Perhaps one of the minor imperfections in the staging of this Government show...

We think it is vibrant living now, in the world of today, draw very much notice or comment...

One of the potential races which will not take place, but which might be something if it could be arranged...

It is to be noted that when even the hotbeds of the United States Senate came down to actual responsibility...

Generalissimo Francisco Franco was holding a press conference...

As the resolution was prepared and voted, it stated formally that the United States...

What we don't like, and what is real threat to our own security and existence...

The top question in the world today is whether or not Cuba will ever attack the United States...

Significantly enough, just about everybody in the Senate understood this when it came to a vote...

It is to be hoped that a new session of the UN General Assembly opened, it elected Sir Muhammad Zafarullah Khan...

Before United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld died last year...

Here is a woman lonely in every way. But this same woman would not give up...

Better some rather cheap and violent petty politics if it comes to that, than the serenity of some enforced conformity.

It is to be hoped that a new session of the UN General Assembly opened, it elected Sir Muhammad Zafarullah Khan...

Before United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld died last year...

Here is a woman lonely in every way. But this same woman would not give up...

Shrine Gets 1926 Truck For Parades

Omar Club Shriners last night voted to back a project that will insure the club's active participation in future Shrine parades.

The club accepted the gift of a 26-foot, 1926 flatbed truck from Noble William Thornton of Manchester Sand and Gravel Co. and began plans for fun-making events in keeping with Shrine spirit. Club President, Walter Ferguson appointed Noble William Dickson as chairman of the project.

The club heard from Noble Harold E. Turkington a report on the Imperial Council Sessions held in July in Toronto when Shriners voted to spend $10 million to start a hospital program for the treatment of child burns. Shriners now have 17 hospitals for treating crippled children. This new program will be the first in North America specializing in burn therapy.

The 40 members attending the first fall meeting of the club, at the Manchester Country Club, were entertained by the new Silk City chapter of barbershop singing. It was the group's second public appearance. It was formed five months ago.

Business Bodies

HURLEY'S CLOSURE

The man with the apron and a pencil behind his ear is becoming more and more a sight of the past in the grocery business today.

John P. Hurley attested to that fact this week when he closed his food store at 58 Cooper St., "forced out of business by mounting supermarket food chains," after some 20 years.

Last Thursday, Hurley closed his door after more than 40 years in the business, 22 as a manager of one of the now defunct small First National Store at Summer and Cooper Sts. and 20 years in his own neighborhood grocery store, a store of another era.

"The customers were very kind to me over the years," he said yesterday.

"I can recall the years of 1933-34 when loins of pork were 19 cents a pound, coffee sold for 19 cents a pound, and bread was 11 cents," he said. "Two-thirds of my business during the depression years was for charity orders for the town. There was extended credit to customers who had sickness in the family. We liked to help people in need, especially for that one quart of milk, a loaf of bread and various items that run out rather rapidly in any size family," he said. "That era, for my type of store, has gone out of style," he said. Hurley, during his 42 years in the grocery business, has never lost a working day for sickness. "I was never out one single day for sickness," he said. "I'm deeply grateful for my good health."

With his small business swallowed up in big business, Hurley's plans at 61 are: "To look for another job."

NEW MACHINE

An electron beam machine that can both cut and weld has been developed as a production tool for the electronics industry.

The Hamilton Standard division of United Aircraft Corporation, manufacturer of electron beam machinery, said today the combination cutter-welder was designed primarily as a spot welder and assembling microminiature electronic devices.

Microminiature electronics is one of the latest techniques aimed at reducing the weight, size and the number of parts of circuit components, and improving their ruggedness and performance. Complete electrical circuits of some microminiature devices fit on thin wafers no larger than a fingernail.

The Hamilton Standard cutter-welder can work all metallic materials and many non-metals like ceramics and glass. Electron shot from its electron gun pack 10-billion watts of power per square inch, and the electron beam is focused down to a spot less than five 10-thousandths of an inch (.00005").

"Such high power densities, precise control and the fact that it is carried out in a vacuum make the electron beam process a useful and versatile production method in the field of microminiature electronics," John C. Sterling Jr., electron beam program manager at Hamilton Standard, said.

SNET PROGRAMS

"Project Telstar," a color-side illustrated talk on Bell System's newest experimental communications satellite now circling the globe, is one of seven talks and 60 films listed in the Southern New England Telephone Company's free program catalog published this week.

Subjects ranging from safe driving to the latest in scientific research have been prepared and are available to public groups, high school and college classes, luncheon and civic groups, church and lodge organizations. Experienced SNETCO speakers will present the programs.

The talk describing the development of the Telstar satellite, which is now whirling in orbit about the earth and transmitting experimental telephone calls and television programs, is expected to be especially popular.

Four new films have been added to the phone company's film library—"About Time," the latest in the Bell System's popular science series; "The Water Famine," which originally appeared on television as a CBS Reports program; "Voice for Mercury," which describes the world-wide ring of communications stations that track and guide our manned satellites; and "Anatomy of an Accident," a safe-driving film which shows that even the good driver can make one fatal mistake.

A talk with a light touch is "The Talkative Smiths," which tells the history of communications in this country from the days of the Revolution and includes some amazing predictions for the future of communications.

The catalog is available at any Southern New England Telephone Company business office, which includes the Manchester office at 806 Main St.

NEW PRODUCTS: Keeping bowling scores can be tricky sometimes—but now they've automated the scoring as well as the pinsetters. Brite-Light Corp. of America, Phoenix, Ariz., leases a computer that automatically records individual or team scores, provides each player with a printed record, and projects scoring to an overhead screen. The computer, attached to an automatic pinsetter, "senses" when pins are knocked down. Also, an aid for motorists facing the usual troubles in cold or damp weather is offered by Westley Industries Inc., Cleveland, Ohio, in their product, "Westley's Instant Start." It's a new aerosol spray aimed at preventing trouble in starting a gasoline or diesel engine. You spray the fluid for about two seconds directly into the air cleaner or air intake before starting the engine.

State to Open New Library Service Unit

Area librarians will assist as hostesses at the formal opening and dedication of the state's new library service center in Willimantic Sunday at 3 p.m.

Miss Helen A. Ridgeway, chief of the bureau of library services of the State Department of Education, has announced special hostesses will include Mrs. Elinor H. Bentley of Bolton, Miss Natalie B. Ide of Rockville and Miss Marjorie H. Martin of Hebron.

A branch office of the library bureau, the Willimantic center, will be under the direct supervision of Mrs. Ethel C. Swiger, a graduate of Columbia School of Library Service and a resident of Amston. Assistant director will be Miss Abbie F. Scott, a graduate of Simmons Library School. A resident of Putnam, she has been its librarian for many years.

Like the previous library service center established in Middletown in 1955, the Willimantic center will not serve readers directly. Instead it will offer supplementary library services to approximately 40 public libraries and 80 public schools in 30 towns in the Windham-Tolland County area.

These services will include advice and help on various library problems; workshops and institutes in special library fields as requested by local libraries; and conferences with library trustees, advisory boards, town officials, school supervisors and principals, and any other public officials or laymen interested in enriching the library services of their institutions.

These services will be available to all public libraries and public schools in the area, upon request. They will be supplemented, in turn, by the bureau's central consultant and central book services in Hartford.

Wide participation in the dedication of the Willimantic center on Sunday is anticipated. The principal speakers will be Secretary of State Ella T. Grasso; Commissioner of education William J. Sanders; Mrs. Chase Going Woodhouse, director of the Service Bureau for Women's Organizations; and Mrs. Ethel C. Swiger, director of the center, who will introduce the members of her staff. Mrs. Sylvia K. Bingham of Salem, a member of the State Board of Education, will preside. The invocation will be given by the Rev. Earl E. G. Linden of Willimantic. The Rev. John K. Honan, pastor of St. Columba Church, Columbia, will pronounce the benediction.

Don Ameche Mixes Business, Pleasure

By JAMES J. NAGEL

As we sat in the reception room at the NBC studios in Rockefeller Center waiting to interview Don Ameche, host of "International Showtime" (7:30-8:30 p.m. Fridays NBC-TV), our thoughts turned almost to a point of nostalgia... those gone by radio shows, "The First Nighter," "Grand Hotel," and "The Chase and Sanborn Hour," and those wonderful movies, "In Old Chicago," "Lillian Russell," "Alexander's Ragtime Band," "Moon Over Miami," "Heaven Can Wait," and "The Story of Alexander Graham Bell"....

We've always thought of Don Ameche as the man with the bull-in-amble and we were looking forward to a most pleasant interview. We were not disappointed.

We were thinking of how Don became identified as the inventor of the telephone because of his portrayal of Alexander Graham Bell when NBC's Judy Rossiter ushered us into the interview room. As coincidence would have it, Don was just finishing a telephone conversation with his wife Honore.

"Not French, 'Honore' is Irish and the name is an old Irish name," Don advised us subsequently.

We were anxious to ask Don about his TV show and his travels through Europe. As host of "International Showtime," Don introduces some of the most famous and fabled European Circus Acts from such famous shows as the Circus Schuman of Copenhagen and the Grande Cirque de Paris. For the second year Don and executive producer Larry White and their traveling mobile unit will traverse Europe several times to tape these shows for American TV screens. These programs preserve the excitement of the performances because they are actually taped while a European audience is there watching.

"The European Circus is very much like the American in some ways and in others very different," Don commented. "There are the clowns, the aerial acts, and animal acts, but here the similarity ends. All European Circuses are in permanent buildings; there are no side shows, and there is only one ring," Don continued. "But the excitement, variety and humor are there just as in America."

Don made it quite clear that he really enjoys his work. As a recognized gourmet, his travels through Europe give him the opportunity to sample the famous native dishes in such cities as Paris, Rome, Copenhagen, Venice and Vienna. He is a walking dictionary of the best restaurants in Europe.

"I must say that right here in New York City you can find any number of restaurants where cuisines are as good as any European restaurant. I know you want me to name some so I will," Don said smiling.

Of the 30 or more New York restaurants he mentioned, it is interesting to note that only one did he comment on. "Toots Shore is strictly American Cuisine but the best in every respect," Don said, "and there is no finer host than Toots Shore himself."

What is the secret in the making of a gourmet's delight? "Preparation, an experienced knowledge of the proper ingredients and time. There's a dish called 'Veal a la lemon.' Now, you would think it very simple to prepare, but believe me it's unbelievable how far wrong a cook can go with this simple dish," Don said.

As the interview progressed, we found out that Ameche has been in virtually every phase of the entertainment business. He became enamored of the theater when he was a student of the University of Wisconsin. He gave up his pre-law studies after he went to see a play staged by a local stock company.

The theater manager had just learned that his leading man was incapacitated by an automobile accident and he was frantically searching for a replacement. He spotted Ameche at the ticket window and recognized him as an actor who had appeared in local student productions. Within a few hours, Don was backstage learning his lines and that afternoon he made his professional debut.

His unexpected professional appearance was a gratifying success so Don gave up his plans to become a lawyer. For a while, he went through the difficult period which besets most young actors: Days of trying to see agents and casting directors through long months of discouragement. Finally jobs began to materialize.

Don played a season on Broadway in "Jerry For Short" and then toured in vaudeville with Texas Guinan.

Soon after, radio and then Hollywood beckoned. In recent years, he has been headlined in several NBC-TV shows and has starred on Broadway in "Silk Stockings," "Holiday for Lovers" and "Thirteen Daughters."

Don Ameche

Don and Honore's six children—the oldest, Ronnie is 26—are grown up and scattered from Iowa City to Mannheim Germany. Don has made his home in New York City for many years now. "Despite the fact I was born in Kenosha, Wis., I love New York and not as a place just to visit I live here," said Don proudly.

TV Personalities

Dr. Albert R. Hibbs

Children and scientists have a great deal in common—particularly curiosity, says Dr. Albert R. Hibbs, nationally-known scientist and host of "Exploring," children's educational series to be broadcast on NBC-TV in color Saturdays (12:30-1:30 p.m. NYT) beginning Oct. 13.

"That's one thing I've noticed in working with children; they have exactly the same curiosity that scientists have, only with children it's a natural childish trait, whereas it's the business of scientists," he said. "Of course, the chief difference is that scientists are more disciplined. They will stick to a project when the going is tough. The child usually will drop it."

Dr. Hibbs is senior staff scientist at the California Institute of Technology Jet Propulsion Laboratory. In the spring of 1961 he taught a science class for fourth, fifth and sixth grade pupils at Sequoyah School in Pasadena, and during the past five years he has been a guest teacher in elementary and junior high schools in Los Angeles, Santa Ana and Pasadena. These latter classes have covered mathematics, general science, the moon and planets, the U.S. space effort and guided missiles. Since 1957 Dr. Hibbs has been consultant to the Los Angeles City Schools, Los Angeles County Board of Education, Department of Education, State of California; San Bernardino County Board of Education, and Orange County Board of Education. He has been a member of the board of Trustees of Pacific Oaks College and Pre-Primary School since 1960. He is the author of "Science in Elementary School," an article published in "Teacher's College Record."

"The grade school child often can teach the teacher, more than the other way around—a situation that can be used to advantage," Dr. Hibbs said. "Children have surprising insight not only into relations between people, as every parent knows, but also into quite abstract concepts. The teacher expects a certain answer but sometimes gets a different one. The different one may be right but it doesn't fit—it doesn't make the point the teacher is trying to make. The difficult thing is to explain this to the child without discouraging him."

"For example, the teacher presses an empty glass, mouth down, into water and asks the class what it sees. The answer the teacher is looking for is that the water does not rise in the glass. This shows that air takes up space. But one child says, 'I see ripples,' another says, 'I see a little splash,' and a third child says, 'The water goes up on the sides.' All of these answers are right. And there's a lot to be learned from these ripples and the other things the children notice."

Dr. Hibbs is in thorough agreement with the purpose of "Exploring"—to stimulate rather than educate.

"The thing I have always felt is important for me to get across, when I'm talking with children, is that I don't know all the answers

TV Notebook

By DICK KLEINER
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK (NEA)—Can television exposure swiftly boost the attractive candidate to high office?

Conversely, can television ruin the hopes of the capable, but not physically appealing, man?

An election time nears, two authorities on the subject do some thinking out loud. They are John Chancellor, the narrator, and Chet Hagan, the producer, of this fall's NBC series, The Campaign and the Candidates.

Their major thesis is that, while television's importance must not be minimized, neither should it be magnified.

"Television has not made it essential that a candidate be handsome and have a silver tongue," says Chancellor. "In this connection, I do not believe that television has changed the type of candidate the public will vote for, merely amplified certain features of that candidate."

There have been many articles written which contend that, because television places such a stress on appearance, future candidates will have to be photogenic to triumph. Hagan and Chancellor feel that the authors of these articles overlook one salient fact.

"Unattractive candidates," Hagan says, "have little chance in politics in the first place. They never have had. Most politicians must start at the local level, in ward politics where they knock on doors and shake hands. Television will probably never intrude at this level."

"And therefore, the age-old process of weeding out will continue, just as it always has. A man must graduate from this door-knocking level to something higher before television plays any part in his career."

Chancellor agrees with this thinking. "In our lifetime," he says, "I feel that most men elected to major political office in this country will spring from such a beginning. Television cannot help them there. This process has always weeded out the unattractive men in the past, and I'm sure it will continue to do so, television or not."

Where television is increasingly important, both men agree, is in the area of the public's respect for it and dependence on it. This year, in The Campaign and the Candidates, NBC is devoting more time to the political campaigns than it ever has before in a non-presidential election year. "And we're doing it," Hagan says, "because the people have come to expect it. Since the coverage of the space shots and the Berlin business, people have come to look to television for news rather than to the radio." For intensive coverage, the public seeks out the newspaper, but for the color and the bulletins, they are turning from radio to television. And television is accepting this challenge. Hagan says that, during the last comparable election year, 1958, there was more campaign coverage on radio than on television. But this year, at least at NBC, the situation is reversed and television is giving more time to the campaign than radio. Why is NBC doing this? "We've grown up," says Chancellor. "And perhaps it should be added—high time, too."

—that there is no final answer," he said. "The challenge of learning is the vast amount of ignorance left. The answers are nowhere near as fascinating as the unanswered questions."

"The principal characteristic of learning something is the fun you get out of it. Learning is very exciting. Children know this." Dr. Hibbs said he also likes the idea that "Exploring" will show the relationship between material in its various segments. He enjoys combining subjects and breaking down the barriers between them.

"One place to start teaching mathematics is parsing a sentence," he said. "Parsing a sentence is taking a set of symbols, in this case words, and rearranging them or studying their arrangement according to a set of rules, which we call grammar. Fundamentally, that's what mathematics is."

No newcomer to the television camera, Dr. Hibbs recently completed a 39-week series, "Science in the News," the first 13 weeks of which were broadcast on KNXT and the last 26 weeks on KRCA, the NBC-owned station in Los Angeles. He has done programs on conservation, the moon and other science subjects for the Los Angeles city schools as part of their television classroom teaching, and several TV shows for teacher education in the Los Angeles schools.

Dr. Hibbs also appeared on "The Next 100 Years," a television series prepared for California Institute of Technology; "Man in Space," a CBS-TV network presentation; "City at Night," in connection with a mathematics display at the Los Angeles Museum of Science and Industry, and various news segments on space exploration and nuclear testing.

Born in Akron, Ohio, Oct. 19, 1924, he received his bachelor of science degree in physics at California Institute of Technology in 1945, his master of science degree in mathematics at the University of Chicago in 1947, and his doctor of philosophy degree in physics at California Institute of Technology in 1955.

Senior staff scientist at Caltech since 1950, he has been concerned with mathematical analysis and mathematical physics related to missile development and space exploration. Included in his work was system analysis for the first Explorer satellite.

Until last May he was chief of the space science division which employed 250 persons. He resigned from this post to direct the newly formed arms control and disarmament study group on behalf of this group, he is now at Falmouth, Mass., attending the government-sponsored six-week study of the

Contempt Case Opens Meredith to Testify Against State Board

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—James H. Meredith arrived at court here today where the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals began hearing contempt charges in his University of Mississippi desegregation case.

The court ordered the State College Board and three Ole Miss administrators to show cause why they should not be held in civil contempt for failing to enforce Meredith's court-ordered admission.

Meredith, 29, a Negro, was ready to testify.

An hour before the hearing started, the corridor outside the court was crowded with spectators.

Some carried hand fans saying: "Keep calm, cool and segregated." "All men not created equal."

The crowd gave forth with a smattering of applause when Leander Perez, communications Roman Catholic segregationist and political head of nearby Plaquemines Parish, arrived.

Gov. Ross Barnett of Mississippi, empowered by the State College Board to act as university registrar in the Meredith case, went to the Oxford campus Thursday and denied him admission.

The Department of Justice said Barnett's action was meaningless and asked contempt citations against the 12-member board and three top administration officers of the university—Chancellor John Davis Williams; Dr. Arthur B. Lewis, dean of the College of Liberal Arts; and Robert B. Ellis, the registrar.

U.S. Dist. Judge Sidney Mize, in a hearing at Meridian, Miss., Friday, ruled that the three school officials had no power in the case because the board had delegated power to Barnett. The judge held that the board alone had power to enforce a federal court order to admit Meredith to the university.

The Justice Department earlier had asked the appellate court in a smattering of appeals when Leander Perez, communications Roman Catholic segregationist and political head of nearby Plaquemines Parish, arrived.

GREENWICH (AP)—Vito Montanaro, 73, 34 Greenwood Hills, Stamford, was injured fatally last night when he stepped off the center esplanade of the Connecticut Turnpike and was hit by a passing car, state police said.

They said it was not clear why he had been in such a hazardous spot. Pedestrians are not allowed on the turnpike.

NEW MILFORD (AP)—Mrs. Pauline Manton, 54 Brookfield, was killed Saturday night in a three-car crash on Route 7.

State police said a car driven by James H. Weis, 19, Cornwall Bridge, was being pursued by police when it went out of control and hit Mrs. Manton's oncoming car.

Mrs. Manton's car then hit the police car, they said. Weis was unhurt. New Milford Policeman Carlton Day, 41, suffered cuts and bruises.

Gas Co. Strike Ends

BRIDGEPORT (AP)—The 190 union employees at the Bridgeport Gas Co. returned to work today after a walkout Sept. 20 over a termination notice management had given to a probationary employee.

Peter Landino, regional representative of the United Mine Workers, blamed the walkout on "a misunderstanding."

The union members were told that unless they returned to work today, management would not go through with a negotiation meeting scheduled this afternoon.

An Inescapable Fact: Man Like Bird-Brain

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The inescapable conclusion from history is that man throughout most of his history has acted like a bird-brain.

He used reason to philosophize but fulfilled his ambitions by invasion and settled his dilemmas with weapons.

The Egyptians, the Hittites, the Babylonians, the Sumerians, the Dorians, the Achaeans, the Carthaginians, the Romans, the Goths and Visigoths and Ostrogoths, the Huns, the Vandals, the Molesms, the Christians, the Jews—they sought solutions in battle.

Now at last, with weapons so powerful they can wipe one another out at long range, men are beginning to show some restraint, although it may not last, and in the restraint have a sense of bafflement.

The Red Chinese ache to take over Southeast Asia but hesitate because it's this country, not theirs, which has nuclear bombs, a discretion they may discard when they have bombs, too.

In the 1940s, when this country had a monopoly on the atom bomb, Russia was discouraged from pushing its luck in Greece and Turkey.

Now Russian communism is a crusading philosophy there is only one explanation for its reticence

2 Fire Bombs Peril St. Peter's Basilica

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Guards kept close watch today on anyone entering St. Peter's Basilica following discovery of two fire bombs that could have ruined the mother church of Roman Catholicism and destroyed its art treasures.

Gendarmes checked priests and tourists alike before admitting them to the church, as police and army ordnance experts studied the incendiaries an unknown bomber planted inside the great church.

Pope John XXIII visited the church Sunday and listened intently while Col. Spartacus Angelini, commander of the papal gendarmery, told him where the explosives were discovered.

Reservist Plan Seen Solution To Cuba Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's request for standby authority to muster 150,000 reserves is part of the answer to the crisis in Cuba, the House was told today.

Rep. Carl Vinson, D-Ga., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, dwelt at length on the Cuban situation in remarks prepared for the opening of House debate on the Reserve Callup Resolution.

The resolution, which would authorize Kennedy to recall reserves to active duty for one year and to extend present tours of active duty an additional year, has already passed the Senate unanimously.

A separate resolution, dealing specifically with Cuba, is scheduled for House action on Wednesday.

Vinson said that although Cuba was just one of several powder

Empire Sold for $7 Million Estes Goes on Trial For Theft, Swindling

TYLER, Tex. (AP)—Court action started today in the case of Billie Sol Estes, whose extensive agricultural empire collapsed in bankruptcy and indictments. But at a late hour there remained some question of whether he would go on trial.

Estes' attorney was expected to make lengthy series of motions before selection of a jury could begin. A motion for delay was expected.

Estes did not appear in the small courtroom, delaying his entrance while attorneys argued motions.

John D. Cofer, noted attorney specializing in crime cases, is chief of the defense.

Cofer's first motion was to ban cameras of all types from the courtroom. But Judge Otis D. Dunagan tumbled down that plea, although he ruled against use of cameras outside the courtroom on the same floor.

The preliminary action was televised here comes only two days after the remains of his empire were sold in Bankruptcy Court at El Paso for $5.8 million plus $12.1 million in interest to Morris D. Jaffee, San Antonio financier.

At one time friends estimated Estes was worth $150 million and he testified his operations were worth $40 million "as a going business."

Connecticut Politics Alsop Asks Fast Study Of Way to Save NHRR

HARTFORD (AP)—GOP gubernatorial candidate John Alsop today called for an immediate study "by Connecticut people" to determine what needs to be done to save the New Haven Railroad.

(Abraham A. Hibbott, Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate, today offered a 4-point proposal concerning federal aid for the New Haven Railroad. Story is on Page Two.)

Alsop charged that "while other states, such as Massachusetts and New York, made studies to protect their own interests, the present Connecticut administration has failed to act."

"Time is fleeting and, unless action is taken immediately, we will wake up some morning and discover that the vital railroad needs of Connecticut have been overlooked."

He said, at a press conference, the state should determine whether "the state's economy can stand abandonment of branch lines for one thing... if it cannot, we must be prepared to subsidize the railroad, or take whatever steps are necessary in order to save vital branch lines."

"We need information right now on the present status of the railroad because we will soon be faced with the necessity for action and be called on to play a leading role and the role we must play, in saving the railroad."

Alsop also charged that "some one is bottling up" two reports on the railroad—the Whitman report and the Interstate Staff Committee report.

He joined two other prominent state Republicans, Horace Selye-Brown, candidate for the U.S. Senate, and Rep. Abner Sibal, in

Reward Increased For Mail-Cash Clue

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—The reward offered for solution of the $1.5 million mail truck robbery Aug. 14 near Plymouth, Mass., was raised from $50,000 to $200,000 today.

Postal officials said they believe the $200,000 is a record reward offered in the history of American law enforcement.

Postmaster Gen. J. Edward Day announced the increased amount in a statement prepared for a news conference here.

He said the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston had authorized him to offer a reward amounting to 10 per cent of the missing currency recovered.

In a record haul in this country, the robbers got slightly more than $1.5 million in cash. The money was being transported by registered mail to the reserve

Darkness Hides Raft Off Coast of Ireland

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army today listed one person from Connecticut aboard the Super Constellation airliner which ditched in the Atlantic. He was:

Specialist Fourth Class Anthony Altieri, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Altieri, live at 124 Nash St., New Haven, Conn.

There were no Air Force personnel from Connecticut aboard the plane.

LONDON (AP)—Battling raging seas, rescuers today plucked from the North Atlantic 49 survivors of a ditched chartered airliner carrying American servicemen and their families, and searched for 24 others—including two children still missing. Three bodies have been found.

A massive air-sea mercy fleet converged on the crash scene 500 miles west of Ireland.

The British Air Ministry said five of the six rafts carried by the Flying Tiger airliners carrying 76 passengers and crewmen had been accounted for. Radio reports that more survivors were sighted clinging to another raft were being investigated.

One rescue ship radioed she had sighted a raft but as darkness fell no further word was received and hope faded.

The four-engine Super Constellation took off from McGuire Airport, N. J., Sunday bound for Germany and ditched at 10:12 p.m. after the pilot radioed three of the engines failed one after another as he struggled to reach a landing in Ireland.

The Swiss ship Celerina radioed that she had picked up the 49 survivors.

The survivors—some injured and all of them suffering from shock—were transferred from the Celerina to the Canadian aircraft carrier Bonaventure by helicopter.

The Bonaventure radioed that she was proceeding toward Ireland while the survivors received medical care in her sick bay. The carrier expected to land the people at Shannon by helicopter Tuesday night.

At the crash scene, men on ships' bridges and in crow's nests in the cockpit of aircraft strained for a sight of more survivors.

The pilot of the downed plane, Capt. John D. Murray of Oyster Bay, N. Y., told in radio messages of his fight to keep the plane in the air. Then he fought to set her down as easily as he could. He was reported to be one of the survivors.

Other airmen, who saw the 10-foot waves rolling by under their wings, praised Murray's skill in getting his plane down.

Royal Air Force Lt. J. J. Wood, the skipper of a British patrol plane, returned to Cornwall after a long sweep over the area and told reporters:

"The pilot of the Super Constellation must have done awfully well to put her down so nicely under such conditions. It must have been a splendid piece of work to ditch in the middle of the night in that strong wind."

Plane with 10 Men Lost Off Alaskan Coast

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—A Navy patrol plane with 10 men aboard was missing today in the Montague Island area of Prince William Sound on the southern coast of Alaska.

The two-engine P-6M from San Diego, Calif., was last contacted by radio near Montague Island Saturday. It was on a routine patrol over the Gulf of Alaska, the Coast Guard said.

Planes, ships and shore parties searching for the plane were hindered by heavy seas and over-cast skies.

FCTAL BOOST APPROVED
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee today approved a $603 million increase in postal rates and a $1,054,000,000 increase in pay of 1.6 million federal employees. Chairman Otis D. Johnson, D-S.C., told newsmen he is confident the combined measure will clear both the Senate and House. It is expected to be debated in the Senate later this week. The rate increase, which would include a penny hike on letters and all other first-class mail, would become effective Jan. 7, 1963.

YALE EXPELS BOMBER
NEW HAVEN (AP)—An unidentified 18-year-old Yale sophomore from Cleveland, Ohio, was expelled from the university today after, police said, he had admitted exploding three homemade chemical bombs on the campus. A freshman suffered chest cuts in one blast, but most of the damage was to property. John W. Powell, director of security at Yale, said the youth, whose name was withheld, has agreed to pay for damages caused by the explosion.

HELD AS FUGITIVE
BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP)—A Hartford, Conn., man who was stopped yesterday for allegedly driving through a red light and later, police said, bragged he would blow the lid off the Plymouth $1.5 million mail truck robbery, was held on a variety of charges today—including being a fugitive from Connecticut. Police said Charles F. Shepard, 38, Franklin St., Hartford, was on light on the Plymouth today.

REDS DELAY U.S. CONVOY
BERLIN (AP)—Soviet guards held up a U.S. Army convoy for nearly 2 1/2 hours today on the road from West Germany to Berlin. An Army spokesman said he did not know the reason for the delay. The convoy—30 men in 20 vehicles—was finally cleared through the Soviet checkpoint at Marienborn and began the 110-mile trip across Communist East Germany to West Berlin.
