood by Sgt. Raymond W. Baker of Bloomfield and Mrs. Henry L. Graham of Winchester, Ill.; and two brothers, Rudolph P. Young of Manchester, and Frank K. Young of Winsted, Ill.

Funeral arrangements, which are incomplete, are in charge of the Newark and Whitney Funeral Home, 774 Farmington Ave., West Hartford.

A Critic Of The Speech

We find perhaps the best indication of the true worth and stature of President Eisenhower's acceptance speech at the University of New Hampshire, is the fact that one particular commentator thought it was pretty sad.

The "New" Candidates

We have a "new" Stevenson who is, we are told, ready to get down and slug with the opposition, and we have a "new" Eisenhower who looks as if he felt ready to slug too, but who seems to be schooling himself not to.
