Liberal Democrat Wins Proxmire Triumphs In Wisconsin Race

The total vote cast in the primary, the Roman Republican field drew 49 per cent of the total. Carl Proxmire defeated Rep. Clement Zablocki (D-Wis) in the 2-man Democratic primary.

Final unofficial returns from 2,537 of the state's 3,381 precincts gave Proxmire 425,055 votes to 312,681 for Kohler.

Three independent candidates, including two who said they would carry on the policies of McCarty, drew less than 24,000 among them.

Howard Boyle, Milwaukee attorney who ran as one of the McCarty program backers, had 20,000 vote. The other McCarty policy candidate, Wisconsin legislator Charles Whelan, had 2,381. The third independent, 1956 Socialist-Labor vice presidential candidate George Conzelmann, got 738 votes.

Lost GOP Strongholds

Kohler had promised—if elected—to continue backing the administration. And he took a beating not only in the usually Democratic metropolitan areas but also in the GOP strongholds outside where he piled up victory margins in other years.

Whether this constituted a repudiation of the President's program or a personal victory for the homecoming Proxmire was hard to determine. Proxmire himself claimed that it was a protest against the President and his policies rather than a positive vote for the Democratic candidate.

Proxmire led in the unofficial vote count in 85 of the state's 71 counties. This was in contrast to the vote the last time he opposed Kohler—for governor in 1954—when Kohler ran ahead in 41 counties on his way to a 35,000-vote decision.

The Democratic nominee was ahead from the start. He gained his early lead when the first 200,000 votes were counted in the outstate rural areas, particularly in northern Wisconsin where the Wisconsin Farmers Union is strong. He continued to add to his margin throughout the night as other votes came in. By midnight his triumph was assured.

In Milwaukee County, Proxmire piled up a majority of more than 53,000 votes, compared with a 30,000 lead he had over Kohler in the county three years ago—and then, in the 1954 general election, the vote was nearly three times that of yesterday.

Labor, which had supported Proxmire, was credited with helping pile up the large Milwaukee majority. So were the efforts of Milwaukee's two Congressmen—Democratic Reps. Zablocki and Rogan.

Proxmire, a native of Illinois who came to Wisconsin less than 10 years ago with the expressed intention of getting into politics, has been campaigning for high political office almost continuously for the past six years.

Three times he sought, without success, the governor's post. Twice he was beaten by Kohler and last year he lost to Republican Vernon Thomson.

In the primary, Kohler's winning margin over former Gov. Glenn R. Davis was only 9,000. The GOP's Conservative Old Guard had been cool to Kohler since, as a result of bitterness in the campaign, how much of a part this had in Kohler's crushing defeat was hard to measure. But he lost to Proxmire in several counties that Davis carried by comfortable margins in the primary.

Proxmire operates a printing company at Watertown, a small community near Madison, the state capital.

Kohler is president of the Volland Co. of Shelbysville, an insurance firm. His uncle, Herbert V. Kohler, heads the Kohler Co. of Kohler, where the United Auto Workers has been on strike since April 6, 1954. Production resumed at the plant early in the strike. Walter Kohler once owned stock in the Kohler Co. but has sold these holdings.

Life Saving Cards Presented to Six

That glorious rain of Sunday did not prevent the Red Cross Swimming Course program from taking place, though probably a good many spectators were kept from attending.

There were about 120 or over enrolled, and those who had made good in the course were given certificates or cards or both. Winners of Senior Life Saving Certificate were Dana Rebillard, Dale Alden and Kathy Ellis. In the Junior Life Saving class Malcolm Burt, Ned Ellis and Eliska Ledner received certificates and cards, and Cheryl Fried received a certificate.

The instructor, Miss Betty Ann and John Treval of the town of Manchester, presented the certificates to the winners in the most approved manner. It is not forgotten that at least one life of a Hebron resident, J. Robert Schuyler, a non-swimmer, was saved by a phony "Amateur" swimmer some years ago. He was sinking and unable to save himself when he dashed in and brought about the rescue. It is a pity this correspondent cannot remember his name, but we will make a determined effort to do so by looking through newspaper files.

Three Hebron voters were ready to approve the sale, but delayed their decision after receiving word of Town Planning Commission disapproval. The Directors approved the sale July 23, and the Army road into the Chaparral housing project, and asked to buy the land to protect their property.

Hebron

For voters making Sept. 14, from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Also those who whose rights shall have matured after Sept. 24 can be admitted as voters, from 9 a.m. to 11 p.m. in a special session, Oct. 5.

To Visit Italy

Hebron people going abroad on a trip to Europe include Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Barnaso of the Globe section. They will start Friday of this week. They will visit Mr. Barnaso's brothers and sisters in Italy.

He came to this country about 50 years ago and is his first trip to his old home.

Week in Cambridge

Mrs. Charles P. Miner and daughter, Mrs. William D'Aluisio, spent a week at the home of her mother, Mrs. Alice Thompson, and her daughter, Mrs. Miner's sister, Mrs. Martin F. Croft, in Cambridge, Mass. They kept house for Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Croft, who were away from home on vacation. In the absence of Mrs. Miner, Hebron's town clerk, Donald O. Horton, local judge of probate, answered calls at the town clerk's office.

Reborn Rejuvenating

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Clark and Mrs. P. Bailey, who were very kindly invited to last February in an auto accident, will be greatly interested in their report that for many years was staler again in Amston, has sufficiently re-

Values Placed on Property In Club Lease Plan Varies

Nobody knows how much Globe Hollow land the town may lease to the Country Club is worth, General Manager Richard Martin said today.

The market value of property which would be leased to the club for 30 years if Town Directors pass a proposed ordinance is actually unknown, Martin said.

Under the ordinance, on which the Directors will act after a public hearing Sept. 19, the Country Club would make a complete golf course out of 283.5 acres of property. The amount of the 283.5 acres of land that would be leased is not definitely established in the lease proposal.

As a whole, the 283.5 acres of land, not all of which would be used for the golf course, is valued at $1,000,000. At $125,000 is a valuation made by Martin and Water Department Superintendent Fred Thral, who used the total purchase price of $1.25 million for the 1,000 acres and an appraisal made by Charles T. Maki. Based on the property was bought in 1955 as the basis for their estimates.

At $125,000 on the town assessment books, where property valuations are based on an estimated 72 per cent of market value.

Town Director Gilbert Barnes used the Martin-Thral figures in his estimate when he proposed the ordinance now before the Board of Directors. He is suggesting that all of the present golf course on both sides of S. Main St. be leased to the Country Club for three years while 10 new holes are being prepared on the east side. The property on the east side, including the land used for the new holes and light of the present holes, would be leased for another 27 years.

The proposed rental fee is $7000 for each year amounting to a total of $210,000 in 30 years.

Barnes has emphasized that he is using the cost of the land to the town, which he estimates at $160,000, and not the taxable valuation of the land for his calculations.

"We based this whole deal purely on the purchase price rather than the taxable valuation because that is so flexible," the director said.

Broken down, his estimates are:

- For a 21.9-acre tract of land around the clubhouse, $75,000, the same figure as the Martin-Thral estimate for that tract.
- For 32.55 acres of property with five holes on it, $60,000, the same as the Martin-Thral estimate.
- For half of 184 acres to the east of the present golf course, $25,000, or half of the Martin-Thral estimate of the total value of the 184 acres.
- The estimate is based on the assumption that the club would use about half of the 184 acres of the 10 new holes that would be built if the lease proposal passes.
- Ray Owens, president of the Country Club, estimates that less than 100 acres would probably be used for the new holes. In the proposed ordinance, the club is allowed to use as much of the 184 acres as will be needed to complete all of the present golf course on both sides of S. Main St. he leased to the Country Club for three years while 10 new holes are being prepared on the east side. The property on the east side, including the land used for the new holes and light of the present holes, would be leased for another 27 years.

Like Weathers Two Possible Flu Exposures

Washington, Aug. 28 (AP)—President Eisenhower appears to have weathered safely two possible exposures to Asian flu.

But he still has to keep his fingers crossed a while against the possibility of contracting the disease.

Seven days now have passed since the President came in contact with two persons—one a member of his staff, the other a photographer—who later developed mild cases of what has been diagnosed tentatively as Asian flu.

Dr. Yates Trotter of the U.S. Public Health Service has said the usual incubation period for that type of flu is one to three days, but that development of illness may take as long as seven days after exposure in exceptional cases.

So it appears, on the basis of what Trotter said, that Eisenhower is not going to get the flu as a result of the two suspected exposures last week. But it isn't known for sure whether he may have been exposed again later in the week, and if he was—whether the disease might develop as a result.

Eisenhower was inoculated against Asian flu last Monday. But the vaccine is not effective against exposures which occur in advance of inoculation. And it takes 10 to 14 days, Trotter said, to build up an immunity after an inoculation.

In both instances in which Eisenhower is believed to have been exposed last week, doctors reported clinical evidence of Asian flu after examination of throat swabs. But laboratory tests have not been completed yet in either case, said P.H.S. 206.

The President has shown no sign of developing the flu. He played golf yesterday afternoon and later went to Walter Reed Army Hospital to visit Mrs. Eisenhower, who is recuperating from surgery Aug. 6.

Meriden Paver Protests Ruling

Portland, Maine, Aug. 28 (AP)—A special master has ruled that Edward J. Sangvanti of Meriden, Conn., doing business as American Paving Co., must pay damages to the City of Portland for gutting a runway construction job at the municipal airport, but Sangvanti here yesterday, accusing the city of misrepresentation in the plans of the runway.

The Meriden contractor said the city's plans did not show that the material to be excavated for the runway included a rock ledge. When the ledge was encountered, Sangvanti asked the city to increase the $780,000 contract to compensate him for the increased cost. When the city refused, he quit the job and sought fair value for the work he had done up to that point.

Joining Sangvanti in his petition to the federal court, which will give it a hearing next month, were three companies—U.S. Fidelity and Guarantee Co., Sangvanti's bonding company; Construction Co. of Branford, Conn., the excavation subcontractor; and American Fidelity Co., Congress's bonding company.

limited to "closed groups," such as soldiers in a barracks, rather than the general population.

The Navy flu report said experience to date "has clearly indicated that outbreaks of Asian influenza are capable of impairing operational effectiveness of ships by other combat-ready groups of military personnel in the Navy and Marine Corps."

That experience, the report added, "has also played an important role in alerting the Department of Defense and the Public Health Service to the problems to be anticipated with the disease and the need for vaccine as a protective measure."

Hal Boyle The Man Who Became Abe Lincoln

New York, N.Y.—A strange thing has happened to Raymond Massey. Massey, a former tractor salesman who served as a soldier in two world wars, also has achieved recognition as one of the world's leading actors.

He has appeared in 60 motion pictures and 150 plays. All his life he has clung to one thesis about his profession—that an actor should never identify himself personally or emotionally with a role he plays for if he does his performance will be poorer.

So what happens? When average strangers meet Massey for the first time, they half expect his first words of greetings will be "Four score and seven years ago..."

For, to millions, Massey is the man who took Abraham Lincoln off the penny and made him a living image again. To them he is Lincoln. "When people ask me if I don't get tired of portraying Lincoln, I get a definite homicidal urge," remarked Massey, pointing out that it is nearly 15 years since he opened on Broadway in Robert Sherwood's "Abe Lincoln in Illinois."

"Sikes then I have played him only a few times in radio and television."

But next month he will portray the Great Emancipator again during a 25-city road tour of Norman Corwin's "The Riveter," the story of the famous Lincoln-Douglas debates.

Massey is happy to return to his most famous role, but for his own reasons.

"Actually, I'd kill any one with my bare hands who tried to get the part away from me," he said, cheerfully knowing his big fans.

"But not because of a monetary urge, or because it suits my politics, although I am glad to play the part because the role itself is an overwhelming. I'd be glad to play the part—if he gets enough good lines."

A look of Lincolnian torture

The public may confuse Massey with Mr. T. The actor refers to him—but Massey himself, when offstage, enjoys playing nobody other than Raymond Massey, an actor proud of his craft.

Over a plate of cold cuts at the Century Club, Massey took a few warm-up remarks at what he considers wrong with the U.S. entertainment world.

"American acting, as exemplified by Marlon Brando, is the best in the world," he said, "but I think that some of his imitators represent the American theater at its worst."

"I don't believe in the modern theory of self-identification in the theater, and never have. I don't think you go to the theater to see yourself on the stage; you go to be entertained, and I don't think the actor can identify himself in the role he plays."

"If he does, he can't be an actor, he's a dead duck. An actor portrays emotions in a role, he doesn't feel them."

"I think the theater is being betrayed. There used to be a relationship between the actor and audience that is being lost."

"Today, many of the kids don't care about the audience. They only want to have fun themselves. They'd just as soon act in a barn without an audience."

"They don't believe in striking sparks off each other... or using a dramatic theme... or taking a human situation and making it understandable to an audience. Acting to them is merely a form of emotional self-gratification. That's wrong—when actors merely want to show off to each other and the director."

"They are fogged up with theories. They lack technique and how to speak a line loudly enough to be heard."

"I am fed up with this mumble-mumble-and-sigh kind of acting."

The Mary Cheney and Whiston Memorial Libraries have an answer to almost all "how" questions, even the unexpected, off-beat ones. Hundreds of books and pamphlets are written to teach amateurs the accomplishments of a particular skill, and an even greater number contain sections that can be adapted to their purposes.

One guide to the mass of information is a reference volume, "How-to-do-it! Books," containing 3,000 entries under 900 headings. It starts out with "How to Learn Calculation on the Abacus" (so far no one has wanted to learn) and concludes with "How to Make Yogurt." For the subjects in between, Manchesterites have their imagination and dreams to go by.

spread over Massey's giant landscape. "I call it the microscopic school of acting," he concluded. "You need a microscope to watch it instead of opera glasses."

Library Users Find Answers For 'How's?'

"How do I learn to paint?"
"How do I dig a well?"
"How do I start building a tennis court?"
"How can I find ideas for painting a mural in my bedroom?"
"How do I prepare a good job resume?"

"How" is important among Manchester library patrons, certainly surprising "why" as the essential word in their questions. When they had to, Americans have always been resourceful in doing things for themselves and in devising new and better methods. But now there's the comparatively new factor of men and women in remarkably great numbers doing or attempting to do chores and creative work simply for relaxation and the pleasure of accomplishment. Of course there's another reason, too—saving money by papering the walls, painting the floor, building the closet oneself.

UConn Schedules Jazz, Chamber Music Programs

Storrs, Conn., Aug. 29—Area chamber music lovers of the long and short hair varieties will get a chance to watch their respective appetites this October when the University of Connecticut presents two distinguished musical aggregations.

For those who like their music cool, a "vivid program of jazz" will be served Oct. 22 by Teddy Wilson and his brand new company of "light stars."

In the way of program counterpoint, the UConn will present the first of three free classical chamber recitals Oct. 29, when the Knickerbocker Chamber Players offer their lively "Concerto Fugato."

Both concerts will be in the University Auditorium.

Wilson's jazz virtuosity will kick off the UConn music season on the evening following the University's first home football game. It will be their first appearance as a touring concert jazz ensemble, surrounded Wilson and forming an instrumental ensemble of lead-jazz musicians will be the members of his trio (bass and drums) and three exciting sidemen (trumpet, trombone and woodwind). A vocalist and dancer will complete the entourage.

Wilson is reputed to have originated a piano style that revolutionized jazz and he was one of the "swing era" through a long association with Benny Goodman. He has taught jazz piano at New York's Juillard School of Music, in the same halls which have reverberated to the classical strains of Bach and Beethoven.

Featured performer with the Knickerbocker Chamber Players will be Eugene List, piano virtuoso who has performed on four continents. In the United States his annual tours have included engagements with most of the nation's major orchestras and leading chamber ensembles, extensive radio and television appearances, recordings and a highly booked recital schedule.

The Knickerbocker Players made an auspicious debut in 1942-43 when they gave six concerts at the Metropolitan Museum of Art. They have since played at the Town Hall.

Professional African Hunter Has Psychologist's Talents

By E. A. JONES

Kampala, Uganda (AP)—Noticing the outwearing shoulders of the hunter by the name of Ernest, the professional hunter moved up beside her from his usual place a half pace behind that of the hunter.

The elephant squeaked once, sagged to its knees and rolled over on its back. Ernest, who had been hunting for a buffalo any time you like, but this type of carnage leaves the hunter nervously and physically exhausted and strangely disoriented.

There are many ways in which an over-hung hunter can be prevented from seeing too much game too quickly and many reasons to advance why he should not shoot anything he sees, but it is always left with the impression that it is he who is running the safari. Ernest, a psychologist as well as one of the most experienced hunters in Africa.

"Mind you," he says, "I don't do what some hunters do—stretch out the safari by leading clients away from where I know the game is. Sometimes I wish I could find the immortal courage to do it. A man takes much more pride in an elephant he has 'tracked down' for a couple of days than in one he kills in a hurry. They want to track the animal and knock off as much game as is shot at any time during those days."

Despite the fact that big game is fast dying out, the Uganda government does not object to hunting sport animals in the area. "A properly-organized hunting safari makes little inroad on the game," says Game Warden T. R. Crowl. "It is the disturbance caused by badly organized parties, which prevents the game from breeding, that does the damage."

Statistically, organized parties help to stop poachers, who take a far greater toll than hunters hold. There have been several instances of licensed hunters chasing poaching parties out of the game areas.

Big-game hunting is a useful source of revenue to the country, quite apart from the cost of the license.

It is not a poor man's hobby. There is the white hunter's fee and guns, ammunition, tents, porters and transport to be hired. Even the hunter who is prepared to "rough it" shooting his own meat for the pot, pays about $2,000 for a month's safari.

Ike Blasts Red Attack On West Arms Cut Bid

The London disarmament talks will be in recess from Friday to Monday night.

State Department press officer Lincoln White said today that Eisenhower is coming home during his recess primarily to attend the wedding of his son. But while here, White said, he will see Dulles and, presumably, Eisenhower.

The London talks are considered very close to a break or, at least, before Eisenhower leaves London, he probably will introduce a draft treaty which would end the arms race.

White's statement amounts to an argument, aimed at the Kremlin, against outright rejection of the West's formula for atomic and other arms control. At the same time, by taking the position that no such full-scale disarmament can occur until the West has the door for further negotiations.

The White House statement followed an hour's visit to Eisenhower's secretary of state, Dean Rusk, who had discussed yesterday's Russian response to western atomic proposals.

James C. Hagerty, Russian press secretary, said today that Moscow conference of a United Nations subcommittee on disarmament in London.

Valentin Zorin, chief Soviet delegate in London, said today that the West is blowing air through its fingers.

Zorin said that the West is blowing air through its fingers, and that the West is blowing air through its fingers.

Conferees Split over Aid Funds

It was generally expected that the Senate restoration of half billion dollars of mutual security funds, he said in a statement, "I consider it to be a substantial step in the right direction."

It is my earnest hope that the House of Representatives will quickly approve the Senate action. I am sure that the House leadership and members, like the Senate, recognize the value to support the Senate action.

But he said that from his point of view the bill would be even worse if it were to provide for a program that is so essential to our national defense and the security of the free world.

Senator Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California testified in the Senate on the bill.

Only four other Senators were on the floor as Ervin began his speech at a session which started at 10 o'clock, Washington time, two hours earlier than usual.

Ervin, in an address frequently sprinkled with humor, said he recognizes that proponents of the bill do not share his view of the situation.

But he said that from his point of view the bill would be even worse if it were to provide for a program that is so essential to our national defense and the security of the free world.

Morgan B. Brainard, Aetna Head, Passes

In addition to his insurance affiliations, Brainard had a wide variety of other business interests. In his later years he served as chairman of the Board of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad and was a director of, among others, United Aircraft Corporation, Cheney Brothers, Hartford National Bank and Trust Company, Hartford Steam Boiler Inspection and Insurance Company, Hartford Electric Light Company, Connecticut Power Company, Connecticut Mutual Fire Insurance Company, Hartford City, the Links and the Yale Club of New York.

Brainard was a man of many interests and hobbies. He enjoyed a good joke.

Two years ago when he observed his 80th anniversary with Aetna, a newsmen asked what he attributed his success with the company.

"With a straight face, Brainard replied: "I don't write that, he told the reporter. "You'd better say I became president because my uncle was president before me."

Brainard was found boxing and frequently attended fights at Madison Square Garden. He was interested also in baseball and close to the Yankees.

Brainard was a member of the New York Giants and Boston Red Sox.

His interest in baseball was natural. His uncle, Morgan G. Bulkeley, was the first president of the National League.

Clouds Dot Horizon For Fall Business

(No one is talking of a depression, some see a mild and short recession about the end of the current inflationary process. The second of the depression, however, are also discussed below in a few small clouds on the horizon today as business leaders for its fall lead point upward. But a number of indicators have turned around and show a downward trend.

All this could change after Labor Day. Many business leaders are looking for a change in the current buying spree and that 1957 will end on a high note.

Right now, however, other businessmen are worried about backlogs of inventories, layoffs due to slow production, loss of government contracts by cutbacks in defense spending, still lagging home building, the squeeze on business profits and the worry that the high cost of living is putting on most the fear of runaway inflation.

If these trends grow worse, the fear of runaway inflation will be replaced by a straight face, Brainard replied: "I don't write that, he told the reporter. "You'd better say I became president because my uncle was president before me."

How Now, Collectivized Cow

Washington — (UPI) — Relax milk drinkers, old Russia can out-produce a Russian korova any day, even one on a state or collectivized farm.

America's 21 million milk cows are well ahead of the Soviet Union's 20 million moo-moo when it comes to milking a milk bucket, according to experts here.

That is after you cut through more Russian problems.

Recently the Soviets have been broadcasting bold claims about milk production. They boast that milk yield per cow last year was 1,877 kilograms on collective farms and 2,177 kilograms on state farms.

Measure Different
In the U.S. milk production is measured in pounds as you have to multiply the kilograms by 2.2 to get an accurate conversion.

But the facts don't think it's quite that simple.

"The fact that in our country the average milk yield is calculated per head of all cattle, both dairy and meat, should be taken into consideration," explained a recent radio broadcast from Moscow.

"The milk yield was assessed only in relation to dairy cattle, as, for instance, in the United States, it would be considerable higher."

"Don't worry about that," makes little difference," replies an authority at the Agriculture Department. "They milk every cow they've got in Russia. There's no distinction."

Yield Higher
This Agriculture Department reports that milk yield per cow here for 1956 was about 2,000 pounds. This is a preliminary estimate since the figures have not yet been completely totaled.

The highest yield on Russia's state farms comes to approximately 4,700 pounds per cow during the last year. This is not at all representative, however.

Only about six per cent of Russia's cows are on state farms. Another 40 per cent come from collective farms.

And strangely enough more than half of the country's cows are owned by the peasants and workers.

Giving the Russians the advantage, it's estimated that their cows yield between 3,000 and 3,500 pounds per year.

Milking Time in Russia: They milk everything they've got

'Moose' Miller Case Continued

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 28 (AP) — William P. "Moose" Miller, 30, presented on three counts in police court yesterday was granted a continuance to Sept. 26.

Miller is charged with breach of the peace, obtaining money by false pretenses, and conspiracy to obtain money by false pretenses.

Miller and 10 other persons are charged with defrauding advertisers in various publications handled by an advertising agency headed by Miller.

Two of these persons, Fred Baron, 39, and George Bernard, 46, failed to appear in court today and their cases were continued to Aug. 30.

A forfeiture on their bonds was stayed until that date when the court was informed there was a mixup on the date they were supposed to be presented.

Baron and Bernard are charged with obtaining money by false pretenses. The bond on Edwin French, 35, of 600 Asylum Ave., who has been in jail since his arrest over a week ago, was reduced to $1,000. He is charged with obtaining money by false pretenses.

Other continuances in the case, all charged with conspiracy to obtain money by false pretenses, were granted to Mrs. Freda Page, 49, Springfield, Mass.; Mrs. Carol King, 40, Springfield; Mrs. Elsie K. Jallardo, 42, Rocky Hill; Howard Harris, 30, Waterbury; and Albert Strom, 32, Hartford.

Art Display Changed
Old Lyme, Conn. — A complete change of pictures numbering approximately 60 large canvases and some one hundred smaller items now on display in the Lyme Art Assn. 25th annual Autumn exhibition, the final show of the season, will remain open to the public through Sept. 10.

TIPS GIVEN ON BETTING FIRM

Fencing Helps Blind Sharpen Their Senses

Can you see? Can you fence? The theory that you must be able to see to fence no longer holds true, according to Larry Dargie, of Lexington, Mass., instructor at St. Paul's Rehabilitation Center for the Blind in Newton, Mass., and Boston University intercollegiate fencing coach, who has successfully taught newly-blind people to fence.

For more than two years, Dargie has been teaching fencing to the newly-blind as part of a required program at St. Paul's. The fencing is not for recreation, but to help restore three-quarters of the faculties that a person receives in impressions which are lost when a person becomes blind.

With blindness, most stimuli are automatically cut off, blocking out reactions, according to Dargie. No longer able to use his sight to corroborate the impressions received by the other senses, the newly-blind person loses his confidence in the sense he still has.

He becomes frightened, withdrawn, nervous and often dependent, said the fencing coach.

To make up for the loss of these impressions, fencing was started to further develop the sense of touch and hearing.

Approached at Boston University in July 1952, to teach fencing to the blind, Dargie accepted the job "as a challenge." Today, he is the only coach in the country teaching fencing to the blind.

Using the French style of fencing with the foil—and following the practice "to hit and not be hit to return"—the blind are taught to fence by reaction and not by sight.

When a person is blinded, his restorer his loss of mobility, he is equipped with a Hoover cane, a lightweight, chest-high rod about as thick as a fountain pen. This cane permits the blind to feel objects of them, or, to either side of them in line to reach. When the cane touches an object, a matter how light, the blind person must react, Dargie.

Fencing with the foil replaces the cane and is an extension of the sense of touch. Just as the cane when tapping the street or hitting an object, demands a reaction, so the blade of the foil, hitting or not hitting an opponent, demands a reaction, Dargie said.

Fencing for the blind helps to stimulate, Dargie said, the sound, kinesthetic sense, balance and hearing. It provides an outlet for aggression and builds up the individual's physical integrity, independence, and social adequacy.

Fencing, says Dargie, develops and aids the sense of touch and hearing. The sound of one blade on another, the flourish and beat of the foil helps the blind fencer to feel and maintain distance.

Once the sound is evaluated, the individual can judge his distance to the right, left, ahead, and how far. His balance is sharpened by the demand for perfect equilibrium to score a hit.

Reaction is also stimulated—for every movement has an opposite, every action, a counteraction; every attack, a parry; every parry, a deception.

Fencing also provides an outlet for aggression. It is an ideal way for the blind to release their pent-up emotions and tensions.

And as an undrafted team, they won the first five bouts in all these tournaments. (In team competition, the score is 5-0.)

In the New England Fencing Tournament, Dargie's team, which has been the Sabre champion, were champions, and have placed second twice in foil competition.

Dargie also has his own school, Salle Ede. In 1956-57, representatives of his school entered and won the New England Amateur foil team championship, open team championship, sabre team championship, and the three-weapon team championship—every competition possible.

And as an undrafted team, they won the first five bouts in all these tournaments. (In team competition, the score is 5-0.)

Senator Urges U.S. Rush B52, Missile Output

will probably not be very great one way or the other.

The administration's statement suggested the Moscow announcement "may have been timed in relationship to the London talks" of the 8-power disarmament sub-committee.

Sen. Jackson, chairman of a subcommittee on Military Applications, suggested that the United States take warning from the Russian missile announcement and undertake the 200,000-ton program, but Sen. Saltanoff (D-Mass.) disagreed.

Jackson asked his subcommittee to attend a closed-door session tomorrow. Evaluation of the Soviet missile was expected there.

Jackson and Sen. Symington (D-Mo.) look similarly at the Russian missile program, but Sen. Saltanoff (D-Mass.) disagreed.

Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.) said the Soviet announcement "requires the prompt reappraisal of America's defense development."

Police Arrests

Stanley Fenwick, 37, of Storrs and Norman A. Brooker, 16, of Williamstown, were arrested and charged with the theft of merchandise exposed for sale.

Police said that the boys put on their shoes at the store, threw their own under a counter and left the building. The boys are scheduled to appear in Town Court Sept. 6.

Francis J. Burke, 48, of 136 Green Manor Rd. was arrested yesterday and charged with breach of the peace and violation of probation. Police said that Burke was arrested after a complaint was received that he was looking into the windows of a house at 507 Woodbridge St.

Burke's court date has been set for Friday.

Paul E. Hubert, 39, of Longmeadow, Mass., was arrested yesterday and charged with failing to pay a parking ticket that he received June 25, according to police. He is scheduled to appear in Town Court Friday.

U.S. Aides Mum on Report Red Spy Wed to A-Scientist

Washington, Aug. 28 (AP)—Federal authorities refused to talk today about a report that a woman spy for the Soviet Union is married to an important engineer at the country's Los Alamos, N.M., atomic installation.

But there were some indications that the story, told by former U.S. country boys Moros, may be an old one—almost certainly in the past.

Moros, recently disclosed to have spent for the country over a 12-year period while supposedly working with the Russians, mentioned the woman last Sunday on CBS' "Face the Nation."

He said he knew of several important persons serving, as a questioner put it, as "agents writing or unwitting of the Soviet spy ring in this country."

There are two sisters, Moros added. One sister is married to the richest oilfield man in Europe while the other sister is married to an important and prominent engineer in Los Alamos.

Spokesman for the Justice Department, the FBI and the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) all declined comment on Moros' statement, although none appeared surprised by it.

At the side of the House committee on un-American activities said the Los Alamos matter "may well be" mentioned by Moros Aug. 12 testimony before a closed session of that body.

Board Considers Septic Tank Fee

A proposal that the town charge a fee for applications to install septic tanks will be made to the Board of Directors at a meeting on Tuesday.

Wethersfield, Aug. 28 (AP)—The State's Prison physician Dr. George A. Crowley, disclosed yesterday that Frank Wojewicz, 38-year-old convicted cop killer who has been under sentence of death since early in 1952, has overcome his paralytic condition to the extent that he now can use his wheelchair.

Wojewicz, shot in the spine in the gun battle in which he killed a New Britain police sergeant, was bed-ridden for almost six years. During that time, he avoided execution by a series of court appeals, the latest of which still is pending. He killed the police sergeant during a hold-up attempt.

Pros Don't Rate on Scrapbooks So Podoley Gets Heavy Credit
San Francisco (AP)—The pros who have been rated on the basis of their performance in the past few weeks...

WELL-BALANCED—Jim Podoley does a handstand after being tripped by San Francisco's Jim Ridlon (No. 47), Ed Henke (No. 75) and Jackson Brumfield (No. 86) boxed in the Redskin rookie standstill.

ADVERTOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a two-part look at the Milwaukee Braves, the National League leaders...

STATISTICS show the club completed 100 double plays last year. Now, with Schoendienst at second, breaking his legs in a quick and complicated leap to get over the runner from deep second and hand ready to fire the club will wind up with about 35 more...

THE BRVES never had a leadoff man, either. They have Schrodienst now, a switch-hitter with a .312 batting average and a pair of eyes that pick out the pitches not to hit.

Teams known as Olson and Johnson and Martin and Lewis have been on the bright lights of Broadway and Hollywood Boulevard for years. Almost unnoticed in small fry baseball, however, is a team of two men interested in small fry baseball.

Berra Tremendous in First Big Test

Braves' Win Brings Smile To Fred Haney

New York, Aug. 28 (AP)—If Manager Fred Haney of the Milwaukee Braves was asked to single out which gave him the most satisfaction this season, he undoubtedly would select last night's 4-3 triumph over the New York Giants.

Drives in Six Runs on Four Hits; Details

New York, Aug. 28 (AP)—Yogi Berra, that all No gimmick, No line about old Willie, 39 years, has passed another hitting milestone in his white-hot struggle with pros or how the New York Yankees always win the big ones. Just Yogi Berra. The 39-year-old slugger drove in six runs on four hits in five trips and stopped the nonstop Red Sox pitcher the Detroit Tigers 7-5 in 11 innings. So wrapped up is Williams in his duel with Berra that he did not realize his fifth inning smash into the upper bleachers at Briggs Stadium was No. 450.

N.L. Race Changed in 10 Days And It Could Happen Again

New York (N.E.A.)—On Aug. 4, the National League race was in first place, with Milwaukee, Brooklyn and St. Louis close enough to be partners. Only Philadelphia, a half game and a half behind, and Chicago, a full game and a half behind, were out of the race.

Hutchinson 'Manager of Year'—Lane

Last Night's Fights

New Orleans—Herb Rodriguez, 19 1/2, New Orleans, stopped Tracy Erisa Smith, 19 1/2, at the Louisiana State University gymnasium last night.

Pittsburgh Aug. 28 (AP)—General Manager Frank Lane of the St. Louis Cardinals says Fred Hutchinson should be the "Manager of the Year" even if the Cards don't win the pennant.

Heroes of Yankees Latest Victory

Yogi Berra (left), who drove in seven runs in New York Yankees' 12-6 victory over the second place Chicago White Sox last night, lifts hand of pitcher Bob Grinn (center) who was credited with win and Bill Skowron (right) who hit his first home run.

Bud Parker Signs With Pitt Eleven

Pittsburgh, Aug. 28 (AP)—Raymond (Buddy) Parker, who played for the Chicago White Sox, has signed a one-year contract with the Pittsburgh Pirates.
