"THE WAY I HEARD IT"

by John Gruber

Yesterday brought new hi-fi stereo phono to many of you and recordings to many more. They will give you many hours of pleasure, but a few words of caution for there are in them.

Most hi-fis and stereos are equipped with automatic changers. These are really complicated mechanical devices, and deserve care and understanding. There is invariably a book of directions with them, and invariably nobody reads it, with the result that sooner or later the machine gets jammed or something else gives trouble.

Get out that book of directions and read it now, before you get in trouble. Two things I am sure it will say among others. One is "Never touch the arm during change cycle" and the other is "Always fasten the arm on the rest provided, when transporting the machine."

Both admonitions are frequently disregarded. If you grab the arm during cycle, something is bound to go wrong. The arm is not meant to be moved to one side or the other, or to be raised, to allow the machine to play properly. If you touch the arm even once, you will get excessive record wear.

And a human hair is about three thousandths of an inch in diameter. In other words, you can't move the thing a hair's breadth, without getting into difficulty. You can also jam the changer in good style by pushing the arm. If you do, take it to a qualified service man; your Fourteen great tunes near the Paramount picture, which co-stars Angela Lansbury and Nancy Walters. It plays at the State through Saturday.

The 1,000-hour figure will come up in less than a year. In any event, what with the inevitable dust and oxidation, a changer has long since been thrown away, and if there were any directions about lubrication in it they are long since gone.

Don't try to oil it yourself. You'll only make it worse. The trouble is not lack of oil, as a rule, but an accumulation of dust in the coil that causes a sledge. More oil will only make more sledge.

The oil in the motor bearings frequently develops into a sort of varnish, due to heat and oxidation. This clogs the pores of the bearings and the shaft may be damaged. The only remedy is cleaning; more oil won't help. In short, take your machine to a qualified technician. This is not a do-it-yourself project.

If you run your phono three hours a day (and many items

Sheinwold on Bridge

EVEN EXPERTS

By Alfred Sheinwold

If you're going to throw a fishhook away, put it on a line and throw it into the water. You may not catch anything, but you'll have a heart in dummy, draw one trump with the ace and then lead a low trump. If the trump break normally, you will lose only two trumps and one diamond.

This is a reasonable way to play the hand, but that ten of spades in dummy is just a wasted fishhook. Why shouldn't you try to catch something with it?

If you believe there are lots of good fish at the bridge table, with the ace of hearts and lead ten of spades in dummy, you will lose only two trumps and one diamond.

This play costs nothing. If East plays a low trump, you plan to take the ace of trumps and lead another trump.

The point is that East may cover with the jack of spades. He might do so with K-Q-10 or with K-Q-J-10. Let's suppose that East makes the fish-like play of the jack of spades at the second trick. You win with the ace of spades, and trump West's king.

Don't snicker; it's too close to Christmas Cash, the king of hearts, ruff a heart in dummy, and lead a trump through East.

Now East can get only two trump tricks out of three. You will keep plugging away at trumps to capture East's five of spades.

Yule Spirit Lingers Across the Country

BY FIERCE LEADERSHIP

Associated Press Staff Writers

A special Christmas warmth lingered across the continent today, it burst in the eyes of children and in the hearts of adults touched by the kindness of neighbors, and in the hearts of the charitable who experienced again the blessedness of giving.

Food, Gifts and a Job

Silas Brown, who worked on shrimp boats in Florida, went to Texas to seek a trucking job. He arrived in Galveston with his wife and seven children... and $2.

Police found the family on Christmas Eve under a caseway, where they had gone for shelter. "I knew these people in Galveston had suffered from the hurricane and I didn't want to push in on them," Brown explained. The police understood. They arranged for a free meal, then clothing, free lodging through the building, more money—$200 in cash, two turkey dinners... and a job offer.

"I'm grateful..."

In Bloomfield, Conn., friends of the 11 children of Mrs. Myrtle Revercomb, 68, of Washington, D.C., who died last week, gathered for a Christmas Eve dinner. The children, who were made homeless by the hurricane, were given a Christmas dinner by the community.

In Springfield, Mo., a man called the Salvation Army Christmas morning and asked how much the organization needed to make its goal for its Christmas fund for needy families.

"$961," he was advised.

Owen Brewster, 73, Dies; Top FDR foe

Owen Brewster, 73, died Sunday in Dallas. He was a member of the national House of Representatives for six years. He had been in semi-retirement since 1950.

Brewster was a Republican Senator who, in their dissent from the majority report, declared President Roosevelt "was responsible for the failure to enforce conservation, efficient and appropriate cooperation in Washington." In evaluating information and dispatching clear and positive orders to the Hawaiian commanders.

A strong Conservative, the Maine Republican fought Roosevelt's New Deal. He particularly disliked its reciprocal trade program, dubbing it "Alice in Wonderland" economics.

However, he fully supported Roosevelt in the war, saying "I am compelled to a choice between Roosevelt and Hitler. I choose Roosevelt."

Philadelphia, Pa. — Joseph N. Du Barry, 68, retired assistant to the president of Smith, Kline & French, Inc., died Monday. Early in his career he was a reporter for the Philadelphia Bulletin and the old Philadelphia North American and Philadelphia Ledger. He retired from the drug firm in 1958 after 18 years service.

Christie Canada Austin Cross, 63, author and writer for the Ottawa Citizen for more than 30 years, died Sunday in his home. Cross retired from the Citizen about three months ago after suffering a mild stroke, but continued writing for the Hamilton Spectator, Hamilton Herald, Montreal Star and Toronto Globe. Among his books are "Cross Roads," "Good and Spies" and "The People's Mouth."

Bolton Hall Dropped As Possibility For Classes

The board of education has eliminated the Community Hall as a possibility for school classroom space until a building program is completed.

Board members, after studying pertinent state safety and fire code regulations, decided that the Bolton Hall cannot be used for elementary school classes.

At the direction of the board, Supt. of Schools Myron Collette contacted the state fire marshal's office last week. He obtained the state fire marshal's opinion that the hall could not be used for elementary school classes.

The board said at the time they were questioning Masolino's authority, but when they read the state statutes, they received a different interpretation of the law than Masolino gave them.

The hall, not affected by the new regulations, is currently conducted at the hall, McCarrick said since they are governed by different regulations.

Norm Cleanup

Bolton highway workers put in 18 to 20 hours each clearing roads yesterday. Donald Massey, highway superintendent, said. Crews began working at 10 p.m. Christmas Eve. Massey said that travel conditions were dangerous due to poor visibility because of the thick snow but that the roads were not slippery. Before that the men had begun work at midnight Saturday clearing and sanding roads from the first of the two weekend storms.

Townpeople are reminded there is a lower ordinance involving a fine for motorists who park their cars on the highway during a storm since this impedes clearing operations.

Church Turnout

Pastors reported a lower than normal attendance at midnight Mass at St. Maurice Church, but plans were changed because some members of the choir were unable to attend. Instead of a solemn high Mass at midnight, one was celebrated at 11:30 a.m. with the full choir accompanied by Mrs. George Banks at the organ and Oscar Hauser on the violin.

Christmas Program Held At Buckley, Bentley Schools

Christmas programs were presented at Buckley and Bentley schools just before the Christmas vacation.

"Christmas Belongs to the World" was the title of the Buckley school program, which was arranged by Mrs. Leone Jurek in correlation with the social studies program at the school.

Donna Axtell and Mrs. Mary Hutchinson's kindergarten class appeared as Santa's helpers in the first scene, followed by "Santa's Helpers," sung by the audience.

The helpers were Rosa McAlpine, Mrs. Miller, Alan Nevins, Barbara Murphy, Thelma Downing and Norman Davey, and dolls were Michele Thorne, Sandra Lassen, Nancy Greenwood, Susan Wood, Gail Bender, Cheryl Zinker, Alison Martin, Sue Ann Kosak, Black Lawson and Veronica Hoegler.

Mechanical toys were played by John Niccio, Michael Conigall, Richard Gray, Ricky Diamond, Brendan Johnson, Michael Downey and Gary Vines, and Mark Wagner was the jack in the box and Andrea Sander, the talking doll.

For Taylor, as Santa, took part in a playlet depicting Christmas in the Netherlands. Miss Joyce Carroll, Mrs. Mary Gummow and Mrs. Jacqueline Petherston's second grade presented a show and a dance about Holland's windmills. Jack Andrew was narrator, and Daniel Rogers was St. Nicholas and Keith Johnson, Black Peter. "Here Comes St. Nicholas" and "A Child is Born in Bethlehem" were sung.

Cecily Stebbins was Santa Lucia, and others in the pageant were Elizabeth, "Dromily as the Mother," David Wolfman as the Father, Patricia Carroll and Jay Baker as the children.

The Swedish carol, "St. Stephen Came Riding," was sung by the fourth grades. Nancy Macomber was narrator.

The Rev. James L. Grant, pastor, and the Rev. Walter H. Gray, bishop of Diocese of Connecticut, led the dedicatory procession Sunday at St. John's Episcopal Church's new parish center in Vernon. The Bishop, kneeling on the front door three times with the pastoral staff or crozier, was admitted by Senior Warden Horace Burnham to begin the dedication ceremonies. The Bishop service, held at 10 a.m., and clergy from the diocese and archdiocese sent messages of greeting and congratulation. (Herald photo by Saterini.)

Five Planning Policies Contain Urban Areas, Consultants Suggest

By BILL GUILLOTTE
Special to the Herald

Five policy guides, to help plan future growth so that Manchester can meet its needs and objectives, have been suggested by Planning and Renewal Associates, Inc., of Cambridge, Mass., consultants drafting a proposed master, or comprehensive, plan for Manchester.

Laid in the latest installment of the comprehensive plan which covers land use, the five guides include the following policies:

1. Containment of urban development within the built-up areas of town.
2. A new focus in the northern part of town through redevelopment of the north center.
3. Consolidation of industrial and wholesale activities in the Hilliard and Regent St. area in conjunction with the north center redevelopment.
4. Another focus for the central-down town area of Manchester for region-serving commercial use as a high-density residential, and related civic and public facilities.
5. An industrial park in the vicinity of the interchange of Interstates 91 and 93 in the Buckland area.

The policy guide urging containment of urban development within the built-up area of town is mainly aimed at the preservation of much of the existing rural, low-density greenbelt now found mostly around the perimeter of the town.

This recommendation has significant implications for zoning regulations in those outlying residential areas in connection with it. Residential development might be kept at an average of two and three families per net acre. Other areas are suggested for a density of two and three families per net acre include the vicinity of Spring and Regent Sts., Manchester, and between Parker and Vernon Sts.

For the outlying areas in town other than those designated in the Spring St. and N. Main St. area, employment of older persons. Many firms come to the chamber with questions about hiring older, men and women. We'd also like to encourage other companies in town to consider hiring older people for part-time work.

Myron E. Dear Arthur: I tell you the same thing I tell those companies I counsel on this problem: Hire men and women who can do the work you need done.

If these men and women are over 40, 50 or 65, hire them. You will increase their productivity and skills workers on your part-time payroll. Age should never be a consideration when hiring part-time workers.

Dear Arthur: I am a 74-year-old widow with an income from two apartment houses and border rent from the house I own. I find this income inadequate for my well-being, repairing the apartment houses, insurance, etc.

Have any provisions been made in the Social Security system whereby I might be able to secure benefits by starting 6, 8, payments at my age?

Dear D.S.H.: The rental income from your real estate cannot be used to acquire Social Security coverage.

If you also provide hotel-type services to boarders and tenants and net at least $400 a year after deducting all applicable expenses, it may be possible for you to report this income for Social Security purposes.

New Delhi, India, Dec. 26 (AP)—An estimated 200 persons have died as a result of a cold wave in north India that entered its 10th day today without relief in sight.

By ARTHUR LORD
Special to the Herald

Dear Arthur: You must be a Solomon for us, Mr. Lord. We are going to leave our decision up to you. Harriet and I are both 80. We've been married for 55 years. We have $30,000 in insurance. We bought it when our children were babies.

If we do nothing with our insurance, it will be worth slightly more than $30,000 to the survivor. If we cash it in, we can enjoy the money together. What should we do? We don't know much about insurance.

Dear Arthur: I can tell you what I would do if I were you. However, I will not make your decision for you. Surely you must realize that having the time of your life depends on making your own decisions for yourself—determining what you want to do and then doing it.

I would look at that $30,000 this way. Harriet and I have spent over a half century together. You probably bought insurance to fulfill what I would do if I were you. Perhaps to insure their schooling. The children are grown and you are both well. You have a nice retirement. What do you need insurance money for?

Perhaps you or your wife will need an annuity income. Your insurance could be converted for that purpose. If you don't need an annuity, you could be converted for that purpose. If you don't need an annuity, you could be converted for that purpose.

Think about converting what you don't need into cash and enjoy your lives. And bless you.

Dear Arthur: A president of the local chamber of commerce, I'd like to know if you have any policy statement regarding the part-time employment of older persons. Many firms come to the chamber with questions about hiring older, men and women. We'd also like to encourage other companies in town to consider hiring older people for part-time work.

Myron E. Dear Mr. B.: I'll tell you the same thing I tell those companies I counsel on this problem: Hire men and women who can do the work you need done.

If these men and women are over 40, 50 or 65, hire them. You will increase their productivity and skills workers on your part-time payroll. Age should never be a consideration when hiring part-time workers.

Dear D.S.H.: The rental income from your real estate cannot be used to acquire Social Security coverage.

If you also provide hotel-type services to boarders and tenants and net at least $400 a year after deducting all applicable expenses, it may be possible for you to report this income for Social Security purposes.

500 DIE IN COLD WAVE
New Delhi, India, Dec. 26 (AP)—An estimated 200 persons have died as a result of a cold wave in north India that entered its 10th day today without relief in sight.

The lowest temperature recorded was 34.8 degrees in New Delhi today. Most Indian peasants have only meager clothing needed for the northern temperatures of more than 100 degrees in this area.

Approval Misnomer

Washington — Contrary to some talk about shelter claims, no shelter is "approved" by federal civil-defense officials. The Federal Government only sets minimum standards that must be met to provide protection.

Omibus Housing
 Excited clamor and great expectations accompany the adoption of major legislation in Congress. But when a new bill goes out into the cold, cruel world of things that can be different.
 One of the tangible blessings of Christmas comes from the thoughts of and concern for others. Consideration for others frees us from our own spiritual near-sightedness. We learn one of the basic laws of life: That we can gain great blessings by giving to others.
 Predictions were common that the lengthening of the mortgage span would boost this country's housing output by perhaps 100,000 units a year. And there were forecasts of a big rash in remodeling. Clearly, it is too soon after passage of the act to expect to see a heavy imprint on the building field. But private builders nevertheless are frank to say they do not look for a spectacular upsurge in 1962.
 This year housing starts are up about 2 to 3 per cent over 1960. Total of 1,270,000. Next year they may rise another 5 per cent. Builders assume some share of this will come from the liberalized mortgage terms in the relatively low-cost sector—homes retailing at $11,000 to $15,000. But they think the benefits will be fairly slow in coming.
 The season?
 Like practically everything these days, the housing field is so complex that a wide array of new "rules of the game" take a great deal of time to digest.
 Builders, lenders, home buyers, already immersed in technicalities, need many months to acquaint themselves with the changes already imposed.
 To assist this educative process, the National Association of Home Builders has helped to guide a series of informational meetings in some 75 separate cities around the nation.
 As yet, mortgage makers have shown no great enthusiasm for lending under the new 33-year terms.
 Since lending right now is generally slow, builders are not entirely sure whether the lenders' resistance to the new provisions will diminish if it were the general financing outlook improves.
 New programs can run like quicksilver through presidential messages and congressional committee reports. But many of them, once enacted, tend to move like molasses in the ponderous economy. Particularly, can be slow to feel their effect.
 "It's something to remember as we approach 1962, and prepare to listen again to politicians who will promise the citizenry 'instant betterment' if voters will only give them a chance to work their legislative magic."

The Day After
 And then—and then—there is the day after Christmas.
 Suddenly, after months of preparation and anticipation, after the intense hours of ritualistic fulfillment, after the rich concentration of ideas and emotions into so many levels for special occasions, there comes the day and the mood for which there is no formula, no code.
 There stands the tree. Yesterday, it was the center of everything. Today, still glittering bravely, it is beginning to lose its luster, almost the discard.
 There lies the toy, the glamorous, the shimmering, the opening season. Perhaps it has been gimmicked by its own importance. Impertinent impudences. Perhaps, as of today, something simpler and more solid and more dependable wears the real attraction.
 There, in the beloved cheek, lingers the flash of the good excitement, the knowledge of being loved. And today it may represent a slight touch of post-prandial fever, or at least something not entirely sentimental at all. It is the business of carrying on for 364 days of the year, in the hum-drum, which sets up the possibilities for that 365th.
 There, across the world's headlines, lie the inspired calls, the idealistic admonitions, the beautiful ceremonial reverence with which the leaders of religion have proclaimed the symbolic arrival on earth, of the day, all was His, and there was nothing which could stand against Him. This was His earth, and we were His children.
 And now, on the day after Christmas, on the day after the Prince of Peace has come into the world, symbolically, among men, the echo of what our spiritual leader said yesterday becomes yesterday's headlines. Was that spiritual leadership speaking for one day only? Has it almost lost the audience it seemed to have yesterday? It seemed fine, hearty stuff, yesterday. Perhaps, even, it might be something the heroic might try to live by. But, today, it begins to be the pious wodge of men who never quite expected to be taken seriously, and whom we after all, were not taking too seriously either.
 Yesterday, it was the true way, the only way. Today, it may still be that, but there is a growing doubt certainty that, whatever it is, we will not be taking it.
 The tree, the toy, the love, the ideal, the beautiful spiritual truth, all come upon the inevitabilities of the day after. There is no formula or ritual for keeping them at their momentary peak. Ordinary house-keeping, the choiceness of earning a living, the business of having leaders and statesmen get ahead in the world, with what is possible rather than with thoughts of what might be, all come back into their present dominance of human living. And sometimes, it almost seems as if Christmas were an imposition, an unwelcome, benign interruption of the routine of our struggle and begins us out of it for a (scarcely) moment, and then mirrors us back to it with no new magic formula for victory.
 "It's lucky," we say, "that Christmas comes only once a year."
 But the real trouble is, of course, that the day after Christmas puts us back on our own, challenged to show what we ourselves will make of our living and our world, forced to construct our own world and live by them, compelled to look within ourselves, for a workmanlike spell, if we expect to see the modest every-day miracle of love and beauty and faith which is the saving recurrent for 364 days of the year.
 The day after Christmas? Work, work, work, work.

Where Will It Hang?
 We suppose that somewhere, in some baronial room out in Libertyville, or perhaps merely in the well ordered halls of his own mind, Adlai Stevenson has his place for the trophies of his public service. Some day we hope to get a look, and see just where and how might be something the heroic might try to live by. But, today, it begins to be the pious wodge of men who never quite expected to be taken seriously, and whom we after all, were not taking too seriously either.
 Yesterday, it was the true way, the only way. Today, it may still be that, but there is a growing doubt certainty that, whatever it is, we will not be taking it.

DILLINGER SLAYER DIES
 Houston, Dec. 26 (AP)—John Vincent Murphy, one of the FBI agents who shot and killed the gangster Alvin Karpis, died in a hospital here today.
 He died in a Houston home Saturday at the age of 68.
 Murphy, who was walking outside the Biograph Theater in Chicago with seven other FBI agents in July 1934 when Dillinger left the movie, was the man who pulled the trigger that pulled his gun and died in a hail of bullets.
 Murphy retired last year after 20 years with the FBI.
 He survives a brother and a daughter, Mrs. Mary Kay Face of Houston.

A Thought for Today
 Sponsored by the Manchester Council of Churches
 "For God so loved the world..." — St. John 3:16.
 Did you ever stop and think of the true meaning of Christmas? Is it just giving in order to get something? Is there any deeper meaning than our own selfish interest? Am I so special or different that I should demand and expect to receive a consideration beyond the interests of all humanity?
 One of the tangible blessings of Christmas comes from the thoughts of and concern for others. Consideration for others frees us from our own spiritual near-sightedness. We learn one of the basic laws of life: That we can gain great blessings by giving to others.

Storm Drain, Manager Aide
Two Special Meetings For Directors Tonight
 The board of directors will hold two special meetings tonight in the hearing room of the Municipal Building, to consider appropriating $5,000 for the W. Middle Tike storm drain project, and to consider appointing an assistant to General Manager Richard Martin.
 The public meeting on the storm drain appropriation will begin at 8 o'clock.
 The directors have already appropriated $10,000 for the project, but the total of the bids submitted for the project came to about $150,000.
 Public works officials then granted some portions of the project, but the cost was still $1,000 over the appropriation, and no allowance was made for contingency.
 Mayor Harold A. Turkington called the meeting to appropriate enough money for the $10,000 extra cost, plus $4,000 for contingency. He said earlier that the directors might decide tonight to appropriate less than $5,000.
 The second meeting is scheduled to begin at 8:30. The directors will consider appointing either an assistant to General Manager Martin, or an acting general manager.
 Another 43 were rescued and five are still missing.

Just a Mistake In Math, Fellows
 The town's auditors were a little red-faced last week when they realized they made the same kind of error that bedevils many a third grade arithmetic pupil: They took the wrong figure for the multiplier in one of the Lay's Diner stocks.
 Carey and Rhodes submitted correction sheets, to lower the market value of one block of shares from $10,200 to $4,000. They forgot that some of the shares of the Florida Power Co. had been sold to help finance the construction of My Cheney Library.
 About $50,000 had been appropriated from the fund, to reduce the cost of the library construction to the taxpayer from $50,000 to $350,000.

Rockville-Vernon Town to Use Parking Ban In Snowfalls

The Vermont Department of Public Works, armed with a new town ordinance against parking on roads during and after snowfalls, will enforce the ordinance in future storms.

F. Tricario, public works superintendent, said cars parked on roadways blocking snow removal operations, will be towed away from provisions of the new ordinance adopted Nov. 8.

He said the department did not expect to use the ordinance during the two snowfalls over the Christmas holidays. Most people were cooperative and plowing crews helped pull a few cars into driveways, he said.

But hereafter, he said, the crews will be unable to clear snow from plowing. Men working during the morning shift were instructed to sleep, he said, while working "all night long" on Saturday night.

The town ordinance restricts parking on town roads during or for eight hours following a storm. Cars not moved on request can be impounded.

Tricario said the great majority of people are cooperative. Once in a while one refuses to move a car, he said.

The two weekend storms dropped an estimated 10 to 15 inches of snow in the Vernon area. Rockville public works employees faced the same plowing work, starting to work late Saturday and working until Sunday evening.

City crews were back on the job today removing snow and plowing. They are down on the road around Central Park.

Rockville employees five trucks and two town plows. Three plows and two town trucks were used on the job.

Men who were on duty in Rockville and in rural Vernon, Rockville has about 200 cars on streets and 150 in rural Vernon.

Teams to Shift

Coaches and players of the Vernon Community Basketball League meet Saturday morning to plan changes in the roster of the six league teams to produce a better balanced league.

Director Robert R. Tucker said the team will consist of three games scheduled round-robin at the Elementary School gym.

Coaches and the first five players of each team will attend the meeting, he said. The stars are not well balanced.

The unevenness in team strength has been illustrated in games.

The Zahner's Men's Shop, Kulan, suffering from a deficit in its first two starts this season. Reassignment of some squad members will even the league competition fairer, Tucker said.

Exercise Will Slim Flabby Upper Arms

ALICIA HAAS, newspaper reporter, has an excellent exercise she has tried for the last several years. She said she has been able to lose 15 pounds and keep it off.

She'll have her hair beauty treatment and exercise with a few minutes of her own exercise.

If you have this problem, you need to give up the idea of wearing a sleeveless gown. There's all the time to firm the upper arms with a few carefully chosen exercises.

For one such, you can use a beauty stretch rope. Double up the stretch and hold your hands behind your back. Pull up and out, keeping a perfect posture. The rope will pull, relax, for the count of 30.

This exercise can also be done with the stretch rope out at the end. There's no point in giving up if you have this problem. The exercise will help. Stand straight and bend your arms, making fists near the ends of your arms. Press the inner side of your arms against the sides of your chest. Pull your arms out to the sides, then bring them up and out, keeping a perfect posture. The rope will pull, relax, for the count of 30.

Car Death Toll Zooms Beyond 500 Estimate

The toll ran considerably higher than did the results of a 78-hour, non-holiday weekend survey conducted by the Associated Press in the period from 6 p.m. Friday, Dec. 8, to midnight, Dec. 11, 341 persons were killed in traffic accidents. 47 died in fires and 87 were killed in miscellaneous accidents for a total of 446.

Among the worst highway accidents was a 2-car collision near Hamre, Tex., in which five persons were killed and two others injured.

Two couples were killed and five young girls aged 3 to 15, were crushed when a station wagon and an automobile collided head-on near Warren, Pa.

In Marietta, Ohio, a car carrying a group of young carolers and a pickup truck collided, killing two boys and the father of one of the youths. The mother, following in another car, watched the tragedy.

Two trucks removed snow from funeral home lots and, from the streets near some Sunday morning.

Manchester police investigated 20 accidents that happened as a result of road conditions due to the storm from Saturday night to today.

Tureck said that radio in the trucks would be a help to direct snow plowing. The present system is to send a man out in a car to lead the trucks.

Crews Spend Holiday Clearing Town Roads

Snow plow crews had little chance to celebrate Christmas with their families during the two storms that hit Manchester over the long weekend, numerous auto wrecks were involved in accidents, and at least one person was seriously injured on a snowy street.

Seventeen plows, including 10 town plows and 7 hired ones, were called out when the first 11-inch fall began around 10 o'clock Saturday night, said Ernest Tureck, highway superintendent.

They finished their work around 4:30 Sunday afternoon. Six hours later, the seven hired plows were put into service again when the second five-inch storm began. They worked until 11 p.m. when the snow stopped. By noon the plowing was done and a couple of trucks continued to sand, finishing their work about 8:30 p.m.

Last night around 10:30 three trucks were called out to sand dangerous spots. They worked all night on spots which the police directed them to.

CAB Counsel Asks Hearing on Hughes

CAB on Dec. 8 authorized North-east to obtain emergency financial assistance from Hughes Tool (also known as Toolco) pending a determination whether Toolco of Northeast by Toolco or Hughes Tool Co. has been or will be acquired, and whether such control is in the public interest.

The CAB bureau said renewal proceedings should be continued on the present schedule, set to start Jan. 8, but the hearing should be limited for the present to the issue of public convenience and necessity.

Seligson said if a need for renewal of the CAB Bureau's jurisdiction can be shown, there remains the question whether the Federal Communications Commission is able to provide the service.

He said the record is developed as to the identity of Toolco's future ownership and control. The extent to which Toolco is or will be similar matters, it would be most difficult to decide whether North-east is in the public interest.

Seligson said.

He would be unfair, he said, to encourage Toolco to commit funds to Northeast and then delay the decision on the question of control. He pointed out that the Federal Communications Commission is in the process of acquiring Northeast and that the Federal Communications Commission should Northeast lose its Florida route.

There is no need for 3-carrier service to Florida, then Toolco, the competing airline and the Public should be advised as soon as possible," he said.

Herman J. Heck

Actually, though it's not generally recognized, the preservation of the American way of life is involved whenever citizens volunteer time and money to local civic and government functions.

Failure to accept the responsibilities of citizenship are the worst government failure.

Expressing strong convictions on this point, Herman J. Heck, newly appointed to the Manchester Pension Board and who is the outgoing president of the Manchester Kiwanis Club, said.

Heck, associated with the Insurance Trust Co. of New York, Inc., and J. Smith, Inc., since 1946, and a veteran of World War II, said adequate participation locally means a great benefit to the community.

He noted the "terrific job" done in town by Manchester service organizations, indicated the town's interests apparently understood the importance and need to participate in the local life.

Heck, who served as a first lieutenant in the Army in World War I, said he received his commission in the Army in 1914 as a Private.

Before entering the service, he worked in advertising departments in the advertising industry of the Herald from 1931 to 1937, after graduating from Manchester Memorial High School in 1933. His brother, Rudy, is a Herald compositor.

Served in Europe

His two years in the Army included four campaigns at the front in France, the Rhineland, Central Europe and the Ardennes. Heck recalled that one of the most interesting incidents occurred in the "Battle of the Bulge."

Heck, who lives at 28 Henry St., was born Aug. 6, 1915 in Manchester, the son of Rudolph and Mrs. Mary Heck. He has two brothers, Donald, 38, and Paul, 35, both living in Manchester.

He was married Aug. 8, 1945 to Lucy A. Waddell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Waddell of Rye, N.Y. Mr. and Mrs. Heck have two children, William, 16, and Patricia, 14.

A member of the Center Congregational Church, Heck is a delegate to the Manchester Council of Churches.

A Republican, Heck also served two years on the board of directors of the Eighth District. He is a member of Manchester Lodge of Masons, and for several years was on the board of directors of the Red Cross.

Heck's hobbies include the game of bridge and collecting stamps. He is also a member of the American Legion and the Kiwanis Club.

Christmas Messages West's Leaders Appeal For World Peace, Unity

peace proclaimed by the Christmas Gospels.

"Philatelists, pilgrims and tourists packed the Christian churches at Jerusalem, and about 10,000 visitors journeyed across the Judean hills to services at Bethlehem, bathed in a brilliant winter sun.

Persons alleged to be Greek Orthodox, perambulating several bottles during a procession led by Archbishop Alberto Gori, the Roman Catholic patriarch of Jerusalem, and Jordanian police quickly stepped in and arrested about 20 persons.

But amid the prayers and the festivity, violence erupted as usual.

A terrorist bombing killed at least 50 persons among whom were Christmas Eve services at an army barracks at Bogotá, Colombia. More than 110 were reported injured in the blast, which came as a procession was about to place a figure of the infant Jesus in a manger.

In Algeria the underground secret anti-Communist organization of De Gaulle Franchises proclaimed a Christmas truck. But elsewhere in the North African territory where French-Algerian conflicts have resulted in the deaths of 17 Algerians and 14 Europeans, and the wounding of 20 Algerians and 24 Europeans.

Messages from Queen Juliana of the Netherlands and President Sukarno of Indonesia to their people reflected the ties between the two nations over Dutch-held West New Guinea.

The queen declared that the Dutch, whose government plans to grant the Papuan province to West New Guinea self-determination, must respect other people's freedom—in particular, the freedom of an entire nation to make its own choice as to which road it wishes to follow.

Sukarno told his predominantly Moslem Indonesians they should make greater efforts to liquidate all forms of oppression still prevailing in the world.

Roman Catholic priests in Goa, biggest of the three enclaves which India captured last week, prayed for the prosperity of India at special services. The bishop of Panaji—the Goa capital—charged that the Portuguese had deprived Goa of full freedom and called Indian Prime Minister Nehru the world's 11 man of peace.

The Chinese Communists broke a record 104-day halt in the Formosa Strait and fired 33 shells at the Quemoy Islands, the Chinese Nationalist Defense Ministry announced in Taipei. The attack was described as a mild one.

Communist China meanwhile announced that 68 Nationalist Chinese and Manchurian prisoners of war were released under a Christmas truce amnesty. The list included 28 former Nationalist generals.

It was a white Christmas and a bitterly cold one for much of the northern part of the United States and Europe. Snow blanketed most of Scandinavia, parts of Germany and from the Rockies east to the United States. Even Florida was hit by a cold wave. Traffic deaths mounted on the icy roads, but the National Safety Council doubted the toll would exceed 1958's record of 809 highway deaths.

Injured Franco Quits Hospital After Two Days

Madrid, Spain, Dec. 26 (AP)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco left the hospital today with his left arm in a sling after two days of treatment for a hunting injury.

The left thumb finger of the Spanish chief of state was badly hurt Sunday when one barrel of his shotgun exploded while he was shooting partridges outside Madrid. The accident is being investigated, but there has been no hint of the findings so far.

Doctors said they were able to save Franco's thumb finger after removing metal and cloth particles from wound. The 70-year-old Spanish leader customarily wears plastic shooting glasses, which presumably protected his eyes from the blast.

The shooting accident was not Franco's first sporting mishap. Associates said that some years ago he hooked a 10-foot marine while fishing off the north coast of Spain and the fish pulled him overboard.

Francisco got a good soaking but his companions pulled him back aboard unharmed.

would make still more alive in the separate brotherhoods the hope for desire for return to unity, and would open the way to it.

The pope said he did not want representatives of other churches to be invited. But it is generally believed that many will attend as observers in the same way that five Roman Catholic prelates attended the recent assembly of the Protestant Council of Churches in New Delhi.

The pope said that the council has already set up a secretariat for the preparation of the council's agenda. A series of unprecedented meetings with Protestant leaders during the past year has emphasized the pope's interest in unity. These include talks with Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, then archbishop of Canterbury and primate of the Church of England, and Bishop Arthur Lichtenberger, head of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States.

Last week the Pope received Dr. Jackson, president of the National Baptist Convention of Chicago, in a private audience with received special training to increase cash-crop production.

In completing 14 of 28 passes, Sherman gave his squad a four-day Christmas holiday but had the players take along homework in the form of a play book, containing the league's play books and formations to be used in the Packers game.
