3 More Seized For Fake $100s

Hartford, Jan. 18 (AP)—The arrest of three more men in connection with the circulation of counterfeit $100 bills in Connecticut was disclosed today by State Police Capt. Samuel E. Rome, head of the racket squad. He described them as Arthur E. Lorenson, 30, Cross St., Naugatuck; Frank Sciarano, 44, Joseph St., Meriden; and Rinaldo DiPietro, 30, Bushnell St., Hartford, all held under bonds of $10,000 each. These three were charged with conspiring to circulate counterfeit money. Additional charges of possessing counterfeit money and obtaining money by false pretenses, stemming from a back check case, were lodged against Lorenson. This brought the number of those under arrest to six, two men and a woman having been taken into custody last week. The $100 bills, which began turning up in Connecticut a couple of weeks ago, were printed in the Midwest about two years ago, Capt. Rome said. The phony bills were sent out through the underworld with instructions to hold them until a certain date, according to the captain, and meanwhile the printing plant was dismantled. Passers of the counterfeit $100 bills, Capt. Rome said, had been purchasing them for from $120 to $130 apiece. Capt. Rome said that one phony bill was found in Lorenson's possession when he was taken into custody Friday in Naugatuck. Telephone numbers and addresses on slips of paper also found in his possession, the captain said, led investigators to Sciarano and DiPietro who described themselves as costume jewelry salesmen. The three men just arrested all have police records, Capt. Rome said, and Sciarano served time in a federal penitentiary. Lorenson, he said, was unemployed and Sciarano and DiPietro described themselves as costume jewelry salesmen. Capt. Rome described DiPietro as probably the local distribution agent for the phony $100 bills in Connecticut. Taking part in the investigation, among others, were Det. Frank Schiavone of Hartford Police, Capt. Malcolm McHenry of Hamden Police, Chief Thomas Mc-

Navy Develops Radar to See Over Horizon

New York, Jan. 18 (AP)—The Naval Research Laboratory has developed a radar that can see over the horizon and detect missiles as they are launched from submarines, the New York Times said today. Within the Navy, it was reported, the system is being viewed as one answer to the increasing threat of missiles launched from a Soviet submarine fleet. The Navy is halting the development as one of the most significant breakthroughs in radar technology since radar was developed at the naval laboratory in the 1930s, a Washington dispatch to the Times added. The British about the same time were perfecting radar independently. The new radar, the story said, has been given the code name of Project Madre standing for magnetic drum receiving equipment, a key component in the system. The Times said one outgrowth of the Madre approach has been Project Tepe, a system being worked on by the Navy for intercontinental detection of missile launchings or nuclear explosions in the atmosphere. The Defense department disclosed the existence of Project Tepe last summer. Here in part, is the Times report on Project Madre. The development means that for the first time there is a radar that is not limited in its detection vision to the line of sight from the transmitting antenna. The new device can beam over the horizon to pick up moving targets as far away as 2,600 miles. From a technical standpoint, Project Madre is expected to open up a new approach in radar. There is now a method to get extremely long range with relatively low power. This can replace the present technique of building ever-bigger antennas and ever-more-powerful transmitters to get the same range. Project Madre, from a military standpoint, is expected to fill in many of the gaps—particularly on the sea front—of the missile-bomber detection network surrounding the Continental United States. A few Madre stations along the eastern seaboard of Canada as well as the United States could provide the same.

Ike Sees Budget Surplus, Tax Cut Possibility in '61

Income $84 Billion, Outlay $79.8 Billion

Table with 2 columns: 1961 Budget estimates for the year ending June 30. Rows include Income ($84,000,000,000), Outgo ($79,800,000,000), Surplus ($4,200,000,000), and Year-end debt ($280,000,000,000).

Washington, Jan. 18 (AP)—President Eisenhower today sent Congress his election year budget and said it promises a $4,184,000,000 surplus that can pave the way for a tax cut, possibly next year. For the present, however, Eisenhower proposed raising more revenue. He said Congress should increase the federal gasoline tax by half a cent a gallon—to 4 1/2 cents—and add a penny each to the 4-cent letter charge and the 7-cent air mail rate. The President implied that unless Congress votes these and other revenue measures—and resists any urge to boost spending—the predicted surplus will melt away and the wish of broadscale tax relief sometime after the November election. For the 1961 fiscal year that begins July 1, Eisenhower estimated record revenues of $84 billion. He called for spending of $79,816,000,000. This would produce the biggest surplus in 13 years—a margin of black ink which the President said should be used to reduce the record national debt of $292 billion. He said a debt cut would counter inflation and spur savings needed to stimulate new economic growth. Eisenhower said the projected spending level will permit small increases in both the military and foreign aid budgets, a major step up in space exploration and record outlays for water projects. Although allotting $50 million more for defense, the budget proposes small cuts in purchases of missiles and ships and a big reduction in aircraft purchases. Cuts in non-military programs generally were small and scattered. Eisenhower asserted that if the fiscal blueprint can be translated into reality, the President and Congress to be elected in November will have an opportunity to cut taxes, assuming prosperity continues. "Soundly conceived tax revision can then be approached on a comprehensive and orderly basis, rather than by haphazard piecemeal changes, he added. Eisenhower did not say specifically that a tax cut should be considered in 1961. He merely pointed to this as a possibility during the 2-year tenure of the Congress that will convene next January. He also commented that the legislators might prefer debt reduction to tax cuts.

Ike's Russian Tour Will Start June 10

Washington, Jan. 18 (AP)—President Eisenhower's crusade of world travels to promote peace and freedom will take him behind the Iron Curtain into Russia for 10 days starting June 10. Dates for the President's trip, planned since last summer, were announced yesterday by the White House and the Soviet government. The United States announcement was made in Albany, Ga., shortly before Eisenhower flew back to Washington after a weekend of quail hunting. In going to Russia, Eisenhower will be returning the 2-week visit which Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev made to the United States last September. The President will go first to Moscow. He also will visit a few other cities in Russia but there has been no final decision as to which ones. He has mentioned wanting to see Stalingrad which put up such heroic defense against the Nazis in World War II and Kolobneva, a wartime military headquarters. There were no immediate announcements as to whether the President will be accompanied by Mrs. Eisenhower and their four grandchildren. Khrushchev invited the youngsters when he met them at the President's Gettysburg, Pa., farm in September. Diplomatic sources in Moscow said Eisenhower will stay in a guest house in the Kremlin rather than the Kremlin Palace. The guest house perhaps will be something like Blair House, the President's guest house where Khrushchev stayed during his Washington visit. Eisenhower's trip will be part of his campaign of worldwide travel in behalf of what he terms "peace and friendship in freedom." Last August 3, when the President announced plans for the Eisenhower-Khrushchev exchange of visits, he expressed hope that the trips would help thaw the Cold War ice. Khrushchev's two weeks in this country seem to have made no basic improvement in relations, and now he is pushing a new pressure drive to force the western leaders to give up protection of West Berlin. That will be a main issue at the Paris summit conference starting May 16, less than a month before Eisenhower's arrival in Russia. The President, Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and French President Charles de Gaulle will meet with Khrushchev at the Paris session. White House aides expect Eisenhower to return to Washington between the Paris conference and his trip to the Soviet Union. And press secretary James C. Hagerty said recently he knew of no plans for the President to visit some Far East countries enroute home from Russia. As Eisenhower's schedule now stands, the June visit to the Soviet Union will be his fifth trip outside the United States in 9 months. Late in the summer he went to West Germany, England, France and Scotland. In December he made a 22,000 mile tour to 11 nations in Europe, Asia and Africa. Next month he will visit four countries in South America.

4 Killed as Train Rams School Bus

Fackler, Ala., Jan. 18 (AP)—An Amtrak freight train on its home-ward swing crashed into a school bus at a dirt road crossing near this northeast Alabama town today. Reports placed four children dead and eight children and the driver critically injured. Highway Patrolman T. W. Freeman said the train sliced through the bus just behind the middle and dragged the rear half of the wreckage about three quarters of a mile before it stopped. It is obvious the driver just didn't see the train, he said. Freeman said the train was traveling about 55 m.p.h. on a straight track in clear weather. Freeman said the engineer, C. E. Edwards, told him the bus apparently was not stalled but was moving across the tracks at the time of the accident. All children lived at Fackler, a town of 400 people, southwest of Chattanooga, Tenn. They were taken to a hospital at Scottsboro, Ala., as Frances Corbett and Mary Corbett, sisters, and Leonard Beavers and Foster Beavers, brothers. The injured, all in critical condition, were identified as Marcus Wade McCrary, Burley W. Corbett, Albert Corbett Jr., Gordon Beavers, James Larry Corbett, Carolyn Corbett, Harold Wayne McCrary and Sheila Beavers. "I never saw the train but it wouldn't have made any difference if I had," Beavers said at a hospital at nearby Scottsboro. "I must have been knocked unconscious but I remember hearing the kids holler and I remember getting out of the bus." Beavers said that before he lost consciousness he pulled some of the children from the water in a ditch alongside the tracks. Beavers, stunned and distraught by the tragedy that struck into his own family, said the school bus brakes failed at the crossing last

Freezing Rain Due to Plaster State Tonight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS A windy snowstorm thrust eastward across the lower Great Lakes region today, leaving the Plains and Midwest heaped with drifts that blocked roads and closed schools. Snow, sleet and freezing rain spread along the northern Ohio Valley into Pennsylvania and rain reached into the Middle and South Atlantic States. As the storm reached the Atlantic, the forecast for Connecticut indicated light snow changing to freezing rain tonight, probably changing to rain by morning, not quite as cool as last night, the low near 28. Rain ending Tuesday morning with partial clearing in the afternoon. Little temperature change, the high near 35. Winds will be northeasterly to easterly 10 to 15 early tonight and 15 to 25 by morning. The U. S. Weather Bureau at Bradley field issued this 5-day forecast: Temperatures in Connecticut, Tuesday through Saturday, will average near normal. The normal mean temperature in the Hartford area for this period is 27 ranging from a normal high of 36 to a normal low of 18. It is expected to be somewhat colder Wednesday with little change Thursday through Saturday. Precipitation occurring about Thursday, is expected to total about 1/2 to 3/4 of an inch. The storm, blamed for at least 7 inches, dropped up to 6 inches of new snow on northwestern Illinois during the night. Strong northerly winds buffeted the Plains and drew subzero air into the

Rally in West Berlin Britons, Italians Riled By Anti-Semitic Wave

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS West Berliners today joined in the round of protest demonstrations in Europe against anti-Semitism. Big protest parades were held yesterday in London and in Italy. About 3,000 Germans attended a rally in West Berlin's Tempelplatz. Police arrested 10 university students for raising placards at the rally calling for the ouster of government officials accused of having Nazi records. Sen. Joachim Lipschitz, who was addressing the rally, halted his speech when he saw the placards raised, assuming they came from Communists East Berlin. But police reports said the 10 arrested were from West Germany. Their backgrounds are being checked. The Communist East German news agency ADN came out immediately with a charge that Lipschitz had set the police on the students. The demand that ex-Nazis be ousted from responsible positions in West Germany has been voiced by the press and political groups in Germany as well as elsewhere in Europe. This was one demand made at a big protest rally in London yesterday. The German government has promised steps to weed out Nazis from high positions. In a speech to the Stolplatz rally, Lipschitz pledged stronger measures against neo-Nazis but said nothing about the ouster of ex-Nazis from government positions. In Bonn, Dr. Nahum Goldman, president of the World Jewish

Italy Milliners Show Latest in High Fashion

By ALLY MOSS Florence, Italy, Jan. 18 (AP)—Florence's fashion show opened today in a show of anti-Semitism. Inside the enormous 15th Century Pitti Palace almost a thousand people thronged up-carpeted stairways past priceless tapestries to the Sala Bianca white chamber, where Italian milliners showed their latest creations in the opening event. All the models wore black to set the hats off better. Florence's hatier, Biannalini, showed a group of Tyrolean-inspired hats, some of them in heavy cotton. Canessa of Rome again showed the parasol-shaped, wide-brimmed felt and straws that were worn by many models during the Rome part of the Italian fashion show last week. Also shown by this house were lamp-shaped and bushy hats that had printed cotton scarves around the back. Canessa's dressier hats were very pretty and featured roses. One was with a high brim that bordered the forehead and had two tube roses at the sides, above the ears. If high fashion designer Capucci's hats were any indication of what he will do with fashion when he shows tomorrow evening, his spring-summer look probably will be severe. Capucci showed very high-crown hats, top hats, upside down lampshades and exaggeratedly high bill boxes. Maruccelli closed the morning show with highly detailed flowered hats, woven straws, wide-brimmed felt that draped over one side of the head. One wide-brimmed beige hat with

First French Atom Test In Sahara Due Any Day

Paris, Jan. 18 (AP)—France is expected to explode her first atomic weapon in the Sahara any day now. A successful blast will put France in the nuclear weapon club restricted so far to the United States, Russia and Britain. The French Defense Ministry warned planes flying over the African desert to stay clear of certain areas beginning today. Speculation arose that the French were waiting only for favorable weather. The device set off will be atomic, not a more powerful hydrogen-bomb weapon. The French are not believed to have reached the latter stage in their nuclear development. Airplanes flying over the Sahara, mostly French and British, were warned to stay clear of a zone around Reggane, one of the Touat oases in central Algeria. The site is about 600 miles from the Mediterranean coast and about the same distance from the Atlantic. Planes flying over the rest of the French Sahara were advised to remain above 10,000 feet, avoid certain other areas and keep in radio contact with French authorities. The French announcement gave no time limit for the regulations.

Court Opposes Military Trials For Civilians

Washington, Jan. 18 (AP)—The Supreme Court ruled today that civilian employees of the armed services and civilian dependents of military personnel overseas cannot be subjected to military trial. The court extended a 1957 decision in which it had held that dependents of military personnel could not be court-martialed for capital crimes overseas. Today's decision extended the ruling to include civilians accused of lesser crimes. This broader ruling was given in a series of four cases. The court was divided 5-4 in two of the cases and 7-2 in two. (Continued on Page Seven)

Kishi Arrives For Signing of U.S., Jap Pact

Washington, Jan. 18 (AP)—While Japanese Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi planned a day of relaxation here, President Eisenhower called in top advisers today for consultations on the signing of a Japanese-American treaty. The treaty of security and mutual cooperation, scheduled to be signed tomorrow, has aroused considerable opposition in Japan. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter Jr. and U.S. Ambassador to Japan Douglas MacArthur II were to confer with the President in advance of his private meeting tomorrow with Kishi. Eisenhower and Kishi plan an hour and a half session at the White House before the formal signing of the treaty which raises Japan a defeated World War II enemy to a status equal to America's NATO Allies. Kishi, who may play a round of golf today if weather permits, arrived last night at Washington National Airport. He was greeted by Herter and Vice President Richard M. Nixon. Nixon's appearance was a surprise. He had to hurry back from Miami for the airport ceremonies. Answering charges by Japanese leftists who violently opposed his visit to Washington, Kishi said: "The ends we seek are to strengthen our collaboration on a broad basis and to enable our partnership to contribute more usefully and effectively to the cause of world peace and human progress." The Communist nations also opposed the new treaty and Kishi's trip. They claim the treaty means the United States and Japan are planning what the Communists call "new aggressions" in the Far East. An Issue Keeps Coming Home
 We are, at the Geneva conference on a permanent neutral zone, not only ourselves on the neutrality of our position. It is the negotiating days of the world, not a conclusive failure, the blame will not go, as we would desire, to the Russians alone. We may even be awarded the prize for coming close to desiring, the major share of this is primarily because American policy on the test ban is divided into two camps, the one which has gained the allegiance of President Eisenhower and dedicated to the proposition that we have to pour ourselves out, the other, headed by Admiral Strauss and Dr. Edward Teller, dedicated to the proposition that we should never agree to any kind of test ban under any kind of conditions.

In Praise of Commercialism
 Our disclaimers continue. The Federal Trade Commission has filed complaints alleging that the advertiser which gets married to television really endangers after all, that the drops on marine aren't really water, that a certain medicine doesn't really do more harm to good to the cause he intends to expose. But we are not really interested in the proposed conference as primarily a boat for Castro anyway.

What the watching world, and a good many Americans, are beginning to ask is this: Suppose the test ban is basically possible to cheat on some small underground atomic test, what if it? Who would be to run the international rat of being caught at it? What practical purpose would there be in such small tests? Who needs to make such tests?

A Setting For Castro
 Castro may not have any to see our ambassador back to the property he has been seized from Americans in Cuba, but he

Rally in West Berlin Britons, Italians Riled By Anti-Semitic Wave

 A delegation delivered a letter describing the manifestation of a reflection of British public opinion which holds anti-Semitism in abhorrence. They got a sympathetic reception from the charge d'affaires, Dr. Joachim Ritter, who promised the Bonn government would crack down on hate mongers "until the evil is eradicated."

Thus, although it seems to us that Castro has as yet found no system of organizing the mob for governing Cuba itself, he nevertheless aspires to international leadership which would be international leadership would be also seen to be shaping up in line with his talents as a demagogue orating to the mob for a would seem an array of have-nots and what is being done to weather nations may expect to be beset and beseeched.

One result of this may be the making of a test ban under developed nations lose some of its popularity with the American people. Giving such aid out of our pockets to a man who is not a conclusive failure, the blame will not go, as we would desire, to the Russians alone. We may even be awarded the prize for coming close to desiring, the major share of this is primarily because American policy on the test ban is divided into two camps, the one which has gained the allegiance of President Eisenhower and dedicated to the proposition that we have to pour ourselves out, the other, headed by Admiral Strauss and Dr. Edward Teller, dedicated to the proposition that we should never agree to any kind of test ban under any kind of conditions.
