DuPont's Rule of GM Held Trade Restraint

The appeal asked the Supreme Court to reverse the lower court's decision to grant "appropriate relief." It did not say how much GM stock DuPont should be ordered to sell or give any indication of what the government would consider full relief.

Test of Violations
In his opinion today Brennan said the test of a violation of the Clayton Antitrust Act is whether at the time of suit there is a reasonable probability that the acquisition likely will result in the consummated restraint.

Slowdown Seen By Economists

"Somewhat less zip in the economy" increases in government spending and local taxes are the most likely source of a slowdown, according to economists. "Unless economic conditions deteriorate appreciably, any reduction in tax rates should be small and probably not accompanied by any reduction in government spending," said William W. Tongue, economist for the Jewel Tea Co., called for a position similar to that of the Federal Reserve Board.
