

As You Like It

By JUDITH ABEARN

Sunday night, returning home in the car around 8, we listened with great enjoyment to the WINF broadcast of a recording of Dvorak's New World Symphony. It is very pleasant to have such good music in the car.

Most of our listening to AM stations is in the car on the way to and from work or to and from evening meetings.

We like symphonies, western music, rock and roll, schmaltz marches — anything except organ music in popular songs or xylophones in anything.

It would be fine if the various stations in this area could somehow get together on their programming so that the button-pushing listener in an auto would have a choice of different types of music at any given time.

The way things are now, the listener can get the "Autumn Leaves" type of music on WINF, the "Jimmy's Girl" type of music on WRNC and WPOP. WTRC has a variety of musical programming including the Metropolitan Opera on Saturday afternoon, but for

Youth's Emotional Problems Served by Guidance Clinic

By Michael A. Post, M.D.

The $15,000 goal sought during the current drive for funds by the Community Child Guidance Clinic will mean a continuation of the service to children with emotional problems in Manchester and surrounding towns that has been offered for the past two years.

Prior to its establishment, there was no community agency to which troubled children and parents could go for the kind of professional help the clinic is able to give. In its quarters on Hayes St., the clinic staff sees children whose problems range from underachievement, hyperactivity, bed wetting, stealing, falsehoods, and destructive behavior to, predominantly, parental conflicts and extreme anxiety.

Referrals come to the clinic from parents, school personnel, doctors, juvenile authorities, the National Bureau of Mental Health, and other social agencies, but direct telephone contact from the parent is the first step towards treatment.

The clinic is staffed by two trained psychiatrists, a psychologist, one of whom serves as administrative director, and a social worker, a part-time psychiatrist, and a clerk. Services offered range from consultation with the parent as to whether or not the child should be referred to other agencies, to beginning understanding of the child's problem and including psychological study, or the situation may be referred to other appropriate facilities if indicated.

In its two-year service to the community, the clinic has had over 400 referrals. Its value is attested in the words of those who have been helped.

The mother of a 10-year-old boy who had been very disturbed in school and severely underachieving told the staff, "Through your help we are once again working together for our child. Through your help, we also understand him better. It's a long hard road ahead of us, but the help you gave us will have lasting value."

The very combined service is expected to begin in early June.

The Civil Liberties Board made it clear yesterday that approved the merger because Capital would have gone out of business without it.

The traveling public and our air transportation system generally have too much at stake to permit the board to gamble with the future of the nation's system," explained the board, it added:

"The plain truth is that the board will not sit idly by and allow our fifth largest domestic airline to be taken over by a foreign corporation and run the risk of disintegration."

Some companies serving the merged airline would create a monopoly and restrain competition, they complained. The airline would become overwhelmed by foreign airlines in the south.

United insisted it was not interested in the merger and the lucrative Capital routes from New York to Florida, New Orleans and other southern cities were included in the deal.

The merger became necessary when Vickers-Armstrong Ltd., a British firm, began talks to acquire $34 million Capital owned for sale.

Shortly before the CAB approved the United-Capital merger, Northwest Airlines announced it temporarily had suspended plans to merge with Trans World Air-midst in the country in reaching these goals, particularly those persons outside the field of professional education.

McMurrin praised Vice Adm. H. G. Rickover and said that while education has been essential to good military service, the rigor and the pursuit of excellence in our schools has had an excellent effect.

Rickover's caustic comments about the number of U.S. public education officials, he said, were a source of irritation to many professional educators.

McMurrin emphasized that he thinks American schools are, for the most part, much too soft. From elementary school through college, he said, education is not as good as it should be.

"We have much less knowledge, much less creativity, much less moral fiber than we would have had if our educational process had been more rigorous," he told his news conference.

McMurrin also deplored what he called "the almost total role of the teacher in our society."

The average teacher's salary is "miserably low," he said, and they are not given the social status and the position in the community which they are entitled.

He also criticized many teacher education programs.

"Too many of our teachers don't have a generally liberal education," he declared. "Too many of them are not adequately educated in the subjects they teach."

McMurrin, a former University of Utah official, said the responsibility for the state of education today "must be shared all up the line from elementary school through college, and it must be shared by the public, too."

United Airlines, Capital to Merge

Washington, April 5 (AP)—The merger of United and Capital Airlines has won reluctant government approval.

The National Bureau of Civil Aeronautics said it was not known as United Airlines will be known as the nation's largest, combining United's 100 million shares with Capital's New York-South routes.

The new combined service is expected to begin in early June.

The Civil Liberties Board made it clear yesterday that approved the merger because Capital would have gone out of business without it.

The traveling public and our air transportation system generally have too much at stake to permit the board to gamble with the future of the nation's system," explained the board, it added:

Sheinwold on Bridge

By Alfred Shabovick

Simon-Pure Amateur Plays Like Old Pro

San Stanway, captain of the team I played on in the Vanderbilt Cup contest a few weeks ago, is technically a Simon-pure amateur since he makes a living as a test manufacturer and plays bridge for the love of the game, but in all other respects he ranks as an old pro. One of the tests in that the o.p. knows all of the dodges.

When Stanway had the South hand in one of the early rounds of the Vanderbilt, he felt confident that the opponents had a reasonable play for games in spades. His partner's raise to two diamonds showed a weak hand with diamond length and fewer than four cards in hearts or clubs.

The average player waits for lightning to strike in this situation. Stanway, however, was a bit suspicious of the action, but he couldn't be sure that South was out cheating. Stanway lost a spade, a heart and a club for a loss of only 100 points. A double would have cost him another hundred points, and every hundred points looms very large in tournaments.

Daily Question

As a card player, you are asked to play a hand. The cards are: S-K 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2; H-A 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2; D-K 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2; C-A 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2. What is your best opening bid?

Answer: Bid one club. Start with a low-ranking suit when you have 4-4-4-1 distribution. You are then in position to raise partner's response or to play a suit at a comfortable level.

He had bid his own suit at a comfortable level.

Stanway's sacrifice was for a slam. He bid his own suit at a comfortable level.

South Windsor Prison Chaplain to Speak at All-Ellsworth Night Fete

Washington, April 5 (AP)—The merger of United and Capital Airlines has won reluctant government approval.

The Rev. Russell E. Camp cannot help bringing some of this experience as a principal speaker at the banquet for his Protestant chaplain at the prison.

Those arranging the dinner hope they can help local students from falling into the pitfalls that lead to criminality by having the Rev. Mr. Camp keynote the speech.

A Glasstown native who was ordained as a minister in May 1945, he previously served for 10 years as YMCA secretary. He began his ministry in Stratford.

The Rev. Mr. Camp was pastor at Stratford Springs Congregational Church for six years and of Alton Congregational Church in Boston for several years. He was State Prison chaplain in 1955. He now counsels more than 1,000 inmates.

He attended Trinity and Springfield Colleges and received his bachelor's degree in religious education from the Hartford School of Religious Education. After earning a bachelor of divinity degree from Hartford Theological Seminary, he received a master's degree in psychology from Boston University School of Theology.

Rep. George W. Stone of Main St. will be toastmaster. A roast dinner will be served by ladies of the Wapping Church.

Tickets are available from the planning committee headed by Dexter S. Burnham whose members include Principal Henry J. Adams, Sherwood, Walter Poiry, Leslie Robert, Raymond Holcombe, Frank Brown, Barnes, and Edward Denlow, Walter Poiry, Leslie Robert, Kenneth Nichols, Henry Sherwood and Paul Early.

Committee in Charge: Mrs. William Sullivan, Benziebuh Rd., will represent the Junior Woman's Club of South Windsor.

Repotting Helps Plants Thrive

By ALLAN SWENSON (Written for NEA Services)

For-bound plants cannot make satisfactory growth and look well. A good green thumb rule is to repot most established house plants every year.

Some plants such as cissia and cyclid will do well for several years without transplanting. Fast growers, including geraniums and begonias, may need moving twice a year for best development.

A Thought for Today

Sponsored by the Manchester Council of Churches

The resurrection of Christ distinguishes Christianity from all other religions of the world. Christ died like a man, but like God He rose again. His resurrection makes Christianity meaningful. Other religions terminate at the grave. Christianity knows no "dead end." Christ opened the door of Paradise and offers eternal life to all who will believe. He said, "I am the resurrection, and the life: He that believeth in Me, though he were dead, yet shall he live."

John 11:25

The Safety Margin

Nobody knows just why Communist China is behaving with such curious detachment with regard to the situation in Laos. Apparently, there must be some understanding between Russia and Laos, by which Russia takes the action of Communist China in Laos to be in a situation which is located geographically thousands of miles from Russia, but most of all Communist China. Perhaps this calculation is that there is less risk in this way—more chance of keeping it a limited issue.

But there has never been any uncertainty about what Communist China's policy is. It has moved into open operation in the way of Laos. That is, it is a move that has really been little surprise or sensation in the eyes of the Communist Chinese Foreign Minister Chen Yi, that it is a move that has really been little surprise or sensation in the eyes of the Communist Chinese Foreign Minister Chen Yi, that it is a move that has really been little surprise or sensation in the eyes of the Communist Chinese Foreign Minister Chen Yi.

Contraband Commercial

This country has its unofficial ambassadors abroad, who also apparently there must be some understanding between Russia and Laos, by which Russia takes the action of Communist China in Laos to be in a situation which is located geographically thousands of miles from Russia, but most of all Communist China. Perhaps this calculation is that there is less risk in this way—more chance of keeping it a limited issue.

Man Against Lung Cancer

NOTHING is more common than for a man to die of lung cancer. It is the leading cause of death among men in this country, and it is the leading cause of death among men in the United States.

Arthur Godfrey, who has been a cancer sufferer for several years, is now in the final stages of the disease. He has been in the hospital for several months, and he is now being treated at the American Cancer Society's April Crusade, reports in this section of articles on the danger, the value of early detection, and some promising research.

By ARTHUR GODFREY (Writings for The AP)

Many of the letters I received after my recovery came from people who were worried about lung cancer. This is the No. 1 cancer killer of American males—and its incidence is increasing in both males and females. It's the type of cancer I had.

When I began to get well, I asked questions I talked to the experts. I read leaflets put out by the American Cancer Society for people like me, who never went to medical school. And I read technical brochures that the society puts out for those who did, so that they can keep up with new developments in detection and treatment, and "consulted" doctors and nurses.

Here are some of the things I learned:

Lung cancer, like all cancers, is most curable when treated in the early stages. The earlier the diagnosis and the more extensive the surgery and radiation are the only cure.

Although doctors are saving more cancer patients than ever before, and about 50 percent of those who are cured, almost all types of cancer are either leveling off or rising sharply. The death rate for lung cancer is soaring. It is, in fact, 50 percent higher than it was 20 years ago. Lung cancer killed 37,000 Americans in 1960.

Some Success? There are some, and some of them proved. Certain industrial chemicals have been outlawed; cigarettes, air pollution and possibly other related environmental factors are being studied. The American Cancer Society is directing a public educational program on cigarettes and lung cancer to the youth of the nation. This is a major public education effort in cancer prevention. Ten thousand specialists are working on the problem of smoking habits and lung cancer; a study which would otherwise have been prohibitively costly.

How can you best guard yourself against lung cancer? By avoiding cigarettes. Non-smokers have a low rate of lung cancer.

Don't wait for symptoms. Have a yearly chest x-ray, along with your health checkup. The x-ray can detect early signs of the disease, when the chance of cure is best.

Dr. George N. Papanicolaou has applied to the detection of lung cancer the techniques of cell examination which he developed earlier for detecting uterine cancer. The uterine cancer cell examination has brought into the realm of possibility the early detection of this form of cancer as a cause of death. I hope that someday this may be the case in lung cancer.

New Technique Because of my interest in lung cancer, I wanted to know more about Dr. Papanicolaou's work. This great man spends most of his time in a laboratory which bears his name at Cornell University Medical College. It is here, among other things, that he has prepared for bronchial wash-

Board Meets Bon Ami Halfway on Assessment

The board of directors last night voted to meet the Bon Ami Mfg. Co. halfway on its 1960 assessment, and to settle a claim against the town brought by Catherine Armstrong for $1,500.

The assessment on which the town and the company agreed for 1960 is halfway between the $176,000 set for the following year by the board of tax assessors. The adjusted assessment states the taxes on the property for that year by $1,840.

Assessor P. Joseph Murphy explained that the assessment is based on 72 percent of the fair market value.

But the only way the fair market value can be definitely determined is when a company is sold, he said. Because the sale of large companies is so infrequent, any depreciation in value is hard to determine, he said.

In 1960, the company was assessed by Murphy at $288,741. In the grand list of Oct. 1. Shortly thereafter, two buildings were sold to the Gregg Co. for $89,000, and a warehouse was sold to the Brownstein Co. for $13,000.

When the board of tax assessors met in January 1960, the assessment was dropped to $176,411.

In September, the sale of the rest of the buildings was completed for $100,000. This proved the previous assessment had been too high, said Murphy. He reduced the 1960 assessment to $79,000, which is the current assessment.

Attorneys for the company said the reduction helped to prove their case, and that the company would give consideration to a reduction.

They agreed to settle the town halfway, however, since the reduction would affect only one year's assessment.

General Manager Richard Martin said that the directors had voted on the settlement, that the owners of small homes should not assume that only large companies who hire lawyers have a chance to have their assessments reduced.

"The small homeowner gets the idea he doesn't stand a chance," said Martin.

The general manager said the sale of homes is frequent enough to give the assessor an indication of the market value of different types of homes. The assessor drops the assessment or raises it on a home according to the value of similar homes which have been sold.

The suit brought against the town by Catherine Armstrong was for $3,700 for a fractured wrist she suffered Jan. 9, 1959, after a fall on a Manchester sidewalk. She claimed the town's negligence in clearing ice and snow from the sidewalk resulted in a permanent disability in her wrist.

Settlement by the directors was for $1,500.

Flames Damage Rubber Products In Storage Shed

Damage which could run as high as $5,000 resulted from a fire in a storage shed belonging to the Spencer Rubber Co. at 330 Summit St. at 5:15 yesterday afternoon.

Firemen from the Eighth District said the fire broke out after a child playing inside the structure.

According to owner Robert Spencer, the building had been broken into several times in the past and some youngsters had built a small room inside.

Spencer said he stored some finished products inside, as well as uncurd rubber inside. He added that he hadn't checked it all yet, but it is all destroyed. The loss will run about $5,000.

Just after midnight, Eighth District firemen were called to extinguish a grass fire in a lot near 628 Parker St. There was no damage.

Speaker Tells Of Education For Russians

Forty million people in Soviet Russia are now learning English in school, according to Daniel Howard, former superintendent of schools in Windsor.

The 96-year-old speaker discussed education in Soviet Russia before about 30 people at the Manchester YWCA, yesterday.

Howard, who visited the USSR in 1959, illustrated his talk with slides.

Howard explained that churches are allowed in Russia, but the congregations seem to be composed primarily of older people. Since the state reserves the complete right for education, he said, Sunday schools are banned.

The speaker said the Russian people have a long history of friendliness for the American people, and many of our present views of the country are distorted.

As soon as possible after the child's birth, he said, the mother leaves the child in a public nursery, generally for six days a week, and she returns to work.

After three years in a nursery and four years in kindergarten, Howard said, the child is probably better prepared to enter elementary school than are children in the United States.

Howard, who has been a member of the American Council for Soviet-American Friendship for about 25 years, said all education is free in Russia, and higher education is financed by the government when necessary.

Bolton Town's Borrowing Hits $170,000 Record

A record high of $170,000 in anticipation of taxes. Selectors have authorized a fifth note, this one for $50,000. The previous largest sum borrowed was $135,000. The new borrowing will be used to pay for the purchase of additional classrooms. The increase in pupils is based on 1960-61 enrollment figures and does not take into account the children who may move into town. Ronald Grose, a member of the steering committee, reviewed the work of the former Site Committee in investigating six pieces of property offered to them. After three of the properties had been dropped as being not suitable, the Town Planning Commission evaluated the 30-acre Bolton-Town property offered at $30,000; the 60-acre Swanton property, priced at $35,000; and the 30-acre Rose land, offered at $25,000. On the basis of 24 considerations, such as long range planning, population growth, future secondary school requirements, accessibility, location, the Town Planning Commission recommended its support for the purchase of the Rose land. The town planning commission notified selectors that they have approved Jacob Sygar's subdivision of North Rd. and enclosed a letter from civil engineer Hayden Griswold testifying as to the construction of the road. No action was taken on the report pending receipt of a letter from Sygar for acceptance of the plan.

House Ponders If Ballot Box Really Stuffed

attempts in 1958 to stuff the ballots in the House to confirm Mrs. Margaret Driscoll as a juvenile court judge. On that occasion, more votes were cast in the first ballot than the total membership of the House. The first vote was invalidated and a second ballot was taken. Legislators vote by casting printed "yes" or "no" ballots into boxes. Other judges confirmed by the House: Court of Common Pleas—Otto H. Lamachia, Bridgeport, 174-12 Robert A. Wall, Torrington, 190-5; Samuel S. Googel, New Britain, 220-6; William E. Barber, Putnam, 181-21. Superior Court—John M. Conley, Stamford, 193-7; James C. Shannon, Bridgeport, 181-10; Charles S. Moore, Manchester, 190-11; John R. Thim, New Haven, 188-15; Ernest W. R. N. New Haven, 188-15; Louis Shapiro, Farmington, 164-10; and Haywood J. Devlin, New Haven, 174-6. Supreme Court of Errors—Abramam S. Burdon, West Hartford, 212-13; and Howard W. Alcorn, Suffield, 183-52.

Hearings Set April 18 on Rates, Mains

Public hearings on sewer rates and water mains will be held Tuesday, April 18, at 8 p.m. in the hearing room of the municipal building. The sewer department and General Manager Richard Martin are recommending that sewer rates be increased from 50 per cent of the water rate to 75 per cent. Among the water mains which will be discussed in the public hearing will be six mains costing $78,000, all in a program of improving water service on Ferguson Rd., Spruce St., Gardner St. and the Keeney St. area. A water pumping station on Spring St. for $12,000 will also be discussed. The third water facility which will be discussed is a water main proposed by residents of E. Hildridge St.

Belgium to Remove Military in Congo

Belgium is not in a position to order them out. Informed quarters disclosed, however, that U.N. negotiators already have opened discussions with Congolese President Joseph Kasavubu on the withdrawal of Belgians employed by the Leopold II government. Robert Gardner of Ghana and F. C. Nwokodi of Nigeria held a meeting with Kasavubu yesterday and were reported to have made some progress. Some U.N. officials expressed optimism that an agreement would be reached in the near future. On another United Nations front, Cuba today appeared reluctant to bring before the U.N. the assembly's main political committee is marking time during these days. The strings will for on the agenda. But the Cuban delegation made no move to air the necessary two-thirds majority. Now would either withdraw from the scene.

Why Should You Fight Cancer?

Cancer will strike 2 OUT OF 3 AMERICAN FAMILIES. Food Packed for Aged. Detroit—Producing specialized foods for the aged occupies an expanding segment of the food-processing industry. Estimates are that by 1970 nearly 11 per cent of the nation's population, or 40,000,000 people, will be 65 or older. This compares with only 3,000,000 in 1950. These senior citizens require special packages, and the necessary two-thirds majority. Now would either withdraw from the scene.

Man Faints Atop Pole, Not Harmed

A lineman for The Hartford Electric Light Co. fainted while on a pole this morning on Center St., however, his belt was attached and he was lowered safely to the ground. Leonard A. Jaworski, 31, of 243 Burnham St., was working at the lower cross arm of the pole, in front of DeWitt Drive-in at about 10 o'clock. A ground worker noticed him slumped in his belt and it was feared he had been shocked by electricity. Police, a doctor and an ambulance were summoned. Other workers began artificial respiration immediately, a harness was rigged and Jaworski was lowered to the ground where he remained unconscious. After an on-the-spot examination, it was determined that Jaworski was suffering from an illness, and he was sent home in the ambulance. Parker Jones, general manager of The Hartford Electric Light Co., said that Jaworski will undergo a more thorough medical examination to determine the reason for the fainting spell and determine if he will be able to go back on poles.

He discontinued these activities to devote most of his time to the program of construction of the new church.

Rockville to Quit Using Town Dump

Rockville's Mayor Leo Flaherty Jr. thanked Manchester today for the use of the dump on Olcott St. and explained his town won't need it any more after tomorrow. Mayor Flaherty thanked the directors who were in control in Manchester in July when the arrangement was set up, and he is chairman of the present directors continuing the arrangement in January. Rockville paid Manchester $1 per ton for the privilege of dumping trash at the Olcott St. disposal area from January through December. Since January, Rockville has paid $3 per ton. Rockville's dump in Vernon was closed by health officials in July. Since then the city has dumped its trash in Olcott until it was taken to Manchester in April 1945 as successor to the late Rev. James Stuart Neil.

QUESTION: Are we proud of the fact that Manchester schools presently cost less to operate than the average school in our state?

ANSWER: NO! Lower costs are possible only at the expense of "Quality" education. Large class sizes in Manchester mean lower costs, to be sure, but they also mean lower achievement levels and less opportunity for individualized attention!

Jaworski, 31, of 243 Burnham St., was working at the lower cross arm of the pole, in front of DeWitt Drive-in at about 10 o'clock.
