present day competition, the special recommendations of the Presidential Commission provide the kind of framework through which the unions could move.

The unions will have to move eventually, or lose many more jobs than they are trying to protect. The railroad need several things if they are to survive their modern test. They need honest management, which also has the imagination to keep the railroads in real competition with all other forms of travel. They must also have realistic concessions from the unions. Our own railroad, the New Haven, has suffered most spectacularly from the sins of management. But it is to have a real shot at its own potential future, it needs to be free not only of the speculators at the top, but of the feathered-wing underclass as well.

Connecticut Yankee

President Kennedy, in commenting on the report as it officially received it, pointed out that "while the carriers and the unions have great responsibilities to their respective interests they have an overriding responsibility to the national interest."

That is, of course, a platitude, but one that will have to be called into effect some day. This would seem a good time for the national interest to begin asserting itself in the one thing that must be served if other interests are even to preserve their franchises.

Sharing The Guilt

No ally can have a greater love than that in which he shares and thereby divides a guilt his partner feels required to assume.

Such would seem the deliberate purpose and accommodation Britain has given the United States in the business of resumption of nuclear testing.

Curfew On Featherbedding?

The nations railroad suffer from three main ills.

One, for which they themselves are least to blame, but against which they are not as powerless as the resigned and unimaginative conduct of some of them would indicate, is competition from other forms of travel, like the automobile on the superhighway and the jet plane in the sky overhead. Yet the railroad has its potential and an answer which could be made attractive enough to enough people to guarantee railroads run profitably no lack of customers.

Wonders of the Universe Scientists Study Lunar Spaceport Possibilities

By DR. I. M. LEVIT, DIRECTOR OF THE PLANETARIUM OF THE FRANKLIN INSTITUTE

Where would an astronaut land on the moon if the hardware to accomplish this feat were now available? Would he choose a large flat area like one of the maria, or so-called seas, or would he choose an area close to volcanic regions where subsurface caves might exist?

At this moment, the question is academic and merely requires an answer for a few years. But scientists are already exploring the lunar surface hoping to find the optimum landing sites.

Tackles Rams Needing Win; Eye Redmen

STORRS — University of Connecticut basketball team winds up its Yankee conference season here tonight, after defending Champion Rhode Island at the Field House before what should be a most heated game.

The Huskies, with a sliver of hope remaining for a chance for a first-place tie, will maintain an interest in the only contest left in the league slate—New Hampshire at Massachusetts on the same date.

The top three scorers are: Tommie Williams (7-3), Rhode Island (7-3), and Connecticut (6-3). If Connecticut and New Hampshire both win, a three-way deadlock will exist. The win will force playoffs to determine the conference winner and NCAA tournament representative.

Connecticut (14-7) will open with the Junior Grey Mustangs (12-6 average) who pulled down 28 rebounds against New Haven in a 67-57 win last week for a second straight victory. The Mustangs are a 10-10 record in the last 10 games. The Huskies are 10-10 in the last 10 games. The Huskies are 10-10 in the last 10 games.

There will be a change in the regular starting line-up for the basketball game when Connecticut and New Hampshire meet tonight. The starting line-up has been changed to include Tommie Williams, Steve D'Amico, and Steve D'Amico. Secret of His Success

A lovely, young lady of 10 had just climbed back up the hill after her 40-year-old neighbor had taken her on a breathtaking toboggan ride. Her eyes dancing, she expressed amazement that he participated in such a sport—her Daddy didn't. The hostess, overhearing her remark, jokingly said: "It's easy, Lizzie. He takes pep pills."

But the explanation only started Lizzie off on a project. As soon as she could, she cornered her host and peppered him with questions. "What kind of pep pills?" "When?" "How often do you take them?" "When?" Her host finally got in his own question—"Why do you want to know, Lizzie?" Her blithe reply: "I want to tell my Daddy."

Weighty Problem

Chester Langtry, deputy director of public works, was explaining during a budget hearing on the Municipal Building earlier this week that the new vault doors he proposes to hang on the vaults will stick out into the rooms a little. "Not much, just a little," he said to General Manager Richard Martin.

The general manager advised Langtry to hire thin people if the doors should prove to take up very much room. Langtry said this wouldn't be necessary. "If I just keep 'em in condition."

Idle Comment

Someone we know was looking over the record $4.8 million proposed school budget and proposed the following idea of his own: "Why don't we keep all the kids home for a year. Then the town would be solvent." He added, "We could even write a book about it, maybe."

Don't Spend It All...

Like everything else, the cost of flag raising is rising. Apparently the need for increasing the wage of the town's Center Park flag raiser has been realized after many years. The annual wage the department of parks paid patriot receives for hoisting the flag each weekend is $104, obviously based on the number of stripes he puts aloft—38 a stripe annually.

The job has taken on new prestige and importance since volcanoes and igloos became national attributes and the only logical thing to do was to alter the basis of compensation for the flag raiser—from stripes to stars. Stars are presently raised each weekend at the annual rate of $2.06 per star. The new parks department budget calls for 4c per star annual wage increase. This may not seem like much in terms of stars, but it actually represents an overall annual salary increase of $2.

Jaycees Sponsor Circus June 30

The third annual circus, sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce for the benefit of the Lutz Junior Museum, will be held at the Parkade shopping area on June 30.

Leonard A. Johnson, Jaycee president, said today the Hunt Brothers once more will present the "Circus for Lutz" program. The program last year, sponsored by the Jaycees and the Manchester Parkade Merchants Association, netted $1,600 in proceeds which were turned over to the museum.

Atty. Vincent L. Difata is chairman of the circus committee. The Jaycees 1962 Community Health Project will take place during the week of March 18 to 24—National Poison Prevention Week.

On March 18, 50 Jaycee members will distribute charts—for counterpoises to poison which will be made available to the public at Manchester drug stores. Last year, the Jaycees conducted a diabetes detection drive which turned up 17 persons afflicted with diabetes.

Thomas Gray was inspired to write his "Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard" by a visit to the village churchyard of Stokes Poges in Buckinghamshire, where his mother lived.

Town Gets Notice Of Fall on Walk

The town has been notified of injuries Mrs. Lydia Hand, 362 Hartford Rd., claims she received when she fell on a sidewalk on West St. at Hartford Rd. on Feb. 19 at 7:45 a.m.

In a letter to the general manager, Mrs. Hand said she slipped and fell on a sidewalk covered with ice and snow while walking to her place of employment, Manchester Modes, Inc., breaking her left shoulder as she fell on her back.

She said the property at 5 West St., on which she fell, is owned by Samuel J. Kemp, 147 Center St., and is rented to Mrs. Augustus Hoppe. Mrs. Hand said she reported the accident after arriving at work, and was driven home, from where she called Dr. Joseph Barry. She was told to go to the emergency room of the Manchester Memorial Hospital, and remained in the hospital until Feb. 21.

Papanos, Alibrio Visit Bell Lab

A Manchester High School senior visited the Bell Telephone Laboratories at Murray Hill, N.J., recently as an award for his excellence in science.

Robert S. Papanos, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Papanos, N. River Rd., Coventry, was the outstanding science student at the high school selected to visit the labs. He was among about 50 high school students from the nation who were invited to spend a day at Bell Laboratories, the largest industrial research center in the country, through the science education program of the Southern New England Telephone Co.

Papanos plans to enter Wesleyan University after graduation. He is co-editor of The High School World, a member of the National Honor Society, Current Affairs Club, radio program committee, and Sock and Buskin.

Anthony C. Alibrio, 203 Vernon St., a physics teacher at Manchester High, accompanied Papanos to the labs.

They will accommodate another 1,600 pupils. Better medical facilities also will be provided for the jungle people. The 11 existing medical posts will be rebuilt and 16 new ones added, each with a helicopter landing strip.

Rogers Corp. reports 1961 net earnings of $240,931 or 73 cents per share, compared with $256,107 and 78 cents per share in 1960. Sales for 1961 totaled $7,493,778, an increase of $381,675 over 1960's $7,112,103. Per share figures are based on 229,413 shares currently outstanding. Saul M. Silverstein, president of Rogers, says the 1961 figures "were heavily influenced by a poor first quarter. Prospects for the same 1962 period are most encouraging, with January's sales and earnings the highest of any month in our history."

New Products: Have you had a power failure recently? The question of how to provide emergency lighting during a power failure has brought scientists of Gulton Industries Inc. together with Westinghouse engineers to design an economical standby light for home use and business. Using electroluminescence, this "Life-Lite" serves as a night light normally, but the instant power fails a bright light turns on automatically and is powered by special rechargeable batteries.

The Kaman Aircraft Corporation sales and net earnings for 1961 showed increased sales for the fifth consecutive year. It was reported this week. Sales increased $5,215,585 to a total of $59,744,817, an increase of nearly 10 per cent over 1960. He was co-captain of the 1941 Connecticut varsity football team.

Drivers Claim Road Neglect Crash Cause

A claim was made against the town today for damages resulting from an automobile accident at an intersection because of town negligence in removing ice and snow.

Clinton H. and Beverly Jersey, of Pine Ridge Dr., Andover, are asking for damages arising out of a collision of their car with another at the intersection of Holl and Knighton Sts. on Feb. 10 at about 2:30 p.m.

Mrs. Jersey said she was driving north on Holl St. in the car owned by her husband, when it collided with a car driven by Carl Chittjian, 66 Chambers St., and owned by Walter E. Quinn, 280 Main St., which was traveling west on Knighton St.

The claim said that Knighton St. was dangerous and slippery, because of ice and snow negligently permitted to remain on the street by the town for an unreasonable length of time.

As a result of the accident, Mrs. Jersey said she received injuries to her left side and hip, a cut at the base of her left thumb, and a bruise to her upper chest, as well as nervous shock with accompanying headache.

The claim further stated that Jersey incurred, and will continue to incur, medical expenses as a result of the accident, and that his car has been "greatly depreciated" by serious damage to the motor and body.

The Jerseys are represented by Atty. Theodore B. Epstein of the Hartford law firm of Levine and Katz.

Gone Shopping... ...She Saw It in the Daily Newspaper

CONSUMERS WITH NEEDS TO BE FILLED and money to spend shop the ads in their daily newspaper even though they may not be searching for a specific item. A current research study* reveals that four out of five readers like to look at newspaper ads as a regular part of their daily reading. This same study shows that consumers rated newspapers ahead of all other major measured media for advertising that can be depended upon for information that is factual, useful, and tells where they can buy the products advertised. And they know they can clip the ad and take it right along as a handy buyer's reference for shopping. Advertising, national and local, in the daily newspaper is always ready to help the buying consumer make his purchase whenever he decides, "now is the time I want to buy." It's always ready because almost nine out of ten families get a newspaper in their homes every day. Advertising is seen and read because the latest survey results available* show that 89,567,000 adults and 9,456,000 teen-agers read a newspaper* on an average weekday.

Former TV Moppet Now Shapely Lead

Hollywood on TV

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
Hollywood Correspondent

Hollywood — Sherry Jackson, who was Danny Thomas' little daughter "Terry" on television for six years, has grown up.

An example of how much growing she has done recently is seen in "A Scent Of Whales" episode of "Hawaiian Eye" airing Wednesday, March 7, on ABC-TV (Channel 8) in which she plays the role of a high fashion lingerie model.

Instead of the little girl limited to supporting roles as the young daughter of screen families, Sherry is now a well-shaped young woman who often is cast in extremely sexy leading roles.

When Sherry was six she appeared in her first motion picture, "You're My Everything," in which she played the daughter of Dan Daily and Anne Baxter.

This was followed by other pictures until she was 12, in which she played the daughters of such actors as Joan Crawford, John Wayne, Steve Cochran and John Garfield.

When she was 10 she started in the Danny Thomas Show and finished when she was 16. Since then she has made guest appearances in such Warner Bros. series as "Maverick," "Hawaiian Eye," "77 Sunset Strip," and other top Hollywood shows.

Her first screen kiss occurred last year on a "77 Sunset Strip" drama, which was written by her mother, Maurita Pittman, and directed by her stepfather, Montgomery Pittman. She received the kiss from none other than Edward Byrnes.

About the adult roles she has been playing, Sherry says: "I like to play roles that are quietly refined sexy rather than obviously blatant sexy."

Then she added, "But I like being grown-up."

Nick Cain (Mark Richman) teams with federal agent Steve Strohm (guest star Jack Ging) in an investigation of competing loan shark operations headed by Peter Long and Walter Hayes (guest stars Lin McCarthy and Simon Oakland), in "The New Order" on NBC-TV's "Cain's Hundred" Tuesday, March 6 (10-11 p.m. EST).

William Bendix, David McLean and Julie Adams star in "330 Independence SW," a drama about an undercover investigation of illegal "pop" pills by an agent of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, on NBC-TV's "Dick Powell Show" Tuesday, March 6 (9-10 p.m. EST).

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Bob Newhart played it cool but today he's in much the same fix as his mythical friend named Ed, trapped in a nine-story yeast factory. Even when he rushed to the ninth floor, Ed couldn't escape being engulfed by the yeast.

The story of Ed and the yeast was in one of Bob's popular "Buttoned-Down Mind" record albums of 18 months ago.

Today the yeast is rising on Bob Newhart whose bright satirical humor opened both movie and television doors for him.

"I gotta be careful," he announced when TV and movie offers poured in.

He was. He spurned the trend — situation comedy — for a weekly TV show of satire. He turned down one movie because of a "bad script" to accept another at considerably less money.

Today "The Bob Newhart Show" on TV is a suspense drama — option time is coming up and there's a chance the show will not be renewed — and he's far from happy about the movie in which he made his big screen debut.

The possible pink-slipping of Newhart's TV show again raises the question of whether weekly satire can survive on TV. The problems of the show have sent producer-writer Roland Kibbee into "exhausted" retirement.

The show's rating has been poor. It has been constantly clobbered by the competition of "Naked City," although Newhart claims "the sponsor seems to be happy. We're reaching the 18-to-42 age group as planned."

If the show is canceled after only one season, however, there will be no complaints from Newhart about NBC network interference. His satire has ranged from historical subjects to television to customs and mores with, he says, no network censorship and no public complaints.

"This surprised me," he told us. "You never know when satire will offend someone. I was worried about the network censoring our kidding of TV fathers. You know, the type who gets into trouble every week and then is bailed out by his wife or his children."

"Our man was president of the United States who made a mess of everything which his wife and

TV Notebook

By DICK KLEINER

Newspaper Enterprise Association NEW YORK (NEA)—Is acting an art or a business? And is an actor an artist or a businessman?

Van Heflin

It's Heflin's position that you just can't be sure when a part will come along which you should take.

"I never know how much I'm working," he says. "I turned down 14 scripts last year. They were just bad scripts, that's all. But it hurts."

"I got $100,000 a picture and if I don't work, that means that's $100,000 I don't make."

"We don't live lavishly, but we live well. And why shouldn't we? After all, I've been an actor for 30 years, and I should be entitled to a good life."

And so Heflin, and other actors, are forced into the position of accepting inferior scripts or, if they choose to wait for better ones, earning nothing in the interim.

"The hard part of not working is occupying the mind. If an actor doesn't work, he grows stale. I read scripts—movie, TV and theater. I read every novel that is published. I read every book that comes out on the theater or the movies, including the technical ones. I study movie-making at UCLA, and I'm now beginning to teach some courses."

But, basically, he champs at the bit. He reads every script with hope, and, unfortunately, is more often disillusioned than not.

FRIDAY Television PROGRAM

Table listing TV programs for Friday, including College of the Air, Sunrise Semester, Today Show, and various news and entertainment shows.

Coming Shows

Comedians Andy Devine and Ed Wynn will guest star on GE Theater March 4, CBS-TV.

The Cartwrights play Cupid for Ponderosa ranchhand Hank Myers (portrayed by guest star Vaughn Monroe), who is in love with a spinster schoolmarm but too shy to tell her in "The Wooing of Abigail Jones," an episode of "Bonanza," NBC-TV full-hour color series Sunday, March 4 (9 p.m. EST).

Climaxing a day of exasperating personal mishaps, Detective Johnny Russo (Tige Andrews) receives an anonymous letter threatening the lives of his wife Ella (Rita Lynn) and children in "Opie Lousy Wednesday" on "Robert Taylor's Detectives" Friday, March 9 (NBC-TV Network, 8:30-9:30 p.m., EST).

Velvet (Lori Martin) proves that King has been unjustly accused of destroying property which another animal has damaged in "Rouge Horse" on "National Velvet" Monday, March 5 (NBC-TV, 8 p.m. EST). Velvet saves the rouge's life by convincing the sheriff that the animal has been abused and will respond to gentle treatment.

George Rose (Andrew Duggan) unfolds his four children and dog on his boss in the "Room for One More" story for Saturday, March 3, on ABC-TV, "A Trip To the Beach."

MIDGET RACES Women drivers have invaded one of the last remaining male strongholds—midget car racing—and one of Southern California's most enthusiastic distaff drivers is Ann Doran, who plays Lori Martin's mother in "National Velvet," Mondays, (8-8:30 p.m., EST).
