Tacos, Tortas, Si! Dogs, Burgers, No!

By JACK BUTLER
 Mexico City (AP)—Hamburgers and hot dogs are sold in Mexico's major cities but sales are only so-so. The native tortas, tacos and tostadas are just too good and much cheaper.

Mexico City's side streets are jammed with "puestos" or stands selling an amazing variety of savory items you can eat while standing on the sidewalk or on the run.

And on the sidewalks themselves are other vendors also selling edible specialties.

The average tourist stutters and visualizes instant dysentery, passes up these bargains. Look what they're missing.

Keweenaw. These have been called Mexican Dogwags and it's a good description. A meringue-shaped roll is packed with mashed triole

Stamps in the

By LOUIS MANDELL
 It's rather pleasant to report we're progressing with our annual spring clean-up and have now reached the 1958 level in the philatelic file. We reached that level in the high level when we found a letter from George W. Linn, editor and president of Linn's Weekly Stamp News.

In case you've just arrived, please be informed that Linn is one of the watchdogs on the philatelic scene. He has strong views on certain operations of money-hungry dealers and individuals who come every day, he grows at unscrupulous dealers and individuals and, if we recall correctly, excluding a few gentlemen in fast-track deals.

Also, Linn is one of the main advocates of the idea of disregarding the value of a stamp as a collector's item. He points out that the gum sometimes damages the other stamps and usually gum can be applied to stamps, thus adding to its worth.

Anyway, the letter from Linn dated Nov. 25, 1960, was in answer to some questions about first day covers and much so without first day introductions to preliminary and preliminary we present a pertinent quote from Mr. Linn, probably as frank a gentleman as ever spoke his last in print.

"In my opinion, FDCs are a very poor thing to collect as they have an ever increase in value. In fact, usually a month or two after a stamp is issued, they usually drop in value. Before issued, they usually cost 10c to 20c each and it will be many years before covers containing that much will be readily available at what you paid for them."

"Better just save your 5c stamp and let it go at that. It only costs 5c and it always goes for postage. But when you pay 50c for the stamp, 5c or more for the envelope and then pay 10c to mail it the first day— you have over 15c invested in the cover."

"And the minute the stamp is cancelled, it is worth less than 10c and the envelope on which it is stuck is worth nothing—and your whole works is shot."

"What makes this true is that people who collect FDCs are not satisfied with one cover for their collection. They think they will be smart, buy 10 or more and sell the surplus to other collectors."

"Since most who get the FDCs think the same way, by the time the stamps are issued, every collector has 10 covers to sell and none to buy."

Started collecting at 2.

The guy who said stamps hold an interest for folks from six to 80 and over wasn't just talking to exercise his jaws. Also, he didn't look and choose doesn't indicate that a woman is neurotic. It's just a good indication of her age.

Sheinwold on Bridge

By ALBION SHEINWOLD
 "My fiancée is very critical of the way I play bridge," a reader complains. "Sometimes he says he's out in the middle of a hand, even though I may be quite right. Here's a hand that caused trouble the other night."

"I was declarer, and won the first trick with the ace of diamonds. I drew two rounds of trumps with the ace and king, then attacked clubs."

"They didn't take the first club, but East did take the second club and returned a club for his partner to ruff. That's when Paul, my fiancée, exploded. He gave me a long lecture on counting trumps, and I never did get the chance to play. What can I do to cure him of this distracting habit?"

The core is easy, but first let's look at the hand to see who was right.

It's clear that the young lady is perfectly right: she made the correct play, and I assume she made her game contract.

The defense can get a club, a ruff, and one diamond trick, but then South can lead a trump to dummy's ten in order to force two hearts on the good club. South's line of play should ground the heart of any spade.

The point is that South goes down if she draws three rounds of trumps. But can she refuse the first two clubs, and the suit never comes in. Declare your club, one diamond, and—two hearts.

Any girl clever enough to play the hand so well should see the cure for herself: Mary the besting. If that doesn't cure him, nothing will.

How Much Looks Matter
 Markes Agate of Western Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
 It is not unusual to look attractive but the person who is extremely concerned with clothing and appearance may have serious tendencies according to a recent study at one of the largest universities in the world.

Well, maybe so. But with a woman, it's not just a matter of clothes and looks. It's more a matter of age than of emotional unbalance.

Little girls are often as unscrupulous as ever about how they look as boys of the same age. But once girls reach the teen-age, their looks become so important that they will do anything to get a better look. They will dye their hair, use a hairbrush that drops or has a wire in it, or use a hairbrush that isn't quite right, or use a hairbrush that is a major catastrophe.

Then they grow up, marry, settle down and lose their preoccupation with a mirror. During the young, adult years a woman doesn't have time to be overly concerned with her looks. She doesn't demand perfection of her face or her clothes.

Then come the years of the first gray hairs, the first wrinkles, the first signs of middle age—and once again a woman begins to be preoccupied with her own appearance.

She begins to shop more carefully and to spend more money on clothes. She begins to spend more time before her mirror, trying out new make-up tricks, new hairdos, new styles—all in a determined effort to "do something" about herself.

At this age she is inclined to be extravagant about clothes, and an easy mark for anything the beauty sales and cosmetic counters are pushing. It's a "I might as well try it, what have I got to lose?" state of mind.

But when the middle years pass a woman once again begins to put her own looks in proper perspective. She still wants to look as nice as possible—but her looks aren't all-important.

So, no matter what the experts say, excessive concern over her looks and clothes doesn't indicate that a woman is neurotic. It's just a good indication of her age.

Boy Scout Troop 47 and adult leaders attended the first camping trip of the new year recently at the Knights of Pythias camp in Cheshire.

Fifty-one scouts, 17 senior scouts, and 14 adults participated in the trip, which was led by Scoutmaster Robert Von Deck. Theme for the weekend was "First Aid."

The troop arrived at camp on Saturday morning, and a game of football was led by Robert Midwood and Robert Melio. In the afternoon, Oliver Peters, Steven Morrison, Paul Diglio, Edward Diab, and Joseph Schenbergh demonstrated first aid instructions.

Von Deck, Robert Post, Frank Schenbergh, and Richard Dixon conducted first and second class tests.

The boys took part in a snow-blight fight, and indoor games were played until supper. A game of "Pioneer and Indian" was played after breakfast Sunday morning, church services were conducted by Andrew Diab, assisted by Edward Diab, Robert Smith, Fred Peterson, and Yarnon Towle.

After the services, the troop took part in tests of outdoor first aid, and a picnic was prepared by the junior assistant scoutmaster staff on the premises. The picnic was led by Von Deck and John Malora Jr. The boys left camp at 9 a.m. after a roast beef dinner prepared by the troop.

Airport Players Aim for Stardom

By PAUL BUTLER
 New York (AP)—The road to Broadway stardom has begun in many strange places, but never from the control tower of an airport.

Now even this is possible. Since last summer a concerted effort has been in progress to draw the multi-million dollar jet-age New York International Airport at Idlewild into the orbit of the highly successful Off-Broadway legitimate theater.

The instrument is "Idlewild Players," a group of professional, semi-professional and amateur actors. They operate in the "Sky-lark Theatre," a sound-proof, glass-walled, fourth-floor loft of the 10-story control tower at the end.

Venetian blinds are lowered during performances. Before and after the show they are drawn, revealing the spectacle of planes landing and taking off. During warm weather months, the effect is heightened by a huge water display at the airport's Liberty Plaza, with lights of different colors playing on the scene.

The founder, promoter and guiding spirit of Idlewild Players is Thomas Del Vecchio, a newspaperman who has covered La Guardia and Idlewild airports for many years. Since his teens he has had an ambition to be a playwright and has written several plays during his 30-year newspaper career. Note has reached Broadway.

Del Vecchio likes to talk theater. Through such uninhibited discussion with others at the airport he learned, to his surprise, that some airport employees were frustrated actors.

One thing led to another and Idlewild Players was founded in the spring of 1959. Worst reached Broadway and unemployed professionals wandered in the theater about a new thing," says Del Vecchio.

The group's first effort was produced in September 1959. It was a contemporary comedy, "Design for Scandal," written by Del Vecchio. Those who saw it in the 100-seat folding chairs, rented theater liked it. There was one review, by Milton Caine of "Admission News," a bi-weekly newspaper serving the industry. He thrilled the cast by writing: "It looks like a hit."

The group's next production was a 15-character costume piece, "Proclaim Liberty" which Del Vecchio adapted from a book he had written about Tom Paine. Caine again approved. The production last March was directed by Joseph Ryan, formerly of the Pops Theater of Boston and the Boston Repertory Theater.

New York City newspapers have not reviewed Idlewild Players because they are classified as an amateur group. The cast feels, however, that professional review could lead to Broadway. Del Vecchio, who has written all the hits to pay, hopes to attract sufficient support in the near future to move his players the minimum Actors Equity scale.

Del Vecchio remains a realist, however. Although his dreams are for Broadway, his plans are for establishing Idlewild Players as a permanent repertory theater at the airport.

The next planned production is an "original" although it was written by a master, Del Vecchio's "O'Neill, however, it has a happy ending. It is scheduled to open April 21.

Also planned is a series of one-act plays by Lafor Ept and, perhaps, some other works by Del Vecchio.

Del Vecchio's newspaperman doesn't matter where you put on a good original. The big thing is to do it. If it's good, there's a great deal of satisfaction to be gained out of just doing it." He adds hopefully, "And then there's a way the chance..."

Only Four Mothers See Son's Inaugural

By VIRGINIA PALMER
 Written for The Associated Press
 When Rose Kennedy watched John F. Kennedy take the oath of office on Jan. 20, she will be the fourth mother in history to attend her son's inauguration.

Only Ellen Ballou Garfield, Nancy Allison McKinley and Sara Delano Roosevelt preceded her in the honor.

And last November she became the second mother to vote for her son for the presidency.

In 1920, the year women were given the right to vote, Sara Delano Roosevelt cast a ballot for her son, Franklin, for vice president. When the Democrats lost the election, Mrs. Roosevelt hoped her son's days in politics were over.

But, in 1928, when Mrs. Roosevelt voted, she became the first American mother to help elect a son President.

Exceptionally tall and erect, Sara Roosevelt was a prominent member of the audience who watched and listened to the famous "I'll be there to cheer for you" speech on her son's first inauguration day.

The first mother to see her son take the oath on the speaker's platform March 4, 1951.

After James Abram Garfield had delivered his address, he turned to his wife, Miss Ellen Ballou Garfield, and bestowed a kiss upon her forehead.

The crowds cheered. Perhaps they knew her story. She had gone West in a covered wagon and at 20 was a widow. Mrs. Garfield worked in the fields to keep her little family together. She practiced that anything was possible if you worked hard enough.

But, in 1882, when Mrs. Roosevelt voted, she became the first

Even Diamonds Hunted by Air

Stockholm — Since the 17th Century, when iron deposits in Sweden were sought with a crude dip needle, men have used the magnetic method of locating iron.

Today's airborne magnetometer is so sensitive it measures the tiniest variations in the earth's magnetic field — as small as one part in 50,000 — recording them while the plane speeds along.

Aerial exploration is also used in hunting for nickel, chrome, asbestos, molybdenum, zinc, lead, gold, and diamonds. And it has helped search the earth for oil by eliminating unproductive areas faster than any other method.

Virginia Rusk Wed Her College Teacher

AT Newfeatures
 Attractive, blue-eyed Virginia Rusk is the friendly, unassuming kind of woman who makes you immediately feel at ease. And her feeling of affection and pride in her family is contagious. Now modestly, she'd rather talk about her husband than herself.

Of the next secretary of state, Dean Rusk, she says: "I don't know what we will do with the Scardale house." They've lived in Scardale, a suburb of New York City, since Rusk became president of the Rockefeller Foundation nine years ago.

She has no idea where we will live," she says cheerfully. "And I don't know what we will do with the Scardale house." They've lived in Scardale, a suburb of New York City, since Rusk became president of the Rockefeller Foundation nine years ago.

She is active in village affairs and Mrs. Rusk's activities: she would like to get back to the oil painting she did for a couple of summers. Her chief reading, she says, is designed to keep up with what's going on, such as periodicals and newspapers.

In clothes, she likes simple tailored things, but has an eye for something "a little different." Basic beige, taupe and black are her favorite colors.

Bomber Thin-Skinned
 New York—Most of the exterior surface of the 2,000-sq-ft 1970 Valkyrie bomber will be covered by a skin fabricated from two football sheets joined to a honeycomblike filler. It will be the nation's first Mach 3 bomber capable of flying three times the speed of sound.

Rockville-Vernon Council Votes To Push for Road Funds

Rockville-Vernon Council members will continue their quest for an appropriation of Vernon highway funds. The council voted last night to present a bill to the Vernon Board of Selectmen if one more meeting with the selectmen does not resolve the situation.

A bill for the city's share of highway funds the amount will be calculated this week by a special committee named to handle the matter will be presented one week from today, the amount to be paid to the city.

In the meantime, the three-member city committee will attempt to meet with the selectmen for another vote on the matter.

A committee to study the city charter, which takes precedence over the statutes governing town affairs, three councilmen shall meet with the three Vernon selectmen to decide by a majority vote of the whole number how much of the city's share of highway funds should be reimbursed by the town.

The charter action has been disputed from both sides, with no clear-cut ruling on it.

City forces say the charter draft is set up to eliminate inequities in taxation between city and town. Town forces have held that the section refers to the state aid funds in case they are sent to the town only, not the city and town separately.

In recent meetings between city and town officials, there has been one vote on the matter, the three councilmen favoring the split, the three selectmen abstaining.

Based on the wording of the charter section, Town Council Robert F. Kahan said he feels that vote was lost. The city representative, headed by Alderman Clarence J. McCarthy, felt that the selectmen's abstention left the vote three to nothing in favor of the road fund split.

Corporation Counsel Harvey A. Tross recommended to the council last night that the involved officials determine whether to become a referendum in the matter, and turn it over to him for decision.

If the referendum should decide in favor of the city, and the town chooses not to abide by the decision, he said, the city would have recourse to a mandamus action, a legal action compelling a government official to do his duty.

The choice of a referendum, he said, in case of a tie vote, the decision should be left to the voters, who shall be a Tolland County commissioner not a resident of Vernon.

Abolition of county government, however, has eliminated the special referendum, and the council will seek to determine possibly through the state attorney general's office, who shall be designated a referee in his place.

In other action, the council named Milton Johnson of Kelly Rd., South Windsor, city engineer to fill the unexpired term of Laurence Johnson.

Reaffirmed the appointment of Richard Hundy and Charles North Jr. as city employees to work at the new filtration plant on Windsorville Rd. when it is opened for use.

In connection with the appointment, Republican Alderman Wain-

Skating Report

No skating will be permitted on any of the three Park Department maintained and supervised areas over the weekend, Park Dept. Director Marjorie made the announcement today.

Park personnel will be busy clearing snow on the weekend and will not get to the ice ponds until next week.

Coasting, however, will be permitted daily at Center Springs Park until dark.

ed to know how the appointments were made.

John J. Ruddy, a member of the health commission, which has charge of the filter plant project, said he had no prior knowledge of the appointments.

Mayor Leo R. Flaherty Jr. said the full number of applicants for the two new jobs was not known until regular state application forms, which were submitted to the supervising engineer for Bowe, Albertson and Co., the engineering firm in charge of the filter plant construction.

The mayor said Ruddy, a Democrat and member of the Democratic Town Committee, was selected by the engineer because of his knowledge of motors and his mechanical ability. North had top qualifications among the applicants, as well, he said. The mayor made the appointments subject to council ratification.

Once suggested that the council at some future date pass an ordinance allowing various city commissions to name employees to the departments under their jurisdiction.

Members of the Rockville Recreation Commission plan to work today clearing skating and snowing areas in Henry Park, but they said it is doubtful there will be any recreation in the park today.

Donald Berger, chairman, said he and his party areas have been cleared and snowed in the park today.

The skating rink and sledding slope should be opened for the weekend, Berger said.

Volleyball Postponed

A volleyball meeting scheduled tonight has been postponed to Monday at the Little Pink Memorial in Henry Park, he said, according to Donald Berger, Rockville recreation chairman.

Berger said three organizations have already inquired about entering teams in the city's proposed volleyball league: Union Church, the American Legion and Rockville Acres, a housing development on Bancroft Rd.

Members saved by neglecting the beauty routines are often reamed at a cost measured in hours.

In other action, the council named Milton Johnson of Kelly Rd., South Windsor, city engineer to fill the unexpired term of Laurence Johnson.

Reaffirmed the appointment of Richard Hundy and Charles North Jr. as city employees to work at the new filtration plant on Windsorville Rd. when it is opened for use.

Kennedys See Last Acts Of Huge Inaugural Gala

show was scheduled to begin. But that was well before thousands of others in the audience reached there. Sir Laurence Olivier, one of the principals in the cast, was reported straggled at the British embassy. Olivier finally made it. But Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, also scheduled to appear with the cast, didn't get to the scene at all.

Apparently in order to give reception room for an hour instead of going to start, just at the moment after he took his seat. It was an hour and 40 minutes late.

The ceremony, with a capacity of 13,000, was about half filled when the show started. However, Democratic officials hoped nevertheless that tickets sold would bring an estimated $1.3 million toward defraying campaign expenses. Kennedy said the party had gone into debt by $4 million to win the presidency.

Once the big show was under way, the howling storm and bitter cold outside were forgotten.

Bette Davis, Frederic March, Sidney Poitier, Anthony Quinn, and Olivier, started it off. Each briefly recited some aspect of the world, the United States, and the presidency in the hour of Kennedy's coming to office.

Then, for more than two hours, the stars followed each other on stage.

Frank Sinatra, co-producer of the show, quipped that "Nobody in the cast is young enough to be in the new cabinet."

There were singers Sinatra, Ethel Merman, Helen Traubel, Louis Prima, Ella Fitzgerald, Nat King Cole and Harry Belafonte. Between songs, comedians Joey

Routhier-Miller

MRS. ALFRED G. ROUTHIER

A candlelight ceremony at Community Baptist Church was the setting for the wedding of Miss Martha G. Miller to Alfred G. Routhier last evening.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Miller, 80 Ferguson Rd. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Routhier of Warwick, R.I.

The Rev. John R. Webster, pastor of Community Baptist Church, performed the marriage.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full-length gown of white brocade tulle with a scoop neckline and chapel train. Her bridesmaids wore of white tulle with a full-length cascade of white roses with a white orchid center.

Mrs. Timothy Kohler of East Hartford served as matron of honor, and Miss Grace Schneider of Manchester was bridesmaid. Both wore gowns of electric blue tulle with matching headpieces and carried pink bouquets.

John Havelig of East Hartford served as best man. Ushers were Donald Main and David Main of Hartford, cousins of the bride.

A reception for 120 guests took place in Fellowship Hall of the church immediately after the ceremony.

After a motor trip to Washington, D.C., the couple will make their home at 14 Bear St. after Jan. 26.

Mrs. Routhier is a graduate of East Hartford High School, and is employed by the International Association of Machinists in East Hartford. Mr. Routhier is a graduate of Warwick High School, Warwick, R. I., and is employed by Pratt and Whitney Aircraft.

Firing Squads Execute Two More Cubans

prevented the invasion he had said the Eisenhower administration would order before it left office.

Castro's supporters kept up their pleas at the outgoing president. Foreign Minister Raul Roa said in a radio address last night that only a few hours remain for "the most genuine representation of an anti-imperialist policy of power to abandon the White House and Wall Street." Santiago University students staged a White House administration and some demonstrators shouted:

"Down with the senate aid man!"

No mention was made of incoming President Kennedy. The Cuban regime and the Communist bloc both having indicated they hope the new U.S. president will be more inclined to see things their way.

Government sources said that while the majority of the militiamen were being ordered to shift jobs in the fields and factories, thousands would remain on duty at strategic defense positions along the coast and in the larger cities.

Roa echoed Castro's warning that vigilance against the enemy must be maintained. But he added that the civilian soldiers must return to the "production lines" which suffered badly in their absence.

The continued vigilance apparently was necessary to counter opposition elements in the June front as well as anti-Castro Cubans abroad who say they will return to overthrow the revolutionary regime.

There was no official word on the government offensive against insurgent bands roaming the mountains south central Cuba. But unconfirmed reports said there had been numerous clashes in the foothills of the Escambray Mountains.

Divers Find Body In Sunken Tower

The Air Force yesterday officially announced that all 88 of the military and civilian personnel on the tower when it disappeared are now presumed dead. Prior to the announcement they were regarded as missing.

A release issued at Otis yesterday said a report that Texas Tower-4 had sent out an S-O-S was erroneous. The Air Force said the confusion resulted when the captain of the ALC-17 supply ship radioed an urgent message reporting the ship had lost radio and radar contact with the tower. The message, known as an X-O-X and marking just below that of an S-O-S, was sent at about 7:30 p.m. Sunday night.

To add to the confusion, the release said a private yacht was sending distress signals at about the same time.

The Otis release said that the Coast Guard, upon receipt of the X-O-X from the supply ship, directed all ships in the vicinity of the tower to the scene.

A military board of inquiry is continuing its investigation into the cause of the collapse. Gen. James G. Sweeney, president of the 5-member board, said the inquiry may last 10 days, but none of the findings will be released while the board is sitting.

Storm Forces Paper Suspend

Newburgh, N. Y., Jan. 20 (AP)—The Newburgh-Beacon News suspended publication of all four of its editions today because of a paralyzing snowstorm. It was the first shutdown known in the afternoon daily's 76-year history.

"We could probably get out a newspaper, but we couldn't get it distributed," said city editor Ralph Aiello.

Streets in the city and adjacent roads were in a sea of white, with drifts piling up faster than snowplows could remove them. Bus and other traffic was paralyzed. A foot of snow had fallen on the city.

A 30-Year Search

The comparison used for the new unemployment figure in January tells something about the basic problem involved. We are told that the December statistics represent the highest level of national unemployment in 20 years. That takes us back to the year 1940, which was eight years after a memorable Democratic administration undertook the problem of creating a durable national prosperity for us.

Eight years of effort and experimentation had not produced the result then. In 1940, Franklin D. Roosevelt and the New Deal provided palliatives for our economic ills; they did not cure them. It took World War II to cure them, it cure can be considered the right word. In 1952, exactly 20 years after Roosevelt, a Republican national administration took over, and Dwight D. Eisenhower gave it the logical and necessary aim of leading our economy into a condition where it could have prosperity in spite of peace.

We have never really had peace. In these eight years, production of a military character has continued here and throughout our economy. But it has not been as large and important as it would have to be in real peace. In 1957, our economy had the recession later of 1958, and now, two years later, it is going through another and possibly more severe adjustment. Just about everybody will agree that the present statistics are serious, and will require policy response.

As a new and incoming administration, the Kennedy regime will claim and be accorded the privilege of calling this present recession a legacy from Eisenhower and the Republican administration. But it can hardly confuse this piece of political privilege with any real analysis of our economic ills, or with the creation of a cure for it. What we have is something which has survived both the Roosevelt-Truman and the Eisenhower years. The effort to prove that we can have prosperity and peace at the same time is actually 10 years failure. The real issue, of course, is not that of from whom the Kennedy administration inherits this unsolved problem, but that of what fundamental contribution it may be able to make to the possibility that it itself will not have to encounter, later on, such a recession of its own, or bequeath one of these recessions to its own successors.

The only good, partially reassuring thing that has developed during these 20 years is some apparent capacity to reduce the depth and duration of the recessions we haven't learned how to prevent. We have enough stabilizers built into American life, we have enough agreement that government can and should act when the problem attains a certain seriousness, to avoid the pit. Or that, at least, is our present assumption.

Beyond that, we have little to show for the 30 years of study and experimentation. One can be sure that, in meeting the present situation, the Kennedy administration will move with a well-advertised "dynamism" toward a "revival of growth" in the economy, and that the atmosphere this creates will have something to do with lifting us out of the present statistical doldrums. But, until experience proves us wrong, we shall view such momentary stimulation as artificial, and we wouldn't be surprised if it reached for more war contracts as its own main strategy. For our part, we would insist on posing the problem in terms of a troublesome as we can make them. What do we do when we have an economy which can so easily produce more than we need, more than we can find a market for?

The way this question has been answered in the past has been to decree an increased production of things we do not need, of things which never go into any consumer market. That sometimes gets us by the troublesome question, without our having ever tried to answer it. But, as present statistics show, the troublesome question keeps coming back. What do we do when we can so easily produce more than we need?

Big City Doesn't Own Monopoly on Culture

By RAY SHEERWOOD, Staff Correspondent

The Algerian rebels succeeded in helping many Moslem voters in Algeria from joining in the voting in de Gaulle's referendum. By that success, the rebels have shown to the Algerians that they are not themselves met to negotiate with, in any real solution of the Algerian problem.

But, however they might preen themselves in their own show of influence in Algeria, the rebels could not ignore what de Gaulle had succeeded in demonstrating in France. He had succeeded, there, in demonstrating that the people of France were ready to follow his policy of quiet determination for Algeria to the end.

After thinking over what this means, the Algerian rebel movement has an official response to the results of the referendum. And this response finds the rebel movement, for the first time, acting as if it were really trying to negotiate instead of clinging to its own revolutionary zeal for setting what it wants.

The communique from the rebel government finds that "the Algerian problem has entered a new phase that gives promise of the possibility of a peaceful, negotiated solution." "Enthusiastic, dedicated women are the key to a successful community museum program," he emphasized. "But amateur enthusiasm alone is not enough. It must be supported by a professional director. Rockville-Vernon Hospital Shows $8,655 Gain

Rockville City Hospital, according to its fiscal year report, 1960, with a net gain of $8,655.82, credited to Joseph P. McManus, business manager.

The gain, compared with $17,335.29 for the 1959-60 fiscal year, McManus said. He noted, however, that the 1957-58 fiscal year showed an approximate $14,300 loss. Services rendered during the year cost the hospital $413,779.80. Patients were charged $249,199.92, the difference reducing a net operating loss of $63,379.88. However, income from the endowment fund and miscellaneous sources totaled $74,030.50, more than necessary to make up the operating loss.

Endowment income met 11.5 per cent of the cost of providing necessary service to patients, McManus said. The number of births for the year declined from the previous year, 249 to 238. There were 1,702 patients who received personal medical care and 2,657 who received out-patient care. Four hundred and seventy-eight operations were performed, and the average stay for patients was 7.4 days.

Old Brand Still Live Butte, Mont.—The first livestock brand ever put on record in Montana, the square-and-compass symbol emblem, is still in existence. It is owned by the Ponderosa Cattle Co., of Beaverhead County, Eastern of Montana. The brand had been used since the late 1800s, when the dating of brand registrations began.

REALLY COURSE

Through its art shop, a museum might sell carefully selected wares of art talent. Last year, artists and craftsmen in the Utica area received $7,000 from sales arranged by the institute, McManus said. And, because many of these pieces were planned and priced as the average family could afford them (around $20), dozens of families can take pride in owning original works of art.

Rockville-Vernon Mayor Applauds Chamber, Pledges City Cooperation

Mayor Leo E. Flaherty Jr. has looked to the quest for industry and commerce for the City of Rockville and pledged that city agencies will support the Rockville Chamber of Commerce in its efforts to bring in new business.

The mayor said he had originally considered naming a special committee on small business and industry but has decided that the "very best solution is through the Chamber of Commerce."

Mayor Flaherty's statement of policy comes on the heels of the Chamber's recent successful effort to attract the Barnes Boat Co.

He said he felt that the chamber, working closely with the police and public works departments, "can solve problems for established business and industry... as well as provide the services needed to encourage new business to locate here."

"I believe," he continued, "close liaison with the development, housing, and planning agencies can help to round out our broad city program."

The mayor's statement was addressed to the public at large and ended with a salute to the Chamber for its "excellent results recently in bringing new activities to our city."

Mrs. Finlay Seeks Polio March Helpers

An urgent plea for Mothers' March volunteers for the New March of Dimes was issued today by Hazel Finlay, chairman of the local home-to-home drive.

"We need more volunteers to get an hour of their time for our Mothers' March on Jan. 31," Mrs. Finlay said.

"We need additional workers from every part of Manchester."

"More than a million women march each year to help the National Foundation raise funds in its battle to prevent crippling diseases—birth defects, arthritis and polio."

"These women give gladly of their time because they know how vital March of Dimes programs can be to the 250,000 children born in this country each year with significant birth defects, to the 11,000,000 Americans suffering from arthritis and rheumatism and to the tens of thousands of polio patients who still need help," she said.

Members of Mrs. Finlay's committee who are contacting persons to serve as volunteers for the various jobs to make the Mothers' March a success include Mrs. Raymond Schaller, Mrs. John Currier, Mrs. Joseph Reggetta, Mrs. James Comins and Mrs. Jerome Brett.

All Mothers' March volunteers should get out now before the night of the March on Jan. 31," she said.

Last year the Mothers' March and home-to-home collections here brought in $4,203.10 for the March of Dimes. The 1960 fund total for Manchester was $10,068.31.

"With the help of additional volunteers, I think we should go over our 1960 mark. Returns have started to come in but they need for more marches to be held."

Members of the Women's Guild of St. Bartholomew Church, under the leadership of Mrs. Eugene Kelly, are collecting for the local fund drive as their major civic project for the year. It was announced today.

Scout Troops See Alpinist Pictures

Troop 20, Mountaineer Scouts, had as their guests members of Troop 2, Trailblazers, for a show of mountain climbing slides by Miss Mabel Cody of Westerfield St. Center Congregational Church Wednesday.

Miss Cody, a member of the Appalachian Mountain Climbing Club and Hartford Ski Club, showed slides taken during climbs at Mt. Robson in the Canadian Rockies, the Dolomites, and Swiss Alps including Jungfrau, Mt. Rosa and the Matterhorn. Refreshments were served.

PAIR ORDERED HELD

New Haven, Jan. 20 (AP)—U.S. Commissioner Robert Alcorn had ordered two men held for further action in a counterfeiting case. Michael DeMartin, 38, West Haven, and Anthony Adinolfi, 34, New Haven, were arrested Tuesday after allegedly passing bogus $20 bills. They came before Alcorn yesterday. The government says the bills were some made in a $200,000 batch printed in Union City, N. J. The printing shop was raided by the government Dec. 5.

Limited Visibility

But for the grace of a windshield wiper, a Herald photographer would have been looking into a glass pretty daisy this morning. The view is typical of that which confronted motorists in today's storm when necessity or a flare for adventure placed them behind the wheel. (Herald photo by Stefania).

Text of President's Inaugural Address

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—Here is the text of President Kennedy's inaugural address:

My fellow citizens: We observe today not a victory of party but a celebration of freedom—symbolizing an end as well as a beginning—signifying renewal as well as change. For I have sworn before you and Almighty God the same solemn oath our forebears prescribed nearly a century and three quarters ago.

The world is very different now. For man holds in his mortal hands the power to abolish all forms of human poverty and to abolish all forms of human misery and to abolish all forms of human injustice. In that glorious new light, there emerges a revolutionary belief, that each generation must secure its liberties against the encroachments of the future.

The time has come when the same revolutionary beliefs that made Americans proud to pledge their support for the Declaration of Independence in 1776 must now give form to new vision of national unity. From the confusion of the world, and of the battle for the world, it is our duty to remold the old into the new, and to refashion our hopes in a bold and new manner, and to dedicate ourselves to those fundamental principles of justice, in which alone lie the hope of a better and a more beautiful world.

We dare not tempt them with weakness. For only when our backs are never to our backs can we be certain beyond doubt that the quest for peace has not been abandoned. But neither can we be certain beyond doubt that the quest for peace has not been abandoned. But neither can we be certain beyond doubt that the quest for peace has not been abandoned.

Science At Work

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Science this week looks at heavy-duty southern "growing" when an ancient sailing in space, and a mystery about forest and prairie fires:

Animal Talk
A new long-playing record for scientists has been issued on tapes with northern and southern accents: "growing" when an intruder comes along, the grunt of a grouper fish, and the trill of a tree frog, plus many other attractions.

Sailing in Space
The pressure of sunlight affects the orbit of the "big balloon" satellite launched to explore features of communications. This fact confirms the feasibility of another idea: that a huge sail, made of similar aluminum fabric, so it could be maneuvered by sunlight pressure, would be a real guardian of the earth.

Housewife's Tip
Scientists were looking for some method of storing uranium in small, water-tight containers with a lock-on lids.

Mercury
The sun's smallest and nearest planet, passed across the face of the sun last fall.

Forest and prairie fires
Cause intense heat, as everyone knows. But the temperature an inch or so below the surface of the ground can be changed very little, or not at all.

Nike to Plainville Site
Headquarters of the 2nd Missile Battalion, 85th Artillery, which has been located in Manchester, was to have been officially moved to Plainville yesterday.

Even among cockroaches
The motherhood instinct can be strong. Some female cockroaches simply lay eggs, and depart. Other species spend much time in tending the eggs.

Beauty from the Beast...

When the winds die and blinding blasts of snow quit to nothing, Manchester will have myriad fables of enchantment, like this one in Center Springs Park. Herald photographer Reginald Pitt found stair railings and trees like contemporary sculpture.

The annual retail banquet of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce will be held Monday at 7 p.m. at Coney's Restaurant following a 6:30 social period.
