Rauff Case May Lead to Chief Nazi

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—The arrest of a higher ex-Nazi on war crimes charges may follow the detention here of a former Nazi colonel accused of ordering the gassing of 90,000 Jews in World War II.

Patrick Welchman, head of the International Police Organization in Chile, said Wednesday night "an even higher Nazi was believed to be in this country and his arrest may follow."

He made the statement after former Col. Walter Herman Julius Rauff appeared before the Supreme Court and declared his innocence of the war crimes for which West Germany is seeking his extradition.

Welchman refused to name the second man whose arrest is expected.

Last March, Martin Bormann, Adolf Hitler's deputy party chief, was reported to have been reported to have met death in an attempt to escape from Berlin in 1945 and was declared legally dead eight years ago by West German court. But rumors that he is alive keep cropping up.

Rauff was an office colleague of Adolf Eichmann who was executed in Israel last May 31 for complicity in the death of six million Jews. Rauff was arrested in Punta Arenas, Chile's southernmost city, on Tuesday.

He was flown to Santiago and appeared Wednesday in his extradition hearing.

"I have no idea what I am charged with," he said. "I don't think I ever killed anybody. I only followed orders given by many generals."

Eduardo Novos Morsal, Chilean lawyer retained by the government to press the extradition case, said an indictment in Hannover, West Germany, charges that Rauff was the head of a Nazi elite guard unit, which herded 20,000 Jews into sealed trucks and killed them by gas.

The lawyer said the Hannover court has receipts for the Jews signed by Rauff.

Fund Jumps $2,598

Proceeds to the United Fund of Manchester at noon today totaled $19,145, an increase of $2,598 since yesterday.

Three of the four divisions reported contributions as follows:

Initial gifts, $1,160.
Business, $875.
Employees, $568.

The United Fund, aiming at $107,000 during its 10-day drive, entered the fourth day of the drive today. Nine organizations will benefit from the funds.

The totals were announced by division officials at a luncheon at Cavay's Restaurant.

No report is available yet from the residential division, in the second day of its town-wide canvass of homes.

Faith Held Legal Test For a Jew

JERUSALEM (AP)—The Israel Supreme Court held today that a Jew who embraces another religion ceases to be a Jew in the Israeli national sense of the word.

The court ruled that a Roman Catholic priest of Jewish parentage was not automatically entitled to citizenship under the Law of Return.

"Every Jew has a right to come to this country as an immigrant," the law says.

The case stirred passionate discussion in Israel on "Who is a Jew?"

Father Daniel O. Carm, who was born Oswald Rufesien, brought the test of the Law of Return, passed by the Israeli Parliament July 5, 1950—two years after the state's founding.

Argon Gas Fells 3 CANEL Workers

MIDDLETOWN (AP)—A large weld test chamber nearly became a death trap yesterday for three workers at the Connecticut Advanced Nuclear Research Laboratory.

The chamber, supposedly had been pumped free of argon, a toxic gas used in the welding process, but a residue of the colorless, invisible gas was still present.

Salvatore Bartolotta, 35, an electrician, collapsed quickly after climbing down into the chamber on a ladder. Robert W. Peterson, 31, a heat-treatment operator, tried to go in after Bartolotta, but was also overcome.

Both men were in critical condition today at Middletown Memorial Hospital.

A third man, Luke J. Sneli, 40, a sheet metal worker, went in by a port on the side of the chamber minutes later, but he, too, was felled by the gas.

Other workers were able to get all three men out. Sneli, who had been in the chamber less than two hours, suffered no ill effects from the effects of the gas and was sent home after observation at the hospital.

Bartolotta and Peterson are both of Middletown. Sneli lives in South Britain.

The CANEL plant is engaged in the development, under top secret conditions, of a generator, powered by nuclear energy, that will provide electrical power for space vehicles.

The plant is owned by the government, but the Pratt & Whitney Division of United Aircraft Corp. runs it for the Atomic Energy Commission.

Bossart Sees Last Test of His Atlas ICBM

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Karel J. Bossart, Belgian-born aeronautical engineer, watched proudly from a missile launcher as a great silver projectile labor from its launching pad.

The 13-ton monolith, slowly picked up as it sits on its fuel nozzles, was pushed by three thrust engines. Gradually it pitched over on a southeast heading and sped from the launch pad.

Bossart, known as the "father" of the Atlas intercontinental range missile, received word minutes later that the Atlas, cradled in its way to a target 5,000 miles down the Atlantic tracing range.

The launching Wednesday was the last test for America's premier ICBM, closing out a flight program which began six years ago on the same launching pad.

Bossart recalled that Atlas originally was conceived as a much larger vehicle with two main engines and takeoff thrust of nearly 700,000 pounds, compared with 380,000 pounds for the Atlas.

In 1948, the Air Force awarded General Dynamics-Astronautics a contract to develop an intercontinental range missile capable of hurling a nuclear warhead 5,000 miles at 800 miles per hour.

The U.S. missile had two stages, a solid-propellant booster and a liquid-propellant sustainer. The booster was to be replaced by a five-engine Atlas.

Because nuclear weapons were considered too dangerous to test, the Atlas was eliminated.

Russia meanwhile succeeded in launching a missile capable of delivering the bomb on a 6,000-mile range.

It appears likely that the U.S. will continue to test the Atlas in the next few weeks.

Information said the Soviets have taken a hard stand in New York negotiations against forcing Cuba to accept international inspections of its nuclear facilities.

The United States says it plans to continue to test the Atlas as a safeguard and let the diplomatic controversy play out in the background.

Step Taken As Signal Of Accord

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—U.N. delegates took heart today from two U.S.-Soviet agreements on scientific cooperation in a series of space experiments and on the general economic benefits of disarmament.

Delegates expressed guarded hope that the two agreements, together with the easing of the Cuban crisis, signaled a period of comparative harmony in East-West relations.

At Geneva, however, disarmament negotiators were ducked as tight as ever on the key issue of control.

In short, the Soviets and the West were agreed on the great need for disarmament, but were not ready to bring about a near-term agreement on disarmament itself.

Adlai E. Stevenson, chief U.S. delegate at the United Nations, hailed the limited agreement on cooperation in space as a "practical demonstration that our nations can, despite political differences, cooperate in a highly important field of human endeavor."

The fruit of a broad agreement between President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev early in the year, it provides for scientific cooperation in space as well as in communications, weather forecasting and mapping of the earth's magnetic field.

The agreement was worked out in summary at Geneva last June by Hugh S. Dryden, deputy director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), and Soviet academician Anatoly A. Breguzhnev.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and the 110-member political committee were given the details Wednesday.

In 1948-50 the two nations will coordinate the launching of weather satellites after working out methods of exchanging information on space experiments for a year and next.

It appears likely that the U.S. is expected to talk with the Soviets on a number of cold war issues.

The ICBM test, along with the launch of a satellite, are capable phases of the test program for a new and uncertain phase in East-West relations. The United States is expected to talk with the Soviets on a number of cold war issues.

Industrial Spending Heads for Record

WASHINGTON (AP)—Industrial spending for new plants and equipment ran well ahead of the amount predicted for the third quarter of 1962 and probably will push the year's total to a record high, two government agencies report.

But spending estimates indicate a leveling off of capital outlays in this quarter and perhaps a slight decline in the first part of 1963. The joint announcement Wednesday by the Commerce Department and the Securities and Exchange Commission said the survey shows industrial spending reached a record yearly rate of $33.25 billion in the third quarter of 1962, up from $32.4 billion in the second quarter. This brings the all-year rate of such spending to $37.4 billion and if continued to the end of the year would eclipse the previous high of $37 billion in 1957.

Government and private surveys rely heavily on the survey because it shows, in addition to the amount of job-creating investment being done, what business executives think about future sales and earnings for the year ahead, they expect.

The survey of industrial spending plans indicates a decline in the first quarter of 1963 to a $37.7 billion annual rate.

But some government economists, noting that industry had underestimated its third quarter investment expenditures by about $500 million, speculated the gain will continue into next year.

Enfield Votes Change

ENFIELD (AP)—The first change in the basic structure of the town government in more than two centuries has been approved by the community voters.

In a charter referendum yesterday, a council-manager government was approved by a vote of 8,851 to 2,705. It will replace the board of selectmen.

The new charter calls for an 11-man council and manager. It was recommended by a charter study commission appointed last year by Mayor Joseph J. Dwyer.

The change had the support of both parties and various civic groups. The latter contended that a council-manager government would make Enfield less susceptible to corruption.

State Attorney John LaBelle has received several complaints from citizens alleging corruption.

Reds Set Fast Pace Removing Cuba Jets

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet Union is removing its jet bombers from Cuba at a pace that could have all the nuclear-capable planes off the island within 10 days, informed sources report.

It appears likely that the U.S. will continue to test the Atlas in the next few weeks.

Information said the Soviets have taken a hard stand in New York negotiations against forcing Cuba to accept international inspections of its nuclear facilities.

The United States says it plans to continue to test the Atlas as a safeguard and let the diplomatic controversy play out in the background.

First Americans Face 'Roof of World' Climb

WASHINGTON (AP)—The leader of 10 Americans preparing for the first U.S. assault on the "roof of the world"—Mount Everest and two sister peaks—figures the climb will be "90 percent sheer hell, a per cent beauty."

"But in such things, we remember only the 5 per cent of beauty when it's over," remarked Norman G. Dyhrenfurth, the expedition's 44-year-old chief.

He and some of his companions outlined their plans Wednesday at a news conference staged by the National Geographic Society, a sponsor of the $200,000 venture scheduled for this spring.

The expedition will climb Mt. Everest, at 29,028 feet the world's highest mountain. Two other teams of two men each will have a go at Everest's sister peaks in the Himalayas—Mt. Lhotse, 27,924 feet, and Mt. Nuptse, 25,738 feet.

It will be, they said, the first time a single expedition has attempted to scale the three peaks in a single season, although each has been conquered before by climbers.

Dyhrenfurth of Santa Monica, Calif., said if the Americans reach the top of Everest, they will be the third expedition to pull off the trick.

The British, who were first, and the Swis have done it. The Red Chinese claim they climbed Everest in 1950 and left as proof a bust of Mao Tse-tung.

Their claim has been challenged.

"If the best of Mao Tse-tung is there, we'll send them a congratulatory telegram," said Dyhrenfurth.

One thing the expedition won't look for, he said, is the elusive "Abominable Snowman," which legend holds lives amid the snow and ice on Everest's slopes.

Dyhrenfurth said he believes the creature is more fact than legend, probably a man-like ape "very high on the evolutionary scale."

But the expedition aims at more practical results.

The Army, Navy and Air Force are also among sponsors of the venture, which expects to use new information about man's ability to perform under stress.

The men assigned to make the final stages of all three climbs will be pushed purposely, temporarily beyond their physical limits.

They will be given extra oxygen until they reach 28,000 feet—and during the final 4,000 feet, even though getting extra oxygen, their bodies will feel short of it.

Among other things, they'll be denied any auxiliary oxygen until they reach 28,000 feet—and during the final 4,000 feet, even though getting extra oxygen, their bodies will feel short of it.

Smog Returns To Britain, Death Toll 67

LONDON (AP)—A dense lethal smog returned to Britain today, again tonight, with the loss of 67 lives.

The smog, which has been a regular feature of the city since the late 1940s, is now being described as "the worst since the late 1940s."

A government weather bureau spokesman said: "It's a repeat performance of the kind of smog that has been a regular feature of the city since the late 1940s."

Algeria's Strong Man Losing Grip on Army

ALGERIA (AP)—Col. Houari Boumediene, Algeria's taciturn Marxist-leaning defense minister, appears to be losing his place as Algeria's military strongman.

A month ago, as commander of Algeria's $1,000 million regular army, Boumediene looked to foreign diplomats like the dominant "gray eminence" behind Premier Ahmed Ben Bella's government.

But Algerian and French military sources say Boumediene has been steadily losing his grip on his army, and with it, his chance for a successful coup.

The well-trained army, equipped with Communist weapons and staffed with Communist-style political commissars, was decisive in the struggle for power between Ben Bella and French military forces after independence.

The army entered Algeria from Tunisia and Moroccan bases, spread through the countryside and formed the backbone of the new government.

But the dispersal of the army and its gradual involvement in local politics has loosened its unity and Boumediene's chain of command, military informants say.

Man Worried About Deposit Routs Robbers

ELIZABETH, N.J. (AP)—Robert Diabler was not about to let two bank robbers get away with $11,600, the 24-year-old Air Force veteran had just deposited.

When two armed robbers entered the Bayway branch of the National City Bank of Elizabeth Wednesday, six customers and 12 bank employees looked on stunned and unmoving as one of the gunmen passed from teller to teller, stuffing $10,000 into a satchel on the floor.

Diabler swung into action. He jumped the bandit with the loot and wrestled the gun from him at close range. Diabler fired a shot and the robber dove up clutching at his stomach.

The second gunman advanced, firing bullets. Diabler returned the fire until both robbers fled.

"He did it all again if I had to," Diabler said. "I was worried about a $1,600 deposit I had just made."

The deposit represented proceeds from the sale of a car.

JFK to See N-Blast Hole On West Tour

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy will view a nuclear-blast hole in the ground in Nevada on his weekend tour of military and scientific centers in the Midwest and Far West.

The White House, in announcing Kennedy's schedule, said he will see the U.S. nuclear weapons test grounds on southern Nevada on Saturday. Among other things he will see the crater—120 feet across and several hundred feet deep—that was dug by a nuclear detonation equivalent to 100,000 tons of TNT in a test explosion last July.

Kennedy leaves Washington Friday morning, landing first at Omaha, Neb., for a tour of the Strategic Air Command underground headquarters and a secret briefing on the status of the Nevada test grounds. He will then fly to Santa Fe, N.M., arriving early in the afternoon for a tour of the Los Alamos scientific laboratory where he'll get a briefing on the Rover nuclear-powered rocket project.

He will then fly to Las Cruces, N.M., for another tour of the nearby Sandia Corp. plant where many of the items used in nuclear bombs and warheads are made.

He will stay overnight at Albuquerque, attending Mass at the base chapel Saturday morning.

Newspaper Suggests FBI Trace High-Level Critics Talks Leak

WASHINGTON (AP)—There's a chatterbox—or maybe a bunch of chatterboxes—in or close to President Kennedy's highly secret National Security Council.

The Washington Post suggests Kennedy use the FBI to find out who did the talking to the Saturday Evening Post about how the administration is handling the Cuban crisis last October.

This would mean an investigation of those closest to the President. Meanwhile there's no assurance there won't be more blabbering about the Cuban crisis.

The Post this week not only published an account of what happened at the October meeting, but mentioned what was discussed but mentioned what was discussed but mentioned what was discussed.

By JAMES MARLOW
story he said: "Proceedings of the NSC have been secret since its founding in 1947 and will continue to be."

The magazine story was written by Charles Bartlett, Washington correspondent of the Chattanooga Times, and Stewart Alsop, who did the talking to the Saturday Evening Post about how the administration is handling the Cuban crisis last October.

By itself their account of what was said at the meeting would be a surprise. But even that was not the only surprise. It was also a surprise that the magazine story was written by Charles Bartlett, Washington correspondent of the Chattanooga Times, and Stewart Alsop, who did the talking to the Saturday Evening Post about how the administration is handling the Cuban crisis last October.

GAS FIRE KILLED MEDICINE MAN, ALA. (AP)—A routing natural gas well fire was snuffed out today when Texas firefighter Paul Adair exploded a charge of explosive devices on the heart of the blaze. Flames which had shot 100 feet into the pebble sky since last Friday were choked off by the vacuum created by the blast.

CHINA REEDS HIT AGAIN (AP)—Red China came in for another railing today in the Italian Communist party congress with a charge of being a weakening world Communist unity. Two Chinese delegates squirmed in the seats. Following the theme of the congress so far, Lanza Kollweiss of Yugoslavia hit at the Stalinesque line of the Chinese Communists who earlier called Yugoslav President Tito "a 100 per cent traitor to world communism." Under Kollweiss's counterattack, one of the Chinese delegates at the session gnawed at his finger-nails while the other took cover behind a copy of the French Communist paper "L'Humanite."

INDIA SHUTS CONSULATES (AP)—India announced today closing of her consulates in Communist China and Tibet because of restrictions placed on them by Red Chinese authorities. Closing of the consulates at Shanghai and Lhasa, will be effective Dec. 15, a spokesman for the Indian Foreign Ministry said. Red China has been asked to close her two consulates at Bombay and Calcutta respectively on the same date, the spokesman said, adding a note to this effect was given to the Chinese Embassy in New Delhi Monday.

WAREHOUSE BURNS (AP)—The brick walls of a fire-ravaged three-story warehouse collapsed today, inflicting at least a dozen injuries. The flames were smothered on a second-story balcony where the New Orleans fire department officials said some men might be trapped under the rubble. Other firefighters on the street were held by flying bricks. Rescue of the injured was not known immediately.

Hal Boyle Adulation of Fat Man Fades After Holidays

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Now is the fat man's finest hour. A fat man leads a mid-winter life as our colorful-conscious civilization.

For five weeks a year he is a hero—the king of the hill. The rest of the year he is a dumpy clown, a figure—an over-sized figure—of ridicule to his skinny inferiors. This is the season—between Thanksgiving Day and New Year—that separates the fat man from the lean boys.

This is the brief season when everybody truly loves a fat man because he looks like those two symbols of harvest and human kindness—the pumpkin and Santa Claus. It makes everybody happy even to see a fat man come over the horizon like a waddling cloud. He is in the flesh, a period of no longer fit him.

N.Y. Aide Ponders Prayer Ban Fight

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The controversy that led to the U.S. Supreme Court ban on official school prayers still bubbles in New York State.

The dispute is in the hands of the state's education commissioner, who is expected to announce his decision on the matter. The commissioner, Dr. James E. Allen Jr., will rule on a proposal brought by nine parents who want him to rescind a resolution of the Levittown School Board, on Long Island.

The resolution prescribes school opening exercises that give teachers a choice of reading from the Bible, Declaration of Independence or other historical documents, or having pupils recite the four stanzas of the Pledge of Allegiance. The parents, a cross-section of religious faiths, contend that the school board is trying to circumvent the Supreme Court's decision in the case.

Carols Integral Part Of Holiday Season

By NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISES
NEW YORK (AP)—(NEA)—Christmas is a joyous time of year, and one of the world's oldest ways of expressing joy is through song. Even the oldest carol can be traced to the 12th century.

There are different types of Christmas carols. For example, we have nativity carols, prayer carols and so on. As might be expected, the nativity carol is the largest group. In the olden days dance carols were the most popular. While it would certainly be a strange sight nowadays, at one time these carols were danced before the altar in the Cathedral of Seville in Spain.

The parents, a cross-section of religious faiths, contend that the school board is trying to circumvent the Supreme Court's decision in the case. The court ruled against use of a "non-sectarian" prayer recited for school children by the board of regents governing body of education in New York State.

Matinees at State To Feature Santa

Santa Claus is coming to the State Theater on Friday, Saturday and Sunday matinees.

The jolly spirit of Christmas will be on the screen in the Eastman Colorscope motion picture "Santa Claus." This film won the Best Feature Film award at the 1962 International Film Festival.

The picture will be a real treat for children. For adult viewers, it is a modern, amusing and touching story of a young boy who is convinced that Santa Claus is real.

Opening lead—Queen of Hearts, holding the trick. South ruffed the heart and lost around for a way to develop trump trick. If he ruffed his lost diamond in dummy, he would wind up with a losing club in each hand.

The lovely dance of diamonds was not as good as a good a threat of hearts, but it enjoyed the advantage of being concealed. Instead of ruffing the opponents in the face, he kept the king of hearts to dummy with a spade.

Industrial Chiefs In USS Fight For Independence

WASHINGTON (AP)—Soviet industrialists are fighting for the right to have little independent decisions but have little prospect of winning, says a State Department economist.

A report published today by the Joint Economic Committee of Congress lauded Soviet plant managers as "well-qualified, tough and efficient men who would accept as managers anywhere." But they are subjected to "bureaucratic devils" and those probably will continue the study added.

The study by Paul K. Cook, specialist in Soviet economics, is one of a series entitled "Dimensions of Soviet Economic Power."

A second study released by the committee said Soviet home building, food output, retail trade and production of other consumer goods fell far short of announced goals last year.

Another paper points out that the Soviet educational system is organized as an integral part of the economy. It is designed to produce a large number of technicians, engineers and other specialists.

For this reason, although it has a much smaller college graduating class than the United States, the Soviet Union is turning out more than twice as many engineers, five times as many agricultural specialists, and four times as many physicians as the United States, the study says.

In Any Language, Anywhere It's Merry Christmas Everywhere

From Tokyo to West Berlin, from Buenos Aires to Copenhagen, the Christmas spirit is spreading in the cities of Russia and the satellite countries — in the glow of the Christmas spirit spreading across the world, for Christmas is truly a universal holiday, says a State Department economist.

The legends and traditions gathered about it are many, and customs can, and do, vary from country to country. All nations through their folklore, have made their special contributions to the traditional ways of celebrating the birthday of Christ.

When the customs of one country are compared with another, it's sometimes hard to believe that the same holiday is being commemorated.

How to Say It Along with the different ways of celebrating Christmas there are, of course, different ways of extending greetings, according to the language of the country. Like each has its own, there is a few examples, in Swedish "God Jul," in French "Joyeux Noel" and in German "Frohe Weihnachten." In Russian, it's "Rodzestvenno-Kristyevoye."

Whatever the language, the words mean, "Merry Christmas and that's the key to the variety of customs." Merry Christmas means that people of many lands have unique traditions, each a way of expressing the spirit of Christmas — a spirit that is the same everywhere, in every place and time.

At Christmas, the thoughts of people around the world turn to the joys of home, of being with family and friends, the pleasures of feasting and parties, the pleasure of giving and receiving gifts, the satisfaction of helping others. The affirmation of faith, the renewed spirit of hope, the hope for "Peace on earth, good will toward all men" is a season of worship and prayer.

Share in Tradition All these things find expression in the Christmas customs of many lands. And the customs travel from country to country, so that on a day when sharing with others is a most important part of the celebration, nations share in the memories and traditions of other lands.

Some of these customs are compiled below by editors of The Book of Knowledge.

OLD CUSTOMS LIVE Christmas in the United States reflects a heritage of customs from many lands and times. Trees, candles, bells, carols and other well-loved traditions came, from the people of the U.S., from other countries. In many communities, people still celebrate Christmas as their ancestors did.

The U.S. has made its contributions to Christmas customs around the world. The Santa Claus, the red-suited, white-bearded figure of the North Pole, is a creation of the U.S. The custom of the Christmas tree, the custom of the stocking, and the custom of the gift are U.S. ideas that have been adopted on a global scale.

SAINT IS REALITY Swedish Yuletide ceremonies begin officially on Dec. 13. St. Lucy's Day. According to legend, St. Lucy carried a torch.

Rabbit Hunt on Despite Opposition

HARMONY, N.C. (AP) — A Stone Age rabbit hunt, once legally opposed by lovers of the continent, will be held Dec. 15 under the sponsorship of the North Carolina Game Warden.

Piracies are forbidden. Hunters, armed with sticks and stones, roam farm fields, thin the rabbit, run, burn down, and beat them to death.

Last year, the Mechanicsburg County Humane Society in Charleston sought an injunction. The case went to the State Supreme Court which ruled hunting rabbits with sticks and stones is not inhumane.

The secret of a well-designed Christmas wreath is to keep it round, with a well-defined, clean center.

Some Celebrities Will Hear Civic

When the Manchester Civic Orchestra presents its concert Saturday night in Bailey Auditorium of Manchester High School, the audience will include leading musical celebrities in the Greater Hartford area, some of whom will be bearing the orchestra for the first time.

They include people from the Hartford Symphony, the Connecticut Opera Association and the Hartford Conservatory. Fritz Haber, conductor of the orchestra, has told John Gruber, the Herald's music critic and civic orchestra conductor, he is attending.

The program will consist of works by Felix Strauss, Beethoven, Smetana and Wolf-Ferrari.

Substitute conductor, Joseph Elmer Manger of Rhode Island, featured in Haber's Introduction and Alberto for Harry, and Oscar Hammer of Bolton, who will play the violin.

Tickets can be purchased at Ray Belter's Music Shop on Main St. and at the box office the night of performance. Student tickets are at a reduced price.

Police Arrests

Frank J. Campanelli, 17, of 19 Hannaway St., last night was charged with reckless driving. He was arrested by Patrolman Robert L. Lamasan who reported the youth ran several stop lights on Main St. while traveling at a high rate of speed. Campanelli was ordered to appear in Circuit Court 12, Manchester, Nov. 27.

HEADED FOR TROUBLE LONDON (AP) — A London pathologist has suggested that all women — and all men — wear the same type hat. His theory is that every pedestrian wore a hard derby or bowler and a Bible called them — there would be fewer fatalities from traffic accidents.

Income Taxed in 1961

WASHINGTON—The first federal income-tax law took effect in 1861. It was upheld by the Supreme Court in the 1860's. In one year, 1866, it brought in $200,000,000. After the Civil War the law was repealed. In 1884 a new income tax was enacted, but the Supreme Court declared it unconstitutional.

New Sub Missile Fails Sixth Time

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The United States' first nuclear-powered submarine missile failed for the sixth time in as many test flights today when it shot off control during second-stage flight and was destroyed by the range safety officer.

The missile, launched from the solid fuel second-stage engine left the launch tube at 1000 ft. and fell in the Atlantic several miles offshore.

Of the six failures, five have occurred during second-stage flight. The first stage explosion on the other rocket. All were launched from the launch tube.

The Navy announced that despite the failures — all for a different reason — the program is progressing quite well in development. The range safety officer experienced in these early flights are considered normal in the development and testing of such a complex missile system.

The announced that the current test program is further advanced than the earlier program in that it is testing the missile in the actual launch tube. The program contains many revolutionary features and the Navy has scheduled the next test program, which started last August, to develop the rocket.

The A3 will increase the missile range of Polaris submarines to 2,800 miles. The earlier operational models have ranged up to 1,725 miles.

Algeria's Strong Man Losing Grip on Army

A number of diplomats who have been the steady-handed, leaf-bedecked Boumediene was a possible replacement for Ben Bella no longer think so.

Many Algerians and foreigners longer think so. The government's name is Mohammed Boucharba.

Some of his units have blended with the guerrilla with others in the hands of the army. The army is taking over whole sections of the countryside, being through by several local commanders are known to have ignored government directives.

In some areas there have been clashes between the troops and the guerrillas. Another factor is that after eight years of guerrilla warfare, terrorism and turmoil, most Algerians are bitterly tired of bloodshed and wholeheartedly against military influence from any direction.

This leaves the country in a state of power struggle that is feared to give Ben Bella a chance to straighten out chaotic difficulties.

In debate in the national assembly Wednesday, many deputies leveled criticism on Boumediene for trying to govern by slogans instead of by laws. He was accused of trying to govern by slogans instead of by laws. He was accused of trying to govern by slogans instead of by laws.

When he commanded the only military force in the country, he was able to play an important role in the government's policies.

He vetoed Ben Bella's plan to send a special military for economic cooperation with France. Once he ignored Ben Bella's orders for a cease-fire in fighting with guerrillas holding Algiers.

An avowed admirer of Fidel Castro and Red China's Mao Tse Tung, Boumediene once boasted that his army would be the spearhead of an Algerian revolution that would continue after independence.

Immediately upon independence, he was fired by Ben Khedrou, who accused him of plotting a dictatorship. Ben Khedrou lost in the power struggle that followed to give Ben Bella a chance.

"Bolton a Mockery"

Bolton, today, is a mockery of our democratic way of life. We have elected to office people who we would govern our town and we have no adequate educational facilities. Since the time of the Bolton Project, no solution to our school problem has been found. I could understand this if we were dealing with an abstract problem. However, with all the concrete mathematical knowledge at our disposal, it seems impossible that no objective truth of the school needs has resulted which would be accepted by the people of our town. I'm sure if all their natural abilities were pooled and they were led in honest and good faith with just the goal of sound education in mind, there would be one and only one solution best for the town of Bolton.

On the contrary, emotions have conquered intelligence and a contest of wills is a stultified display of antics found at murray and kindergarten levels. This has been demonstrated time and again at town meetings which have been transformed into strategic battle-grounds.

Through meetings and news reports we have been bombarded with confusion as to cost figures. Toward the end of the last school year the Board of Education projected, on paper, a total cost estimate of $550,000. This figure included construction cost, electrical and equipment fees, site development, equipment and miscellaneous costs. In the last few weeks construction cost alone has received numerous figures such as $665,000 and $841,000 by the Board of Education. How could the original estimate have been so wrong? Why the jumping from one figure to another?

Even the cost difference between figures of schools has confounded figures. The Boston Herald was quoted as $885,000 for a Junior-Senior High School and $750,000 for a Junior High School. However, a figure from the Board of Education stated the difference to be $71,000.

One last reflection: Why the haste over the fund for construction and engineers fees? The PCB would cost $40,000 by the Board of Education said $10,000 was enough, even though the estimate referred to earlier they allowed $37,000 for the service.

Another battle over borrowing capacity ensues. The Board of Education feels the Board of Finance is borrowing too much. Below our borrowing capacity of $885,000. Yet we have been told we can borrow more money. Our $40-to-be-built school may need adding onto in a few years. If we borrowed to our limit, how would we pay for it?

Are the residents of Bolton being helped or hindered by these figures? Are we qualified to make an intelligent decision? I pray to God we are.

Mrs. Roy Mass
Trochard, Bt., Bolton

Survival Training Saved His Life, Rescued Skier Says

BELLINGHAM, Wash. (AP) — One of a trio of skiers who spent three freezing nights on 10,700-foot Mt. Baker in northwest Washington, says Air Force survival training saved his life. Air Force Lt. David Kosak, 24, Buffalo, N.Y., hospitalized Wednesday for frostbite and exposure after his rescue, said he and two others tunneled into the snow at night, huddled together and slept on pine boughs. Air Force Lt. John Melton, 22, Lindstrom, Minn., was suffering from extensive frostbite and exposure. His condition was described as serious. Kosak and Melton are stationed at McClellan Air Force Base near Tacoma, Wash. A third man, Donald I. McKinnon of Vancouver, B.C., was hospitalized in Abbotsford, B.C., apparently in fair condition with frostbitten feet. The three men had no food and ran out of matches the first night. McKinnon said, "We were the first up the ski tow Sunday morning. There was a semiburial at the top, and we went straight ahead instead of turning right and wound up in what they call the Swift River drainage area. We realized we were lost. A search party found them trying to climb a cliff in a rugged canyon a few miles from Mt. Baker Lodge. "When I spotted the rescuers, I started screaming my lungs out," said Kosak. Melton had to be carried out on a stretcher. Rescuers said he apparently had fallen into a stream several times and could neither move nor talk when found.

MOM MIGHT BE AT FAULT (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.) Moms to American mothers: Do your children look up to, admire and respect their father? If the answer is "no," it may not be their father's fault, but your own. Listen to what a wife and mother who reads this column has to say on the subject: "The children's feelings about their father, in any home, are to a large extent fostered by their mother. If the mother admires her husband, respects his opinions, and treats him as the real head of the household, the children will do the same. "If, instead, she is forever finding fault with her husband, or trying to prove him wrong, or she belittles his ideas and suggestions, the children aren't going to look up to him with much respect. "It doesn't even matter that a hard-working father doesn't have much time to spend with his family. If the mother lets the children know that their father is working hard for the family, that he has a man's work to do in a man's world and that she shows his love for his family, not as a mother does by all the acts of "mothering," but by going out and earning a living, no matter how little time he has for his children, they won't feel that their father loves them less than their mother or does. "All of this has to be done by a loving wife who doesn't want or intend to be first with her children at the price of putting the father in second place. "So think about it, you mothers of young children. The image that your children have of their father is to a great extent the image you are presenting to them. If they don't think their father is the greatest man in the world, it could be your fault instead of his. "Moms and dad both should read Ruth Millett's booklet, "Fancier Wives (Hints for husbands)." That Stevenson agreed with the President's decision. Stevenson expanded Wednesday on the part played in the council meeting.

What followed, as the storm grew bigger, is curious in itself. Salinger read to reporters a White House statement saying "Stevenson strongly supported the decision taken by the President on the quarantine."

White House officials said the statement had been prepared with the knowledge and advice of the President. But on closer examination it looks ambiguous.

It didn't contradict the Post story by saying Stevenson agreed with the "consensus" of the council. It merely stated that Stevenson had made his decision after hearing the council. The White House statement said only

He assured Stevenson he would not continue at the United Nations. But at no time has Kennedy criticized the story co-authored by his friend, Bartlett. Nor has he said the story—contrary to what Stevenson says—was inaccurate in reporting the ambassador disagreed with the other council members on the blockade.

The magazine not only listed all the council members who took part in the discussion but directly named Kennedy and Stevenson and what they said and what they thought needed to be done.

Wednesday night the White House released a letter from Kennedy to Stevenson in which the President said he deeply regretted the "unfortunate stir" caused by the statements in the Bartlett-Artlett story.

He added: "I think you will now be glad to see that the White House statement said only

The board of education last night authorized its chairman, John McCarrick, to engage an attorney, other than town counsel, to advise the board on what it should do at next Monday's town meeting. Philip Liguori said he thought that the local board should join the Connecticut Association of Boards of Education (CABE) since it would provide free counsel to support the board.

Liguori said he had talked with Dr. Raymond Fay, legislative expert on the state board of education, and he recommended that the board join the CABE. Liguori said the board has the state educational committee, to discuss the board's stand. It was decided that the board has the authority suggested by the CABE for the present time, and that the time he would serve might be lengthened if he proved satisfactory.

McCarrick said he had reasons which he would not like to make public at present for wanting to affiliate with the CABE. The board voted to table until a special meeting to be held next Wednesday the items on affiliation with CABE and committee reports on police and transportation.

The board stated that members do not and will not approve the plan which the public building commission will present at the town meeting Monday night. The board only approved a 24-teaching station school and reluctantly approved detaching the cafeteria-dormitory to bring the cost within the paying ability of the town, they said.

Board member Mrs. Agnes Keyring reported that she and three hours recently consulting with Atty. Charles Hartman and he advised her that the board had the power to establish an independent for a junior-senior high school.

She was also advised that the board of finance had not right to limit the appropriation for a bond issue. McCarrick said he had received the same opinion from town counsel on Monday night.

Speaking for the board of finance is puzzled at the board's concern over this point. She said board of finance

Section Two Board Hopes Teachers Will Form Committee

The board of education last night reaffirmed that it would meet with representatives of teachers for 1963-64 salary negotiations, and suggested that the two town teachers' organizations get together to form the negotiating committee.

The action was unanimously approved by two motions, after more than an hour of discussion. It was when the board's personnel policy committee attempted to postpone its recommendation on whether the board should adopt as policy the "Committee of Nine" report.

Christie P. McCormick, committee chairman, had suggested the postponement, saying that the committee is about to face "a tremendous amount of work" on the next school budget. He said the teachers themselves should decide this year who will represent them. McCormick said late afternoon he would be the actual teacher voice speaking at the meeting.

Board members said they thought the whole call for the next meeting was illegal. They would discuss the matter at the next meeting with the attorney. There was discussion of having a bulletin to let townpeople know what the board is doing.

The board member George Banks was asked to go to Manchester to attend a meeting of Manchester Board of Education. Liguori moved to let townpeople know what the board is doing.

The "Committee of Nine" report, prepared by a state committee led by Dr. Theodore Powell of Manchester and including as a member William H. Curtis, sets forth rules covering the relations between teachers' groups and boards of education.

If adopted, it could presumably eliminate the minority Manchester Federation of Teachers. A.F.T.C.D., from salary negotiations with the board.

The Manchester Education Association, the major teachers' group, has voted unanimously to endorse the report. It has also asked the board to establish a representation on the negotiations committee.

The federation, too, has endorsed the report—but it wants a minority representation.

When the state board of education adopted the report, it recommended that we will be dealing with a single group, without the procedural guidelines (stated in the report).

McCarrick: That's what we prefer. I move that we defer action.

Cummings: Second.

Unanimous approval was given to the motion.

Buckley: I move that the board reaffirm its policy of dealing with a group of teachers selected by the state and of "if necessary, to the Supreme Court. The transportation is "our right," he said.

The children should be entitled to it," he said.

The town board's transportation and safety committee recommended the denial, saying it had found no traffic hazards along the route the pupils will take.

In October, the parents had appealed to the board to continue the service, which their children had been allowed the past two years as pupils of Illing Junior High School. The board previously granted the service after the parents went to the state with an appeal at that time.

Machie, one of the parents involved in the case, said the route the pupils take is not an unsafe one.

Edward Giessey, chairman of the transportation and safety committee, said the committee had studied the Oakland St., N. Main St., Middle Tpk. and Middle Tpk. route the pupils take and had discovered the following:

"That a police accident report had shown there were no pedestrian accidents in the area during school hours last year.

"That a traffic policeman stationed at a walk light is installed at N. Main and Main St.

Crashes 20 Hear Explanation Of Town Master Plan

Police investigation of four vehicular accidents which occurred in Manchester yesterday and early today brought three arrests, slight injuries to three persons and considerable motor vehicle damage.

Joseph Parra, 41, Hartford, last evening at about 8:30 was charged with failure to grant the right of way at an intersection. Police said that he drove his car out of Park St., after stopping for a stop sign, and collided with the front of an eastbound Center St. car, operated by Miss Diane L. Riba of East Hartford.

No one was hurt but both cars were towed from the scene with extensive damage, police said. Miss Riba was also arrested on a charge of failure to grant the right of way. Both were ordered to appear in Court 21, Dec. 11.

Shortly after midnight last night, police investigated a one-car crash on Tolland Tpk., west of West Rd. about 12:30. MITTIL, 20, of Rockville, driver of the car, was charged with failure to carry a motor vehicle registration and license. He was arrested in Court 21, Manchester, Dec. 11.

Mittil was uninjured in the crash. Police said he was attempting to pass three cars when one pulled out from behind him. He struck his vehicle to the right side of the left side of the car. The car was towed away with extensive rear end and fender damage.

Some Chicago High School students were driving on Tolland Tpk. when they struck another operated by Charles Bodeman of 17 Hoffman Rd. No one was hurt.

Fourth accident, which occurred on Main St., near Wells at 10 o'clock last night, brought no injuries nor arrests and only slight damage to the cars involved.

The master plan's industrial site in the northwest section of town, said Ernie Garaventa, another TPC member, and would encourage its development into an industrial park with proper utilities installed.

The new road that will enter Manchester, Interstate Rt. 291 and Rt. 6 relocation, would provide additional industrial space. A renewed Cheney Mills area with provisions for "teachzone" industries, small companies just starting out would be part of the plan's proposals.

Ans communitate in sound, made by snapping leg joints, scrapping feet and nipping mandibles, as well as by the strobilatory organs, such as those used by grasshoppers to fiddle.

Parents Will Appeal Denial of Bus Rides

An appeal for school bus transportation to Manchester High School for 20 North End pupils, denied by the Manchester board of education, will be taken to the state board of education.

H. Frederick Machie, 480 N. Main St., representing parents of the eight grade pupils, said today that the parents will go to the state and "if necessary, to the Supreme Court. The transportation is "our right," he said.

The children should be entitled to it," he said.

The town board's transportation and safety committee recommended the denial, saying it had found no traffic hazards along the route the pupils will take.

COCKIGHTS CRUEL

What of Angling?

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP)—It is illegal to permit cockfights, said an Oklahoma state court today in a ruling that was widely hailed as a victory for animal welfare groups.

The state supreme court, in a unanimous decision, ruled that a law which permitted cockfights for "sport" was unconstitutional because it violated the state constitution's prohibition against laws that would "authorize or permit any cruel or inhumane treatment of animals."

The court also ruled that the law was unconstitutional because it violated the state constitution's prohibition against laws that would "authorize or permit any cruel or inhumane treatment of animals."

Fanfani Wins Confidence Vote

ROME (AP)—Premier Amintore Fanfani won a confidence vote in parliament Wednesday night, defeating a rightist attempt to put his center-left coalition government into difficulty.

The Chamber of Deputies voted 214-87 with 20 abstentions. Representatives of the Liberal, Monarchist and Fascist parliamentary groups charged that a minor reshuffle in cabinet posts was increasingly committed to the Socialists. The Socialist support Fanfani's government in parliament but do not have representation in the cabinet.

Hopes for 1964 Opening Curtis Report Asks 13 Classrooms Soon

The board of education's building and sites committee was asked last night to begin work immediately on Supr. of Schools William H. Curtis' recommendation for additions to the Highland Park and Keeney St. Schools.

"If we move ahead now, we could make September 1964 opening," said Supt. Curtis. He proposed that a seven-room addition be made to Highland Park School and that six rooms be added to Keeney St. School.

The superintendent introduced those recommendations and the others to the board in an informal session on his Part 2 study of enrollment trends, plant capacity and future needs of the Manchester school system.

Those proposed additions are among 23 basic classrooms he recommends be added over the next five years.

The other rooms would include 10 in the Robertson School area and a new 10-room school in the Grand-nor-Spring St. area.

The other recommendations for school additions include the following: Highland Park School: Besides the addition, renovation of six existing rooms, a new kindergarten, interior renovations and site improvement.

Keeney St. School: Besides the addition, another addition later in the future of the same number of rooms, if the proposed relocation of Rt. 6 warrants them. Interior renovations.

Robertson School: Besides the new rooms on the site, although not necessarily connected to the present building, an eye further expansion and eventual abandonment of the existing building, interior renovations. Consideration of the urban renewal project for the North End, which might include some of the questions about the Robertson area.

Even a total abandonment for school purposes at Buckland, Keeney Ames and Oxford Village Schools.

Temperature Rises On Chilly 2

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Sun temperatures on the Yuma-Bour-Marine 2 spacecraft continue to rise. Scientists are keeping their fingers crossed.

A top temperature of 140 degrees was allowed for in preflight planning, but already Mariner has undergone heat of 150 degrees. Still higher temperatures are expected.

The spacecraft is scheduled to pass within 20,000 miles of Venus on 10 p.m. Dec. 14 and radio to earth information about the cloud-shrouded planet. All systems have functioned normally so far, says the California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said today Mariner 2 is 29,538,014 miles from the earth and 2,460,074 miles from Venus. The radio signal is good.

Blind Man Spots Counterfeit Bill

DETROIT (AP)—"Give me money, not paper," Ben Solomon said when a man asked him to change a $20 bill at Solomon's magazine stand in the federal building.

The man, Arthur Askew Jr., was startled when Solomon flung the bill back in his face. Solomon is blind.

"That guy could see better than I could," federal agents told Askew as he was taken to court. Askew was saying after his arrest. He and three co-defendants, all Detroiters, pleaded guilty Wednesday to charges of possession of counterfeit money and were sentenced to $2,000 bonds to await sentencing.

Solomon said the high school senior had taught him how to detect bad money without having to see it.

SPECIAL CHILDREN'S

Pinehurst quality presents a difference you can see and a difference you can taste! In the meat department, the produce department, delicatessen, the grocery department, you'll find this difference repeated and repeated! Even if you have to travel a little farther, it'll be worth while for you to shop Pinehurst where greater "take home" value, plus a host of little advantages go beyond low supermarket prices!

Remember, please, we are advertising 1/4 strips . . . not 3/4 ends (these you can have for 29c lb.).

Boneless meat is becoming more popular every day . . . You will enjoy the 3 to 3 1/2 lb. BONELESS LOIN PORK ROASTS which we feature at 89c lb. Economical . . . easy to slice.

People come from near and far for our ground meats. Every pound is guaranteed to give the utmost value and satisfaction.

THIS WEEK WE FEATURE OUR FAMOUS 3 IN 1 BLEND lb. 69c

of freshly chopped Beef, Pork and Veal, blended the same each time to make the finest meat loaves or Swedish meat balls. Usually 89c lb. on sale at.
