The Dodger Rooters

There are Dodger rooters and Dodger rooters, and most of them are, though in tattered state, even when their team goes through three games of a World Series scoring only one run.

Before the season even began, just April, we knew we didn't have the stamina for that kind of rooting. We sensed, then, that we didn't have it in us to root the Dodgers home again this year.

But few Dodger rooters were as crazy as we. They cheered desperately through the close of the season. They went up to the widest heights of optimism after the first two games at Brooklyn.

Then, yesterday, the score was that of a forfeit game, and the inference of the score was all too accurate a reflection of the quality of the Brooklyn performance.

What power does stunning Yankee triumph have against spirit and resilience such as that?

A "Model" Election: The recent elections in our good neighbor, Honduras, were conducted according to very reliable formula.

Ready for Testing: The announcement last Saturday by Dr. Albert B. Sabin, Cincinnati medical researcher, could mean the end of the search for complete security against polio.

At the moment, the new vaccine is, however, merely in the stage where it is ready for extensive testing. To date, it has been tested on chimpanzees only.

Now it is ready to be tried on humans. And the first tests are already scheduled for volunteer inmates at the United States Reformatory for First Offenders at Chillicothe, Ohio, late this year and early next.

If that test on human beings shows no dangers in the vaccine itself, then it will be time for wider tests on human beings.

Latest Arrests on Cyprus: The British authorities on Cyprus now have 21 more arrests to their credit. Only these latest arrests are different.

When Enraged: We were reading, the other day, a rather colorless dissertation on the capacity of various natural creatures to change hue for protective purposes.

Scholar's Future Seen Bismal One

Middleton, Oct. 11 (AP) — Yale President A. Whitney Griswold says America is faced with a teacher crisis because "the products of the American scholar today are dismal."

He said the crisis was brought about by a "lack of motivation, not a lack of material resources."

Speaking at a Wesleyan University convocation last night in which he received an honorary doctor of laws degree, Griswold said the decline in the prospects of teaching was due in part to the decline in the prospects of the scholar.

He said a scholar's freedom is assailed by dogma and distrust. Griswold urged a provision of incentives to bring forth the potential scholar and teacher and that society provide a "right attitude" in which the scholar and teacher "may live, grow and work."

I don't like the emphasis on the frequently being impressive. If the candidate in question really had something to offer, perhaps the candidate injured him and his chances by presenting his authentic Mark, more than fifty; Luke and John, almost one hundred each.

Change in Personnel Seen Next Year After Dodgers Lose, Yankees Demonstrate They'll Be Stronger Than Ever in '37

Brooklyn, Oct. 11 (AP)—At least it came quick, clean and decisive, like a pit-fighter smashing through an old bear's line, when the Yankees demonstrated that they would be stronger than ever in '37.

Young Kucky's brilliant three-hit shutout yesterday clinched an astounding streak of pitching performances by Yankee pitchers in the series.

Unable to turn in four consecutive games at any time during the regular season, the Yankee staff, which had used up 11 hurlers in the first two games, suddenly demonstrated that they were not going to be thrown out.

and a grand total of one run ready to step into fast company. It's something the once feared Dodger slugs never will be able to explain to the pitchers in the series.

Only Shiner, with two singles and Kurland, with one, were able to get on base for the Yankees. In the meantime, Don Newcombe and Roger Craig, two of the five Dodger hurlers, were pulverized by a Yankee attack that included four home runs by Earl Berra.

Early the most frustrated of all the Dodgers must be Newcombe, the big right-hander who just can't seem to get the Yankees' defense to stop.

and the game. It was Robinson who clutched his bat and broke up a second-inning rally. Kucky, however, had the Brooks beating the ball weakly into the dirt all afternoon. Only two balls, both caught by Howard in left field, reached the outfield besides the three singles.

The surprising part is that Kucky, an 18-year winner during the regular season, had seen second base and even pitched to yesterday. Off the line start last spring; Kucky had failed to pitch for the past season.

The victory was the first by the Yankees at Ebbets Field after a barren streak of 17 losses.
