to close and other economic troubles.
The Soviet Union has promised Hungary 100,000 tons of coal by the end of March. The Hungarians also are trying to buy electric power from neighboring Austria. Hungary's churches were filled for Christmas services Monday night and yesterday. Some worshippers had to walk past Russian tanks and armored cars but the Communists made no move to interfere with the religious observances. Instead they lifted Budapest's strictly curfew for Christmas Eve and Christmas Masses at midnight. At a mass Christmas carol were even broadcast by the official Budapest radio.
The curfew was assumed last night but Budapest residents hoped it would be lifted again for New Year's Eve.
Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, imprisoned by the Communists for nearly eight years and released by the rebels during their October outbreak, celebrated Christmas Eve and Christmas Masses at an office desk in the U.S. legation. He has been a refugee there since the Russian troops and tanks opened Nov. 4 against the rebels.
The American arranged for the Cardinal's 82-year-old mother, who lives in western Hungary, to be with her son for Christmas. The Communists also had permitted the Christmas reunion annually during his imprisonment. Mrs. Mindszenty remained with her son today, the eighth anniversary of his arrest by the Communists on treason charges.

Indonesia Cabinet Refuses to Resign

Sources in the Moslem Majlis party, one of the "big three" in the government coalition, said the party executive now meeting in Bandung had called its ministers in the cabinet to quit the government unless the cabinet resigns and asks Sukarno to form a new regime.
The government's resignation has been the chief demand of the Army rebels on Sumatra.
A spokesman for Ikhwan Veteran party said its cabinet member had received the same instructions to abandon Sumatran rule and that the Catholic and Protestant parties were prepared to follow suit.
The Premier presumably will have the backing of his own big leftist National party, the PNI. The Orthodox Moslem party, third largest in the cabinet coalition, so far has not shown its hand. The executive of the Orthodox Moslems now in meeting in Medan, rebel headquarters at North Sumatra.
Observers described the cabinet meeting as a "last desperate attempt to find a solution to the present crisis and save the coalition."
Earlier, a naval spokesman reported that all leave for members of the Indonesian armed forces had been canceled effective today. All men on leave were asked urgently to return to their units. But observers here believed he was "once sitting" to see what moves the central government made.
Announcing his order dismissing Simbolon, Sukarno called on other army officers to keep out of politics and restore local rule to the Jakarta-recognized authorities.
"Be good soldiers," he said in a broadcast, "follow my orders. Obey the government."
Unless the army obeyed its leaders and the government, Sukarno warned, "Indonesia is lost."

Tests Back New Theory Lightning in Deadly Gas Sparked Life on Earth

The electric discharges produced a mixture of aldehydes and hydrocyanic acid, Dr. Miller said in his speech. These react to form the amino acids.
He said it appeared that the reactive organic compounds were formed by lightning and by ultra violet light in the atmosphere. Mains carried them down into the oceans, where they reacted to form amino acids and other complex organic compounds.
Such reactions "would give a great variety of the compounds that are components of present living organisms," he said.
Amino acids just like those which nature still uses today to make living matter have been found in fossil shells as much as 450 million years old, said Dr. Philip H. Abelson, of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, D.C., in another speech prepared for delivery today.
"It seems reasonably certain that all living species and many extinct creatures, such as the dinosaurs, have used the same amino acid building blocks in performing their vital functions," Dr. Abelson said.
So far no other amino acids have been found in fossils except those still used today in nature.
"Information about many great events in the origin and evolution of life is buried in rocks and fossils waiting as they have for millions and millions of years for man to seek them out," he said.

League Seeks Eighth District, Town Merger

Consolidation of the Eighth School and Utilities District into town government will be a target of the League of Women Voters in the 1966-67 year.
And the League will also study water consolidation.
The agenda for the League, under general heading of "evaluation of fire, sewer and water problems," sets up three objectives.
1. To promote the integration of the South Manchester Fire District and the Eighth School and Utilities District into the town government.
2. To study the problems involved in town ownership of all water distribution facilities.
3. To relate the problem of consolidating the fire and sewer districts and the water departments to the needs arising from the growth of the town.
The League agenda points out that the League has not taken a stand on water consolidation.
The agenda also calls for continued action toward improvement of school facilities, support of Charter changes (the League has approved, and improved town planning).
Each season, it's a good idea to check hemlines all over again. Somehow, they have a way of getting uneven just while they hang on hangers.

No License Fishing
 "Do you know what Harry O'Connor who published Writings reportedly indicated last week when he was a Communist in the matter which now has been in the news, it does not make much difference whether he was or is in the news because a Federal court of appeals has set aside his original conviction for contempt. O'Connor's conviction was set aside for this back in 1933, after he had been called before Senator McCarthy for questioning. The McCarthy case for calling him was that some of his books had been found in United States information centers abroad. When he had him before him McCarthy asked him if he had been a member of the Communist conspiracy when he wrote the books in question. What happened next was different from what you would expect, not on the basis of the First Amendment, but on the basis of the Fifth Amendment. The plea that the freedom of the press guaranteed in that amendment forbade McCarthy to investigate the political opinions of his books, just because somebody had written a book. The plea was not that the answer to the question might incriminate him, but that McCarthy had no right to ask him the question. With this argument the Federal court of appeals, in unanimous decision, set aside the conviction. It is agreed, not in a direct upholding of the First Amendment claim, but in a judgment that the question McCarthy asked was so precise and unambiguous, and interpreted so many different interpretations, that no matter how O'Connor answered it, that it was no crime for him to refuse to answer it. The court's main reason is clear. The court, gradually, are catching up to what used to be the McCarthy fishing expeditions, and ruling them out of order. When Senator O'Connor was or is a Communist is less important than the question whether or not the Constitution means, in a time of ideological stress, the same things it means in a period of domestic calm and quiet.

"Law, Not War"
 One of the things sometimes said about British reaction to the crisis has been that domestic politics played a large role in that reaction, with the Labor party automatically opposing the Conservative policy in the hope of political gain. There was a by-election the other day in a traditional stronghold of the Conservative party, and its results seemed to illustrate that criticism of the Eden policy was not merely a partisan matter. What happened in the by-election, which selected the Conservative candidate, was a surprise. Anthony Nutting, himself a Conservative who resigned from the Eden cabinet in protest over the more attack, and that the Labor vote in the district came out in almost a full force of a regular election, but the Conservative candidate won by less than 3,000 votes. To his sons, Bartlett and Clark, shown their talents and capacities in the management of the newspaper their father built, and his daughter, Mrs. Martin Alvord of Manchester, we on the Herald extend friendship sympathies. They have every reason for being proud in the midst of their mourning.

Milestone—Not Millennium
 The city of Montgomerystown is not out of the woods yet, and it would be foolhardy to proclaim that it has solved its problems of racial relations because there were no outward incidents when the city's Negroes began riding the city's buses again after a year of boycott, sitting, this time, where they pleased. That something did happen, and some progress was made, nevertheless. To a specific custom and a specific law, which represented the old tradition and the old way of life, were challenged, and after the challenge had made the thing a sharp issue in the public mind for a long, long time, the issue did a number of things. It made the sharp issue in the public mind for a long, long time, the issue did a number of things. It made the sharp issue in the public mind for a long, long time, the issue did a number of things.

A Thought for Today
 Suggested by the Manchester Council at Churches.
 How to Read the Bible
 Provide yourself with a Bible that has your reading from physical strain. A book of convenient size and weight, with good clear print, is a definite period, preferably at the beginning of the day, or a stated amount of time each day while reading. Consider this as a daily appointment with God, and keep the appointment faithfully. Before long it will begin to bear fruit. The key to the Bible will be a source of strength and guidance just when you need them most.

Explosives Ignite in Kansas Town
 Salskirk, Kan., Dec. 26 (AP)—A freight car loaded with a secret shipment of government explosives caught fire and blew up at the edge of Salskirk last night. The blast broke out at least half the window panes in town. Almost every building showed some damage. A 300-pound chunk of steel fell from a building, striking a main street and clipping power lines. Salskirk is a town of fewer than 100 in western Kansas, about 30 miles from the Colorado line. The blow-up was in a fast westbound freight on the Missouri Pacific and railroads said it had been set off. An axle bearing near the engine exploded, turned red hot and burst into flame. Crewmen out of the train behind the burning car, and pulled into a siding. They also uncoupled about a dozen cars about the explosives and pulled ahead. Debris from the explosion blasted the mainline only a short time. A Missouri Pacific spokesman in Kansas City said the investigation knew what kind of explosives was in the car, but it could not say what program shipment.

Garage Breaks Are Investigated By State Police
 Vernon, Dec. 26 (Special)—Two State Troopers, making separate routine checks of business establishments on Rt. 63 last night, uncovered breaks in two garages. The breaks occurred at Clyde Chevrolet-Mulick agency and at Vernon Service Center. Entrances were gained in both cases by smashing a window pane in the garage door and unhooking the door from the inside. An employee of the Clyde garage said after checking that nothing had been taken, police said. About a year ago, the Clyde agency was broken into and a brand new car was taken. State Trooper William E. Elmer, who discovered the break at about 1:48 a.m. yesterday, is continuing the investigation. At Vernon Service Center, police said about 450 in loose bills and change was taken from the cash register. State Trooper Leonard Wislock is in charge of investigation. Both troopers are connected with Stafford Springs barracks. In Rockville, a reported theft of about $185 at the Rockville Hotel yesterday afternoon is being investigated by the Rockville Police Department. The money was reportedly left in a prepared place by the night bartender, Thomas R. Williams, when he closed the bar at 11 p.m. Monday. William, now Hartford, morning bartender, reported the money missing.

11 in State Die In Accidents Over Holiday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Accidents of several sorts—traffic, fire and ordinary falls—took the lives of 11 persons in Connecticut over the Christmas holiday.

A flash fire in a Meriden apartment house took the highest single toll—a mother and four of her children.

Two soldiers, based at a Nike installation in West Haven, were among the state's four highway deaths.

Two elderly men died as the result of falls.

The holiday period was 102 hours long—set arbitrarily by the National Safety Council as having started at 6 p.m. last Friday and ending at midnight last night.

Throughout the holiday period, the State Police, which patrol only state highways, made 120 motor vehicle violation arrests. They said 95 of them were on charges of speeding.

They handed out 296 warnings of violations.

They counted 145 accidents in which 88 persons were hurt.

There were no fatalities on state highways.

The State Police figures did not include the number of accidents investigated by police in the state's 169 cities and towns.

Here are the dead:

Mrs. Cecilia Morales Rios, 39, and her children, Gladys, 17, and her children, Gladys, 17, and Eddie, 3, all of whom perished in an apartment house blaze in Meriden.

Pvt. Norman E. Venable, 23, 3rd Fl., who was stationed at the Nike installation in West Haven, killed in a collision that took place Sunday.

Kenneth Walker, 22, New York, killed when a car collided with an oil truck in Middletown Saturday.

Arthur L. Tenant, 55, West Haven, killed when he was struck by a car in Stratford Saturday.

Walter Lacey, a 70-year-old couple, who was injured fatally when he fell while boarding a bus in Milford Sunday.

Michael Schak, 73, Meriden, injured fatally in a fall, presumably in his room, Monday night.

Bolton Intersection Slated for Redesign

Bolton's "problem intersection" due to be redesigned during 1957, State Highway Department says.

State Highway Unit Includes Project in 1957 Schedule

Bolton, Dec. 26 (Special)—Years ago, the "boys" who worked at the State Highway Department spent many hours contemplating the problem of the intersection they faced. The problem is known officially as the juncture of Bolton Center Rd., E. Middle Turnpike and Cider Mill Rd. with Rts. 6 and 44A.

Official inquiries have been made over the years regarding some sort of traffic control at this site of near-constant, unmanageable smashed fenders, slight serious and fatal injuries.

Solutions to the problem have not been sporadically considered throughout the period of years. But the 5-way intersection remained unchanged.

Permit Denied

Two years ago, the State Motor Vehicle Department denied a permit for a gasoline station on the southeast corner because of the lack of traffic control at the intersection. Perhaps the official report of the Motor Vehicle Department underscored the necessity for action.

Whatever the impetus, the State Highway Department has confirmed reports that it hopes to execute a proposal of its Traffic Commission during the calendar year 1957.

Work at the intersection is being considered in drafting the construction program for the year and depends upon available funds, a Department spokesman said.

As originally outlined to local authorities, the proposal for traffic control at the intersection will involve a station on the rotary and careful delineation of traffic lanes.

Westbound traffic on the state highway would be unaffected unless it wished to make a left hand turn into Bolton Center Rd. The State Highway Department has reported the new "lanes" of hunting and fishing licenses for distribution and may be purchased at his office.

Bachs to Reside At St. Petersburg

Mr. and Mrs. Holger T. Bach Jr., 22 Street St., left this morning for St. Petersburg, Fla.

For the present, they will make their home with Bach's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Holger Bach Sr. of St. Petersburg, formerly of Manchester.

Last summer, town officials were notified that the work was to be completed by July 17, 1956. That was when the Highway Department planned to have maintenance men do the job. The department said recently the plan was not carried out because further consideration showed it to be unwise to have the work done during the winter months.

The decision to put it out to contract meant drawing up specifications and working it into the construction program. Because the availability of funds is the final determining factor, no promise was being made by the State Highway Department but the

Tots Hold Forth Christmas Day At White House

Washington, Dec. 26 (AP)—Christmas Day at the White House, as at millions of American homes, was a day of quiet celebration.

In this case, they were the grandchildren of President and Mrs. Eisenhower—David, 8, Barbara Ann, 7, Susan, almost 6, and Mary Jean, just a year old.

They arrived at the White House in mid-afternoon yesterday with their parents, Army Maj. and Mrs. John Eisenhower, having driven in from nearby Ft. Belvoir, where Maj. Eisenhower is stationed.

The presidential couple and Mrs. Eisenhower's mother, Mrs. John S. Doud, greeted the young Eisenhowers and the President, posed for pictures while holding the baby, Mary Jean.

A spokesman said some of the gifts from the President and Mrs. Eisenhower to their grandchildren when he attended the Big F & O Summit Conference at Geneva a year and a half ago, but not given to the children last Christmas.

The adults had exchanged gifts at a family dinner on Christmas Eve. Eisenhower gave his wife a diamond necklace, individual silver match boxes to match a table service. The nature of her gifts to the President was not disclosed.

Water Firm Bares Results Of Town Purchase Survey

Results of a survey by the Highland Park Water Co. to determine what support there is in favor of the town's buying the firm for $1 million are being tabulated.

The firm sent questionnaires to 43 owners and tenants of property which would be affected by the purchase and a subsequent assessment by the town of the cost of new mains.

Over 50% reply. Twenty-two persons replied, according to Wells Dennison, a water company official. Twenty-one did not answer.

Here is what the survey shows in terms of front footage, according to Dennison.

3,787 front feet or 72.5 per cent of the total front footage involved—assessment will willingly be paid on this.

250 feet or 3.8 per cent of the total—the owner approves town purchase of the company so long as he does not have to pay an assessment unless and until he connects to town water. He has a well.

238.55 feet or 3.8 per cent—opposed to the town purchase.

1,331 or 20.1 per cent—owners expressed no preference or did not reply.

Here is the result, according to Dennison, in terms of the numbers of property owners who expressed an opinion.

Seven favored town purchase. Two opposed town purchase. Three expressed no preference. Nine did not reply.

Of the 43 questioned, a number were tenants, not owners, of the properties they occupy. Of the tenants who replied, Dennison said, one opposed purchase, the rest favored it.

Tenants Not to Pay Cost. Tenants would not pay the cost of the new mains the town will install if it buys the company.

The cost is estimated at $4.22 cents a running foot.

The 72.5 per cent of the front footage for which the assessment would willingly be paid includes 800 feet of the Town of Manchester, 2,900 feet of Case Brothers; 740 feet of Carol Case Dennison; and 947 feet of other property owners.

The Highland Park Water Co. has agreed to pay the assessment against the town's frontage.

Included among those who favor the purchase is Camillo Gambolati, owner of about 500 feet frontage. Gambolati plans a housing development and persons connected with the problem are speculating that the proposed development may spark town purchase of the company.

In the past, such developments have brought utility problems to a head and even helped resolve them as the result of agreements between the town and the developer.

General Manager Richard Martin said Monday that the question of buying the firm will probably come before the Board of Directors Jan. 15.

Meanwhile, he said, the town may go forward with plans for a survey of its own.

The last time the question was brought before the Board of Directors, a group of customers of the Highland Park Water Co., represented by Atty. John R. Fitzgerald, expressed serious reservation about the purchase.

Consensus among the Directors was that purchasing the firm and taking over its headaches would be of no particular benefit to the town or to the present customers of the Town Water Department. They appeared opposed to the purchase unless the Highland Park Water customers want town service. The Directors asked Martin to take steps to find out how many of the customers do.

As for Highland Park's survey, Dennison said he felt it served to clear up some points in the minds of the people. The questionnaire was accompanied by a letter from the firm.

The letter and questionnaire was sent to persons involved who live on Highland St. between Wyllys and Gardner Sts.

Dennison Cites Alternative. In his letter, Dennison says the Highland Park Water Co. will probably install new mains eventually if it cannot sell to the town.

And while the company cannot charge for the new mains on a front foot basis, it can install, Dennison says, on making a reasonable profit on its investment, which would mean higher rates.

The firm would also have to start paying salaries to its officers and clerical help, Dennison points out in the letter. Officers are now unpaid, and the clerical work is done by Case Bros. employees.

Such expansion and higher rates appear to Dennison to be the only practical alternative to selling to the town.

He says in his letter that the firm could legally cease operations after going through some red tape. He terms that a poor choice and not a public spirited one. He also says that the firm would probably install new mains rather than cease operations because company houses owned by Case Bros require water service.

Even if the firm were not eager to go out of business, Dennison says, it would not want to spend money for new mains with fire consolidation in progress, and "the subject of water comes next."
