

Democrats Delay Vote On Off-Year Elections

Whether what it called a mounting tide for Democrats in Connecticut, the Democratic Town Committee last night decided to hold off a vote on holding local elections in odd-numbered years.

Many committee members at a meeting in the Municipal Building, Manchester, held by the Democratic Town Chairman Steve Cavanaugh and the Republican party in Manchester.

A voice vote without a dissent postponed any decision pending a report from the Town Charter Revision Commission Tuesday night on holding local elections in odd-numbered years would help to remove State and Federal influence. Now, local elections coincide with State or Federal ones in the even-numbered years.

The proposed change, it was said, would remove confusion; make local candidates stand or fall on local issues; keep voters interested in holding elections every year; and make party members work harder. Cavanaugh said earlier this week he would ask the Democratic Town Committee for a vote on the proposal.

Some members last night said they questioned State motivation at a time when indications point to a mounting Democratic tide in this historically Republican state.

"The tide today may be against us, but it will change," said one member.

"Changing tide"

Understandably, the party level strength of Governor Ribicoff last year and President Eisenhower in past years, shed influence on local elections here.

Sheinwold on Bridge

U.S. Masters Team Champion Premier, Nickie E. Sheinwold, has an address to the Washington News Corps yesterday with a little pleasantries. He said he would like to remain here for half a year so he could answer all questions put to him.

But he said, "I have to return to Moscow to receive my own esteemed President in his own country."

He promised that in his speech "I will try to satisfy your curiosity and tell you some of the projects connected with my visit to the United States."

He continued:

"Many of you will indeed be my Sputniks on my tour of the U.S. I would like you to be good, honest, objective companions on my visit. You will report my speeches, I beg you to report correctly everything I say."

He also told the newsmen:

"I do not drop a verbal bomb occasionally, but I do not want a wrong interpretation to cause a mistake in what I want to say."

"I have been asked what results may be expected from our visit. It is to this noble goal that the weatherman has ahead and forecasts in politics are no less important."

But he said the first day includes "the most familiar ourselves with your country. We shall have conversations with you."

There was moderate applause when Sheinwold, preceded by William Lawrence of the New York Times, presided at the banquet room of the Press Club.

In the Russian manner Sheinwold applauded in response to the applause for his introduction.

Lawrence introduced the guests at the head table, beginning with Mrs. Sheinwold. None of the Russian women rose in response to the applause when they were introduced.

Sheinwold applauded.

The longest and loudest applause came when the Soviet Ambassador, Mikhail A. Sholokov, was introduced. Sholokov's name is distinguished by the fact that he is a Jew. He is a Jew, and his name is distinguished by the fact that he is a Jew.

Other Russians at the head table included: Andrei A. Gromyko, Ambassador to Washington; Mikhail A. Menshikov, Soviet Ambassador to London; and Alexei I. Abrikosov, Chairman of the U.S.S.R. State Committee for Cultural Relations with Foreign Countries, and Pravda Editor, A. Shteynberg.

In talking of his reasons for coming to the United States, Sheinwold said it had been a long time since he had last met President Eisenhower.

"Our contacts have been mostly through ambassadors and other diplomats," he said, adding, "The Soviet Union has been making a matter again of sending troops for modern war operations."

"You naturally do not expect me to say here all that I say or intend to say to the President," Sheinwold continued. "But I will have to say something or you will not have correct understanding of the Soviet situation."

Atlas Completes 5,500-Mile Flight

Cape Canaveral, Fla., Sept. 17 (AP)—An Atlas intercontinental range missile, newest and deadliest addition to the U.S. defense arsenal, thundered over the Atlantic last night on a reportedly successful 5,500-mile test flight.

There was no official announcement on the result, but sources close to the project said the 50-foot missile functioned perfectly.

Launched from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., and the Defense Department declared the big missile operational.

Launched from Vandenberg now holds a new war-tardy Atlas capable of hitting Russian targets 25 minutes after launch, and a peak speed of 15,000 miles an hour.

Last night's firing was the first in a new series directed at military officials in the U.S. and the Soviet Union.

The Soviet Premier said cold war misunderstandings and prejudices could not be ended overnight by working together the storm clouds of the Cold War.

"Compared with the situation five or six years ago, we see signs of a definite thaw in the cold war," he said, adding that representatives of the press could do much toward that end.

He cited the building of an atomic plant in the Soviet Union, the launching of the first artificial satellite and first artificial planet. Khrushchev cited "the outstanding success of Soviet scientists who first carried out a complete flight to the Moon."

"The surface of the Moon has been delivered scientific instruments and permanent with the help of the Soviet Union."

"This peaceful achievement greatly expands human knowledge," he said. "It shows what mankind can obtain by cooperating on peaceful goals."

Khrushchev said he is convinced the American people are also for peace, and "we must march together, pooling our efforts and energy and press for a fundamental turn in the climate of international relations." He added:

"As for the Soviet Union, it is prepared to consider any proposal that might help toward the establishment of peaceful neighborly relations with the United States."

Yet it is necessary, he said, for each side to meet the other half way.

The Soviet Premier said cold war misunderstandings and prejudices could not be ended overnight by working together the storm clouds of the Cold War.

A number of Algerians expressed concern that the Gaullist plan will have any effect on the national liberation.

But some moderate Europeans said the promise of free elections is likely to damage support of the rebel cause abroad.

Columbia Church Near End of Drive

Members of the Columbia Congregational Church are heading into the last week of their campaign preparations.

Victory West begins Sept. 21 and draws to the climax Sunday, Sept. 27 with Canvass Day.

The first study committee was appointed in the spring of 1955 when it was recognized that the church must have a parish house and Sunday school facilities.

On Sept. 27 more than 40 men of the church will go out with the aim to raise $50,000 with which to begin the project. It is anticipated that about $50,000 will be needed to ultimately complete the building.

Forms Partnership

Atty. Clement J. Pontillo Jr. of 108 Autumn St. has formed a partnership with Atty. Edward C. Wynn of 112 Elm St. The office will be located in the East Hartford Federal Savings and Loan Assn. building on Main St. in Glastonbury.

Atty. Pontillo is a native of Manchester and was an honors graduate from Manchester High School in 1940 and the University of Connecticut in 1943. He received his LL.B. degree from the UConn School of Law in 1948, where he was on the dean's list. He was admitted to the bar that same year.

While serving with the U.S. Army from 1943 to 1945, Atty. Pontillo was stationed in Europe as a company commander. He was discharged as first lieutenant, 2800 points, and received a Purple Heart for service.

Wynn, of Glastonbury, is the town councilman, chairman of the Republican Town Committee, a member of the Exchange Club, and has been a member of the American Bar Association in whose journal he has written articles. He is also a member of the South Glastonbury Club.

Monday at 4 o'clock, following the adjournment of the church, plans for the coming activities of the church will be discussed. The women will also work on the coming membership campaign in the Norwich District.

Mrs. Clarence Grant has been named as chairman of the church's new committee. Other members include Mrs. John Parley, Mrs. William Frazier, Mrs. Alfred Coddling.

A special meeting of the church will be held in the Yonkers Room, 1000 N. Y., at 8 o'clock. This meeting was planned at the annual meeting and will discuss boat regulations.

Mrs. Columbia Grange has been elected. Officers of the Columbia Grange, to all members, are: Mrs. Marshall Quinn, president; Mrs. M. J. Post, secretary; Mrs. Squire, treasurer; Mrs. Squire, stewardess; Mrs. John Card, friendly service.

The women voted to make a gift of $1,000 to the church building fund. The gift will be presented on Canvass Day. This is the second such gift they have made. The other was turned in some time ago. A report from the treasurer showed that several members had donated to the membership fund. The report also showed that several members had been elected to the membership fund.

It was also voted to have a picture of the Station 8 Little Free Library on the Community Birth-day Calendar for 1960.

Soliciting for letters on the calendar will start this week and are to be completed by early October. Miss Jean Natch is general chairman. Mrs. George Peters heads the organization ladies; and Mrs. Francis Lyman and her committee will handle the advertising.

Scorpinita Meet

Mrs. Leah Beck, local postmaster, and president of the Manchester Scorpinita, was hostess to the first fall meeting of the group Monday night at her home on Jonathan Trumbull Highway.

This is a unit of the American Federation of Scorpinita Inc.

Mrs. Laura L. Squier, tax collector, attended the State Tax Collectors conference at the University of Connecticut today.

Bay State Doctors Curtail Smoking

Boston, Sept. 17.—Massachusetts doctors report pronounced changes in their own smoking habits in the last five years. Now, almost all say teenagers should be warned they risk lung cancer from cigarette smoking, a survey by the New England Journal of Medicine reported today.

"I've had 99 per cent of 4,576 physicians polled by representatives of the New England Deaconess Hospital Cancer Research Institute and the Harvard School of Public Health favored warning youth of the potential dangers from smoking cigarettes."

The five-year follow-up study of a survey made in 1954 was reported by Dr. Leopold B. Negreiff and Miss Olive M. Lombard of the hospital research institute and the Harvard School.

Among the 4 per cent who opposed an educational campaign, some expressed the opinion that teenagers would not heed the advice. Others said such a campaign would be hopeless in view of heavy money spent by cigarette advertisers.

In five years the percentage of doctors who do not smoke at all jumped from a 34 per cent to 45 per cent, the survey said.

Those smoking only cigars and pipes now total 17 per cent.

The number smoking cigarettes fell from 62 per cent to 39 per cent. There was a 40 per cent drop in the proportion smoking a package or more per day.

"Half of the current smoking rate among physicians that a year ago and some of these was only one or two cigarettes a month. The Tobacco Industry Research Committee contends that there has been no proof that smoking causes lung cancer."

Case Dismissed

Chaper, Wyo., Sept. 17 (AP)—A woman complained a city employee used abusive language after giving her car a "good whack" with a broom.

City Manager Henry Rolfe said a "good whack" with a broom was not a crime.

He told Rolfe at least his temper cooled after the woman.

Dr. rolled around a "do not enter" sign, drove over freshly-painted parking area stripes and rammed him from behind, knocking him to the pavement. He said his broom flew into the air and landed on the car.

The matter has been dropped.

Two Chide Democrats For Sewer Issue Vote

West Riders angry over sewerage project voted against them last Tuesday by the Board of Directors appeared at a meeting of the Democratic Town Committee last night threatening political reprisals.

"But Alfred Rifkin, 708 W. Middle Tyle, and Lloyd Curkin, 19 Fulton St., were told that the sewer project they opposed was a must for the benefit of all Manchester people, and not only that of some 250 of the West Side."

One-third of the 325 one more presented being assessed for the project at the public hearing Tuesday in the Wadswell School, the third hearing in a year on the $2,458,000 sewer main and pump station that will open up the West Side to sewer service.

The year-long dispute ended as the Directors voted the assessment over a storm of objections. The $25 million project would be paid for by the sewer users paying the remaining through the Water Department.

West Political Repraisal

Some of the West Riders vowed political reprisal and legal action.

All opposition, apparently, continued to come out of the Woodchester tract for Alfred Rifkin and Curkin in appointed themselves spokesmen early in the dispute.

A Democrat himself, Rifkin told the town committee last night he would have liked to pay for the project.

"I'm not a Democrat," he said, "but I can write off the West End as a Democratic stronghold."

He said he would do all he could to foster the party's defeat in that area.

He added, "The lack of humility of some of our Democratic Directors have shown us going to hurt the Democratic party in this town for a long time."

The only "shining exception" on the Board, Rifkin said, was Director John Hutchinson. Hutchinson, a Democrat, had voted against the sewer project.

Rifkin also charged that West Riders have been insulted and subjected to "go in language" in talks with the Directors over the course of the dispute.

Backs Stand

However, he was told by Democratic Town Chairman Steve Cavagnaro and Democratic Director Theodore Powell, who was present, that the Board acted in the interests of the town as a whole.

The same stance was made by Director Ted Cummings in a statement today.

"The Board is serving the interests of the town as a whole," Cummings said. "The 45,000 people rather than 325. Some West Riders had wanted all sewer users to share in the cost of the project, and, at another time, they had wanted to make the project a town responsibility, not theirs."

Powell, who called the West Riders "uninformed" at the hearing, said that since the hearing began the Directors studied the question of fair assessment practices, made what he called a good decision in voting a project of vast benefit to the West Side of town, and asked for, but did not receive, constructive advice from the West Riders.

Rifkin himself was appointed in the Charter Revision Commission at the start of the controversy.

"It is unfair to impugn the integrity of the Board of Directors when it makes a decision displeasing to some people," Rifkin said. "I don't see how 'fiery debate' rather than 'substantial criticism' can be what was termed honest, well-thought decisions on voting the assessment was stated by Directors Francis Mahoney and Hutchinson, who were also at the committee meeting.

Charles Hogan, a member, also threw support to the Democrats on the Board, saying he was a "honest, intelligent, hard-thinking" Director "who do not vote as a bloc."

Here is Cummings statement: "The reason that the Board voted for this project despite the overwhelming opposition to it by the property owners was because we thought it was the most economical installation that could be made for the town as a whole."

Economical Project

"Since the water and sewer users will pay for the installation,

Democrats Begin Plans For Presidential Fight

The last three occupied Southern states.

Here's the way the approved plan would work: Basically, each state will get a 2 1/2 votes for each of its senators and representatives. Where a fractional vote resulted in a state, an additional half vote would be given to "round it off."

There will be 6 votes for the District of Columbia, 4 for Puerto Rico, and 3 each for the Virgin Islands and Canal Zone.

In the event this basic plan resulted in any loss from 1958 through the difference would be made up so that no state would lose.

Finally, each state and territory would receive one-half vote each for their two national committee members. States could name twice as many delegates as votes, with a limit of one vote each, no matter how many delegates as votes with a full vote each.

Before adjourning, the committee defeated a resolution by Calvin Beaulieu of Utah to do away with the controversial unit vote under which the entire vote of a state delegation is cast in one block, thus making their needs in the majority.

Q—Who was the founder of the Daughters of the American Revolution?

A—The D.A.R. officially recognizes four founders—Mary Dashi, Eugenia Washington, Ellen Harlan Walworth, and Mary Smith Lockwood.

Q—How far inland can ocean-going ships travel using the new St. Lawrence Seaway?

A—Bypassing the St. Lawrence Rapids and Niagara Falls, the Seaway permits passage of big ocean-going ships all the way from the Atlantic to Chicago and Duluth.

Q—What is the origin of the expression "right tooth and nail"?

A—It started with early Spanish pirates who would hide nails and metal between their teeth which captured and then use them as weapons for escape.

Q—When not permitted to do something, why is it said that we are "turned down"?

A—The allusion is to an old English custom of turning a glass upside down when no more drink is desired.

Q—Which historical era did the Rattlesnake flag represent?

A—Colonial America.

Q—What disease ranks as the nation's greatest killer?

A—Heart disease. Cancer and leukemia rank second.

Q—How are certain tropical ants able to saw?

A—For needles and thread, they use silk-spinning larvae. Holding the larvae in their jaws, the ants work the larvae back and forth to pull the edges of the leaves to make a state delegation is cast in one block, thus making their needs in the majority.

U.S. Capitalists Eager To See Khrushchev

By SAM DAVISON
AP Business News Analyst
 New York, Sept. 17 (AP)—How curious Khrushchev really is about how capitalism actually works may be in doubt. But how curious capitalists are about what makes him tick isn't.

The crush of those who want to dine with him and listen to his interpreter is setting records in an already record-breaking year. The nation's top industrialists and financiers who are anxious to see and talk with, or at least listen to, Russia's boss are well aware that many of their fellow citizens think poorly of capitalists breaking bread with communists.

American farmers live and function, so Wall Street and Pittsburgh and Los Angeles, and San Francisco think it might do him good to see how various segments of American industry operate.

Above all, though, is the desire to see what the Soviet boss is like, what kind of a competitor Russia might be, what it might offer as a market.

On previous visits of two of Russia's sub-bosses American business and banking leaders dined with and talked to them. There was much criticism of this. There is much honest objection now to the same thing with the top man in the role of guest.

Turned Away Today
 In New York today the list of big names being turned away from the luncheon and dinner for Khrushchev is longer than the list of those attending.

Why the rush? A lot of it is just common curiosity.

But just as some farmers think it might do Mr. K good to see how

The two-story, modernistic structure has been built on the site of the old Paesensstrasse synagogue, Germany's most famous and largest until "Crystal Night" Nov. 9, 1938.

Fraternity Hazing Kills USC Student

Los Angeles, Sept. 17 (AP)—A University of Southern California student choked to death on a piece of raw meat during a pre-dawn fraternity hazing today, police reported.

Dr. Melvin Goldy, summoned to the Kappa Sigma Fraternity house, said he had to extract a thick piece of liver from the gut of Richard Swanson, 21, Swanson, son of a Los Angeles physician, was pronounced dead on arrival at Central Receiving Hospital.

Police said Swanson and the other pledges had performed a series of puns before the fatal incident. They said Swanson was the first given the raw meat, which

Hundreds Drown In India Flood

Bombay, India, Sept. 17 (AP)—Flood waters today poured into the city of Bural, 100 miles north of Bombay and first reports said hundreds of persons were drowned.

An ancient wall protecting the city collapsed and waters of the River Tapi overflowed into the main bazaar, it was reported.

Within five minutes the reports said, a two-square mile area was inundated. The water was 12 feet deep in some places. Many houses were reported washed away.

Even-Year Town Elections

When the political leaders of an other, Manchester day-way way back in 1946, were engaged in drafting Manchester's modern manager-board of directors town charter, one of the problems which concerned them was that of lack of interest in local town elections.

Lack of interest had been demonstrated increasingly over the years, with the turnout of voters seemingly to grow smaller and smaller in proportion to the voting list itself.

From their own observation and experience, the political and civic leaders engaged in drafting the charter reached the conclusion that one reason interest in town elections was lagging was that they were held in the off-years when politics in general was not very much in the public mind.

Various states, on the other hand,

which do not have an even-year general election in politics.

So why not try holding the town elections in the off-years, so that politics was in the air and everybody's business?

The provision for holding Manchester's town elections in the even years, so that they might benefit from the generally higher interest in politics of those years, was adopted in a new charter.

The Manchester of 1959 now holds its town elections in the even years, and that has been the

X15 Completes Initial Flight Under Power

This big base cluster on a lawn and named when Crawford started upward. The X15's exhaust came in squirts, as though he were giving a gun sporadically. Each line, it left a brilliant white trail against the blue sky.

The X15 and its chase planes left belly control area as they made a wide sweeping turn over the Mojave desert. Then, power expended, Crawford made a series of sweeping glides, a he descended. A chase plane, its red tail glinting in the sun, joined up for the landing approach. They swept gracefully over the base before landing at nearby Rogers dry lake.

The chase plane turned up as Crawford touched down, kicking up a big rooster tail of dust. The X15 rolled a mile. Then, it taxied to the right, and the chase plane, circled over the landing area. "Nice and easy daddy." Then, Crawford said the plane "still lower."

"Looks good. Very fine," White said. "White is expected to be in the controls when the X15 makes its all-out flight into space. Crawford's voice crackled over the radio. "I'm an old pro, daddy. Crawford even managed a joke at one point. "I hear a funny noise, a rattle, and said the radio. Later he added: "Aw, that rattle's just in my head."

For its first powered flight the X15 was equipped with twin four-barrel rocket engines originally developed for the experimental rocket X1. They develop about 12,000 pounds thrust. For its all-out flight the X15 gets XLR-99 engines developing more than 80,000 pounds of thrust.

ness Communist representation of the fundamental human rights of the "Beltans" of deep concern in the United Nations. Certainly this organization must speak out in clear terms in the face of such events.

Since the 1958 Assembly session, Communist China has expressed an uprising in Tibet, got into a border dispute with India and been blamed along with the Soviet Union and North Viet Nam for a rebellion in Laos.

The steering committee yesterday voted to address the question of seating Red China in the United Nations.

Herter was to address the assembly as the second speaker in a general policy debate. The general debate for hints whether the United States and the Soviet Union were rigid or conciliatory as they entered upon an exchange of visits between Khrushchev and President Eisenhower. In this spirit, they awaited Herter's and Khrushchev's speeches.

The Assembly's sole business tomorrow will be to hear an address by Khrushchev, which will begin at 2 p.m. EST and last an hour or more. He told the National Press Club in Washington yesterday he would give the United Nations a new proposal on disarmament.

She Just Grew, and Grew, and Grew

"The poor thing seemed to want to grow," said Bernard A. Bentley, 18 Cedar Street, "so I gave in and let it have its way. Bentley referred to the peach tree which appeared at the corner of his house. It apparently grew from a seed thrown there, Bentley said, because he didn't plant it. He made a comeback each time. Now, heavily laden with fruit, Bentley places a rake and stepladder to support the sagging branches. He has picked half a bushel from the tree this year, and says the fruit was delicious. He parks the car in the drive now, rather than behind the house. (Herald Photo by Pintle).

The Waldorf will be Khrushchev's headquarters for his stay in the city.

Some were hostile. One sign read "Khrushchev not welcome here." Another said "Danger, evil men work." Still another read "Khrushchev for the moon, but you for America."

Officials at this Adriatic port city said the building crumbled because the foundation apparently was not strong enough to support the extra four stories.

Mrs. Luisa Campolongo, wife of the building custodian, was one of the 15 pulled out alive. The collapse "seemed like a bomb," she said.

Others near the scene said they believed an earthquake had struck the city when they heard the rumble and felt a shock. Still others thought a tanker had exploded in the harbor.

Bananas Travel Far

Guatemala City—Although no more than 21 to 25 days can elapse between cutting and the eating, bananas regularly travel 2,000 to 6,000 miles by water and up to 1,500 additional miles by rail or truck to reach the consumer.

Bananas require tender handling; they rot very fast in a stem in a way that invites crushing and bruising under anything less than the greatest care in shipping.

Harold Rickford, Rt. 44A, North Coventry, is in Hartford Hospital with a compound fracture of the skull suffered this morning in an accident at the new St. George's church in Bolton.

Others near the scene said they believed an earthquake had struck the city when they heard the rumble and felt a shock. Still others thought a tanker had exploded in the harbor.

Fifteen persons were killed in a similar mishap in 1934 when a five-story apartment building collapsed in the heart of the city.

Soldiers, police, firemen and volunteers dug in the ruins throughout the night in the glare of searchlights mounted on army vehicles. Police formed cordons to hold back relatives looking for lost ones.

Ike Says Red Boss Friendly in Talks

At a later date today's conference Eisenhower made it clear that such specific problems as West Berlin and the Communist drive in Laos certainly will be on the Camp David agenda.

Eisenhower remarked that in his estimation very large crowds turned out to greet Khrushchev in the capital. He said that was natural because the people were interested in seeing Khrushchev.

Eisenhower Offers To Name Strike Unit

ment since the strike by a half million steelworkers began July 15—negotiations between industry and union officials here flooded along with out progress.

Some quarters interpreted Eisenhower's offer as a device to increase the pressure for a voluntary agreement between industry and union representatives.

The long dispute, which also has had an estimated 175,000 additional workers in other industries, revolves around the union's demand for wage increases and other benefits in any new work contract.

The industry has refused on the ground that pay increases would be inflationary. Wages before the strike averaged $3.11 an hour.
