Machinist, Carpentry Courses Start Under U.S. Retraining Act

Under the terms of the Federal Manpower Development and Training Act, signed into law by President Kennedy on March 15, 1962, state employment services are empowered to offer job retraining to unemployed workers.

In December the local office of the State Labor Department announced two retraining programs, one in sheetmetal work, one in carpentry.

Both were open to 25 students to be selected from applicants in the greater Hartford area, and the programs work this way:

To qualify for either program, an applicant has to be of a specific age group, should show an interest in learning a new trade, and must pass tests indicating qualifications for the work.

The 25 would be selected from applicants to the Hartford, Torrington, Thompsonville and Manchester offices.

For those chosen, the first step would be a 17-week training course. In the case of the sheetmetal worker course, the pre-apprenticeship training would be at the Prince School in Hartford.

If he passes the first 17 weeks, the individual would then be accepted in a four-year training program, in this case sponsored by a union, in the metalworking department of a manufacturing company.

During the pre-apprenticeship training, the trainee can collect unemployment pay, if he is so qualified, or is eligible for up to $20 a week to defray expenses resulting from the job training.

During the four-year training period, the apprentice is paid by the employer, at the standard rate. For sheetmetal workers, rates start at $1.75 an hour.

As a journeyman, the employee could expect as much as $4.15 per hour.

While the federal act that pays the bill was designed to overcome problems resulting when individuals are displaced from work by technological change, industrial relocation or shifts in market demand, the local program puts the emphasis on the needs of area industry.

This person need not have lost his job to a machine in order to qualify for the local program. All he need do is have an interest in attaining a new skill that area employers are short of.

According to Miss Hazel Anderson, manager of the Manchester office of the State Employment Service, the Manchester area has sent five men to the sheetmetal

Heatley Gets Appointed to Shrine Post

David J. Heatley of Beaumont, Tex., a former Manchester resident, last night was appointed second ceremonial master of El Mina Temple of the Shrine in Galveston, Tex.

He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. David E. Heatley.

His appointment to the divan was announced by Potentate John Terry at the annual meeting of El Mina Temple. He will progress through the various offices, culminating in seven years with his election as potentate of his temple. He has been a trustee of the Temple two years.

Heatley was born in France. He is a Manchester High School graduate, 1939, and was a member of the track and cross country teams for three years.

He is a member of Manchester Lodge of Masons and the Scottish Rite bodies of Fall River, Mass.

In Beaumont, he owns the Heatley Equipment Co., Inc., which deals in heavy construction equipment. He is a member of the Chamber of Commerce, the Business and Professional Men's Club, and Pinewood Country Club. He recently terminated 20 years of Army and Reserve service, and was discharged as a captain in the Army Transportation Corps.

Heatley has lived in Texas 12 years. He is married to the former Neva Sheppard of Baytown, Tex., and the couple has three children, David, Susan and Kathleen.

Heatley has four sisters and a brother: Mrs. David (Elsie) Spencer of 115 Forest St., whose husband is master of Manchester Lodge of Masons; Mrs. Paul (Sally) Martz of 176 W. Vernon St.; Mrs. Warren (Peggy) Waldo of 104 West St.; Mrs. Dixon (Jacqueline) Renear of Martha's Vineyard; and Thomas Heatley of Needham, Mass.

Heatley was appointed assistant counsel in 1950. In 1956 he was appointed assistant counsel.

He serves on a number of committees of insurance industry organizations and is an instructor in law at the Hartford College of Insurance. At Manchester, he is chairman of the building committee of the Concordia Evangelical Lutheran Church.

NEW PAPER DEVELOPED A new paper on which images may be produced without the use of ink, carbons or ribbons has been developed.

The new product, called 3M Brand "Action" paper, is being manufactured by the 3M Co. of St. Paul, Minn.

The firm says that images can be made on single copies or, in certain applications, on as many as a dozen copies of the paper simultaneously by the pressure of a business machine key, stylus or other marking device. Each sheet of paper creates its own image in response to the impact of the original impression.

Key to the new product, according to the maker, is incorporation in the paper of tiny capsules containing a special chemical. When ruptured by the impact of a machine key or writing instrument,

NEW IONA MIXER

The latest addition to the Iona line of portable food mixers will be introduced Monday at a week-long National Housewares Exhibit in Chicago.

Iona Manufacturing Co. on Regent St. announced today that the new line on display will also feature a new ice crusher attachment, to be marketed under the Regent brand, a new Regent drink mixer and a new detachable cord featured on the Iona Princess portable mixer.

The new mixer is characterized by high styling incorporating the smooth flowing lines of tear drop design and a unique recessed front area where the name-plate is set.

The mixer offers a thumb tip beater ejector, three speed control, detachable cord, handy key hole slot for wall mounting and convenient hand rest design. A Churn-Blend drink mixer attachment is offered at no extra cost. A 100 watt Iona Super-Torque motor powers the handy, well balanced 5 lb. mixer for no-stall mixing action even in the thickest of batters.

Suggested retail price of the model is $18.95. Deliveries are scheduled for early February.

George Katz of 21 Steep Hollow Lane has been promoted to associate counsel of Aetna Casualty and Surety Co. and Standard Fire Insurance Co.

The announcement was made recently following a meeting of the companies' board of directors.

Katz, a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, Law School in 1949, practiced law in Philadelphia prior to coming to insurance companies' law departments in 1950. In 1956 he was appointed assistant counsel.

He serves on a number of committees of insurance industry organizations and is an instructor in law at the Hartford College of Insurance. At Manchester, he is chairman of the building committee of the Concordia Evangelical Lutheran Church.

$40,000 Suit Filed By Regal Builders

The alleged failure of one builder to install utilities in a development tract has brought a suit against him by another builder for $40,000.

Regal Builders, 68 Leland Dr., has filed papers with the town clerk claiming that an agreement was made on Oct. 11, 1959, with Frank R. Wood Construction Co. for the latter to install water lines, storm sewers, road base and curbing in a section of the Woods Farm tract on Keeney St.

The plaintiff claims that the work, which was to have been performed within three months of the contract, has not yet been done. It further claims loss of sales and profits.

The firm of Gersten, Butler and Gersten of Hartford is handling the case for Regal Builders.

Banquet Marks Lodge Birthday

Horace McMahon Star Of 'Naked City' Show

By RUTH E. THOMPSON

Which Horace McMahon do you know best? Maybe it's as the toughly humorous Lt. Mike Parker in ABC-TV's Wednesday night "Naked City" series (10-11 p.m., EST); or maybe, if you're an "old movie" buff, it's as a toughly humorous gangster or other shady-side-of-the-law types he played so often in Hollywood.

I met a few more Horace McMahaons I hadn't known existed when I visited the set of the mythical 65th precinct recently. (Incidentally, it is a rare moment when McMahon and co-star Paul Burke stay still long enough to be tracked down. "Naked City" is fiendish in its authenticity. Not since the legendary days of the silent pictures have there been so many on-the-level location filmings in New York City. And I testify to this as an eye-witness having lost hours of sleep one night last fall gazing out the window as cast and crew descended on a tandem of restaurants across the street from my apartment.)

McMahon, I knew, has been serving for the past three years as a most able and active president of the Catholic Actors' Guild. But I didn't know what an inter-group favorite he is. Never misses a benefit for the Episcopal Actors' Guild, for example, and while I talked to him he was busy shifting around his January schedule so he could fit in an appearance at a B'nai B'rith activity in Philadelphia.

A marvelous raconteur, he managed to squeeze in 150 such appearances last year in addition to a heavy work schedule. Sometimes it meant three personal appearances in a day (like the time he spoke at a communion breakfast at New York's Waldorf Astoria, flew to Boston for a luncheon then back to New York for a dinner.) Worst of all he sometimes moves so fast he must skip the meal-part of the event entirely. How does he hold up under such rigors? "I just don't think of it in such terms," he says. "I just think how nice of them it is to ask me."

He certainly looks healthy and relaxed—yonger, too, than his photographs; but then doing good things with his life, it turns out, is an old habit of his.

During World War II, it seems, he literally put his own career in mothballs and spent three years touring hospitals entertaining the wounded. His lovely wife, who roots for the benefit activities as much as for his theater and TV acting, herself worked as a hospital volunteer while he was away.

For among the Horace McMahaons I met, as you've probably surmised by now, was "Horace McMahon—family man." Item: He still lives in the town where he was born, South Norwalk, Conn., and where his family has lived for generations.

Does he by chance live in the old family homestead?

No. And though he advocates sticking by your home town, he also thinks moving around is a great idea. They don't even live in last year's house. "A house should fit your life smoothly," the McMahaons feel. Horace explains:

"Our house really wasn't big enough for our three growing children ("Missy," 15; Tom, 9; and Katy, 6). The neighbors across the street had a nice big house—too big for them—so we swapped and everybody's happy. When the children grow up and move away, I'm sure Louise and I will move to smaller quarters again."

Louise McMahon is former actress Louise Campbell. They met in 1936 when the great stage hit "Three Men on a Horse" needed two replacements, "Charlie and Audrey." They stayed with the show for 60 weeks, then Paramount lured Louise to Hollywood with a contract; and Horace, though he had no contract, followed her. He landed a job next day and, though he never did sign with any one studio, he made 26 films the first year. They were married in 1938 in Louise's home town, Chicago.

Though he's lived in the heart of New York City several times in his life (during his student days at Fordham Law School and during each of his Broadway appearances) McMahon says he never really got around town until "Naked City" got hold of him. "Now I could stand on Times Square and direct traffic, for which I'm certainly grateful to Stuart Rosenberg."

Rosenberg, who directed the first "Naked City" episode, asked for McMahon as Mike Parker and they have great back-slapping reunions whenever Rosenberg returns as guest director, and not just because of McMahon's gratitude. They have plenty else to talk about. Rosenberg, it seems, holds a doctor of philosophy degree in Irish literature and McMahon is descended, from what he blithely terms, "one of the latterday first families to settle in Connecticut, the Irish who migrated to New England shortly before the Civil War."

Q. How many brothers and sisters do the Lennon Sisters have?
A. Only eight.

TV Personalities

Margie McNall

One of the prettiest girls in showbusiness was once a familiar "unknown" to TV viewers.

Until she was signed for the role of Beth Wanger, receptionist and gal Friday to Dr. Theodore Bannett and Dr. Paul Graham (series stars Wendell Corey and Jack Ging) on NBC-TV's "The Eleventh Hour" series, (Wednesdays, 10-11 p.m. EST) the "I-know-her-face-but-can't-place-her-name" fame rested largely on Margie McNally's career as a fashion model for such numerous TV commercials for national advertisers. She is a former "Miss Rheingold."

The 5 foot 5½ actress has red hair, brown eyes and tips the scale at 110. She was born on June 23 in Queens, N. Y., to Patrick and Margaret McNally.

Following graduation from New York's Prospect High, Margie was spotted by fashion authority John Robert Powers in 1953. She modeled for him until 1958 and was known as the "All-American" type fashion model in magazines of the U.S.A. and Europe, too.

In 1960 she went to Paris, where she was a sought-after model for many French magazines. She worked for such fashion houses as Dior and Givenchy. Later, she modeled in Nassau, Bermuda and the Dutch West Indies. Her first American commercial in 1955, was on NBC-TV's "Eddie Fisher Show."

But modeling was not Margie's ultimate goal. She had her sights set on a TV and motion picture career and, between modeling assignments, she won some plum roles on the "Kraft," "Philco" and "Danger" series. She also did hostess stints on the NBC-TV "Today" and "Home" shows and won a regular co-starring role on "The Charley Weaver Show."

For the past three years she has studied with some of the country's top dramatic coaches and currently is working with Vincent Chase at M-G-M between her "Eleventh Hour" scenes. Margie tested for this series during the lunch break on one of the episodes. She won the part and the next day was at work in the episode and under contract to M-G-M.

When she's not before the cameras, Margie does skeet and trap shooting, or swims and goes deep sea fishing. Her favorite performers are Susan Hayward and Spencer Tracy ("They're redheads and we redheads stick together. Well, Mr. Tracy did have red hair").

Any talk of a boyfriend merely brings a mischievous twinkle to her liquid brown eyes and a tongue-in-cheek quip, "My best friend is a camera!"

Brightest stars of the talkies will be seen when Henry Fonda narrates "Hollywood: The Fabulous Era." Second of three hour-long documentary specials about movie history, it will be televised on ABC-TV Wednesday night, Jan. 23.

TV Notebook

By DIKE KLEINER
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK (NEA) — At 23, Peter Fonda has arrived at two mature conclusions that some people never reach.
First, he has decided that he might as well go through life doing the thing he enjoys doing the most. And that is acting.
Second, he has realized that it is time to put away childish things in favor of stability and home life. Consequently, he has renounced his passion for speed, which in the past led to several auto crashes and once landing his airplane on a cow.

Fonda, of course, is the son of Henry and the brother of Jane F. But, he says, he never wanted to be an actor.

Peter Fonda

"In fact," the tall, excessively slim actor says, "I used to de-claim bitterly about how much I didn't want to be an actor. I used to say I wanted to be a lawyer, but I think that was just to please my father. But I ultimately came to realize, after doing a lot of high school and college acting, that the only time I was really happy was when I was working on a stage."

And so, about a year ago, he became a professional actor. He has moved quickly from small Broadway roles to larger television ones and to appearances in two movies. He is just about to make that second one, a small but meaty bit in the all-star war picture, "The Victors," which is being filmed in England. He has come a long way in a short time.

Fonda says his main aim in life is to have a family, and a happy one. He is married, but he and his wife are deferring children "until I am better established." This is all part of his current drive toward maturity and good sense.

The major part of that drive is the fact that he's cut out his "speed thing."

"I used to drive fast," he says, "but not recklessly — I never once got a ticket. But I did crack up a few times."

Once he skidded on the ice and "climbed a tree." Luckily, he only cut his lip but didn't even chip a tooth. Once, in a plane (his license was taken away when he skinned the Missouri River at 25 feet and barely missed a patrol boat) he was making an emergency landing and hit a cow, but the plane landed safely.

Togo Chief Killed, Power Fight Looms

LOME, Togo (AP)—A struggle for leadership of this tiny West African country appeared to be developing today in the wake of a sergeant's revolt and the assassination of President Sylvanus Olympio.

Two men emerged as possible heads of a new government—former Premier Nicolas Grunitzky, 49, and Adrien Akpano Mesteh, 37, a former opposition leader in the Togo Assembly.

A military revolutionary committee that engineered the Sunday coup reportedly appealed to Grunitzky, a brother-in-law of the slain president to return from exile in neighboring Dahomey to form a government.

Sumors spread that Mesteh was already back in Lome from exile in Ghana, which also borders Togo. He had been accused by the Olympio government of aiding exiled political conspirators.

Mesteh, a French-educated Moslem and former civil servant, had been arrested in 1960 for conspiracy. He went to Ghana after his release in mid-1962.

(Informants in neighboring Dahomey said both Mesteh and Grunitzky had arrived in Lome, but there was no official confirmation. Radio Lome broadcast assurances that calm had been imposed and that Togo would respect its foreign treaties.)

Gunned down on the street outside the U.S. Embassy early Sunday, Olympio apparently was the only casualty of the last-powdered revolt. Gunfire was heard in the streets around 2 a.m. The 60-year-old president's bullet-riddled body was found outside the unlocked embassy gate at dawn.

The body was taken into the embassy. Later Olympio's family removed it.

Most of the other members of his government were arrested. They were reported unharmed and held at a military camp outside Lome.

Olympio visited the United States on an aid-seeking mission last March and President Kennedy praised him as "an excep-

France Bars Joining In N-Defense

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle said today France cannot join the British-American agreement made at Nassau establishing a multinational Polaris missile force.

De Gaulle, speaking to his first news conference since last May, responded to a question on whether France might accept President Kennedy's offer of Polaris missiles.

"I do not believe that anyone thinks that we can subscribe to the accord of the Bahamas," De Gaulle said. "The U.S. offer to France following the previous Christmas Nassau agreement had no current importance to France and added:

"We will build and employ ourselves our own atomic force."

"I have several times indicated publicly French policy on defense and the armament which France feels necessary for her own defense. I repeat that France intends to have her own national defense."

In Washington, the White House declined immediate comment on De Gaulle's rejection of the multinational Polaris missile force.

De Gaulle conceded that in modern times no nation can conduct a world war on its own and went on:

"The need to have allies goes without saying. But to have also the free disposition of one's self and to keep it is also a necessity for a great people."

He declared it would not be useful for France to buy Polaris missiles from the United States since it does not have submarines to launch the missiles or nuclear warheads to attach to the missiles.

He added, however, that if France some day does have the submarines and nuclear warheads, "perhaps we will have our own missiles."

De Gaulle said he was not rejecting technical or strategic cooperation, but that he felt the French and British positions were different now on nuclear matters. Britain has accepted the Polaris offer.

De Gaulle declared he could foresee many difficulties and complications in using a nuclear force with multinational control. He made it clear that France is not in a hurry to join the force.

"Why should we buy Polaris missiles from America since we

Kennedy Asks Three-Step, $13.5 Billion Cut in Taxes

His Message Reflects Relaxing of Tension

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy called on Congress today for speedy action to spread a $13.5-billion tax cut over three years and to achieve in time "a balanced full-employment economy." Proposed reforms would recover $3.5 billion of the lost revenue.

Greeted by a minute and a half standing ovation when he appeared before members in the jammed House chamber, Kennedy began his State of the Union message at 12:33 p.m., and told the lawmakers—and the nation via television and radio—that the state of the Union is good: "The recession is behind us."

Noting "the seeds of internal disintegration" within the Communist camp, he said "steady progress has been made in building a world of order."

But the President added solemnly:

"We cannot be satisfied to rest here. This is the side of the hill, not the top. The mere absence of war is not peace. The mere absence of recession is not growth. We have made a beginning—but we have only begun."

Slaying of Olympio Unfortunate for U.S.

AN AP NEWS ANALYSIS BY STANLEY MEHLER

EDITH'S ROYER, a Washington AP staff, interviewed Togo leaders last year while spending several months touring African nations.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States likely can expect a far less friendly regime to succeed the one of murdered Sylvanus Olympio in the little land of Togo in West Africa.

The situation in Togo still is unclear. But the first clues indicate that the important statesman President Olympio and left his body outside the U.S. Embassy Sunday want a militantly nationalist government, less tied to the West.

Three forces figure in the background of Togo's troubles: the persistence of tribalism, the influence of President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana, and, most important, the impatience of radical youth.

In Africa, young people, because they usually are more educated than their elders, occupy posts of greater importance than their parents. In the world, nevertheless, an older generation still controls the key positions of power.

This frustration and anger the young. They are so close to power

UN Demands Surrender of Rebel Holdout

ELIZABETHTOWN, Katanga (AP)—The United Nations president today demanded that the Katanga rebels surrender their stronghold or face U.N. attack.

Diplomatic informants said they believed the Katanga president was rallying his followers for a last-ditch stand to try to hold what remained of his secessionist domain.

The emissary was to warn Tshombe that if he did not peacefully surrender Katanga—center of Katanga's mining industry—the United Nations would fly in a Gurkha battalion to take it by force.

Tshombe also was to get notice that if his followers carried out threats to blow up the mining installations and electric power dam in the area, he might be sent to Leopoldville for trial by the central Congo government as a war criminal and saboteur.

Last reports said a U.N. ground force had advanced from Jadotville to within 50 miles of Katanga.

A Belgian delegation seeking to persuade Tshombe to give up Katanga without a fight also went to Tshombe. The party included Andre van Roey, director-general of the Katanga National Bank, and Jacques Leonard, Belgian consular general in Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia.

Sources at U.N. headquarters in New York reported that Indian U.N. troops have taken over Katanga, once Katanga's biggest military base, 15 miles southeast of Jadotville and about 90 miles southeast of Kolwezi.

The base, which once accommodated 2,000 to 3,000 men, reported almost deserted. The sources said "enormous quantities of arms and ammunition" were found.

Firemen Collide at Pole

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Nothing stops a Providence fireman rushing to a fire unless it's another fireman.

Firemen Joseph Faval and Edwin Andrade leaped for the same brass pole in a station Sunday. They collided head-on, and Faval had five stitches to close a cut on the eyebrow. Andrade was unscathed.

Supreme Court Bars Law on NAACP Cases

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court struck down today a Virginia law which the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People said had curbed its participation in litigation over racial discrimination.

Five justices supported the majority opinion of Justice John M. Harlan, Tom C. Clark and Potter Stewart—dissenting. Justice Byron D. White concurred in part and dissented in part.

Justice William J. Brennan Jr., writing the court's main opinion, said that while the case as brought by NAACP, the high tribunal was not deciding it with any consideration of race or racial discrimination.

Rather, Brennan said, the court condemned the state statute as a violation of the federal Constitution's guarantee of free speech.

NAACP contended the law barred it from underwriting the costs and providing counsel in suits begun to test validity of state-imposed discrimination. The statute calls such activity unlawful fomenting and solicitation of legal business. Lawyers taking part in such cases are declared guilty of malpractice.

The high court, after a two-hour session, recessed at noon so the members could attend a joint Senate-House meeting to hear President Kennedy deliver his State of the Union message.

An afternoon court session was ordered, beginning at 2 p.m.

Refugee Flights Halt, Ransom Going by Sea

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The aerial flood of refugees from Fidel Castro's Cuba has halted, following the arrival of 89 Cubans and Cuban-Americans to Miami Sunday. At present there are no plans for resuming it.

Red Cross officials announced there will be no more flights carrying ransom supplies to Cuba, Pan American World Airways, which suspended its twice-daily Miami-Havana flights at the onset of the Cuban crisis last October, is not anxious to resume the unprofitable service.

The Pan Am DC8B that made Sunday's refugee flight had taken 10,000 pounds of medicines to Cuba as another installment on the $5-million ransom guaranteed by Castro for release of the 1,113 Bay of Pigs invasion prisoners.

The American Red Cross said all future shipments of ransom supplies will be made by ocean routes. The steamship Britley Lykes presently is being loaded at Baltimore with 6,000 tons of food, drugs and medical supplies for delivery in Havana.

The Britley Lykes will stop at Port Everglades, Fla., to load an additional 1,000 tons of supplies. She is expected to reach Cuba earlier than Jan. 15.

Quirk Dies, Ex-Principal

HARTFORD (AP)—Thomas J. Quirk, retired principal of Hartford Public High School, died today in front of the school he headed for 24 years.

Quirk, 70, was stricken as he was driving by the Broad St. exit of the school he left 2 1/2 months ago.

A witness in back of Quirk's car told police he observed the retired principal slump at the wheel before his northbound car veered to the left, crossed the southbound lane and struck a tree in front of the Broad St. YWCA opposite Hartford Public High School.

Quirk was taken to Hartford Hospital by ambulance and pronounced dead on arrival at 8:35 a.m.

He had retired as principal of the high school Nov. 1 to become director of the Fairfield University's teacher training program.

Immediately after the accident, L. Henry Taylor, who took Quirk's place as principal, said Quirk came to inform his wife, Marcella, of the death.

Mediators Continue Try To End Labor Disputes

Federal mediators today continued efforts to end the major strikes in the nation—two New York newspapers and the Atlantic Coast Coast dock work.

They also sought to end a dispute that has led to a strike call against the Southern Railway Co.

Publishers and mediators met Sunday in the New York newspaper strike as it entered its 37th day.

There was no clue to what the publishers of the nine shut-down dailies and federal mediators said, struck by the shutdown.

Bertram A. Powers, president of striking Local 6 of the AFL-CIO International Typographical Union said those attending the mass meeting Sunday voted unanimously to "remain on strike indefinitely until a just contract is achieved."

Powers said the dispute could be settled in three hours of "real negotiations."

Senate Set To Wage Fight On Filibuster

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators start battling today over proposals to put a tighter curb on filibusters.

The fight was to have broken out last week at the opening of the new Congress. But all sides agreed on a truce until President Kennedy delivered his State of the Union message.

The battle is a three-cornered one.

A bipartisan bloc of liberals will offer a new rule that would permit a majority of the members—51 of the 100 senators—to halt a filibuster 15 days after the filing of a debate-limitation petition.

Heading a middle-ground group, Sens. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., and Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., will propose a rule under which a time limit could be clamped on debates by three-fifths of the senators voting.

Tightly organized to resist any change in the present rule requiring a two-thirds majority of senators voting to limit debate are 40 southern senators under the leadership of Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga.

In what may be a promise to use the filibuster itself in the rules fight, Russell said: "We will take advantage of every opportunity to

Owner of Luncheonette Singing Blackout Blues

EDITOR'S NOTE—Phil Simon, owner of suburban Long Island luncheonette, typical of thousands of such small stores in the New York City area. They lean heavily on daily newspaper sales and the newspaper blackout has been a costly blow.

By ED DENNEHY

NEW YORK (AP)—"My business is off $600 to $700 weekly, because I have almost no evening papers, most of my regular customers have lost the habit of dropping in afternoons and evenings. Cigars, cigarettes, candy, soda fountain, short order meals—all these are off."

"You can say I'm singing the blackout blues, the newspaper blackout, that is. I've had a month-long headache, and I'm not kidding. Some of the stores like this have had a 50 per cent drop in business. Luckily, I haven't been hit that bad."

Phil Simon is proprietor of a small luncheonette located in the Queens section of New York City. He usually has a quick smile and a bright quip. A frown often creases his face these days as he tries to cope with the effects of the newspaper strike. Like other dealers he has been able to get deliveries of Newark and Philadelphia papers in this help.

The luncheonette is in an excellent business location at the eastern end of the 6th and 8th Ave. subway system that traverses the city. Thousands of commuters come by car or bus from

Highlights of Text

WASHINGTON (AP)—Here are textual highlights of President Kennedy's State of the Union message today to Congress:

Having witnessed in recent months a heightened respect for our national purpose and power, having seen the courageous calm of a united people in a perilous hour—and having observed a steady improvement in the opportunities and well-being of our citizens—I can report to you that the state of this old but youthful Union, in the 178th year of its life, is good.

But we cannot be satisfied to rest here. This is the side of the hill, not the top. The mere absence of war is not peace. The mere absence of recession is not growth. We have made a beginning—but we have only begun.

I am convinced that the enactment this year of tax reduction and tax reform overhauls all other domestic problems in this Congress. For we cannot lead for the cause of peace and freedom, if we ever cease to set the pace at home.

Our working men and women—instead of being forced to beg for help from public charity—are old and ill—should start contributing now to their own retirement health program through the Social Security system.

What comfort can we take from the increasing strains and tensions within the Communist bloc? Here hope must be tempered with caution. For the Soviet-Chinese disagreement is over means, not ends. A dispute over how best to bury the free world is no ground for Western rejoicing.

LANDRUM LOSES

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. W. Fat Jennings of Virginia and Rep. Ross Bass of Tennessee won coveted seats on the powerful House Ways and Means Committee today in a secret ballot of Democratic House members. The loser in the three-way race for the two seats was Rep. Phil M. Landrum, D-Ga., who had administration backing for the post. The action therefore was a blow for the prestige of House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass.

RIGHTS BILL PROPOSED

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, proposed a broad-scale package of civil rights bills today, including renewal of a proposal by the Kennedy administration to wipe out literacy tests as a voting requirement. Celler also would sponsor a bill to require every school board operating racially segregated public schools to adopt a desegregation plan within six months. Hearings on the bills will be held by the Judiciary Committee shortly after it is organized formally, he said.

ASK SPENDING CUTS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress generally gave cautious approval today to President Kennedy's call for a $13.5-billion tax cut spread over three years, but there were many calls for a cut in spending to go along with it. Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois echoed the sentiments of many when he said: "Tax reduction should be accompanied by spending reductions. And it shouldn't be tied up with so-called reforms which would not be acceptable to the Congress and the country."
