Community College Procedure Outlined by State Official

A state department of education official last night discussed the department's procedure in recommending, evaluating and accrediting a town-operated community college.

Manchester voters will go to the polls next Tuesday to elect a board of education of the Town of Manchester to maintain a community college pursuant to provision of Sec. 10-38a, Connecticut General Statutes.

That section was one of two laws regarding a community college that Dr. Mowal G. Fraser, chief of the bureau of higher and adult education for the department, reviewed for the town's junior college advisory committee at a special meeting at Bennet Junior High School.

The section was one of two laws regarding a community college that Dr. Mowal G. Fraser, chief of the bureau of higher and adult education for the department, reviewed for the town's junior college advisory committee at a special meeting at Bennet Junior High School.

Dr. Fraser said that the board of education of the Town of Manchester should be organized to review the town's junior college advisory committee at a special meeting at Bennet Junior High School.

The Mystery of Why
 "To my mind," writes Walter Lippmann in the Courant this morning, "the biggest mystery of the whole state is why our own Chairman Khrushchev ever got himself entangled in a serious military war with Castro and Cuba. Whatever the explanation, by stepping back he has got rid of the entanglement."
 It is indeed a mystery in history when it would be very instructive to have Khrushchev break down and publish his eventual memoirs right now, to give his explanation of why he did what he did.
 Failing that, theories are a dime a dozen.
 This may, indeed, Russia, have been Khrushchev's own foolishness, for which he will be held responsible in political power. Or it may have been a rashness forced upon him by political and economic considerations in which case he is now plotting.
 As for the actual operation in Cuba, you can read several explanations. You can believe that Khrushchev believed he could set up those missile bases and get away with it so that could have them permanently for what they might be worth in the world balance of power.
 Or you can believe that he was using the process of setting up such bases as a ringer which might set off some crisis dealing in the realm of world diplomacy.
 But you cannot assume—unless you assume that Russian police makers are tremendously uninformed and unintelligent—that they ever expected to have their operation missile base go unnoticed. They had to know that we had the island of Cuba under constant camera watch, that communication between Cuba and its exiles in the United States was apparently constant and reliable, and that what was going on at their missile base sites would be no secret at all.
 For the present, the answer has to be so far as we can give it to ourselves, that there is no rational explanation for what Russia has just done, and that it remains a peculiar mixture of policy and circumstance which added up to an impossibility. Why does a nation embark on a course of action which adds up to an impossibility?
 Rather than persist in the effort to answer that question with regard to the impossible venture, Russia has just attempted in Cuba, we prefer to dodge the question by doubling it.
 Just what explanation does one give for the action of the United States and of President Kennedy in giving the go-ahead signal for that other great impossibility in modern Cuban history—the impossibility of the invasion attempt at the Bay of Pigs? There, too, was a mixture of domestic pressures and motives of possible lack of intelligence of both kinds—that which might produce information from inside Cuba, and that which might evaluate the whole operation itself—and there too was a great big nation engaging itself, nevertheless, in a venture which adds up to an impossibility.
 In each instance obviously enough, somebody goofed. In the first instance, the bitter, unforgettable lapse of chagrin was experienced in the White House. The time that drew a la for the anniversary in the Kremlin. Fortunately, although precautions were taken in each instance, there has been something good—big power military intervention on the soil of Cuba has lost its foothold, too.

Well Gunned Dry?
 When he pushed for a big vote in the referendum vote held in France Sunday, President Charles de Gaulle was offending, in two ways, the normal instincts of the politicians of his country.

 First, in the specific object of the referendum, the adoption of a law providing for direct popular election of the French President in place of the present system of a sort of creative electoral college which has some 30,000 members. President de Gaulle was, in the imaginative fears of some politicians, heading toward too much potential power for the demagogue. France cannot forget that the second Napoleon used the voice of the "people" to smuff out democracy in his time.
 Second, President de Gaulle staged this referendum itself in defiance of the claim of the French Parliament that only it could order such a referendum.
 These two offenses to people who think that there can be such a thing as too much of an independent man saving France every few months were surely important in the result which was a definite "no" vote for the de Gaulle proposition.
 It was also inevitably important that de Gaulle great as he is, as much as he has deserved, by his accomplishments and his leadership, the warning of the French people, was going to the well of public esteem almost of casting votes the same way, even when it is good.
 Finally, they get tired, too, of being threatened. One cannot desire to see everything, in a nebulous way subject to his own interpretation, on the result which he has, he would quit.
 Now that the vote has gone his way, but by margins much smaller than he had expected, he is entitled to a rebuff. He is privileged, of course, to interpret the result as a support for himself, and therefore not quit, after all. But one thing, at least, he has obviously better quit. That is the assumption that he can go on forever being the state, and being a substitute for representative democracy. Not only that, it is hard to think of how any man could have done more for France than he has done in the past four years—a great enough feat.

Nice Award
 "Suddenly I'm an authority on world politics," said John Steinbeck the other day, as the enterprising representative of the Fourth Estate sought him out on the occasion of his having been awarded the 1962 Nobel prize for literature.
 When there are inane questions to be asked, we of the interviewing section of the press will ask them. So Steinbeck, the other day, who had just been awarded the prize in tribute to what the Swedish Academy called his "at one and the same time realistic and imaginative writings, distinguished as they are by a sympathetic humor and a social perception," found himself being asked to deliver the Cuban crisis at that particular moment.
 Sometimes the illogical associations of the interviewing journalists are matched by the illogical generosity of prize-awarding committees. Sometimes an award has its real relationship to the actual work of the creative author involved. Sometimes he is given the award not in that of his life to date, but afterward, as a sort of apologetic reversal of an umpire's decision. Sometimes he is honored by receiving an award in a year when it could clearly have gone to someone else, and at the top of his form, often passionate work, that the award cites qualities of his which are real, that there was no particular year in the past when the award would have been more timely, and that there is no other living author who is being "bumped" when this year's distinction goes to Steinbeck.
 It is a pleasant gesture, awarded, on an always poetic, and at the top of his form, often passionate work, that the award cites qualities of his which are real, that there was no particular year in the past when the award would have been more timely, and that there is no other living author who is being "bumped" when this year's distinction goes to Steinbeck.

A Thought for Today

 Pray for the rulers of the World
 First, supplications, prayers, intercessions and thanksgivings should be made on behalf of all men: For kings and rulers, positions of responsibility, so that our common life may be lived in peace and quiet, and a proper sense of God and of our responsibility to Him for what we do with our lives. 1 Timothy 2:1
 Everyone has someone over them. The people in highest positions must answer to God for what they do with the power entrusted to them.
 Even the people with little authority have the privilege and responsibility of praying for those in high positions.
 Pray that the rulers of the world come to know God and rule their lands as God wills.

Connecticut Yankee
 By A. H. O.
 This will be the third modern Connecticut election in which an atmosphere of slay and dread international crisis has drifted over the normal processes of voter decisions. The two notable previous experiences do not give a very conclusive prediction of which way the international crisis of 1962 may influence the voting of 1962. The past evidence is mixed.
 In 1950, just a few days before voters were going to the polls, the decision of President Truman and General MacArthur to go north to the Yalu, in Korea, produced the grim news that the Chinese Communists were entering the conflict and engaging American troops. This was a development which was not anticipated and which was not anticipated. The Republicans are bagged a little bit too, because they were the high road who were crying loudest, when car-

Erickson-Larson
 Miss Judith Friend Larson of Manchester became the bride of Richard Paul Erickson, also of Manchester, Saturday noon at Emanuel Lutheran Church.
 The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Pearl F. Larson, 110 Oak Grove St., and the late Clarence W. Larson. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Erickson, 30 Alton St.
 The Rev. C. Henry Anderson, pastor of Emanuel Lutheran Church performed the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with white chrysanthemums. G. Albert Pearson of Manchester was organist, and Roger Loocha of Glastonbury, soloist.
 Given in marriage by her brother, Richard F. Larson of Manchester, the bride wore a floor-length gown of candlelight satin brocade, styled with a bateau neckline trimmed with a ring hat of red tapered sleeves and a full train. Her hair was styled by Mrs. M. J. Pearl and crystal crown. She carried a cream cascade of gardenias and stephanotis.
 Mrs. Edward F. Traves of Atlantic was best man. Her brother, Richard F. Larson, was ring bearer. The bridegroom wore a tuxedo with a white boutonniere and a white pocket square. The bride wore a tuxedo with a white boutonniere and a white pocket square.
 The bridegroom, dressed like the matron of honor and carrying identical bouquets, was escorted by Miss Linda Erickson, 26 Alton St., and Miss Linda Peterson of Holden, Mass. The bridesmaids were Misses M. J. Pearl, 110 Oak Grove St., and Miss Linda Peterson of Holden, Mass.

State Unit Picks Project Entered By Century Club
 Support of the Children's service of the Connecticut Valley Hospital, Middletown, a proposal submitted by the Century Club, was chosen as a two-year project of 28 Junior Women Clubs throughout Connecticut. The project was one of five voted upon Saturday at a conference of the Connecticut Federation of Junior Women Clubs at the Windsor Bar Restaurant, Berlin.
 Mrs. John Anderson of Manchester introduced Dr. Harry Whiting, who spoke about the children's program at Connecticut Valley Hospital. He said that the program was started in 1961 and provides the basic needs of patients age 7 to 15.
 Dr. Whiting mentioned that extra beds are usually needed for the recreational and educational programs of the young people and could be provided by the support of the 28 clubs. This, he said, would make the lives of the hospitalized children more closely resemble the lives of healthy children.
 Junior Century members who attended the conference were Mrs. Allan Schubert, president; Mrs. A. Ross, Mrs. Dale Martin, Mrs. Charles McKenney, Mrs. Mario Forstrom, and Mrs. Donald Forstrom.

LIBERTY AND HARMONY
 EL PASO, TEX. (AP)—Ally the Allegator has a neighbor in the San Jacinto Plaza Park, a turtle which spends more time in the state than in the water.

WHAT'S THE SCOOPE?
 PHILADELPHIA, N. J. (AP)—Title of the most thoughtful letter to the editor who stole a brand new tire from Tony Samra, Rath-er than leave the Samra car with two flat tires, has been carefully placed it—with an ancient tread-less tire.

WHY A COMMUNITY COLLEGE?
 It will provide education for capable students who for financial or personal reasons must continue to live at home.
 Yes! It will help attract people and industry to Manchester rather than to some surrounding town which might begin such a college.

ANY ADVANTAGES FOR MANCHESTER IN SUCH A COLLEGE?
 Yes! It will help attract people and industry to Manchester rather than to some surrounding town which might begin such a college.

IS THERE NEED FOR SUCH A COLLEGE?
 Yes. In Connecticut in 1965 there will be 40,000 places and a DEMAND FOR 62,000, or a shortage of 22,000 within the State of Connecticut.

ARE STUDENTS INTERESTED?
 A recent survey shows a total of 534 interested in a 2-year community college for transfer later to a 4-year college, and 728 interested in shorter courses or courses to end in 2 years.

WHO MAY ENROLL?
 Any high school graduate whom the Admission Committee of the Community College accepts as being of serious intent and good motivation.

HOW MANY WOULD ENROLL THE FIRST YEAR?
 An estimated 120 students.

WHAT COURSES WOULD BE OFFERED?
 (1) Arts and science program anticipating transfer later to a degree granting institution.
 (2) A terminal program in technical and vocational fields which would NOT anticipate transfer later to a 4-year college. Courses in this program would be determined by demand.

IS A COMMUNITY COLLEGE FOR YOUNG PEOPLE ONLY?
 No. Opportunity will be afforded for older persons to take desired courses.

HOW MUCH WILL IT COST STUDENTS?
 Based on 30 credit courses, the estimated cost to the student might be $225 for one year. ($17.50 per credit hour).

HOW MUCH WILL IT COST THE TOWN?
 The estimated cost to the Town of Manchester for the first year would be $28,500.

WILL THIS COST GO UP?
 Not necessarily, since most of the Town's costs arise from fairly stable items such as cleaning, custodian, books, supplies, repairs, utilities, heat, etc. The cost each year will depend upon the appropriation made by the Board of Directors to a separate and independent budget.

WILL A NEW BUILDING BE NEEDED?
 Not at all. The Community Junior College will be housed in Manchester High School during hours which will not conflict with any existing High School program.
 Further information will be gladly supplied by the Board of Education. ME 9-241.

U.S. Aerial Eye on Cuba Relaxes During UN Visit

ing of the quarantine for the time being means little. No Soviet ships were reported near the quarantine zone, and the Defense Department indicated that all those suspected of carrying nuclear weapons to Cuba had already disappeared from the scene.

Informed government sources reported Monday night that U.S. destroyers and aircraft had departed the quarantine zone. The Soviet submarines for about two days last week in the quarantine area.

The Soviet craft were trailed until they surfaced near the American batteries, then went their way without incident, the sources said. The Soviet subs were traveling separately, informants indicated.

It wasn't disclosed how the U.S. forces picked up the Soviet ships, but in all likelihood they were detected with some device which sped the sounds of submarine engines.

With a Soviet fleet of some 40 submarines roaming the world's seas, it is not unusual for an aerial eye to make contact with them, particularly in Atlantic waters off the East Coast.

However, it was certain the submarine warfare was not the focus of the event. It was even more vigilant than in the past, sources said.

The Pentagon's expert photo interpreters were expected to make a final report on the Cuban offensive weapons last Monday in surveillance flights over Cuba.

These flights were intended to gather photographic evidence of whether the Russians are living up to Khrushchev's pledge to break the U.S. quarantine.

By all signs, the U.S. action has been fully successful in checking off the flow of any more offensive weapons into Castro's Cuba.

The Pentagon's expert photo interpreters were expected to make a final report on the Cuban offensive weapons last Monday in surveillance flights over Cuba.

U Thant Seeks Fast, Peaceful End to Crisis

U.N. team as he left to set up machinery for a U.N. check to make sure Soviet Premier Khrushchev keeps his pledge to remove Soviet missile bases from Cuba.

In preparation for the trip, Thant held another round of talks Monday with top diplomats of the United States, Soviet Union and Cuba.

The way for Thant's visit was smoothed by the White House announcement that at the secretary-general's request would lift the U.S. naval blockade during his visit.

Thant released a letter he sent Khrushchev Sunday expressing belief the situation in the Caribbean would be normalized when the missile ban is lifted and the U.S. blockade is ended.

Thant still faced the ticklish job of convincing the United States and Soviet officials that a U.N. mission would be a success.

U.N. sources said Thant wanted to see the U.S. and Soviet officials in Cuba to discuss the U.S. blockade and the U.S. and Soviet officials.

There was no indication in Thant's information that he would be able to persuade the U.S. and Soviet officials to accept his mission.

HOW ABOUT SOME REAL REPRESENTATION FOR MANCHESTER

WHEN TWO MEN FROM YOUR TOWN GO TO HARTFORD THEY SHOULD HAVE YOUR INTERESTS AS THEIR PRIMARY CONCERN...

THE DEPENDABLES ARE HERE!

INTRODUCING THE 1963 DODGE

The something comfortable in this case is a 1963 Dodge Pezara 4-door hardtop. It's not the clinging kind of comfortable, either. More like the kind of comfortable that lets you move around in. See how the roof sweeps straight back instead of rounding off. That means plenty of headroom for passengers, front and back. Seats are sofa-soft and chair-high. All Dodge models offer this kind of comfort at a variety of prices—all low! We have a number of interesting items for the male set, too. For economy, a hustling 225 cubic inch. For action, a stable full of V8 horsepower. For assured satisfaction, a revolutionary new 5-year/50,000-mile warranty.

VOTE FOR... STEVE CAVAGNARO AND PAUL GROOBERT

These are CONSTRUCTIVE IDEAS. Make the name of Manchester Heard in the State Capitol when Caved and Groobert come to town!
